Source Note Information

A source note shows the legislative history of a C.R.S. section and is located immediately after the text of the section. The source note for each section indicates the year the section was added, each year it was amended, and the page of the Session Laws and the section of the bill where the amendment can be found. The source note includes the number of the section in prior codifications when applicable. For amendments made after 1973, information on each specific provision of the section that has been changed by a bill, the specific change to the provision (i.e. added, added with relocations, amended, amended with relocations, repealed, repealed and reenacted, or recreated and reenacted), and the effective date of the bill are shown.

The legislative history is arranged by year of passage; if the section was amended by two or more acts in the same year, the order of the information for that year is determined by the effective dates of the acts. The effective date in the source note indicates the date the act or portion of the act takes effect even if the text of the amendment indicates a different date. If the year is not included with the month and day, the provision is effective the year of passage. Additional information to assist the user in researching C.R.S. sections can be found beginning on page vii.

The following provides a further explanation of the information found in a source note:

“L.” is the symbol for “Session Laws” and will be followed by a number indicating the year when the C.R.S. section was changed by an act generally either creating new law, amending existing law, or repealing existing law; except that, in the constitution, “L.” also means constitutional measures referred by the General Assembly and voted on by the people of Colorado at a general or an odd-year election.

“Ex. Sess.” is the symbol for “Extraordinary Session”. If this symbol follows the year, the amended provision can be found in the Session Laws for an extraordinary session for that year and not in the Session Laws for the regular session of the General Assembly for that year (S, S2 in the Red Book).

“p.” is the symbol for “page” and will be followed by a number indicating the page of the Session Laws where the amendment to the C.R.S. section can be found.

“§” is the symbol for “section” and will be followed by a number indicating the section of the act where the amendment to the C.R.S. section can be found.

“IP” is the symbol for the “introductory portion” to a section, subsection, paragraph, or subparagraph.

“Added” means the provision was newly enacted by the act (N in the Red Book).

“Added with relocations” means the provision in existing law was relocated from one title, article, part, or section to another title, article, part, or section with amendments by the act.

“Amended” means the provision in existing law was amended by the act (A in the Red Book).

“Amended with relocations” means the provision in existing law was amended to reorganize an entire title, article, part, or section by the act.

“Repealed” means the provision was deleted from the existing law by the act through the use of a repeal provision (R in the Red Book).

“R&RE” is the symbol for “Repealed and Reenacted” and means the provision in existing law was repealed and reenacted by the act (RE in the Red Book).

“RC&RE” is the symbol for “Recreated and Reenacted” and means a previously repealed provision has been recreated by the act (RC in the Red Book).

“Added by revision” means a provision providing for the repeal of a statutory provision on a specified date has been added by the Revisor of Statutes as a C.R.S. provision. Adding the provision is necessary because a separate section of the act provided for the repeal of the provision with a future effective date.

“Initiated” means a provision that was amended by means of an initiated petition approved by a vote of the people of Colorado at a general or an odd-year election.

“Referred” means a provision that was amended by a measure referred by the General Assembly and voted on by the people of Colorado at a general or an odd-year election; except that, in the constitution, a referred measure is indicated by “L.” and also means constitutional measures referred by the General Assembly and voted on by the people of Colorado at a general or an odd-year election.

Starting in 2009, references to the bill number and chapter number have been included in the source note. If you are conducting a search on-line, the bill number reference within the source note links directly to the bill itself.

Colorado Statutory Research

Legislative history is not already written. It must be compiled by the researcher from many different sources and materials. The following information is a helpful starting point in identifying information you wish to research. Consult the red book table distributed with the session laws, the softbound editions of Colorado Revised Statutes beginning in 1997, the comparative tables located in the back of the C.R.S. index, C.R.S. 1963 and subsequent cumulative supplements thereto through 1971, and C.R.S. 1973 and annual cumulative supplements thereto through 1996.

Prior to 1921, enacted laws were not compiled into a comparative table, thereby making it more difficult to track the legislative history. Determining the subject matter in the statutory index is the only choice for tracking the history of a statute since a statute did not retain its original number. The General Statutes of 1883 arranged laws into numbered chapters, alphabetically entitled, collated, and arranged by sections. This became the foundation and model for compiling the statutes until the codification of C.R.S. 1973. (See Revised Statutes of Colorado 1908, An Act Providing For the Compilation, Publication, and Distribution of all the general statutes of the state.)

References in some source notes throughout the Colorado Revised Statutes to “Code 08”, “Code 21”, and “Code 35” are to the Revised Statutes of Colorado 1908, the Compiled Laws of Colorado 1921, and the Colorado Statutes Annotated 1935, respectively. Each of these volumes set forth the general statutes of the state of Colorado, including the Code of Civil Procedure and, in 1935, the Colorado Supreme Court Rules. On January 6, 1941, the Colorado Supreme Court adopted the new Rules of Civil Procedure, which became effective on April 6, 1941, resulting in the publication of a replacement volume. Thereafter, the publication of the Colorado Court Rules, although a continuing part of the Colorado Revised Statutes, contained a combination of the Federal Rules and the Colorado Code of Civil Procedure and, in addition, included some provisions that were entirely distinct from both the Federal Rules and the Colorado Code of Civil Procedure, as adopted or amended by the Supreme Court of Colorado.

To research a statute as it existed in previous years, the following is a chronological list of C.R.S. publications and the correct citation for each publication.

The softbound publication of the “Official Report of the Committee on Legal Services” was not intended as an official publication of our office. Copies were distributed to the members of the General Assembly for the purpose of certifying the laws enacted in the 1972 and 1973 Sessions for inclusion in the compilation of the 1973 C.R.S., which was not available until 1974. To find the 1972 or 1973 amended language, refer to the session laws of either 1972 or 1973.

Bills Enacted Without A Safety Clause
Explanation of Effective Date

If a bill is enacted without a safety clause and an effective date is not indicated in the bill, the effective date is the day following the expiration of the ninety-day period after final adjournment of the General Assembly that is allowed for submitting a referendum petition pursuant to article V, section 1 (3) of the state Constitution unless a referendum petition is filed against the act within such time period. If a referendum petition is filed, the act, if approved by the people, will take effect on the date of the official declaration of the vote thereon by proclamation of the Governor or the date indicated in the act if it is later than the Governor’s proclamation. The source note for a provision contained in such an act will indicate the actual date following the ninety-day period or the date set out in the act. If a referendum petition is filed, the date in the source note will be adjusted accordingly in the next publication following the election where the referendum petition is considered.

Annotations

Beginning in 2012, the annotations for Colorado state appellate court decisions include both public domain and regional reporter case cites. In preparing annotations to court decisions, we endeavor to include the most recent decisions. Occasionally, this may result in the inclusion of a decision before it becomes finalized and published in an official reporter. In such instances, the case cite will contain blank spaces for the volume and page number of the reporter. The volume and page number will be substituted for the blank spaces in subsequent publications of the statutes.

39-1-101. Legislative declaration. The general assembly declares that its purpose in enacting articles 1 to 13 of this title is to exercise the authority granted in section 3 of article X of the state constitution wherein it is provided, among other things, that "the actual value of all real and personal property not exempt from taxation under this article shall be determined under general laws, which shall prescribe such methods and regulations as shall secure just and equalized valuations for assessment of all real and personal property not exempt from taxation under this article". It further declares that it intends to fix the percentage of such determined actual value at which all such property shall be assessed for taxation. It further declares that the actual value of certain classes of real property may not be able to be determined after appropriate consideration of the three approaches to value; therefore, it is incumbent upon the general assembly to provide for a means to determine the actual value of such taxable property, and, to effect this result, the general assembly hereby finds and declares that, when appropriate consideration of the three approaches to value fails to derive an actual value for such property, the actual value of such property shall be determined by comparison of the surface use of such property to property with a similar surface use. It further declares that the actual value of nonproducing oil, gas, and oil and gas mineral interests shall be determined by the income approach capitalizing annual net rental income at an appropriate market rate. To these ends, the provisions of said articles shall be strictly construed.

ANNOTATION

“Actual value” of residential property must be determined using means and methods applied impartially to all the members of each class, in order to reconcile the requirement of article X, § 20, of the constitution that the market approach be used for valuation with the equalization requirement of article X, § 3. Podoll v. Arapahoe County Bd. of Equaliz., 920 P.2d 861 (Colo. App. 1995), rev’d on other grounds, 935 P.2d 14 (Colo. 1997).

Statute does not prohibit general assembly from adopting other statutes concerning imposition of property taxes. Senior Corp. v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 702 P.2d 732 (Colo. 1985).

Reclassification from residential to commercial property was just and equal where property was used as a community center in a planned community development despite fact that model homes used for commercial purposes in same county are classified as residential. Mis- sion Viejo v. Douglas Cty. Bd. of Equaliz., 881 P.2d 462 (Colo. App. 1994).

Valuation was not just and equal where county could offer no reasonable explanation why there was a 32.8% increase in the assessed value of plaintiffs’ residences but only a 10.73% average increase as to the vast majority of comparable residences. Podoll v. Arapahoe County Bd. of Equaliz., 920 P.2d 861 (Colo. App. 1995), rev’d on other grounds, 935 P.2d 14 (Colo. 1997).

In determining whether a valuation for assessment is just and equal under the “designed for use” standard, actual use is only one factor to be considered. Mission Viejo v. Douglas Cty. Bd. of Equaliz., 881 P.2d 462 (Colo. App. 1994).

Applied in City & County of Denver v. Security Life & Accident Co., 173 Colo. 248, 477 P.2d 369 (1970).

39-1-101.5. Legislative declaration - taxpayer rights. The general assembly hereby finds and declares that section 3 of article X of the state constitution was approved in 1982 by the voters of Colorado in order to ensure the fair and uniform valuation for assessment of real and personal property located in Colorado; that, since the adoption of said constitutional amendment, the property tax system in Colorado has developed into an impersonal system which is more concerned with the mechanisms to levy and collect such property tax than with the fair and courteous treatment of the owners of real and personal property who pay such tax; that the purpose of the property tax system is to raise revenues to be used for purposes which benefit the citizens of Colorado, including such property owners; that property owners accept their civic responsibility to pay their fair share of taxes to be used for such purposes; that all levels of government involved in the property tax system should recognize that they exist to serve their citizens; and that the owners of real and personal property should be accorded the respect and courtesy which they deserve and should be provided such services which are necessary to assist them in complying with the property tax laws of this state.

(1) “Administrator” means the property tax administrator.

(1.1) “Agricultural and livestock products” means plant or animal products in a raw or unprocessed state that are derived from the science and art of agriculture, regardless of the use of the product after its sale and regardless of the entity that purchases the product. “Agriculture”, for the purposes of this subsection (1.1), means farming, ranching, animal husbandry, and horticulture. Effective July 1, 2013, “agriculture” includes silviculture.

(1.3) “Agricultural equipment which is used on the farm or ranch in the production of agricultural products” means any personal property used on a farm or ranch, as defined in subsections (3.5) and (13.5) of this section, for planting, growing, and harvesting agricultural products or for raising or breeding livestock for the primary purpose of obtaining a monetary profit and includes any mechanical system used on the farm or ranch for the conveyance and storage of animal products in a raw or unprocessed state, regardless of whether or not such mechanical system is affixed to real property.

(1.6) (a) “Agricultural land”, whether used by the owner of the land or a lessee, means one of the following:

(I) (A) A parcel of land, whether located in an incorporated or unincorporated area and regardless of the uses for which such land is zoned, that was used the previous two years and presently is used as a farm or ranch, as defined in subsections (3.5) and (13.5) of this section, or that is in the process of being restored through conservation practices. Such land must have been classified or eligible for classification as “agricultural land”, consistent with this subsection (1.6), during the ten years preceding the year of assessment. Such land must continue to have actual agricultural use. “Agricultural land” under this subparagraph (I) shall not include two acres or less of land on which a residential improvement is located unless the improvement is integral to an agricultural operation conducted on such land. “Agricultural land” also includes the land underlying other improvements if such improvements are an integral part of the farm or ranch and if such other improvements and the land area dedicated to such other improvements are typically used as an ancillary part of the operation. The use of a portion of such land for hunting, fishing, or other wildlife purposes, for monetary profit or otherwise, shall not affect the classification of agricultural land. For purposes of this subparagraph (I), a parcel of land shall be “in the process of being restored through conservation practices” if: The land has been placed in a conservation reserve program established by the natural resources conservation service pursuant to 7 U.S.C. secs. 1 to 5506; or a conservation plan approved by the appropriate conservation district has been implemented for the land for up to a period of ten crop years as if the land has been placed in such a conservation reserve program.

(B) A residential improvement shall be deemed to be “integral to an agricultural operation” for purposes of sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (I) if an individual occupying the residential improvement either regularly conducts, supervises, or administers material aspects of the agricultural operation or is the spouse or a parent, grandparent, sibling, or child of the individual.

(II) A parcel of land that consists of at least forty acres, that is forest land, that is used to produce tangible wood products that originate from the productivity of such land for the primary purpose of obtaining a monetary profit, that is subject to a forest management plan, and that is not a farm or ranch, as defined in subsections (3.5) and (13.5) of this section. “Agricultural land” under this subparagraph (II) includes land underlying any residential improvement located on such agricultural land.

(III) A parcel of land that consists of at least eighty acres, or of less than eighty acres if such parcel does not contain any residential improvements, and that is subject to a perpetual conservation easement, if such land was classified by the assessor as agricultural land under subparagraph (I) or (II) of this paragraph (a) at the time such easement was granted, if the grant of the easement was to a qualified organization, if the easement was granted exclusively for conservation purposes, and if all current and contemplated future uses of the land are described in the conservation easement. “Agricultural land” under this subparagraph (III) does not include any portion of such land that is actually used for nonagricultural commercial or nonagricultural residential purposes.

(IV) A parcel of land, whether located in an incorporated or unincorporated area and regardless of the uses for which such land is zoned, used as a farm or ranch, as defined in subsections (3.5) and (13.5) of this section, if the owner of the land has a decreed right to appropriated water granted in accordance with article 92 of title 37, C.R.S., or a final permit to appropriated groundwater granted in accordance with article 90 of title 37, C.R.S., for purposes other than residential purposes, and water appropriated under such right or permit shall be and is used for the production of agricultural or livestock products on such land;

(V) A parcel of land, whether located in an incorporated or unincorporated area and regardless of the uses for which such land is zoned, that has been reclassified from agricultural land to a classification other than agricultural land and that met the definition of agricultural land as set forth in subparagraphs (I) to (IV) of this paragraph (a) during the three years before the year of assessment. For purposes of this subparagraph (V), the parcel of land need not have been classified or eligible for classification as agricultural land during the ten years preceding the year of assessment as required by subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a).

(b) All other agricultural property that does not meet the definition set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1.6) shall be classified as all other property and shall be valued using appropriate consideration of the three approaches to appraisal based on its actual use on the assessment date.

(c) An assessor must determine, based on sufficient evidence, that a parcel of land does not qualify as agricultural land, as defined in subparagraph (IV) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1.6), before land may be changed from agricultural land to any other classification.

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, property that is used solely for the cultivation of medical marijuana shall not be classified as agricultural land.

(2) "Assessor" means the elected assessor of a county, or his or her appointed successor, and, in the case of the city and county of Denver, such equivalent officer as may be provided by its charter, and, in the case of the city and county of Broomfield, such equivalent officer as may be provided by its charter or code.

(2.5) "Bed and breakfast" means an overnight lodging establishment, whether owned by a natural person or any legal entity, that is a residential dwelling unit or an appurtenance thereto, in which the innkeeper resides, or that is a building designed but not necessarily occupied as a single family residence that is next to, or directly across the street from, the innkeeper's residence, and in either circumstance, in which:

Classification of a guest room or a bathroom as a "commercial lodging area" shall be based on whether at any time during a year such rooms are offered by an innkeeper as nightly or weekly lodging to guests for a fee. Classification shall not be based on the number of days that such rooms are actually occupied by paying guests.

(3.2) "Conservation purpose" means any of the following purposes as set forth in section 170 (h) of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986"; as amended:

(a) The preservation of land areas for outdoor recreation, the education of the public, or the protection of a relatively natural habitat for fish, wildlife, plants, or similar ecosystems; or

The Colorado forest service shall annually inspect each parcel of land subject to a forest management plan to determine if the terms and conditions of such plan are being complied with and shall report by March 1 of each year to the assessor in each affected county the legal descriptions of the properties and the names of their owners that are eligible for the agricultural classification. The report shall also contain the legal descriptions of those properties and the names of their owners that no longer qualify for the agricultural classification because of noncompliance with their forest management plans. No property shall be entitled to the agricultural classification unless the legal description and the name of the owner appear on the report submitted by the Colorado state forest service. The Colorado state forest service shall charge a fee for the inspection of each parcel of land in such amount for the reasonable costs incurred by the Colorado state forest service in conducting such inspections. Such fee shall be paid by the owner of such land prior to such inspection. Any fees collected pursuant to this subsection (4.4) shall be subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly.

(4.5) "Forest management practices" means practices accepted by professional foresters which control forest establishment, composition, density, and growth for the purpose of producing forest products and associated amenities following sound business methods and technical forestry principles.

(4.6) "Forest trees" means woody plants which have a well-developed stem or stems, which are usually more than twelve feet in height at maturity, and which have a generally well-defined crown.

(I) The hotel unit owners shall pay the taxes on the hotel unit not required to be paid by the non-hotel unit owners pursuant to subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b).

(II) Each non-hotel unit owner shall pay that portion of the taxes on the hotel unit equal to the non-hotel unit owner's ownership or usage percentage of the hotel unit multiplied by the property tax that would have been levied on the hotel unit if the actual value and valuation for assessment of the hotel unit had been determined as if the hotel unit was residential real property.

(III) For purposes of determining the amount due from any hotel unit owner or non-hotel unit owner pursuant to subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b), the assessor shall, upon the request of any hotel unit owner or non-hotel unit owner, calculate the property tax that would have been levied on the hotel unit if the actual value and valuation for assessment of the hotel unit had been determined as if the hotel unit were residential real property. A hotel unit owner or non-hotel unit owner may petition the county board of equalization for review of the assessor's calculation pursuant to the procedures set forth in section 39-10-114. Persons are not related persons solely because they engage a common agent to manage or rent their residential units, they are members of an owners' association or similar group, they enter into a tenancy in common or a similar agreement with respect to undivided interests in a residential unit, or any combination of the foregoing.

(IV) "Project" means one or more improvements that contain residential units if the boundaries of the residential units are described in or determined by the same declaration, as defined in section 38-33.3-103 (13), C.R.S.

(VI) "Non-hotel unit owner" means any owner of a time share estate, time share use period, undivided interest, or other partial ownership interest in any hotel unit who is not a hotel unit owner with respect to the hotel unit.

(VII) "Residential unit ownership equivalent" means:

(B) In the case of residential units other than time share units, undivided interests or other ownership interests in one or more such residential units that total one hundred percent. For the purposes of this subsection (7.2), "personal property rented for thirty days or less" means personal property rented for thirty days or less which can be returned at the option of the person renting the property, in a transaction on which the sales or use tax is actually collected before being finally sold, whether or not such personal property is subject to depreciation. It is the purpose of the general assembly to exempt "personal property rented for thirty days or less" from property tax because of the similarity of such property to inventories of merchandise held by retail stores. Further, the general assembly intends this exemption to encompass a transaction under a rental agreement in which the customer pays rent in order to use an item for a brief period of time; it is not intended to encompass an equipment lease contract covering a specific period of time and which includes financial penalties for early cancellation. Except for "personal property rented for thirty days or less", the term "inventories of merchandise and materials and supplies which are held for consumption by a business or are held primarily for sale" does not include personal property which is held for rent or lease or is subject to an allowance for depreciation. For property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1984, the term does include inventory which is owned by and which is in the possession of the manufacturer of such inventory unless:

I. PERSONAL PROPERTY.

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

Membership or contract in Associated Press is "personal property". Bd. of Comm'rs v. Rocky Mt. News Printing Co., 15 Colo. App. 189, 61 P. 494 (1900).

Signs that can easily be removed and kitchen and bath displays of a temporary nature are not fixtures and are therefore personal property. Also, despite being affixed to or permanently incorporated into a building, pneumatic and sensormatic systems were primarily tied to a business and therefore were not fixtures and were properly classified as personal property. Home Depot USA, Inc. v. Pueblo County Bd. of Comm'rs, 50 P.3d 916 (Colo. App. 2002).

II. PROPERTY.

Bank deposits not "property" of bank but are credits belonging to depositors. Murray v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 67 Colo. 14, 185 P. 262 (1919).

III. REAL PROPERTY.

To determine the proper classification of land for assessment, the trial court must make findings of fact regarding conflicting evidence. C.A. Staack v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 802 P.2d 1191 (Colo. App. 1990).

Primary factor to be considered in determining proper classification of property for property tax purposes is the actual use of the property on the relevant assessment date. Farny v. Bd. of Equaliz., 985 P.2d 106 (Colo. App. 1999).

In determining a parcel's proper classification for the present assessment year, the board of assessment appeals may not reject a final decision previously rendered by an appropriate tribunal as to the parcel's use during a previous tax year and re-visit that issue. However, a decision with respect to a previous tax year is not binding with respect to the issues presented in a protest of the assessment for a later year. Von Hagen v. Bd. of Equaliz., 948 P.2d 92 (Colo. App. 1997).

The taxpayer has the burden of proof to show any qualifying ranching or farming uses of land in support of a claim for agricultural classification. Palmer v. Bd. of Equaliz., 957 P.2d 348 (Colo. App. 1998); Hepp v. Boulder County Assessor, 113 P.3d 1268 (Colo. App. 2005).

To qualify as "agricultural land" under subsection (1.6), the land must (1) be presently used as a farm or ranch; (2) have been so used during the two-year period prior to the assessment; (3) have been classified or eligible for classification as agricultural land during the 10 years preceding the assessment year; and (4) continue to have actual agricultural use. Boulder County Bd. of Equaliz. v. M.D.C. Constr. Co., 830 P.2d 975 (Colo. 1992).

Second element of test applied in Aberdeen Investors v. Adams County, 240 P.3d 398 (Colo. App. 2009).

Definition of "agricultural land" does not require that the use of the residential improvements be related to the agricultural use of the land. C.A. Staack v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 802 P.2d 1191 (Colo. App. 1990).

Definition of "agricultural land" does not differentiate between a lessee's primary purpose in using the land and the landowner's primary purpose in acquiring and maintaining ownership of the land, nor does the landowner need to profit or intend to profit from agricultural operations on the land conducted by the owner's lessees. Boulder Cty. Bd. of Equaliz. v. M.D.C. Const. Co., 830 P.2d 975 (Colo. 1992).

Lessees' use of property as a ranch for the primary purpose of making a profit was the determinative factor in qualifying property as agricultural land. Boulder Cty. Bd. of Equaliz. v. M.D.C. Const. Co., 830 P.2d 975 (Colo. 1992).

Subsections (1.6) and (13.5) require that, in order to qualify for agricultural tax treatment, the taxpayer must prove that actual grazing of the parcel took place in the applicable tax year unless the reason the land was not grazed related to a conservation practice or unless the land in question is part of a larger agricultural unit on which grazing or conservation practices have occurred during the relevant tax years. Douglas County Bd. of Equaliz. v. Clarke, 921 P.2d 717 (Colo. 1996).

Whether a party's use constitutes agricultural use is primarily a factual question, but an interpretation of what the legislature intended when it required agricultural use in order for the property to be classified as agricultural for tax purposes is a question of law for the courts to decide. Douglas County Bd. of Equaliz. v. Clarke, 921 P.2d 717 (Colo. 1996).

Initial question that the board of assessment appeals must consider in reviewing a county assessor's classification of land as agricultural is whether it is a segregated parcel that should be treated as a single unit or whether it is part of an integrated larger parcel. This is a factual determination, controlled by whether the land is sufficiently contiguous to and connected by use with other land to qualify it as part of a large unit or whether it is a parcel segregated by geography or type of use from the balance of the unit. Douglas County Bd. of Equaliz. v. Clarke, 921 P.2d 717 (Colo. 1996).

The plain meaning of the phrase “used for grazing” is that livestock actually graze on the land. There must be actual grazing on the parcel during each relevant tax year to qualify for agricultural classification unless the land is subject to non-use for conservation purposes. Douglas County Bd. of Equaliz. v. Clarke, 921 P.2d 717 (Colo. 1996).

In order for land that is not used for grazing to qualify for conservation, the taxpayer must prove that the non-use was reasonably related to the overall grazing operation. A professionally prepared conservation plan is not required. The non-use must be both purposeful and an integral part of the grazing operation. Neglect by the landowner or lessee or basic unsuitability of the land for grazing will not suffice. Douglas County Bd. of Equaliz. v. Clarke, 921 P.2d 717 (Colo. 1996); Johnston v. Park County Bd. of Equaliz., 979 P.2d 578 (Colo. App. 1999).

Under subsection (1.6)(a)(I), land can only qualify as agricultural land by virtue of being “in the process of being restored through conservation practices” if it has been subjected to a federally established conservation reserve program or a conservation plan approved by an appropriate conservation district as specified in that subsection. Hepp v. Boulder County Assessor, 113 P.3d 1268 (Colo. App. 2005).

There is no indication in the text that the landowner must actually profit or intend to profit from agricultural operations on the land conducted by the owner’s lessees. Boulder Cty. Bd. of Equaliz. v. M.D.C. Const. Co., 830 P.2d 975 (Colo. 1992).

Definition of “ranch” does not require that the owner of the land own the livestock grazing on his land to classify the land as agricultural. The owner may lease the land for grazing, and, if such use is for the primary purpose of obtaining a monetary profit from the grazing activity, it constitutes an agricultural use. C.A. Staack v. Bd. of County Comm’rs, 802 P.2d 1191 (Colo. App. 1990); Boulder Cty. Bd. of Equaliz. v. M.D.C. Const. Co., 830 P.2d 975 (Colo. 1992).

So long as a parcel of land is used for grazing livestock for profit, it qualifies as a “ranch”, even if the owner of the property is not the one who is conducting the grazing operation. Estes v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 805 P.2d 1174 (Colo. App. 1990).

“Trespass grazing” does not meet the statutory requirements for agricultural classification as a matter of law. In interpreting sub-sections (1.6)(a)(I) and (13.5), a court must give appropriate deference to provisions of the property tax administrator’s reference manuals that expressly provide that “trespass grazing” is an insufficient basis for finding that land is “agricultural land”. Besch v. Jefferson County Bd. of County Comm’rs, 20 P.3d 1195 (Colo. App. 2000).

The 10-year requirement for agricultural land must be interpreted to mean that the land was classified, or eligible for classification, as agricultural land at some time during the preceding 10 years, not for the whole of that period. Hence, if a property’s agricultural use ceases, that property may, nevertheless, be again classified as agricultural land if it is used for such purpose for three years within 10 years from the date of the original abandonment of that use. Von Hagen v. Bd. of Equaliz., 948 P.2d 92 (Colo. App. 1997).

Owner’s intentions for future use of his land may not be considered in classifying the property as “agricultural land”. C.A. Staack v. Bd. of County Comm’rs, 802 P.2d 1191 (Colo. App. 1990).

Focus of the statutory definition of agricultural land is clearly on present and past surface use of the land without regard to any future intent on the part of the owner to develop the land for nonagricultural purposes. Boulder Cty. Bd. of Equaliz. v. M.D.C. Const. Co., 830 P.2d 975 (Colo. 1992).

Land was held not to be “agricultural land” because the primary use of the land during the three years in question was not for farming with the intent to obtain a profit. Arapahoe P’ship v. Bd. of County Comm’rs, 813 P.2d 766 (Colo. App. 1990).

The two-year requirement that land be used as a farm or ranch does not require such use be continuous during the prior two years; the plain language of the statute and legislative intent only require that the land be used as such at some point during both of the prior two tax years to the assessment. Aberdeen Investors v. Adams County, 240 P.3d 398 (Colo. App. 2009).

In determining whether the two-year requirement that land be used as a farm or ranch was met, use that begins mid-year suffices. Although January 1 is the relevant date for classification purposes, use that began in July counts towards the two-year use requirement. Aberdeen Investors v. Adams County, 240 P.3d 398 (Colo. App. 2009).

Parcel of land did not qualify as agricultural land for ad valorem tax purposes under the first criterion of subsection (1.6). Subsection (1.6) requires that the land be used as a farm or ranch currently and for the previous two years. It is the actual use during the relevant time period that is dispositive. In 2006, the actual use of the subject land was not as a farm, or as part of a farm, but as a construction site.

C.P. Bedrock, LLC v. Denver County Bd. of Equaliz., 259 P.3d 514 (Colo. App. 2011).

Parcel of land did not qualify as being in the process of being restored through conservation practices because it did not satisfy the condition of the second criterion in subsection (1.6) that the parcel “has been placed in a conservation reserve program”. Under subsection (1.6) the appropriate government agency must have at least approved the owner or lessee’s application for inclusion in the conservation reserve program at some point before the end of the tax year. The government agencies in question did not approve the application of the farmer lessee of the taxpayer to add the subject land to the conservation program until 2007. Because the subject land was not placed in the conservation program in 2006, the land was not “being restored through conservation practices” under subsection (1.6)(a)(I) during the relevant period. C.P. Bedrock, LLC v. Denver County Bd. of Equaliz., 259 P.3d 514 (Colo. App. 2011).

Parcel of land also did not meet the alternative condition of being subject to “a conservation plan approved by the appropriate conservation district . . . for up to a period of ten crop years”. There was effectively no conservation plan covering the subject land for 2006 or the years prior. Accordingly, the subject land did not qualify as “agricultural land” under subsection (1.6)(a)(I) by virtue of being “in the process of being restored through conservation practices”. Therefore, taxpayer cannot receive favorable tax treatment for the subject land for the 2007 and 2008 tax years on this basis. C.P. Bedrock, LLC v. Denver County Bd. of Equaliz., 259 P.3d 514 (Colo. App. 2011).

Where the administrative agency and administrative law judge responsible for administering the tax code disagree on the interpretation of a statute, the property tax administrator’s interpretation is not entitled to judicial deference if it was not embodied in the assessor’s reference library and is inconsistent with the statutory text. Moreover, the board of assessment appeals’ interpretation deserves greater deference where its interpretation is consistent with its previous opinions. Aberdeen Investors v. Adams County, 240 P.3d 398 (Colo. App. 2009).

Definition of “farm” does not include land used for greenhouses, where the agricultural products produced in the greenhouses do not originate from the land’s productivity. Accordingly, such land may not be classified and valued as agricultural land for property tax purposes. Welby Gardens Co. v. Adams County Bd. of Equaliz., 56 P.3d 1121 (Colo. App. 2002), aff’d, 71 P.3d 992 (Colo. 2003).

Subsection (1.6)(b) defines “other agricultural property” generally and does not provide specific guidance on how it should be valued. A court, therefore, should defer to the administrative interpretations of the statute. Jefferson County Bd. of County Comm’rs v. S.T. Spano Greenhouses, Inc., 155 P.3d 422 (Colo. App. 2006).

The provisions of the assessor’s reference library interpreting subsection (1.6)(b) require the land component of other agricultural property to be valued based on comparable sales of other agricultural land that is as similar as possible to the subject land in size, location, and present use. Jefferson County Bd. of County Comm’rs v. S.T. Spano Greenhouses, Inc., 155 P.3d 422 (Colo. App. 2006).

The grazing and boarding of “pleasure horses” does not qualify as a “ranching” use. Only the grazing of “livestock” for the purpose of obtaining a monetary profit constitutes a “ranching” use, and horses may constitute “livestock” only if they are used for food or for human or animal consumption, breeding, draft, or profit. The taxpayer’s profit motive alone in boarding and grazing horses on his land is insufficient. Palmer v. Bd. of Equaliz., 957 P.2d 348 (Colo. App. 1998).

Production of eggs in self-contained unit within which the livestock does not touch the ground where the eggs are sold for monetary profit as an agricultural product falls under the statutory definition of a farm, and the eggs fall under the definition of agricultural products. Morning Fresh Farms v. Bd. of Equaliz., 794 P.2d 1073 (Colo. 1990).

Reservoir rights used upon land are taxable as real estate like improvements upon the land on which they are applied. Antero & Lost Park Reservoir Co. v. Bd. of Comm’rs, 65 Colo. 375, 177 P. 148 (1918).

Water rights are included within and constitute a part of the real estate upon which the water is applied. Kendrick v. Twin Lakes Reservoir Co., 58 Colo. 281, 144 P. 884 (1914).

Mineral reservation not real property. A right to prospect for and to remove minerals if found is not a reservation of an estate in the real property involved, but a mere license, subject to revocation before its exercise by the owner of the fee simple estate. Radke v. Union P.R.R., 138 Colo. 189, 334 P.2d 1077 (1959).

Waterworks system deemed realty. Water mains, pipes, and hydrants laid in the public streets and alleys of a city, and the machinery connected therewith and necessary to the operation of a waterworks plant, are realty for the purpose of taxation. Colo. Fuel & Iron Co. v. Pueblo Water Co., 11 Colo. App. 352, 53 P. 232 (1898).

In Colorado, all real property, except that which is expressly exempted by law, is subject to ad valorem taxation. Mesa Verde Co. v. Montezuma County Bd. of Equaliz., 898 P.2d 1 (Colo. 1995).

Possessory interest of concessionaire on national park land owned by the United States was an "interest in land" and thus constituted "real property" as defined in this section. Mesa Verde Co. v. Montezuma County Bd. of Equaliz., 898 P.2d 1 (Colo. 1995).

Possessory interests in land constitute real property as defined in subsection (14) and therefore also constitute taxable property as defined in subsection (16). Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Vail Assocs., Inc., 19 P.3d 1263 (Colo. 2001).

Reservoir dam not "improvement". A reservoir dam is not subject to taxation as realty as it is not an improvement upon the land on which it is situated. Antero & Lost Park Reservoir Co. v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 65 Colo. 375, 177 P. 148 (1918).

Definition of "residential land" contains no prescribed limit on the amount of acreage which may be so classified. Rather, the size of a residential tract must be determined on a case-by-case basis according to the amount of acreage which is being used as a unit in conjunction with the residential improvements on each particular property. Gyurman v. Weld County Bd. of Equaliz., 851 P.2d 307 (Colo. App. 1993); Farny v. Bd. of Equaliz., 985 P.2d 106 (Colo. App. 1999).

A residential dwelling must be situated upon a lot zoned for residential use in order for the lot to qualify as "residential real property" eligible for the percentage ratio of valuation for assessment as determined in accordance with Colo. Const., art. X, § 3(1)(b). Vail Associates, Inc. v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 765 P.2d 593 (Colo. App. 1988).

Definition of "residential improvement" requires that a structure be designed for use predominantly as a residence rather than simply "actually used" as a residence. Mission Viejo v. Douglas Cty. Bd. of Equaliz., 881 P.2d 462 (Colo. App. 1994).

For purposes of "residential improvements," the phrase "designed for use" means that the building at the relevant time is devoted to or intended for actual use predominantly as a place of residence. Mission Viejo Co. v. Douglas County Bd. of Equaliz., 881 P.2d 462 (Colo. App. 1994); Manor Vail Condominium Ass'n v. Bd. of Equaliz., 956 P.2d 654 (Colo. App. 1998); Farny v. Bd. of Equaliz., 985 P.2d 106 (Colo. App. 1999).

Small structure built on 320-acre parcel qualified for residential classification since taxpayers actually used structure predominantly as a place of residence and it was at least minimally suitable for such residential purposes. Farny v. Bd. of Equaliz., 985 P.2d 106 (Colo. App. 1999).

Restaurant and meeting rooms were not residential improvements. Manor Vail Condominium Ass'n v. Bd. of Equaliz., 956 P. 2d 654 (Colo. App. 1998).

Building originally designed as a residence could be reclassified based on actual use. Fact that building was originally designed as residence did not conclusively require classification as a residential property under this section. Mission Viejo v. Douglas Cty. Bd. of Equaliz., 881 P.2d 462 (Colo. App. 1994).

Plaintiff, a quasi-municipal corporation and political subdivision of the state, was not a "person" under subsection (9) and did not have standing to seek damages pursuant to § 39-10-115 (3). Bear Creek Water and Sanitation Dist. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs of Jefferson County, 902 P.2d 904 (Colo. App. 1995).

Vacant parcel of land did not qualify for residential classification even though it was zoned for residential use, adjacent to the taxpayer's residence, and used in conjunction with the residence as part of the taxpayer's backyard because the adjacent residential parcel was owned by the taxpayer's wife, not the taxpayer, and the vacant parcel did not have a residential dwelling unit on it. Sullivan v. Bd. of Equaliz., 971 P.2d 675 (Colo. App. 1998).

Applied in Del Mesa Farms v. Bd. of Equaliz., 656 P.2d 661 (Colo. App. 1998).

39-1-103. Actual value determined - when. (1) The valuation for assessment of producing mines and nonproducing mining claims shall be determined as provided in article 6 of this title.

(2) The valuation for assessment of leaseholds and lands producing oil or gas shall be determined as provided in article 7 of this title.

(3) The actual value for property tax purposes of the operating property and plant of all public utilities doing business in this state shall be determined by the administrator, as provided in article 4 of this title.

(4) (a) Repealed.

(b) The valuation for assessment of mobile homes shall be determined as provided in section 39-5-203.

(5) (a) All real and personal property shall be appraised and the actual value thereof for property tax purposes determined by the assessor of the county wherein such property is located. The actual value of such property, other than agricultural lands exclusive of building improvements thereon and other than residential real property and other than producing mines and lands or leaseholds producing oil or gas, shall be that value determined by appropriate consideration of the cost approach, the market approach, and the income approach to appraisal. The assessor shall consider and document all elements of such approaches that are applicable prior to a determination of actual value. Despite any orders of the state board of equalization, no assessor shall arbitrarily increase the valuations for assessment of all parcels represented within the abstract of a county or within a class or subclass of parcels on that abstract by a common multiple in response to the order of said board. If an assessor is required, pursuant to the order of said board, to increase or decrease valuations for assessment, such changes shall be made only upon individual valuations for assessment of each and every parcel, using each of the approaches to appraisal specified in this paragraph (a), if applicable. The actual value of agricultural lands, exclusive of building improvements thereon, shall be determined by consideration of the earning or productive capacity of such lands during a reasonable period of time, capitalized at a rate of thirteen percent. Land that is valued as agricultural and that becomes subject to a perpetual conservation easement shall continue to be valued as agricultural notwithstanding its dedication for conservation purposes; except that, if any portion of such land is actually used for nonagricultural commercial or nonagricultural residential purposes, that portion shall be valued according to such use. Nothing in this subsection (5) shall be construed to require or permit the reclassification of agricultural land or improvements, including residential property, due solely to subjecting the land to a perpetual conservation easement. The actual value of residential real property shall be determined solely by consideration of the market approach to appraisal. A gross rent multiplier may be considered as a unit of comparison within the market approach to appraisal. The valuation for assessment of producing mines and of lands or leaseholds producing oil or gas shall be determined pursuant to articles 6 and 7 of this title.

(b) If, having considered the three approaches prescribed in paragraph (a) of this subsection (5), at the sole discretion of the assessor the use of the three approaches to value cannot accurately determine the actual value of any parcel of taxable property, or in the opinion of the assessor the application of the three approaches to value does not result in uniform, just, and equalized valuation, then the actual value thereof shall be determined by comparison of the surface use of such property with a similar surface use.

(c) Except as provided in section 39-1-102 (14.4) (b), once any property is classified for property tax purposes, it shall remain so classified until such time as its actual use changes or the assessor discovers that the classification is erroneous. The property owner shall endeavor to comply with the reasonable requests of the assessor to supply information which cannot be ascertained independently but which is necessary to determine actual use and properly classify the property when the assessor has evidence that there has been a change in the use of the property. Failure to supply such information shall not be the sole reason for reclassifying the property. Any such request for such information shall be accompanied by a notice that states that failure on the part of the property owner to supply such information will not be used as the sole reason for reclassifying the property in question. Subject to the availability of funds under the assessor's budget for such purpose, no later than May 1 of each year, the assessor shall inform each person whose property has been reclassified from agricultural land to any other classification of property of the reasons for such reclassification including, but not limited to, the basis for the determination that the actual use of the property has changed or that the classification of such property is erroneous.

(d) If a parcel of land is classified as agricultural land as defined in section 39-1-102 (1.6) (a) (III) and the perpetual conservation easement is terminated, violated, or substantially modified so that the easement is no longer granted exclusively for conservation purposes, the assessor may reassess the land retroactively for a period of seven years and the additional taxes, if any, that would have been levied on the land during the seven year period prior to the termination, violation, or modification shall become due.

(6) and (7) Repealed.

(8) In any case in which sales prices of comparable properties within any class or subclass are utilized when considering the market approach to appraisal in the determination of actual value of any taxable property, the following limitations and conditions shall apply:

(a) (I) Use of the market approach shall require a representative body of sales, including sales by a lender or government, sufficient to set a pattern, and appraisals shall reflect due consideration of the degree of comparability of sales, including the extent of similarities and dissimilarities among properties that are compared for assessment purposes. In order to obtain a reasonable sample and to reduce sudden price changes or fluctuations, all sales shall be included in the sample that reasonably reflect a true or typical sales price during the period specified in section 39-1-104 (10.2). Sales of personal property exempt pursuant to the provisions of sections 39-3-102, 39-3-103, and 39-3-119 to 39-3-122 shall not be included in any such sample.

(II) Because of the unique characteristics and limited number of oil shale mineral interests, a minimum of five arm's-length sales of reasonably comparable oil shale mineral interests shall be required to constitute a market for purposes of utilization of the market approach to appraisal in determining the actual value of nonproducing oil shale mineral interests.

(b) Each such sale included in the sample shall be coded to indicate a typical, negotiated sale, as screened and verified by the assessor.

(c) All such coded, typical sales samples shall be supplied to the administrator for the performance of his duties.

(d) In no event shall a sales ratio be established or utilized for any class or subclass of property unless and until there have been at least thirty such coded, typical sales or at least five percent of all properties in such class or subclass within the county have been sold and verified by the assessor as coded, typical sales, whichever amount is greater. When such minimum requirement has not been met but typical sales within any such class or subclass indicate that valuations in the class or subclass are too high or too low, such fact shall be reported to the state board of equalization, which board may order an independent appraisal study in such county.

(e) Repealed.

(f) Such true and typical sales shall include only those sales which have been determined on an individual basis to reflect the selling price of the real property only or which have been adjusted on an individual basis to reflect the selling price of the real property only.

(9) (a) In the case of an improvement which is used as a residential dwelling unit and is also used for any other purpose, the actual value and valuation for assessment of such improvement shall be determined as provided in this paragraph (a). The actual value of each portion of the improvement shall be determined by application of the appropriate approaches to appraisal specified in subsection (5) of this section. The actual value of the land containing such an improvement shall be determined by application of the appropriate approaches to appraisal specified in subsection (5) of this section. The land containing such an improvement shall be allocated to the appropriate classes based upon the proportion that the actual value of each of the classes to which the improvement is allocated bears to the total actual value of the improvement. The appropriate valuation for assessment ratio shall then be applied to the actual value of each portion of the land and of the improvement.

(b) In the case of land containing more than one improvement, one of which is a residential dwelling unit, the determination of which class the land shall be allocated to shall be based upon the predominant or primary use to which the land is put in compliance with land use regulations. If multiuse is permitted by land use regulations, the land shall be allocated to the appropriate classes based upon the proportion that the actual value of each of the classes to which the improvements are allocated bears to the combined actual value of the improvements; the appropriate valuation for assessment ratio shall then be applied to the actual value of each portion of the land.

(10) Common property or common elements within a common interest community as defined in the "Colorado Common Interest Ownership Act", article 33.3 of title 38, C.R.S., shall be appraised and valued pursuant to the provisions of section 38-33.3-105, C.R.S.

(10.5) (a) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that bed and breakfasts are unique mixed-use properties; that all areas of a bed and breakfast, except for the commercial lodging area, are shared and common areas that allow innkeepers and guests to interact in a residential setting; that the land on which a bed and breakfast is located and that is used in conjunction with the bed and breakfast is primarily residential in nature; and that there appears to exist a wide disparity in how assessors classify the different portions of bed and breakfasts.

(b) Therefore, notwithstanding any other provision of this article, a bed and breakfast shall be assessed as provided in this subsection (10.5). The commercial lodging area of a bed and breakfast shall be assessed at the rate for nonagricultural or nonresidential improvements. Any part of the bed and breakfast that is not a commercial lodging area shall be considered a residential improvement and assessed accordingly. The actual value of each portion of the bed and breakfast shall be determined by the application of the appropriate approaches to appraisal specified in subsection (5) of this section. The actual value of the land containing a bed and breakfast shall be determined by the application of the appropriate approaches to appraisal specified in subsection (5) of this section. The land containing a bed and breakfast shall be assessed as follows:

(I) The portion of land directly underneath a bed and breakfast shall be assessed pursuant to the procedures pertaining to land set forth in subsection (9) of this section.

(II) There shall be a rebuttable presumption that all remaining land shall be assessed as residential land. Such presumption shall only be overcome if there is a nonresidential use not reasonably associated with the operation of the bed and breakfast on some portion of the remaining land, in which case, such portion of the remaining land shall be assessed as nonresidential land.

(III) Subparagraphs (I) and (II) of this paragraph (b) shall not apply to agricultural land.

(11) The general assembly hereby declares that consideration by assessing officers of the cost approach, market approach, and income approach to the appraisal of real property has resulted in valuations of minerals in place which are neither uniform, nor just and equal, because of wide variations within the same locality in quality and quantity of mineral deposits, if any, because of uncertainty in the existence or extent of such deposits, because of difficulty in measuring acquisition or replacement costs, or because of speculative value judgments when minerals in place are not income producing. Therefore, in the absence of preponderant evidence shown by the assessing officer that the use of the cost approach, market approach, and income approach result in uniform and just and equal valuation, minerals in place are not to be considered in determining the actual value of real property.

(12) In any case in which the income approach is utilized in the determination of the actual value of any nonproducing oil shale mineral interests, the following limitations and conditions shall apply:

(a) The assessor shall capitalize the annual rental income for such nonproducing mineral interests at a capitalization rate of thirteen percent. If nonproducing mineral interests are unleased, the assessor shall use the annual rental as defined in paragraph (b) of this subsection (12).

(b) For the purposes of this subsection (12), "annual rental" means annual rental payments, or other compensatory payments payable for the right to hold a mineral interest, which payments are fixed and certain in amount and payable periodically over a fixed period calculated on a twelve-month basis. "Annual rental" shall be the representative annual rental for such mineral interests leased within the county or the area, and "annual rental" does not include royalty payments, advanced royalty payments, bonus payments, or minimum royalty payments covering periods when the mineral interests are not in production, even though said payments may be fixed and certain in amount and payable periodically. For the purposes of this paragraph (b), "royalty payments", "advanced royalty payments", and "minimum royalty payments" mean payments attributable to a portion of the current or future mineral production of a mineral interest, paid for the privilege of producing minerals, and "bonus payments" means compensation paid as consideration for the granting of a mineral lease or other compensatory payments which are payable regardless of the extent of use of the mineral interest and which are fixed and certain in amount and may be payable in one or more periodical increments over a fixed period.

(13) (a) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that, in the consideration of the cost approach, market approach, and income approach to the appraisal of personal property by assessing officers, the cost approach shall establish the maximum value of property if all costs incurred in the acquisition and installation of such property are fully and completely disclosed by the property owner to the assessing officer.

(b) Therefore, in the assessment of taxable personal property, the assessing officer shall consider the value derived from the cost approach to be the maximum value of the property if the property owner has timely filed his declaration and the declaration contains all relevant information pertaining to the valuation of the property and, also includes, a full disclosure of all costs incurred in the acquisition and installation of all personal property owned by or in the possession of the taxpayer.

(c) Assessing officers shall consider the cost approach to the appraisal of property, pursuant to the provisions of this subsection (13), in good faith and shall deny the use of the cost approach only upon just cause that the requirements set forth in this subsection (13) and in section 39-5-116 have not been complied with by a taxpayer. If it is determined at any time that an assessing officer wrongly denied the use of the cost approach, such assessing officer shall be held liable for all costs incurred by the taxpayer in protesting such assessment based on such denial. However, nothing in this subsection (13) shall preclude the assessing officers from considering the market approach or income approach to the appraisal of personal property when such consideration would result in a lower value of the property and when such valuation is based on independent information obtained by the assessing officers.

(14) (a) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that, in determining the actual value of vacant land, there appears to exist a wide disparity in the treatment of vacant land by the assessing officers of the various counties; that the methods of appraisal currently being utilized by assessing officers for such valuation remain unclear; and that such assessing officers are provided detailed information concerning the appraisal of vacant land in the manuals, appraisal procedures, and instructions prepared and published by the administrator.

(b) The assessing officers shall give appropriate consideration to the cost approach, market approach, and income approach to appraisal as required by the provisions of section 3 of article X of the state constitution in determining the actual value of vacant land. When using the market approach to appraisal in determining the actual value of vacant land as of the assessment date, assessing officers shall take into account, but need not limit their consideration to, the following factors: The anticipated market absorption rate, the size and location of such land, the direct costs of development, any amenities, any site improvements, access, and use. When using anticipated market absorption rates, the assessing officers shall use appropriate discount factors in determining the present worth of vacant land until eighty percent of the lots within an approved plat have been sold and shall include all vacant land in the approved plat. For purposes of such discounting, direct costs of development shall be taken into account. The use of present worth shall reflect the anticipated market absorption rate for the lots within such plat, but such time period shall not generally exceed thirty years. For purposes of this paragraph (b), no indirect costs of development, including, but not limited to, costs relating to marketing, overhead, or profit, shall be considered or taken into account.

(c) (I) For purposes of this subsection (14), "vacant land" means any lot, parcel, site, or tract of land upon which no buildings or fixtures, other than minor structures, are located. "Vacant land" may include land with site improvements. "Vacant land" includes land that is part of a development tract or subdivision when using present worth discounting in the market approach to appraisal; however, "vacant land" shall not include any lots within such subdivision or any portion of such development tract that improvements, other than site improvements or minor structures, have been erected upon or affixed thereto. "Vacant land" does not include agricultural land, producing oil and gas properties, severed mineral interests, and all mines, whether producing or nonproducing.

(II) For purposes of this subsection (14):

(A) "Minor structures" means improvements that do not add value to the land on which they are located and that are not suitable to be used for and are not actually used for any commercial, residential, or agricultural purpose.

(B) "Site improvements" means streets with curbs and gutters, culverts and other sewage and drainage facilities, and utility easements and hookups for individual lots or parcels.

(d) As soon after the assessment date as may be practicable, the assessor shall mail or deliver two copies of a subdivision land valuation questionnaire for each approved plat within the county to the last-known address of the subdivision developer known or believed to own vacant land within such approved plat. Such questionnaire shall be designed to elicit information vital to determining the present worth of vacant land within such approved plat. Such subdivision developer or his agent shall answer all questions to the best of his ability, attaching such exhibits or statements thereto as may be necessary, and shall sign and return the original copy thereof to the assessor no later than the March 20 subsequent to the assessment date. All information provided by the subdivision developer in such questionnaire shall be kept confidential by the assessor; except that the assessor shall make such information available to the person conducting any valuation for assessment study pursuant to section 39-1-104 (16) and his employees and the property tax administrator and his employees.

(e) If any subdivision developer fails to complete and file one or more questionnaires by March 20, then the assessor may determine the actual value of the taxable vacant land within an approved plat which is owned by such subdivision developer on the basis of the best information available to and obtainable by the assessor.

(15) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that assessing officers shall give appropriate consideration to the cost approach, market approach, and income approach to appraisal as required by section 3 of article X of the state constitution in determining the actual value of taxable property. In the absence of evidence shown by the assessing officer that the use of the cost approach, market approach, and income approach to appraisal requires the modification of the actual value of taxable property for the first year of a reassessment cycle in order to result in uniform and just and equal valuation for the second year of a reassessment cycle, the assessing officer shall consider the actual value of any taxable property for the first year of a reassessment cycle, as may have been adjusted as a result of protests and appeals, if any, prior to the assessment date of the second year of a reassessment cycle, to be the actual value of such taxable property for the second year of a reassessment cycle.

(16) (a) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that in the consideration of the cost approach, market approach, and income approach to appraisal for the valuation of superfund water treatment facilities, the cost approach to appraisal does not adequately reflect characteristics specific to superfund water treatment facilities that negatively impact the value of such facilities, including, but not limited to, the lack of income producing ability and the absence of any market for sale of superfund water treatment facilities. Therefore, in the assessment of superfund water treatment facilities, the income approach to appraisal shall be considered the primary indicator of value and the cost approach or market approach to appraisal shall be used only if the value determined under the cost approach or market approach is less than the value determined under the income approach to appraisal. For the purposes of determining the actual value of superfund water treatment facilities as of the assessment date using the income approach to appraisal, the assessing officer shall capitalize the actual income generated by the facility during the calendar year preceding the assessment date at the rate of ten percent per annum.

(b) For purposes of this subsection (16), "superfund water treatment facilities" means real and personal property that is:

(I) Installed and constructed pursuant to an agreement with or an order of the federal government or the state or any of its political subdivisions and to satisfy the federal "Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980", 42 U.S.C. sec. 9601, et seq., as amended; and

(II) Operated for the purpose of eliminating, reducing, controlling, or disposing of pollutants, as defined in section 25-8-103 (15), C.R.S., that could alter the physical, chemical, biological, or radiological integrity of state waters if released into state waters.

(17) (a) The general assembly declares that the valuation of possessory interests in exempt properties is uncertain and highly speculative and that the following specific standards for the appropriate consideration of the cost approach, the market approach, and the income approach to appraisal in the valuation of possessory interests must be provided by statute and applied in the valuation of possessory interests to eliminate the unjust and unequalized valuations that would result in the absence of specific standards:

(I) The actual value of any possessory interest of the lessee or permittee of lands owned by the United States and leased or permitted for use for ski area recreational purposes in connection with a business conducted for profit shall be determined by capitalizing at an appropriate rate the annual fee paid to the United States by the lessee or permittee of such land for the use thereof in the immediately preceding calendar year, adjusted to the level of value using a factor or factors to be published by the administrator pursuant to the same procedures and principles as are provided for property in section 39-1-104 (12.3) (a) (I). The rate used to capitalize any fee pursuant to this subparagraph (I) shall include an appropriate rate of return, an appropriate adjustment for the applicable property tax rate, and an appropriate adjustment to reflect the portion of the fee, if any, required to be paid over by the United States to the state of Colorado and its political subdivisions.

(II) (A) Except for possessory interests in land leased or permitted for use for ski area recreational purposes valued in accordance with subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a) and except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (a), the actual value of a possessory interest in land, improvements, or personal property shall be determined by appropriate consideration of the cost approach, the market approach, and the income approach to appraisal. When the cost or income approach to appraisal is applicable, the actual value of the possessory interest shall be determined by the present value of the reasonably estimated future annual rents or fees required to be paid by the holder of the possessory interest to the owner of the underlying real or personal property through the stated initial term of the lease or other instrument granting the possessory interest; except that the actual value of a possessory interest in agricultural land, including land leased by the state board of land commissioners other than land leased pursuant to section 36-1-120.5, C.R.S., shall be the actual amount of the annual rent paid for the property tax year. The rents or fees used to determine the actual value of a possessory interest under the cost or income approach to appraisal shall be the actual contract rents or fees reasonably expected to be paid to the owner of the underlying real or personal property unless it is shown that the actual contract rents or fees to be paid for the possessory interest being valued are not representative of the market rents or fees paid for that type of real or personal property, in which case the market rents or fees shall be substituted for the actual contract rents or fees.

(B) The rents or fees taken into account under the cost or income approach to appraisal under sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (II) shall exclude that portion of the rents and fees required to be paid for all rights other than the exclusive right to use and possess the land, improvements, or personal property. Such rents or fees to be excluded shall include, but shall not be limited to, any portion of such rents or fees attributable to any of the following: Nonexclusive rights to use and possess public property, such as roads, rights-of-way, easements, and common areas; rights to conduct a business, as determined in accordance with guidelines to be published by the administrator; income of the holder of the possessory interest that is not directly derived from and directly related to the use or occupancy of the possessory interest; any amount paid under a timber sales contract or similar agreement for the purchase of timber or for the right to acquire and remove timber; and reimbursement to the owner of the underlying real or personal property of the reasonable costs of operating, maintaining, and repairing the land, improvements, or personal property to which the possessory interest pertains, regardless of whether such costs are separately stated, provided that the types of such costs can be identified with reasonable certainty from the documents granting the possessory interest. The actual value of the possessory interest so determined shall be adjusted to the taxable level of value using a factor or factors to be published by the administrator pursuant to the same procedures and principles as are provided for personal property in section 39-1-104 (12.3) (a) (I).

(III) Subparagraphs (I) and (II) of this paragraph (a) shall not apply to any management contract. In the case of a management contract, the possessory interest shall be presumed to have no actual value. For purposes of this subparagraph (III), "management contract" means a contract that meets all of the following criteria:

(A) The government owner of the real or personal property subject to the contract directly or indirectly provides the management contractor all funds to operate the real or personal property;

(B) The government owns all of the real or personal property used in the operation of the real or personal property subject to the contract;

(C) The government maintains control over the amount of profit the management contractor can realize or sets the prices charged by the management contractor, or the management contractor's exclusive obligation is to operate and manage the real or personal property for which the management contractor receives a fee;

(D) The government reserves the right to use the real or personal property when it is not being managed or operated by the management contractor;

(E) The management contractor has no leasehold or similar interest in the real or personal property;

(F) To the extent the management contractor manages a manufacturing process for the government on the real property subject to the contract, the government owns all or substantially all of the personal property used in the process; and

(G) The real or personal property is maintained and repaired at the expense of the government.

(b) This subsection (17) shall not apply to and shall not be construed to affect or change the valuation of public utilities pursuant to article 4 of this title, the valuation of equities in state lands pursuant to section 39-5-106, the valuation of mines pursuant to article 6 or any other article of this title, or the valuation of oil and gas leaseholds and lands pursuant to article 7 of this title.

(18) (a) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that real property that is located in a district in which limited gaming is authorized but that is not used for limited gaming may be unfairly valued by comparison of said real property with real property that is used for limited gaming. The general assembly further finds that real property that is located in a gaming district may be reasonably used for purposes other than limited gaming, that such alternative uses may be beneficial in strengthening the economies of gaming districts, and that such alternative uses should be encouraged. In addition, the general assembly finds that applying the cost and market approaches to appraisal in valuing real property that is located in a limited gaming district but that is not used for limited gaming may result in an unfairly high valuation of real property that is reasonably used for a purpose other than limited gaming. Therefore, the provisions of this subsection (18) shall govern the classification and valuation of real property that is located within a gaming district but that is not used for limited gaming.

(b) For property tax years beginning on or after January 1, 1999, if the actual use as of the assessment date of any real property that is located in a limited gaming district but that is not used for limited gaming is used as residential real property, the real property shall be classified as residential real property, and the assessing officer shall determine the actual value of said real property as of the assessment date by applying the market approach to appraisal. If, due to the limited number of real properties located within a limited gaming district that are not used for limited gaming and that are used as residential real property, comparable valuation data is not available from within a limited gaming district to determine adequately the actual value of real property located within said limited gaming district that is not used for limited gaming and that is used as residential real property, notwithstanding any law to the contrary, the assessing officer shall consider sales of reasonably comparable residential real property located inside and outside of any limited gaming district for purposes of utilization of the market approach to appraisal in determining the actual value of said real property located within a limited gaming district that is not used for limited gaming and that is used as residential real property.

(c) For property tax years beginning on or after January 1, 1999, if the actual use as of the assessment date of any real property that is located in a limited gaming district is not for limited gaming or as residential real property, including but not limited to vacant land, the real property shall be classified as nongaming real property, and the assessing officer shall determine the actual value of said real property as of the assessment date by giving appropriate consideration to the cost, market, and income approaches to appraisal. If, due to the limited number of real properties located within a limited gaming district that are not used for limited gaming or as residential real property, comparable valuation data is not available from within a limited gaming district to determine adequately the actual value of real property located within said limited gaming district that is not used for limited gaming or as residential real property, notwithstanding any law to the contrary, the assessing officer shall:

(I) Consider sales of reasonably comparable real property that is not used as residential property located inside and outside of any limited gaming district for purposes of utilization of the market approach to appraisal in determining the actual value of real property located within a limited gaming district that is not used for limited gaming or as residential real property; and

(II) Consider reasonably comparable real property that is not used as residential property located inside and outside of any limited gaming district for purposes of utilization of the income approach to appraisal in determining the actual value of real property located within a limited gaming district that is not used for limited gaming or as residential real property.

(d) For purposes of this subsection (18), real property is considered to be “used for limited gaming” if the owner or lessee of the real property holds a retail gaming license issued pursuant to part 5 of article 47.1 of title 12, C.R.S., and if the owner or lessee actually uses the real property in offering limited gaming for play or for administrative support services related to providing limited gaming or makes the real property available for other uses by persons who are engaged in limited gaming for play, including but not limited to using the property for parking, for a restaurant, or for a hotel or motel.

dures", see 17 Colo. Law. 1751 (1988). For article, "Taxation of Possessory Interests in Exempt Property Under S.B. 02-157", see 32 Colo. Law. 81 (March 2003).

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

Standing to challenge constitutionality of subsection (5). Members of board of county commissioners, also empowered to sit as board of equalization to equalize valuations, lack standing to challenge the constitutionality of ministerial duties imposed by subsection (5). Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Fifty-first Gen. Ass'y, 198 Colo. 302, 599 P.2d 887 (1979).

Requirement in subsection (5)(a) that a property assessor give "appropriate consideration" to the income, market, and cost approaches does not require complete and documented calculations of each approach or an explanation of the reasons for excluding those not used. ASARCO, Inc. v. Bd. of Comm'rs of Lake County, 916 P.2d 550 (Colo. App. 1995).

If the market and income approaches to valuation are inapplicable or do not produce a meaningful valuation for assessment purposes, it is appropriate for the assessor to use only the cost approach. ASARCO, Inc. v. Bd. of Comm'rs of Lake County, 916 P.2d 550 (Colo. App. 1995).

Under the cost approach, reproduction cost rather than replacement cost was held to be an appropriate measure in light of the special purpose and regulatory specifications applicable to an EPA-ordered water treatment facility. ASARCO, Inc. v. Bd. of Comm'rs of Lake County, 916 P.2d 550 (Colo. App. 1995).

The comparable sales price, rather than the manufacturer's cost, is the appropriate starting point for the cost approach. Xerox Corp. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 87 P.3d 189 (Colo. App. 2003).

No requirement for assessor or board to compare valuations with other counties to determine compliance with article X, § 3, of the Colorado Constitution. The issue of just and equal valuation among counties is not cognizable in an appeal to the board of an assessor's valuation, and constitutional requirement does not require an assessor or a board to compare valuations with those made for comparable properties in other counties. Bd. of Assess. Appeals v. E.E. Sonnenberg, 797 P.2d 27 (Colo. 1990).

Actual value is the guiding principle for the taxation of real property in Colorado. Arapahoe County Bd. of Equaliz. v. Podoll, 935 P.2d 14 (Colo. 1997); San Miguel County Bd. of Equaliz. v. Telluride Co., 947 P.2d 1381 (Colo. 1997).

Valuing similar property, similarly situated is consistent with statutory and constitutional mandates to achieve just and equalized values for purposes of taxation. Telluride Co. v. County Bd. of Equaliz., 962 P.2d 313 (Colo. App. 1997).

Value determined as of date of assessment. County assessor has the duty of determining the values of properties as they existed on the date of the assessment. Colo. & Utah Coal Co. v. Rorex, 149 Colo. 502, 369 P.2d 796 (1962).

Assessor's valuation presumed correct. An assessor's ascertainment of the value of property for taxation is presumed to be right. Colo. & Utah Coal Co. v. Rorex, 149 Colo. 502, 369 P.2d 796 (1962).

Assessors furnished guides to aid in valuation. In order to promote uniformity and equality in taxation, assessors are supplied with manuals which furnish them with guides for determining valuations for tax purposes. Stalder v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 147 Colo. 493, 364 P.2d 389 (1961); Colo. & Utah Coal Co. v. Rorex, 149 Colo. 502, 369 P.2d 796 (1962).

Clear and convincing evidence must be adduced to overcome presumption of correctness of an assessor's valuation of property for taxation. Colo. & Utah Coal Co. v. Rorex, 149 Colo. 502, 369 P.2d 796 (1962).

Presumption of correction of assessor's valuation overcome. May Stores Shopping Centers, Inc. v. Shoemaker, 151 Colo. 100, 376 P.2d 679 (1962).

Presumption of correctness of assessor's valuation rebutted where sufficient evidence presented of assessor's failure to comply with requirements of subsection (5)(a). Transamerican Realty Corp. v. Clifton, 817 P.2d 1049 (Colo. App. 1991).

Method of valuation is legislative determination. The method by which valuation for taxation purposes is to be formulated is a legislative function and is not a proper subject for judicial determination. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 628 P.2d 156 (Colo. App. 1981); Leavell-Rio Grande v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 753 P.2d 797 (Colo. App. 1988).

Assessor held not to have followed mandate of statute in determining "actual value". Majestic Great W. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Reale, 30 Colo. App. 564, 499 P.2d 644 (1972).

Market value usually measure of "actual value". In determining "actual value", market value is usually taken as the measure, because most likely to be just and least difficult of ascertainment. Fellows v. Grand Junction Sugar Co., 78 Colo. 393, 242 P. 635 (1925).

For determination of "market value", see Union P. R. R. v. Hanna, 73 Colo. 162, 214 P. 550 (1923); Fellows v. Grand Junction Sugar Co., 78 Colo. 393, 242 P. 635 (1925); City & County of Denver v. Lewin, 106 Colo. 331, 105 P.2d 854 (1940); Stalder v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 147 Colo. 493, 364 P.2d 389 (1961); Colo. & Utah Coal Co. v. Rorex, 149 Colo. 502, 369 P.2d 796 (1962); May Stores Shopping Cen- ters, Inc. v. Shoemaker, 151 Colo. 100, 376 P.2d 679 (1962).

Trial court has no authority to make an assessment or fix a valuation. Colo. & Utah Coal Co. v. Rorex, 149 Colo. 502, 369 P.2d 796 (1962).

Review by the court is therefore limited to the narrow ascertainment of agency abuse of discretion by neglecting to abide by the statutes in the calculation of tax assessments. Leavell-Rio Grande v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 753 P.2d 797 (Colo. App. 1988).

The language of the statute is unambiguous and sets forth an exclusive and restrictive set of unusual circumstances upon which the assessor may, in his discretion, rely in calculating the actual value of commercial property. Leavell-Rio Grande v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 753 P.2d 797 (Colo. App. 1988).

Factors, such as a depressed economy, which encourage rent abatement, are not included within that list of unusual circumstances. Leavell-Rio Grande v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 753 P.2d 797 (Colo. App. 1988).

Unusual conditions affecting actual value are factors for consideration by the assessor in assessing real property. Depreciation factors apply only to personal property. CF & I Steel Corp. v. Patton, 765 P.2d 586 (Colo. App. 1988), rev'd on other grounds, 785 P.2d 605 (Colo. 1990).

Reasonable future use is relevant to a property's current market value for tax assessment purposes. Bd. of Assess. Appeals v. Arlberg Club, 762 P.2d 146 (Colo. 1988).

Highest and best future use of land in its condition at the time of valuation may be considered in determining present fair market value while speculative future uses may not be taken into consideration. Bd. of Assess. Appeals v. Arlberg Club, 762 P.2d 146 (Colo. 1988).

Subsection (5)(a) requires that, if an approach to value is applicable, assessor must give it appropriate consideration in valuing property. Transamerican Realty Corp. v. Clifton, 817 P.2d 1049 (Colo. App. 1991).

Subsection (5)(a) requires only that "appropriate consideration" be given to the cost approach, market approach, and income approach to appraisal when valuing property for assessment. Montrose Prop. v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 738 P.2d 396 (Colo. App. 1987).

However, where an assessor gave no consideration to the market or income approach to assessment of property because of financial and time constraints, the evidence did not support a conclusion that appropriate consideration was given to all three statutorily recognized approaches. Sonnenberg & Sons v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 768 P.2d 748 (Colo. App. 1988), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 797 P.2d 27 (Colo. 1990).

In valuing in accordance with constitutional and statutory requirements, the cost approach, market approach, and income approach must be considered by the assessor, but one or more of the three approaches may not be applicable in a particular case. The nature of the property may rule out consideration of one or more approaches or there may be insufficient data to allow all of the approaches to be used. 501 So. Cherry J. Venture v. Arapahoe County, 817 P.2d 583 (Colo. App. 1991).

Assessor's failure to consider income approach due to time constraints imposed in conducting major reappraisal in county, in addition to failure to adequately document market or cost approaches applied, violated statutory requirement to give "appropriate consideration" to all applicable approaches to valuation. Transamerican Realty Corp. v. Clifton, 817 P.2d 1049 (Colo. App. 1991).

In giving "appropriate consideration", assessor must consider and document all applicable approaches to valuation. Transamerican Realty Corp. v. Clifton, 817 P.2d 1049 (Colo. App. 1991).

"Appropriate consideration" of the cost approach, market approach, and income approach does not include consideration and documentation of inapplicable approaches. CF & I Steel Corp. v. Patton, 765 P.2d 586 (Colo. App. 1988), rev'd on other grounds, 785 P.2d 605 (Colo. 1990).

However, if an approach to value is applicable, it must be given appropriate consideration by the assessor, as well as by the board of assessment appeals, as the trier of fact. Home Depot USA, Inc. v. Pueblo County Bd. of Comm'rs, 50 P.3d 916 (Colo. App. 2002).

Assessor was required to give appropriate consideration to the cost, market, and income approaches to appraisal when valuing a non-producing mine undergoing reclamation that could not be classified as agricultural land. Hepp v. Boulder County Assessor, 113 P.3d 1268 (Colo. App. 2005).

Market value approach to value mandates that appraiser determine the probable sales price for property by considering what other comparable properties actually sold for in the market place at or about the date for which a value is sought. Home Federal Sav. v. Larimer County, 857 P.2d 562 (Colo. App. 1993).

The income approach is an important method for valuing office buildings, but it is not held as a matter of law that any particular approach must be used under the statutory scheme. The county assessor should determine proper valuation of taxpayer's property after appropriate consideration of the three approaches designated by the general assembly, after proper analysis of the applicable approaches, and after systematic correlation to reach a final estimate of value. 501 So. Cherry J.

Actual rent generated from a lease is a valid factor to be considered in determining the actual or market value of the property for purposes of assessment. Bd. of Assess. Appeals v. City & County of Denver, 829 P.2d 1319 (Colo. App. 1991), aff'd, 848 P.2d 355 (Colo. 1993).

Assessor's technical violation of the notification and timing requirements of subsection (5)(c) that does not prejudice taxpayers' substantive rights does not justify reversal of an order of the board of assessment appeals upholding the assessor's classification of taxpayers' property. Johnston v. Park County Bd. of Equaliz., 979 P.2d 578 (Colo. App. 1999).

Applicability of subsection (8)(d). Subsection (8)(d), requiring 30 sales of comparable properties within county in order to establish sales ratio for properties within that county, does not apply to the market valuation of property for property tax purposes. Sonnenberg & Sons v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 768 P.2d 748 (Colo. App. 1988), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 797 P.2d 27 (Colo. 1990).

Under subsection (9), if property is partially put to residential use and partially put to commercial hotel use, a mixed-use classification and allocation is appropriate. The primary factor to be considered in determining the proper classification for tax purposes is the actual use of the property on the relevant assessment date. E.R. Southtech, Ltd. v. BOE, 972 P.2d 1057 (Colo. App. 1998).

Board of assessment appeal's (BAA) ruling assigning a mixed-use classification to the subject property based on the breakdown of stays of less than 30 days and stays of 30 days or more is supported by the evidentiary record and has a reasonable basis in law. Thus, under the applicable standard of review, the BAA's classification determination will not be disturbed on review. E.R. Southtech, Ltd. v. BOE, 972 P.2d 1057 (Colo. App. 1998).

The determination as to the appropriate allocation percentages to be assigned to the residential and commercial uses of the property was a question of fact for the BAA to decide, based on its evaluation of the evidence presented. Because the BAA's factual determination in this regard is supported by competent and substantial evidence in the record as a whole, its ruling will not be disturbed on appeal. E.R. Southtech, Ltd. v. BOE, 972 P.2d 1057 (Colo. App. 1998).

Abuse of discretion by board of assessment appeals exists where board failed to consider evidence of value of similar properties in other counties in Colorado and other states for purposes of property tax assessment. Platinum Props. v. Assess. Appeals Bd., 738 P.2d 34 (Colo. App. 1987).

Depreciation required to be calculated annually from the base year to the date of assessment for valuing personal business property. BQP Indus. v. State Bd. of Equaliz., 694 P.2d 337 (Colo. App. 1984).

Cap based on cost approach to the appraisal of personal property in subsection (13) does not apply to public utility. Division of property taxation reasonably interpreted provision as applying to cable companies but not a public utility that provided similar service, and this interpretation did not violate the constitutional guarantees of uniform taxation and equal protection. Qwest Corp. v. Colo. Div. of Prop. Taxation, ___ P.3d ___ (Colo. App. 2011).

The assessor and the board of assessment appeals are unambiguously required to give consideration to the factors set forth in subsection (14)(b), when determining the actual value of vacant land using the market approach. The assessor may not avoid this requirement by claiming that 80% of the lots within the "market area" had been "developed". When determining whether 80% of the lots of the subdivision within which the vacant land is located have been sold, some general concept of a "market area" may not be substituted for the specific area included within the boundaries of the approved plat for that subdivision. Sunbelt Serv. Corp. v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 802 P.2d 1199 (Colo. App. 1990).

Subsection (14)(b) does not require the assessor to apply the anticipated market absorption rate. This is true even though the assessor and the property tax administrator have determined that the application of such rate is not appropriate. El Paso County Bd. of Equaliz. v. Craddock, 850 P.2d 702 (Colo. 1993).

Although the anticipated market absorption rate must be taken into account when assessing vacant land, other factors may lead the assessor to conclude that the application of such rate is not appropriate. El Paso County Bd. of Equaliz. v. Craddock, 850 P.2d 702 (Colo. 1993).

The factors listed in subsection (14)(b) must be taken into account by assessors, but the general assembly did not direct that assessors be limited to those factors. El Paso County Bd. of Equaliz. v. Craddock, 850 P.2d 702 (Colo. 1993).

Trial court erred in interpreting subsection (14)(b) as requiring both consideration and application of the market absorption rate. Although the anticipated market absorption rate must be considered, when assessing vacant land, its application is not mandatory. The assessor may take into account other factors, including the similarity of the tracts or their anticipated use, which may lead to the conclusion that the application of the market absorption rate is not appropriate. The assessor must document those factors, however, to allow meaningful review of its decision. Resolution Trust Corp. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs of Arapahoe County, 860 P.2d 1383 (Colo. App. 1993).

Market absorption rate is intended to be used in conjunction with comparable sales data in order to insure that the time and up-front costs connected with selling a quantity of individual lots have been reflected in the valuation. Resolution Trust Corp. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 904 P.2d 1363 (Colo. App. 1995).

Board of assessment appeals correctly interpreted subsection (14) to include developer's profit and overhead in the cost of development which may be deducted from the valuation of vacant land. Commercial Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Douglas County, 867 P.2d 17 (Colo. App. 1993).

Subsection (14) as in effect prior to the 1992 amendment required assessors to take indirect costs into account when valuing vacant land under the market approach. The 1992 amendment to this subsection was found to have changed, rather than clarified, the earlier version of the statute because the legislative history does not evince a clear intent to merely clarify the language of the statute. Douglas County Bd. of Equaliz. v. Fidelity Castle Pines, 890 P.2d 119 (Colo. 1995).

Subsection (14)(b), prohibiting assessors from considering the indirect costs of development in ascertaining the assessment value of vacant land under the present worth valuation method does not violate article X, § 3 of the Colorado Constitution, which requires the assessor to determine the actual value of property. Fidelity Castle Pines, Ltd. v. State, 948 P.2d 26 (Colo. App. 1997).

Subsection (14)(b) does not violate article X, § 3 of the Colorado Constitution by creating a separate class of commercial property, nor does it create an unreasonable classification of commercial property. Fidelity Castle Pines, Ltd. v. State, 948 P.2d 26 (Colo. App. 1997).

When the assessor presents evidence of all three approaches to valuation, it would impose an onerous and unnecessary burden also to require the taxpayer to provide those valuations. Because neither the constitution nor the statute imposes such a requirement, the court will not so interpret them. Principal Mut. Ins. v. Bd. of Equaliz., 890 P.2d 273 (Colo. App. 1994).

Valuation based upon assessor's formulation of an open space acquisition rate determined from a sales average of unbuildable land in the county was appropriate when the cost, market, and income approaches could not be used. Hughey v. Jefferson County Bd. of Comm'rs, 921 P.2d 76 (Colo. App. 1996).

While equalization of the basis for taxation is the end sought to be achieved by uniform laws and by uniform means and methods of assessment, perfect uniformity in actual assessment is not required under either this section or the constitution. Crocog Company v. Arapahoe County Bd. of Equaliz., 813 P.2d 768 (Colo. App. 1990); Bishop v. Colo. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 899 P.2d 251 (Colo. App. 1994).

Taxpayers who protest property tax assessments have the burden of proving that the assessment is incorrect. Leavell-Rio Grande v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 753 P.2d 797 (Colo. App. 1988); 501 So. Cherry J. Venture v. Arapahoe County, 817 P.2d 583 (Colo. App. 1991).

Property tax valuation challenge. A taxpayer has the statutory right to challenge a property tax valuation for each tax year under the protest and adjustment procedure and possibly through de novo evidentiary proceedings before the board of assessment appeals. Weingarten v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 876 P.2d 118 (Colo. App. 1994).

Where the record shows that the method used in determining an actual value for assessment purposes was one specified by statute, taxpayers are precluded from protesting utilization of such method. Leavell-Rio Grande v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 753 P.2d 797 (Colo. App. 1988).

In order to adopt the taxpayer's valuation, the court must find that the taxpayer's expert complied with the property tax administrator's guidelines. Resolution Trust Corp. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs of Arapahoe County, 860 P.2d 1383 (Colo. App. 1993).

Where neighboring property was erroneously assessed during one tax year and the assessment was later corrected, complaining taxpayer has no standing to seek an order mandating a reassessment of the parcel erroneously assessed, and the court lacks authority to grant such relief. Crocog Company v. Arapahoe County Bd. of Equaliz., 813 P.2d 768 (Colo. App. 1990); Bishop v. Colo. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 899 P.2d 251 (Colo. App. 1994).

Subsection (5) reflects legislative intent to allow reclassification upon a change of actual use. Nothing in the statute indicates that the provisions of subsection (5) are inapplicable to residential real property. Mission Viejo v. Douglas Cty. Bd. of Equaliz., 881 P.2d 462 (Colo. App. 1994).

Abandoned and uninhabited structure that did not contribute to the value of the property should be disregarded rather than valued separately. Resolution Trust Corp. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs of Arapahoe County, 860 P.2d 1383 (Colo. App. 1993).

Abandoned farmhouse on otherwise vacant parcel was "minor structure" within the meaning of administrative guidelines defining vacant land for purposes of determining whether the market absorption rate applied to the parcel. Resolution Trust Corp. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 904 P.2d 1363 (Colo. App. 1995).

Collateral estoppel does not bind the assessor with respect to property tax exemptions except as to the tax year actually at issue in the prior administrative proceedings. Guest Mansions, Inc. v. Arapahoe County Bd. of Equaliz., 899 P.2d 944 (Colo. App. 1995).

Trial court did not err in accepting mass appraisal method of valuation in valuing 20 vacant residential lots. C.P. & Son v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 953 P.2d 1303 (Colo. App. 1998).

Tax-exempt areas outside building footprints at a federally funded public airport were properly excluded under subsection (17)(a)(II)(B) from valuation of leased parcels that were taxable possessory interests. Such areas are to be included in the valuation of a possessory interest in tax-exempt property only if the holder of the possessory interest has an exclusive right to possess and use the areas that is absolute and the areas included paved lanes running to and from runways, terminals, aircraft hangars, and other facilities that the holder could not exclude others from using under the terms of the lease. Denver jetCenter, Inc. v. Arapahoe County Bd. of Equaliz., 148 P.3d 228 (Colo. App. 2006).

Applied in Golden Gate Dev. v. Gilpin Cty. Bd., 856 P.2d 72 (Colo. App. 1993).

39-1-103.5. Restrictions on information. The state board of equalization or the administrator shall not require any person to furnish financial information concerning commercial or industrial property, except as to the value of the real property for rental purposes only. This section shall not apply to public utilities.

39-1-104. Valuation for assessment - definitions. (1) The valuation for assessment of all taxable property in the state shall be twenty-nine percent of the actual value thereof as determined by the assessor and the administrator in the manner prescribed by law, and such percentage shall be uniformly applied, without exception, to the actual value, so determined, of the various classes and subclasses of real and personal property located within the territorial limits of the authority levying a property tax, and all property taxes shall be levied against the aggregate valuation for assessment resulting from the application of such percentage. This subsection (1) shall not apply to residential real property, producing mines, and lands or leaseholds producing oil or gas.

(1.5) Residential real property shall be valued for assessment at twenty-one percent of its actual value, except as provided in section 39-1-104.2.

(2) Repealed.

(3) "Valuation for assessment", as used in this section and in articles 1 to 13 of this title, means the same as the term "assessed valuation" as that term may appear in the laws of this state.

(4) Except as provided in section 39-7-109, nonproducing severed mineral interests are to be valued at twenty-nine percent of actual value in the same manner as other real property. Such valuation shall be determined by the assessing officer only upon preponderant evidence shown by such officer that the cost approach, market approach, and income approach result in uniform and just and equal valuation.

(5) to (10.1) Repealed.

(10.2) (a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (12) of this section, beginning with the property tax year which commences January 1, 1989, a reassessment cycle shall be instituted with each cycle consisting of two full calendar years. At the beginning of each reassessment cycle, the level of value to be used during the reassessment cycle in the determination of actual value of real property in any county of the state as reflected in the abstract of assessment for each year in the reassessment cycle shall advance by two years over what was used in the previous reassessment cycle; except that the level of value to be used for the years 1989 and 1990 shall be the level of value for the period of one and one-half years immediately prior to July 1, 1988; except that, if comparable valuation data is not available from such one-and-one-half-year period to adequately determine the level of value for a class of property, the period of five years immediately prior to July 1, 1988, shall be utilized to determine the level of value. Said level of value shall be adjusted to the final day of the data gathering period.

(b) During the two years of each reassessment cycle, in preparation for implementation in the succeeding reassessment cycle, the respective assessors shall conduct revaluations of all taxable real property utilizing the level of value for the period which will be used to determine actual value in such succeeding reassessment cycle and the manuals and associated data published for the period which will be used to determine actual value in such succeeding reassessment cycle.

(c) Repealed.

(d) For the purposes of this article and article 9 of this title, "level of value" means the actual value of taxable real property as ascertained by the applicable factors enumerated in section 39-1-103 (5) for the one-and-one-half-year period immediately prior to July 1 immediately preceding the assessment date for which the administrator is required by this article to publish manuals and associated data. Beginning with the property tax year commencing January 1, 1999, if comparable valuation data is not available from such one-and-one-half-year period to adequately determine such actual value for a class of property, "level of value" means the actual value of taxable real property as ascertained by said applicable factors for such one-and-one-half-year period, the six-month period immediately preceding such one-and-one-half-year period, and as many preceding six-month periods within the five-year period immediately prior to July 1 immediately preceding the assessment date as are necessary to obtain adequate comparable valuation data. Said level of value shall be adjusted to the final day of the data-gathering period.

(e) Repealed.

(11) (I) It is the intent of the general assembly, as manifested in subsection (10.2) of this section, that, when a change occurs in reassessment cycles as prescribed in said subsection, new manuals and associated data will be published by the administrator, pursuant to section 39-2-109 (1) (e), and that said manuals and associated data and the level of value for the year that said manuals and associated data are published shall be utilized by assessors in the manner described in subsection (10.2) of this section for determining the actual value of real property in each county of the state.

(II) The general assembly hereby further finds and declares that it is the intent of paragraph (b) of this subsection (11) to comply with the provisions of section 3 of article X of the state constitution, including the provision which requires the enactment of "general laws, which shall prescribe such methods and regulations as shall secure just and equalized valuations for assessments of all real and personal property"; to reduce the confusion of the owners of taxable property within the state concerning assessment procedures and valuations of such property; to achieve valuations for assessment which represent the current value of such property to the extent which is equitably and practically possible; and to minimize the costs associated with achieving such current valuations for assessment.

(b) (I) The provisions of subsection (10.2) of this section are not intended to prevent the assessor from taking into account, in determining actual value for the years which intervene between changes in the level of value, any unusual conditions in or related to any real property which would result in an increase or decrease in actual value. If any real property has not been assessed at its correct level of value, the assessor shall revalue such property for the intervening year so that the actual value of such property will be its correct level of value; however, the assessor shall not revalue such property above or below its correct level of value, except as necessary to reflect the increase or decrease in actual value attributable to an unusual condition. For the purposes of this paragraph (b) and except as otherwise provided in this paragraph (b), an unusual condition which could result in an increase or decrease in actual value is limited to the installation of an on-site improvement, the ending of the economic life of an improvement with only salvage value remaining, the addition to or remodeling of a structure, a change of use of the land, the creation of a condominium ownership of real property as recognized in the "Condominium Ownership Act", article 33 of title 38, C.R.S., any new regulations restricting or increasing the use of the land, or a combination thereof, the installation and operation of surface equipment relating to oil and gas wells on agricultural land, any detrimental acts of nature, and any damage due to accident, vandalism, fire, or explosion. When taking into account such unusual conditions which would increase or decrease the actual value of a property, the assessor must relate such changes to the level of value as if the conditions had existed at that time.

(II) The creation of a condominium ownership of real property by the conversion of an existing structure shall be taken into account as an unusual condition as provided for in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b) by the assessor, when at least fifty-one percent of the condominium units, as defined in section 38-33-103 (1), C.R.S., in a multiunit property subject to condominium ownership have been sold and conveyed to bona fide purchasers and deeds have been recorded therefor.

(12) (a) For the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1987, producing mines shall be valued for assessment solely pursuant to article 6 of this title.

(b) For the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1987, oil and gas leaseholds and lands shall be valued for assessment solely pursuant to section 39-7-102.

(12.1) Repealed.

(12.2) (a) Except as provided in subsection (12) of this section, for property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1987, the requirement stated in subsections (10.2) and (11) of this section that the actual value of real property be determined according to a specified year's level of value and manuals and associated data published by the administrator for said specified year pursuant to section 39-2-109 (1) (e) shall apply to the assessment of all classes of real property, including but not limited to the following classes of real property:

(I) (Deleted by amendment, L. 87, p. 1390, § 2, effective April 1, 1987.)

(II) (Deleted by amendment, L. 87, p. 1392, § 2, effective April 1, 1987.)

(III) Operating property and plants of public utilities; and

(IV) Agricultural land.

(V) (Deleted by amendment, L. 87, p. 1385, § 1, effective June 20, 1987.)

(b) This subsection (12.2) shall take effect January 1, 1987.

(12.3) (a) (I) The actual value of personal property shall be determined by appropriate consideration of such of the three approaches specified in section 39-1-103 (5) (a) as are applicable to the appraisal of such property. Subject to review and approval pursuant to section 39-2-109 (1) (e), the administrator shall prepare and publish appraisal procedures and instructions for the annual appraisal of such property that will include a factor or factors to adjust the actual value for the current year of assessment to the level of value applicable to real property.

(II) In determining actual value, depreciation attributable to age shall not exceed that for the actual age of the property on the assessment date. Physical, functional, and economic obsolescence shall be considered in determining actual value.

(b) Repealed.

(12.4) For property tax years commencing on and after January 1, 1987, the requirement stated in subsections (10.2) to (11) of this section that the actual value of real property be determined according to a specified year's level of value and manuals and associated data published by the administrator for said specified year pursuant to section 39-2-109 (1) (e) shall not apply to the assessment of producing coal mines and other lands producing nonmetallic minerals.

(13) to (15) Repealed.

(16) (a) During each property tax year, the director of research of the legislative council shall contract with a private person for a valuation for assessment study to be conducted as set forth in this subsection (16). The study shall be conducted in all counties of the state to determine whether or not the assessor of each county has, in fact, used all manuals, formulas, and other directives required by law to arrive at the valuation for assessment of each and every class of real and personal property in the county. The person conducting the study shall sample each class of property in a statistically valid manner, and the aggregate of such sampling shall equal at least one percent of all properties in each county of the state. The sampling shall show that the various areas, ages of buildings, economic conditions, and uses of properties have been sampled. Such study shall be completed, and a final report of the findings and conclusions thereof shall be submitted to the state board of equalization, by September 15 of the year in which the study is conducted.

(b) During each property tax year, beginning with the property tax year which commences January 1, 1985, in addition to the requirements set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection (16), the study shall set forth the aggregate valuation for assessment of each county for the year in which the study is conducted.

(c) The person conducting any valuation for assessment study pursuant to this subsection (16) and his employees shall, during the term of his contract, have access to any document in the custody of the administrator or an assessor, including, but not limited to, such documents as are held pursuant to sections 39-4-103, 39-5-120, and 39-14-102 (1) (c). The penalties in section 39-1-116 apply against the divulging at any time of any confidential information obtained pursuant to this paragraph (c).

Evidence of property tax valuations of the property for prior tax years is relevant to valuation issues concerning the current tax year, especially when the prior tax year is in the same reassessment cycle and the valuation is determined using the same base period. Weingarten v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 876 P.2d 118 (Colo. App. 1994).

Comparative sales data must be adjusted for time. In case where property owner appealed county assessor's valuation of the property to the board of assessment appeals, the board erred in reaching an alternative valuation without applying a time adjustment to the comparable sales data on which it relied. Adjustment for time under subsections (10.2)(a) and (10.2)(d) is not discretionary, but mandatory. Kidder v. Chaffee County Bd. of Equaliz., ___ P.3d ___ (Colo. App. 2011).

Although an assessor is not prevented from taking into account any unusual conditions related to real property which would result in an increase or decrease in actual value and may revalue property for an intervening year to rectify an incorrect base value assessment, an assessor may not revalue a property in an intervening year that has been correctly assessed, except as necessary to reflect the increase or decrease in actual value attributable to an unusual condition. Leavell-Rio Grande v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 753 P.2d 797 (Colo. App. 1988).

Unusual conditions affecting actual value are factors for consideration by the assessor in assessing real property. Depreciation factors apply only to personal property. CF & I Steel Corp. v. Patton, 765 P.2d 586 (Colo. App. 1988), rev'd on other grounds, 785 P.2d 605 (Colo. 1990).

“Unusual conditions” are set forth in two distinct provisions, of which one is limited and exclusive and the other is broadly inclusive. Where a contract for purchase and sale of the subject property was entered into in an intervening year, resulting in a difference in valuation of more than ten percent when compared with the valuation in effect during the normally applicable base period, evidence of the sale price was relevant under this section and should have been considered. Roberts v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 883 P.2d 588 (Colo. App. 1994).

“Unusual conditions” provisions apply to individual properties, not only to all properties in an entire neighborhood of like properties. Roberts v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 883 P.2d 588 (Colo. App. 1994).

Evidence relating to the amount stipulated to in adjudicatory proceedings and not to the assessor's original base period valuation was irrelevant as a matter of law to the unusual condition exception. Lowe Denver Hotel Ass'n v. Arapahoe County Bd. of Equaliz., 890 P.2d 257 (Colo. App. 1995).

The cost to cure environmental contamination, when mandated by a governmental entity, should be deducted from the valuation of the property for ad valorem tax purposes. E.I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. v. Douglas County Bd. of Equaliz., 75 P.3d 1129 (Colo. App. 2003).

E.I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. cited above does not address the exact manner in which governmentally ordered remediation costs to cure environmental contamination are to be deducted under the income approach, nor does it mandate any specific methodology, or require the deduction of the entire cost of remediation. Here, methodology of estimating annual income, subtraction of an annual cost to cure, and application of a capitalization rate to arrive at a taxable value of property capable of generating income is in conformity with the direct capitalization method of the income approach and supported by competent evidence. Microsemi Corp.

v. Broomfield County Bd. of Equaliz., 200 P.3d 1123 (Colo. App. 2008).

A shut down of a portion of a plant does not constitute a change in the use of the land. LaDuke v. CF & I Steel Corp., 785 P.2d 605 (Colo. 1990).

The general assembly intended to authorize assessors to make “corrective” intervening year revaluations only when the assessor's original base period valuation for the first year of the reassessment cycle is subsequently asserted to be incorrect and, therefore, in need of correction. Lowe Denver Hotel Ass'n v. Arapahoe County Bd. of Equaliz., 890 P.2d 257 (Colo. App. 1995).

Statute does not authorize assessors to make intervening revaluations when the valuation for the first year of the cycle has been determined in adjudicatory proceedings resulting from taxpayer protests or appeals. Lowe Denver Hotel Ass'n v. Arapahoe County Bd. of Equaliz., 890 P.2d 257 (Colo. App. 1995).

Section 39-1-103 (8)(a)(I), not subsection (12.3) of this section, applies to the valuation of real property. Since the 18-month time limitation for information used in property valuation applies exclusively to real property, the computer pricing guides used by the taxpayer need not conform to those time limitations. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. IBM Credit Corp., 888 P.2d 250 (Colo. 1995).

Obsolescence may be a relevant factor in determining the actual value of personal property. IBM Credit Corp. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 870 P.2d 535 (Colo. App. 1993).

Under subsection (12.3), if an approach to value is applicable, it must be given appropriate consideration by the assessor, as well as by the board of assessment appeals, as the trier of fact. Home Depot USA, Inc. v. Pueblo County Bd. of Comm'rs, 50 P.3d 916 (Colo. App. 2002).

39-1-104.1. Implementation costs - annual revaluation. (Repealed)

Source: L. 87: Entire section added, p. 1389, § 10, effective June 21. L. 95: Entire section repealed, p. 9, § 5, effective March 9.

39-1-104.2. Legislative declaration - adjustment of residential rate. (1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) “Residential rate” means the ratio of valuation for assessment for residential real property fixed in accordance with this section.

(b) “Target percentage” means the percentage of aggregate statewide valuation for assessment represented by the valuation for assessment which is attributable to residential real property in the year immediately preceding the year in which a change in the level of value occurs.

(2) After careful consideration of all available information, the general assembly hereby finds and declares that the action of the first session of the fifty-sixth general assembly which set the ratio of valuation for assessment for residential real property at eighteen percent has produced a deviation from the intent of section 3 of article X of the state constitution which ensures that the percentage of the aggregate statewide valuation for assessment which is attributable to residential real property shall remain the same as it was in the year immediately preceding the year in which a change occurs in the level of value used in determining actual value. Therefore, the general assembly finds that legislation is necessary for the following purposes: To adjust the residential rate for 1988; to ensure that deviations from the constitutional mandate set forth in section 3 of article X of the state constitution shall not be perpetuated into this or any future year; and to provide a process for future adjustments in the ratio of valuation for assessment for residential real property.

(3) (a) The general assembly, pursuant to the authority granted in section 3 of article X of the state constitution, finds and declares that, for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1987, but before January 1, 1989, the percentage of aggregate statewide valuation for assessment which is attributable to residential real property fails to remain as it was in the property tax year commencing January 1, 1986, when the aggregate statewide valuation for assessment was based on the 1985 aggregate statewide valuation for assessment plus the increased valuation for assessment attributable to new construction and to increased volume of mineral and oil and gas production which occurred during 1986. Therefore, for the property tax year commencing January 1, 1988, the ratio of valuation for assessment for residential real property shall be sixteen percent of actual value.

(b) The general assembly, pursuant to the authority granted in section 3 of article X of the state constitution, finds and declares that, for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1989, but before January 1, 1991, the percentage of aggregate statewide valuation for assessment which is attributable to residential real property fails to remain as it was in the property tax year commencing January 1, 1988, when the aggregate statewide valuation for assessment was based on the 1987 aggregate statewide valuation for assessment. Therefore, the administrator having determined pursuant to subsection (4) of this section that the target percentage is 44.51 percent, for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1989, but before January 1, 1991, the ratio of valuation for assessment for residential real property shall be fifteen percent of actual value.

(c) The general assembly, pursuant to the authority granted in section 3 of article X of the state constitution, finds and declares that, for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1991, but before January 1, 1993, the percentage of aggregate statewide valuation for assessment which is attributable to residential real property fails to remain as it was in the property tax year commencing January 1, 1990, when the aggregate statewide valuation for assessment was based on the 1989 aggregate statewide valuation for assessment. Therefore, the administrator having determined pursuant to subsection (4) of this section that the target percentage is 44.57 percent, for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1991, but before January 1, 1993, the ratio of valuation for assessment for residential real property shall be 14.34 percent of actual value.

(d) Pursuant to the authority granted in section 3 of article X of the state constitution, the general assembly finds and declares that, for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1993, but before January 1, 1995, the percentage of aggregate statewide valuation for assessment which is attributable to residential real property will fail to remain as it was in the property tax year commencing January 1, 1992, when the aggregate statewide valuation for assessment was based on the 1991 aggregate statewide valuation for assessment. Therefore, the administrator having determined pursuant to subsection (4) of this section that the target percentage is 44.73 percent, the ratio of valuation for assessment for residential real property shall be 12.86 percent of actual value for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1993, but before January 1, 1995.

(e) Pursuant to the authority granted in section 3 of article X of the state constitution, the general assembly finds and declares that, for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1995, but before January 1, 1997, the percentage of aggregate statewide valuation for assessment that is attributable to residential real property will fail to remain as it was in the property tax year commencing January 1, 1994, when the aggregate statewide valuation for assessment was based on the 1993 aggregate statewide valuation for assessment. Therefore, the administrator having determined pursuant to subsection (4) of this section that the target percentage is 45.29 percent, the ratio of valuation for assessment for residential real property shall be 10.36 percent of actual value for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1995, but before January 1, 1997.

(f) Pursuant to the authority granted in section 3 of article X of the state constitution, the general assembly finds and declares that, for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1997, but before January 1, 1999, the percentage of aggregate statewide valuation for assessment that is attributable to residential real property will fail to remain as it was in the property tax year commencing January 1, 1996, when the aggregate statewide valuation for assessment was based on the 1995 aggregate statewide valuation for assessment. Therefore, the administrator having determined pursuant to subsection (4) of this section that the target percentage is 46.17 percent, the ratio of valuation for assessment for residential real property shall be 9.74 percent of actual value for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1997, but before January 1, 1999.

(g) Pursuant to the authority granted in section 3 of article X of the state constitution, the general assembly finds and declares that, for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1999, but before January 1, 2001, the percentage of aggregate statewide valuation for assessment that is attributable to residential real property will fail to remain as it was in the property tax year commencing January 1, 1998, when the aggregate statewide valuation for assessment was based on the 1997 aggregate statewide valuation for assessment. Therefore, the administrator having determined pursuant to subsection (4) of this section that the target percentage is 46.49 percent, the ratio of valuation for assessment for residential real property shall be 9.74 percent of actual value for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1999, but before January 1, 2001.

(h) Pursuant to the authority granted in section 3 of article X of the state constitution, the general assembly finds and declares that, for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2001, but before January 1, 2003, the percentage of aggregate statewide valuation for assessment that is attributable to residential real property will fail to remain as it was in the property tax year commencing January 1, 2000, when the aggregate statewide valuation for assessment was based on the 1999 aggregate statewide valuation for assessment. Therefore, the administrator having determined pursuant to subsection (4) of this section that the target percentage is 46.61 percent, the ratio of valuation for assessment for residential real property shall be 9.15 percent of actual value for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2001, but before January 1, 2003.

(i) Pursuant to the authority granted in section 3 of article X of the state constitution, the general assembly finds and declares that, for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2003, but before January 1, 2005, the percentage of aggregate statewide valuation for assessment that is attributable to residential real property will not remain as it was in the property tax year commencing January 1, 2002, when the aggregate statewide valuation for assessment was based on the 2001 aggregate statewide valuation for assessment. Therefore, the administrator having determined pursuant to subsection (4) of this section that the target percentage is 47.08 percent, the ratio of valuation for assessment for residential real property shall be 7.96 percent of actual value for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2003, but before January 1, 2005.

(j) Pursuant to the authority granted in section 3 of article X of the state constitution, the general assembly finds and declares that, for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2005, but before January 1, 2007, the percentage of aggregate statewide valuation for assessment that is attributable to residential real property will not remain as it was in the property tax year commencing January 1, 2004, when the aggregate statewide valuation for assessment was based on the 2003 aggregate statewide valuation for assessment. Therefore, the administrator having determined pursuant to subsection (4) of this section that the target percentage is 47.22 percent, the ratio of valuation for assessment for residential real property shall be 7.96 percent of actual value for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2005, but before January 1, 2007.

(k) Pursuant to the authority granted in section 3 of article X of the state constitution, the general assembly finds and declares that, for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2007, but before January 1, 2009, the percentage of aggregate statewide valuation for assessment that is attributable to residential real property will not remain as it was in the property tax year commencing January 1, 2006, when the aggregate statewide valuation for assessment was based on the 2005 aggregate statewide valuation for assessment. Therefore, the administrator having determined pursuant to subsection (4) of this section that the target percentage is 47.43 percent, the ratio of valuation for assessment for residential real property shall be 7.96 percent of actual value for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2007, but before January 1, 2009.

(l) Pursuant to the authority granted in section 3 of article X of the state constitution, the general assembly finds and declares that, for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2009, but before January 1, 2011, the percentage of aggregate statewide valuation for assessment that is attributable to residential real property will not remain as it was in the property tax year commencing January 1, 2008, when the aggregate statewide valuation for assessment was based on the 2007 aggregate statewide valuation for assessment. Therefore, the administrator having determined pursuant to subsection (4) of this section that the target percentage is 46.82 percent, the ratio of valuation for assessment for residential real property shall be 7.96 percent of actual value for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2009, but before January 1, 2011.

(m) Pursuant to the authority granted in section 3 of article X of the state constitution, the general assembly finds and declares that, for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2011, but before January 1, 2013, the percentage of aggregate statewide valuation for assessment that is attributable to residential real property will not remain as it was in the property tax year commencing January 1, 2010, when the aggregate statewide valuation for assessment was based on the 2009 aggregate statewide valuation for assessment. Therefore, the administrator having determined pursuant to subsection (4) of this section that the target percentage is 46.53 percent, the ratio of valuation for assessment for residential real property shall be 7.96 percent of actual value for the property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2011, but before January 1, 2013.

(4) To ensure that in present and future years there is no deviation from the intent of section 3 of article X of the state constitution:

(a) Commencing January 1, 1989, for each year in which there is a change in the level of value, the administrator shall determine the target percentage in order to ensure that the percentage of the aggregate statewide valuation for assessment which is attributable to residential real property remains the same as it was in the year immediately preceding the year in which such change occurs. In determining the target percentage, the administrator shall use data concerning valuation for assessment which has been adjusted to eliminate the effects of having rounded the then current residential rate to the nearest one-hundredth of one percent. The net increase in valuation for assessment attributable to new construction and to the net increase in the volume of mineral and oil and gas production shall be added to the valuation for assessment, as so adjusted. The sum so determined shall be the basis on which the target percentage is calculated.

(b) In order to implement the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (4), the administrator shall use data concerning the 1987 valuation for assessment when the aggregate statewide valuation for assessment was based on the 1985 aggregate statewide valuation for assessment plus the net increase in valuation for assessment attributable to new construction and to the net increase in the volume of mineral and oil and gas production which occurred during 1986. The administrator shall add the 1988 net increase in valuation for assessment attributable to new construction and the net increase in the volume of mineral and oil and gas production to the 1987 aggregate statewide valuation for assessment, and the resulting amounts shall be the basis for determining the target percentage for 1989.

(5) (a) Commencing January 1, 1989, for each year in which there is a change in the level of value used in determining actual value, the general assembly, pursuant to the authority granted in section 3 of article X of the state constitution, shall, by law, adjust the residential rate in order that the percentage of aggregate statewide valuation for assessment which is attributable to residential real property for such year equals the target percentage.

(b) The residential rate shall be based on a documented estimate of the total valuation for assessment of all taxable property in the state arrived at by projecting the percentage of change in the level of value for each class of taxable property to all taxable property in such class in the state.

(c) The administrator shall be responsible for ensuring that a documented estimate study is completed by the division of property taxation.

(6) No later than January 15 of each year in which there is a change in the level of value used in determining actual value, the administrator shall report to the state board of equalization:

(a) An estimate of the total valuation for assessment of all taxable property in the state;

(b) An estimate of the percentage of aggregate statewide valuation for assessment which would be attributable to residential real property if the residential rate fixed in current law remained the same. Such estimate shall be based upon the projected valuations as determined by the documented study.

(c) The target percentage as determined under paragraph (a) of subsection (4) of this section;

(d) The projected residential rate. The rate shall be rounded to the nearest one-hundredth of one percent, and the rate shall ensure that the percentage of the aggregate statewide valuation for assessment which is attributable to residential real property shall remain as it was in the year immediately preceding the year in which such change occurs.

39-1-104.5. Severed mineral interest - placement on tax roll. Any owner of the surface estate from which a mineral interest has been severed, on behalf of himself and any other owners of such interest in the surface, may require the assessor of the county wherein such real estate is situate to place such severed mineral interest, without regard to value, on the tax roll of the county if the owner of the surface estate provides proof of ownership of the severed mineral interest and a record of the creation of the severed mineral interest as shown by the records of the county clerk and recorder. Proof of ownership and the record of creation of the severed mineral interest shall be provided in the form of a certificate prepared by an attorney, a title insurance company, or a title insurance agent authorized to do business in this state.

39-1-105. Assessment date. All taxable property, real and personal, within the state at twelve noon on the first day of January of each year, designated as the official assessment date, shall be listed, appraised, and valued for assessment in the county wherein it is located on the assessment date. Personal property shall be listed and valued separately from real property. Whenever construction of any new taxable building within the boundaries of a county occurs subsequent to the assessment date but before July 1 and such county has resolved to implement the procedures set out in section 39-5-132, such building shall be listed, appraised, and valued pursuant to section 39-5-132.

ANNOTATION

This section does not mandate that January 1 is the date for determining tax exempt status for property owned by a charitable organization and does not address when the tax exempt status is to be determined. Family Tree Found. v. Prop. Tax Adm'r, 119 P.3d 581 (Colo. App. 2005).

City acquired an interest in the personal property prior to the date of the chapter 11 bankruptcy since the statute provides that a lien for ad valorem personal property taxes arises at 12 noon on the assessment date for the current year and such lien is a perpetual lien. Although the interest was an inchoate lien, the city was allowed to perfect it after the assessment date and thus have the lien relate back to the assessment date. Therefore the personal property taxes were a prepetition secured claim. In re W. States Distribs., Inc., 179 Bankr. 666 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1995).

39-1-105.5. Reappraisal ordered based on valuation for assessment study - state school finance payments.

(1) (a) Repealed.

(b) (I) Pursuant to section 39-1-104 (16) (b) for each property tax year beginning with the property tax year which commences January 1, 1985, the annual study shall, in addition to other requirements, determine and set forth the aggregate valuation for assessment of each county for the year in which the study is conducted.

(II) (A) If the valuation for assessment of a county as reflected in its abstract for assessment for any property tax year beginning with the property tax year commencing January 1, 1985, is more than five percent below the valuation for assessment for such county as determined by the study conducted during the same property tax year, the state board of equalization shall cause to be performed a reappraisal of any class or classes which the study shows were not appraised consistent with the property tax provisions of the Colorado constitution or the statutes. Such reappraisal shall be performed during the next following year and shall be at the expense of the county. Such reappraisal shall become the county's valuation for assessment with regard to the reappraised class or classes for the year in which such reappraisal is performed.

(B) Even though a county's aggregate valuation for assessment as reflected in its abstract for assessment for any property tax year beginning with the property tax year commencing January 1, 1985, is not more than five percent below the valuation for assessment for such county as determined by the study conducted during the same property tax year, the state board of equalization shall cause to be performed a reappraisal of any class or classes which the study shows were not appraised consistent with the property tax provisions of the Colorado constitution or the statutes. Such reappraisal shall be performed during the next following year and shall be at the expense of the county. Such reappraisal shall become the county's valuation for assessment with regard to the reappraised class or classes for the year in which such reappraisal is performed.

(III) Whenever a reappraisal is ordered pursuant to subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b), state equalization payments to school districts within the county during the year in which the reappraisal is performed shall be based upon the valuation for assessment as reflected in the county's abstract for assessment for the year prior to the year in which the reappraisal is performed. The state board of equalization shall order the county's board of county commissioners to levy, and the board of county commissioners shall levy, an additional property tax on all taxable property within the county. Such additional property tax shall be levied at the same time as other property taxes are levied during the year in which the reappraisal is performed. Such additional property tax shall be in an amount which is sufficient to reimburse the state for the excess state equalization payments made to school districts within the county during the year in which the reappraisal is performed. The county's board of county commissioners shall reimburse the state for such excess state equalization payments. Such excess shall be that amount of the state equalization payments actually paid by the state to the county during the year in which the reappraisal is performed based on the incorrect valuation for assessment as reflected in the county's abstract for assessment for the immediately prior year which amount exceeds the state equalization payments the state would have paid during the year in which the reappraisal is performed had the valuation for assessment for the immediately prior year been determined by the assessor consistent with the provisions of the Colorado constitution and the statutes. In addition, the additional property tax shall be sufficient to pay to the state, and the board of county commissioners shall pay to the state, interest on such excess at the interest rate determined by the state banking commissioner pursuant to section 39-21-110.5.

(IV) If the valuation for assessment of a county as reflected in its abstract for assessment for any property tax year beginning with the property tax year commencing January 1, 1985, is more than five percent below the valuation for assessment for such county as determined by the study conducted during the same property tax year and if the state board of equalization fails to order a reappraisal, state equalization payments to school districts within the county during the year next following the year in which the study was performed shall be based upon the valuation for assessment for the county as reflected in the county's abstract for assessment for the year in which the study was conducted. At the same time as other property taxes are levied during the year in which such state equalization payments are made, the county's board of county commissioners shall levy an additional property tax on all taxable property within the county. Such additional property tax shall be in an amount sufficient to reimburse the state for the difference between the amount the state actually paid in state equalization payments during the year following the year in which the study was performed and what the state would have paid during such year had the state equalization payments been based on the valuation for assessment as determined by the study. The county's board of county commissioners shall reimburse the state for such difference.

(V) Any finding made in 1988 pursuant to the provisions of subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b) shall be based primarily on data and information collected from within the county in question, except where data is lacking or deficient. If data from outside the county must be used, then that data must be from a comparable area. If any finding made utilizing the study conducted for the property tax year commencing on January 1, 1987, was based upon data and information comparing taxable property in one county with taxable property in the county subject to such finding, the state board of equalization shall revise such finding so that any orders made pursuant to the provisions of subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b) are based solely on data and information collected from within each affected county.

(2) Any reimbursement made by a county to the state for the cost incurred by the state in reappraising any class or classes of taxable property for property tax purposes which reimbursement is required by subsection (1) of this section shall be made to the state treasurer who shall, upon receipt thereof, credit the amount of such reimbursement to the state general fund.

39-1-106. Partial interests not subject to separate tax. For purposes of property taxation, it shall make no difference that the use, possession, or ownership of any taxable property is qualified, limited, not the subject of alienation, or the subject of levy or distraint separately from the particular tax derivable therefrom. Severed mineral interests shall also be taxed.

ANNOTATION

This section establishes a unity rule for the assessment of property rather than requiring assessment of the various interests in the property. Bd. of Assess. Appeals v. City and County of Denver, 829 P.2d 1319 (Colo. App. 1991), aff'd, 848 P.2d 355 (Colo. 1993).

39-1-107. Tax liens. (1) Except as provided in section 39-3-135, the lien of general taxes for the current year, including taxes levied pursuant to section 39-5-132, shall attach to all taxable property, real and personal, at 12 noon on the assessment date.

(2) Taxes levied on real and personal property, together with any delinquent interest, advertising costs, and fees prescribed by law with respect to any such taxes as may have become delinquent, shall be a perpetual lien thereon, and such lien shall have priority over all other liens until such taxes, delinquent interest, advertising costs, and fees shall have been paid in full.

(3) Repealed.

(4) The property tax on a possessory interest in real or personal property that is exempt from taxation under this article shall be assessed to the holder of the possessory interest and collected in the same manner as property taxes assessed to owners of real or personal property; except that such property tax shall not become a lien against the property. When due, the property tax shall be a debt due from the holder of the possessory interest to the board of county commissioners for the county in which such property is located or to such other body as is authorized by law to levy property taxes, and shall be recoverable by such board or body by direct action in debt on behalf of each governmental entity for which a property tax levy has been made.

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

Question of tax liens and their priority is for legislative determination. In the absence of legislative action so declaring, taxes are not a lien upon the property. People v. City & County of Denver, 85 Colo. 61, 273 P. 883 (1928).

Revenue statutes are to be construed in favor of the public. Gifford v. Callaway, 8 Colo. App. 359, 46 P. 626 (1896).

Applied in Bd. of Comm'rs v. Denver & S. L. R. R., 88 Colo. 14, 291 P. 1020 (1930), appeal dismissed, 282 U.S. 814, 51 S. Ct. 216, 75 L. Ed. 729, cert. denied, 283 U.S. 826, 51 S. Ct. 348, 75 L. Ed. 1440 (1931).

II. THE TAX LIEN.

Lien effective upon assessment and levy. The tax lien provided does not become effective until the property is assessed and the taxes levied, at which time the theretofore inchoate lien relates back and attaches as of the date authorized for assessment. Wolf v. Antonoff, 161 Colo. 473, 423 P.2d 840 (1967).

Lien embraces only specific property levied upon. Chicago Bazaar Co. v. McNichols, 13 Colo. App. 154, 56 P. 672 (1899).

A tax lien against real property in one county may not be attached to an improvement upon real property in another county. When a motel which was subject to the plaintiff's tax lien on real property in Garfield County was dismantled and moved to the City and County of Denver, it became personal property which was no longer subject to such lien. Israel v. Rifle Econolodge Joint Venture, 793 P.2d 658 (Colo. App. 1990).

Except as to stocks in merchandise. The lien attaches to an entire stock in merchandise, through all its changes, so long as it remains in the hands of the person taxed. Chicago Bazaar Co. v. McNichols, 13 Colo. App. 154, 56 P. 672 (1899) (decided under former law).

Even stocks in merchandise held by trustee in bankruptcy. Lien covers the stock of merchandise and fixtures which subsequently came into the possession of the taxpayer's trustee in bankruptcy. De Laney v. City & County of Denver, 185 F.2d 246 (10th Cir. 1950) (decided under former law).

Statutory mode of collection must be pursued although tax deemed lien. If a specific mode is provided whereby the land may be sold to satisfy a tax lien, no suit in equity to enforce the sale can be maintained. The specific statutory mode of collection must be pursued. Montezuma Valley Water Supply Co. v. Bell, 20 Colo. 175, 36 P. 1102 (1894).

Lien upon land without regard to title. This section creates a lien upon real estate for the taxes assessed against it: the assessment and all subsequent proceedings down to and including the sale, are against the land without regard to title. Statton v. People ex rel. Burr, 18 Colo. App. 85, 70 P. 157 (1902).

This section and § 39-10-115 to be construed together. This section and § 39-10-115, concerning certificates of taxes due, should be construed together to mean simply that tax due on real property shall be a perpetual lien upon the real estate until paid or until the treasurer certifies payment. Burton v. City & County of Denver, 99 Colo. 207, 61 P.2d 856 (1936).

No law limits phrase "perpetual lien", or requires its foreclosure within a specified time on peril of its loss. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Denver & S. L. R. R., 88 Colo. 14, 291 P. 1020 (1930), appeal dismissed, 282 U.S. 814, 51 S. Ct. 216, 75 L. Ed. 729, cert. denied, 283 U.S. 826, 51 S. Ct. 348, 75 L. Ed. 1440 (1931).

Lien on personalty not lost by issuance of tax receipt. Where the personal property in question continues the property of the taxpayer owing the tax and remains in the same jurisdiction, mere issuance of a tax receipt will not oust the lien of taxes, where the county treasurer failed to collect interest on taxes owed. People ex rel. King v. Myers, 16 Colo. App. 371, 65 P. 409 (1901).

Tax assessed for irrigation district is lien upon the land upon which it is levied. Weghorst v. Clark, 66 Colo. 535, 180 P. 742 (1919).

Prospect of future taxes not lien on property. The mere existence of a water and sanitation district and the prospect of taxes in the future was not a lien, encumbrance, or defect on the title to property. Edwards v. St. Paul Title Ins. Co., 39 Colo. App. 235, 563 P.2d 979 (1977).

City acquired an interest in the personal property prior to the date of the chapter 11 bankruptcy since the statute provides that a lien for ad valorem personal property taxes arises at 12 noon on the assessment date for the current year and such lien is a perpetual lien. Although the interest was an inchoate lien, the city was allowed to perfect it after the assessment date and thus have the lien relate back to the assessment date. Therefore the personal property taxes were a prepetition secured claim. In re Western States Distribs., Inc., 179 Bankr. 666 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1995).

III. PRIORITY OF TAX LIEN.

Priority of tax liens by express provision. Although the general assembly has the power to declare that tax liens shall be preferred, it must do so by express provision. Otherwise, priority in time will determine. United States v. Elliott, 209 F. Supp. 374 (D. Colo. 1962).

Lien for taxes superior to all other liens. The lien of taxes attaches to the land without regard to title and, consequently, is superior to all other liens. Statton v. People ex rel. Burr, 18 Colo. App. 85, 70 P. 157 (1902).

No lien upon land for personal tax cuts off prior valid lien upon the land. Bd. of Comm'rs

Priority of debt due United States federal question. Where the United States claims a priority, the priority of a lien for general taxes must be determined under federal law. United States v. Maes, 316 F. Supp. 1267 (D. Colo. 1969).

When county treasurer not indispensable party. The county treasurer who issued certicate of sale to tax sale purchaser is not an indispensable party to a proceeding challenging priority of lien of secured party in property sold at tax sale where he claims no interest in the property since the tax lien has been discharged and where complete relief can be afforded without his presence as a party. Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

"Taxes" not limited to general property taxes. If it had been the intention of the general assembly to limit application of this section to general property taxes, it is reasonable to believe that the general assembly would have so indicated by apt language. McCord Mercantile Co. v. McIntyre, 25 Colo. App. 376, 138 P. 59 (1914).

Section applies to irrigation district taxes. McCord Mercantile Co. v. McIntyre, 25 Colo. App. 376, 138 P. 59 (1914).

Tax liability even where assessment not yet completed. One conveying lands in September is liable for tax of the same year even though, at the date of the conveyance, the assessment had not been completed nor become a lien on the lands. Rambo v. Armstrong, 45 Colo. 124, 100 P. 586 (1909).

Tax liability for successive conveyances in last half of year. Where, at the end of the year, grantee, who purchased property in the last half of the year, has parted with title to that property and a third party owns it, there can be no recovery by grantee in first deed against his grantor for tax assessed against the property in the absence of allegations and proof that, in the course of the subsequent change in ownership, the grantee in the first deed either has obligated himself to his grantee to pay the taxes or otherwise sustained an equivalent loss. W. Dev. & Realization Corp. v. Hext, 108 Colo. 312, 117 P.2d 313 (1941).

Grantee in last half of year indemnified by implied contract. Contract implied by this section is to indemnify grantee of a conveyance in the last half of the year against loss for the payment of taxes on property which he owned and of which he had the use for less than half a year. W. Dev. & Realization Corp. v. Hext, 108 Colo. 312, 117 P.2d 313 (1941).

Section is not applicable where property is taken by condemnation proceedings. Fishel v. City & County of Denver, 106 Colo. 576, 108 P.2d 236 (1940).

39-1-109. Taxes paid by mortgagee - effect. If the mortgagor of real property fails or neglects to pay the taxes levied on such property or permits such property to be sold for taxes, the mortgagee may pay said taxes or redeem such property if sold for taxes, and any taxes so paid or redeemed shall become and be a lien upon such real property until the same have been repaid to the mortgagee. Upon payment of any such mortgage or in an action to enforce the same, such mortgagee may demand the taxes so paid or redeemed, with interest thereon at the same rate specified in the mortgage, and the same shall be included in any judgment rendered on the mortgage. The term "mortgage" includes deeds of trust, and the term "mortgagee" includes the beneficiary of a deed of trust.

(1.8) A political subdivision that is a special district shall not levy a tax against property excluded from the special district for the calendar year during which such exclusion becomes effective if, prior to May 1 of said year, the court order of exclusion has been filed with the county clerk and recorder of the county in which the exclusion took place in accordance with the provisions of section 32-1-105, C.R.S.

(2) Whenever all or any portion of a political subdivision becomes part of another county by reason of any change in county boundaries, the governing body of such political subdivision shall, within thirty days after the effective date of such change, notify, in writing, the assessor and the board of county commissioners of the county, of which all or any portion of such political subdivision has become a part, of its intention to levy a tax for the year in which such change became effective.

(1) No later than December 22 in each year, the board of county commissioners in each county of the state, or such other body in the city and county of Denver as shall be authorized by law to levy taxes, or the city council of the city and county of Broomfield, shall, by an order to be entered in the record of its proceedings, levy against the valuation for assessment of all taxable property located in the county on the assessment date, and in the various towns, cities, school districts, and special districts within such county, the requisite property taxes for all purposes required by law.

(2) As soon as such levies have been made, the board of county commissioners or other body authorized by law to levy taxes shall forthwith certify all such levies to the assessor, upon forms prescribed by the administrator, and shall transmit a copy of such certification to the administrator, to the division of local government, and to the department of education.

Upon receipt of such notification, such board or body shall make adjustments in the tax levies to ensure compliance with section 29-1-301, C.R.S., if applicable, and may make adjustments in order that the same amount of revenue be raised. A copy of any adjustment to tax levies shall be transmitted to the administrator and assessor. Nothing in this subsection (5) shall be construed as conferring the authority to exceed statutorily imposed mill levy or revenue-raising limits.

(1) In order to effect a refund for any of the purposes set forth in section 20 of article X of the state constitution, any local government may approve and certify a temporary property tax credit or temporary mill levy rate reduction as set forth in this section. The procedures set forth in this section shall be deemed to be a reasonable method for effecting refunds in accordance with section 20 of article X of the state constitution.

(2) Concurrent with the certification of its levy to the board of county commissioners as required pursuant to section 39-5-128 (1), any local government may certify a refund in the form of a temporary property tax credit or temporary mill levy rate reduction. The certification shall include the local government's gross mill levy, the temporary property tax credit or temporary mill levy rate reduction expressed in mill levy equivalents, and the net mill levy, which shall be the gross mill levy less the temporary property tax credit or temporary mill levy rate reduction.

(3) Concurrent with certification to the assessor of all mill levies by the board of county commissioners or other body authorized by law to levy taxes in accordance with section 39-1-111 (2), the board of county commissioners shall certify any other local government's temporary property tax credit or temporary mill levy rate reduction and any temporary property tax credit or temporary mill levy rate reduction for the county or city and county itself, itemized as set forth in subsection (2) of this section.

39-1-113. Abatement and refund of taxes. (1) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (1.5) of this section, no decision on any petition regarding abatement or refund of taxes, as provided for in section 39-10-114, shall be made by the board of county commissioners unless a hearing is had thereon, at which hearing the assessor and the taxpayer shall have the opportunity to be present. The board may appoint independent referees who are experienced in property valuation to conduct the hearing on behalf of the board, to make findings, and to submit recommendations to the board for its final decision.

(1.5) Upon authorization by the board of county commissioners, the assessor may review petitions for abatement or refund and settle by written mutual agreement any such petition for abatement or refund in an amount of ten thousand dollars or less per tract, parcel, or lot of land or per schedule of personal property. Any abatement or refund agreed upon and settled pursuant to this subsection (1.5) shall not be subject to the requirements of subsection (1) of this section.

(3) Whenever any abatement or refund in an amount in excess of ten thousand dollars is recommended by the board of county commissioners, two copies of an application therefor, reciting the amount of such abatement or refund and the grounds upon which it should be allowed, shall be submitted to the administrator for review pursuant to section 39-2-116. Notice shall be provided by sending to such person through the United States mail notification of the date, time, and place of the hearing.

(6) Notwithstanding any law to the contrary, for taxes levied on and after January 1, 1990, a taxpayer may file a petition for abatement or refund of taxes levied on property if the valuation of such property was the subject of an arbitration hearing pursuant to section 39-8-108.5 and the arbitrator presiding over such hearing failed to deliver a decision to the taxpayer prior to the beginning date of the period during which the assessor sits to hear all objections and protests concerning the valuation of such property in the year following the year in which such arbitration hearing was held.

ANNOTATION

Where this section and § 39-10-114 protect taxpayer's due process rights. Where taxpayer complained that county assessor had failed to give the required timely notice of an increased assessment, thus depriving him of his statutory right to litigate validity of the assessment before paying tax, no federally guaranteed rights were abridged because the abatement and refund procedures of this section and § 39-10-114 allowed plain, adequate, and complete remedy, thus fully protecting the taxpayer's due process rights. Lamm v. Barber, 192 Colo. 511, 565 P.2d 538 (1977).

Prior to suit, taxpayer must exhaust administrative remedies. The remedies contained in § 39-10-114, relating to procedures for abatement or cancellation of taxes and this section are complete and adequate; thus, prior to commencing suit on illegal taxation issues, taxpayers are required to exhaust the administrative remedies detailed in these sections. Davison v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 41 Colo. App. 344, 585 P.2d 315 (1978); Southern Cafeteria, Inc. v. Prop. Tax Adm'r, 677 P.2d 362 (Colo. App. 1983).

By approving taxpayer's petition "conditionally" or otherwise and submitting it to the property tax administrator for further action, the board of county commissioners' procedural rights as a party ended under the statutory scheme governing abatement and refund proceedings. Huerfano County Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Atlantic Richfield Co., 976 P.2d 893 (Colo. App. 1999).

When section applies. This section applies to the refund of taxes paid under § 39-8-109 after a taxpayer who sought administrative relief under § 39-5-122 prevailed before the board of assessment appeals or the district court or when property taxes cannot be challenged under § 39-5-122. Bd. of Assessment Appeals v. Benbrook, 735 P.2d 860 (Colo. 1987).

This section and § 39-10-114 provide a remedy for the abatement or refund of taxes that cannot be challenged under § 39-5-122. Valley Country Club v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 778 P.2d 285 (Colo. App. 1989), rev'd on other grounds, 792 P.2d 299 (Colo. 1990).

The abatement procedure may be used to provide taxpayer relief from the overassess-ment of his property in situations where his knowledge of excessive charges is acquired subsequent to the usual statutory deadlines for protest. Valley Country Club v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 778 P.2d 285 (Colo. App. 1989), rev'd on other grounds, 792 P.2d 299 (Colo. 1990).

Board of assessment appeals may conduct de novo review in reviewing taxpayer's appeal from property tax administrator. Bd. of Assessment Appeals v. Valley Country Club, 792 P.2d 299 (Colo. 1990).

Illegal or erroneous tax. Where one owner of a converted condominium, after pursuing administrative remedies under § 39-5-122, obtained a declaration from district court that the imposition of an increased tax on his converted condominium was illegal, petitioners, as owners of identical condominiums were entitled to seek relief under the abatement and refund provisions of this section and § 39-10-114 because the tax had been declared illegal. Bd. of Assessment Appeals v. Benbrook, 735 P.2d 860 (Colo. 1987).

There is no need to characterize the tax paid as wholly illegal before the taxpayer may obtain abatement and refund. Bd. of Assessment Appeals v. Benbrook, 735 P.2d 860 (Colo. 1987).

Refund statute not applicable where property has been assessed improperly because of taxpayer's error in reporting and where taxpayer did not make a timely objection. Coquina Oil v. Larimer Co. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 770 P.2d 1207 (Colo. 1989).

Where error is due at least in part to the taxing authority, a taxpayer can recover a refund under the clerical error provision of this section, after the time to protest under § 39-5-122 has passed. Coquina Oil Corp. v. Bd. of Equaliz., 770 P.2d 1196 (Colo. 1989).

39-1-114. Who may administer oath. Whenever any fact, matter, or thing is required by the provisions of articles 1 to 13 of this title to be verified by oath or affirmation, any assessor, treasurer, or county clerk and recorder, or a deputy of any of said officers may administer such oath or affirmation. The deputy need not certify the oath in the name of the principal.

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

Records conclusive unless refuted. Where personalty, shown to have existed during the years in question, but nevertheless omitted from the assessment rolls for those years, is discovered and assessed, the owner who contends that the property was properly omitted from the assessment rolls has the burden of proving his contention, failing in which, the record evidence showing assessment must be taken as conclusive. McGuire v. Schwartz, 101 Colo. 310, 73 P.2d 389 (1937).

Limitation on presumption created by section. Where personalty discovered in decedent's possession at the time of her death had not been reported in the personal property returns of decedent in the year of her death or the preceding years, the presumption created by this section will not support a presumption, advanced by the manager of revenue, in a suit for personal property taxes, that decedent made false returns concerning personalty which she, in fact, owned, nor does it shift the burden of proof to the defendant executor of decedent's estate. Brodhead v. Robinson, 127 Colo. 116, 254 P.2d 857 (1953).

If it is determined upon this accounting that a refund is due to the lessee for overpayment of personal property taxes, the lessor shall make such refund to the lessee on or before August 31 of the year in which the tax is due.

Complaints shall be in writing and may be filed only by a taxing authority in a county or by any taxpayer. Complaints may be filed only with respect to property located in the county in which the taxing authority levies taxes or in which the taxpayer owns taxable property. 39-2-114. Reappraisal - when - procedures. (1) Whenever the administrator petitions the state board of equalization for its order of reappraisal of any class or subclass of taxable property for the following taxable year, the administrator shall send a copy of such petition to the assessor of the county in which such class or subclass of taxable property is located. The petition of reappraisal shall include the reasons for such reappraisal, and the administrator has the duty to establish to the satisfaction of the state board of equalization the need for such reappraisal. The state board of equalization shall conduct a hearing on such petition, at which hearing the assessors shall attend and shall give such testimony and present such evidence as the state board of equalization may require.

(2) At the hearing on the petition for reappraisal, the affected county assessor shall have the opportunity to appear, to produce testimony and evidence, and to cross-examine witnesses. The decision of the state board of equalization shall be delivered in writing no later than the close of business on November 15.

(3) If such reappraisal is ordered by the state board of equalization, the property tax administrator shall direct the staff of the division of property taxation, working jointly with the assessor of such county, to reappraise such property, and the value so determined shall be the actual value of the taxable property in such county for the next taxable year. The results of the reappraisal shall be filed with the property tax administrator no later than the close of business on the last working day in May of the year in which the reappraised values shall be effective, and a copy thereof shall be filed with the assessor.

(4) The affected assessor, board of county commissioners, town, city, school district, or special district, or any taxpayer resident therein, or any of them, may appeal the reappraised value to the state board of equalization by petition filed with the state board of equalization no later than the tenth day of June next following. Upon appeal, the assessor and any other petitioner shall have the right to appear, produce testimony and evidence, and cross-examine witnesses.

(b) Repealed.

(2) Upon receipt of the abstracts of assessment from the assessors of the several counties of the state, the administrator shall examine and review each such abstract. If he finds from the abstract of any county that any or all of the various classes or subclasses of real and personal property located in such county have not been valued for assessment by the use of all manuals, factors, formulas, and other directives required by law, the administrator shall determine the amount of increase or decrease in valuation for assessment of such class or subclass necessary to conform to such requirements and shall file a complaint with the state board of equalization specifying the amount recommended to be added to or deducted from the valuation for assessment of such class or subclass of property in such county for the following taxable year.

39-2-116. Approval of tax abatement or refund. The administrator shall review each application submitted by the board of county commissioners or the board of equalization of any county for abatement or refund of taxes, and, if all of such application is found to be in proper form and recommended in conformity with the law, the application shall be approved; otherwise, it shall be disapproved, in which case the disapproval may be appealed to the board pursuant to section 39-2-125 (1) (b). If only a portion of such application is found to be in proper form and recommended in conformity with the law, the administrator shall approve such part and disapprove the remainder of the application, in which case the disapproved portion may be appealed to the board pursuant to section 39-2-125 (1) (b).

39-2-117. Applications for exemption - review - annual reports - procedures - rules. (1) (a) (I) Every application filed on or after January 1, 1990, claiming initial exemption of real and personal property from general taxation pursuant to the provisions of sections 39-3-106 to 39-3-113 and 39-3-116 shall be made on forms prescribed and furnished by the administrator, shall contain such information as specified in paragraph (b) of this subsection (1), and shall be signed by the owner of such property or his or her authorized agent under the penalty of perjury in the second degree and, except as otherwise provided in this paragraph (a), shall be accompanied by a payment of one hundred seventy-five dollars, which shall be credited to the property tax exemption fund created in subsection (8) of this section. The administrator shall examine and review each application submitted, and, if it is determined that the exemption therein claimed is justified and in accordance with the intent of the law, the exemption shall be granted, the same to be effective upon such date in the year of application as the administrator shall determine, but in no event shall the exemption apply to any year prior to the year preceding the year in which application is made. The decision of the administrator shall be issued in writing and a copy thereof furnished to the applicant and to the assessor, treasurer, and board of county commissioners of the county in which the property is located.

(II) On all properties for which an application is pending in the office of the administrator, taxes shall not be due and payable until such determination has been made. Such property shall not be listed for the tax sale, and no delinquent interest will be charged on any portion of the exemption that is denied.

(III) No later than June 1 of each year, the administrator shall provide to the assessor, treasurer, and board of county commissioners of each county a list of all applications for property tax exemption currently pending in the office of the administrator.

(b) (I) Any users of real and personal property for which exemption from general taxation is requested pursuant to any of the provisions of sections 39-3-107 to 39-3-113 may be required to provide such information as the property tax administrator determines to be necessary.

(II) Except as otherwise provided in this subparagraph (II), any application filed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) claiming exemption from taxation pursuant to section 39-3-106 or 39-3-106.5 shall contain the following information: The legal description and address of the real property or the address of the personal property being claimed as exempt; the name and address of the owner of such property; the name and telephone number of the agent of such property; the date the owner acquired such property;

the date the owner commenced using the property for religious purposes; a complete list of all uses of the property other than by the owner thereof during the previous twelve months; the total amount of gross income specified in section 39-3-106.5 (1) (b) (I) and the total amount of gross rental income resulting to the owner of such property during the previous twelve months from uses for purposes other than the purposes specified in sections 39-3-106 to 39-3-113; and the total number of hours during the previous twelve months that such property was used for purposes other than the purposes specified in sections 39-3-106 to 39-3-113. For purposes of this subparagraph (II), if the owner did not own the property being claimed as exempt during the entire twelve-month period prior to filing such application, the application shall contain the required information for that portion of the twelve-month period for which such property was owned by the owner making application. Such application shall also include a declaration that sets forth the religious mission and religious purposes of the owner of the property being claimed as exempt and the uses of such property that are in the furtherance of such mission and purposes. Such declaration shall be presumptive as to the religious purposes for which such property is used. If the administrator is unable to determine whether the property qualifies for exemption based solely on the information specified in this subparagraph (II), the administrator may require additional information, but only to the extent that the additional information is necessary to determine the exemption status of the property. The administrator may challenge any declaration included in the application only upon the grounds that the religious mission and purposes are not religious beliefs sincerely held by the owner of such property, that the property being claimed as exempt is not actually used for the purposes set forth in such application, or that the property being claimed as exempt is used for private gain or corporate profit.

(III) Any application filed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) claiming exemption from taxation pursuant to section 39-3-116 shall contain such information specified in subparagraphs (I) and (II) of this paragraph (b) as is applicable for the purposes for which such property is used.

(2) No assessor shall classify any real or personal property as being exempt from taxation pursuant to the provisions of sections 39-3-106 to 39-3-113 or 39-3-116 in any year unless the application for exemption for the current year has been reviewed and has been granted as provided for by law, nor shall any assessor classify any real or personal property as being taxable after having been notified in writing that such property has been determined to be exempt from taxation by the property tax administrator.

(3) (a) (I) On and after January 1, 1990, and no later than April 15 of each year, every owner of real or personal property for which exemption from general taxation has previously been granted shall file a report with the administrator upon forms furnished by the division, containing such information relative to the exempt property as specified in paragraph (b) of this subsection (3), and signed under the penalty of perjury in the second degree. Each such annual report shall be accompanied by a payment of seventy-five dollars, which shall be credited to the property tax exemption fund created in subsection (8) of this section. Each such annual report filed later than April 15, but prior to July 1, shall be accompanied by a late filing fee of two hundred fifty dollars; except that the administrator shall have the authority to waive all or a portion of the late filing fee for good cause shown as determined by the administrator by rules adopted pursuant to subsection (7) of this section. On and after January 1, 1990, every owner of real or personal property for which exemption from general taxation has previously been granted pursuant to the provisions of section 39-3-111 and that is used for any purpose other than the purposes specified in sections 39-3-106 to 39-3-113 for less than two hundred eight hours during the calendar year or if the use of the property for such purposes results in annual gross rental income to such owner of less than twenty-five thousand dollars shall not be required to file any annual report pursuant to the provisions of this subsection (3). In order to claim such exemption, in lieu of such annual report, the owner shall annually file with the administrator a declaration stating that the property is used for such purposes for less than two hundred eight hours during the calendar year or such use results in annual gross rental income to the owner of less than twenty-five thousand dollars.

(II) In the event an annual report is not received by June 1 from an owner of real or personal property for which an exemption was granted for the previous year pursuant to the provisions of sections 39-3-107 to 39-3-113 or 39-3-116, the administrator shall give notice in writing to such property owner by June 15 that failure to comply by July 1 shall operate as a forfeiture of any right to claim exemption of previously exempt property from general taxation for the current year. Failure to timely file such annual report on or before July 1 shall operate as a forfeiture of any right to claim exemption of such property from general taxation for the year in which such failure occurs, unless an application is timely filed and an exemption granted pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section. The administrator shall review each report filed to determine if such property continues to qualify for exemption, and, if it is determined that the property does not so qualify, the owner of such property shall be notified in writing of the disqualification, and the assessor, treasurer, and board of county commissioners of the county in which the property is located shall also be so notified.

(III) In the event an annual report is not received by June 1 from an owner of real or personal property for which an exemption was granted for the previous year pursuant to the provisions of section 39-3-106 or 39-3-106.5, the administrator shall give notice in writing to such property owner by June 15 that failure to file a delinquent report during a twelve-month period commencing the following July 1 shall operate as the forfeiture of any right to claim exemption of previously exempt property from general taxation for the year in which such notice is given. Upon the filing of the delinquent annual report, a late filing fee of two hundred fifty dollars shall be paid, which shall be credited to the property tax exemption fund created in subsection (8) of this section; except that the administrator shall have the authority to waive all or a portion of the late filing fee for good cause shown as determined by the administrator by rules adopted pursuant to subsection (7) of this section. Failure to file the delinquent annual report within the twelve-month period shall result in the forfeiture of any right to claim exemption of such property from general taxation for the year in which such failure to file the annual report first occurred. The administrator shall review each report filed to determine if the property continues to qualify for exemption, and, if it is determined that the property does not so qualify, the owner of the property shall be notified in writing of the disqualification, and the assessor, treasurer, and board of county commissioners of the county in which the property is located shall also be so notified.

(b) (I) Any user of property which has been exempted pursuant to the provisions of sections 39-3-107 to 39-3-113 may be required to provide such information as the property tax administrator determines to be necessary in order to ascertain whether the users and usages of the property are in compliance with the provisions of said sections.

(II) (A) Except as otherwise provided in sub-subparagraph (B) of this subparagraph (II), any annual report filed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) claiming exemption from taxation pursuant to section 39-3-106 or 39-3-106.5 shall contain the following information: The legal description or address of the property being claimed as exempt; the name and address of the owner of such property; a complete list of all uses of such property other than by the owner thereof during the previous calendar year; the amount of total gross income specified in section 39-3-106.5 (1) (b) (I) and the total amount of gross rental income resulting from uses of such property that are not for the purposes set forth in sections 39-3-106 to 39-3-113; and the total number of hours that such property was used for purposes other than the purposes specified in sections 39-3-106 to 39-3-113. Such annual report shall also include a declaration of the religious mission and purposes of the owner of such property claimed as being exempt and the uses of such property that are in the furtherance of such mission and purposes. Such declaration shall be presumptive as to the religious mission and religious purposes of the owner of such property. If the administrator is unable to determine whether the property continues to qualify for exemption based solely on the information specified in this subparagraph (II), the administrator may require additional information, but only to the extent that the additional information is necessary to determine the exemption status of the property. The administrator may challenge any declaration included in such annual report only upon the grounds that the religious mission and purposes are not religious beliefs sincerely held by the owner of such property, that such property is not actually used for the purposes set forth in the annual report, or that the property being claimed as exempt is used for private gain or corporate profit.

(B) For the purposes of sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (II), if the owner of property being claimed as exempt did not own such property during the entire previous calendar year, the annual report filed by such owner shall contain the information required in sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (II) for that portion of the previous calendar year during which such property was owned by such owner.

(III) Any annual report filed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) claiming exemption from taxation pursuant to section 39-3-116 shall contain such information specified in subparagraphs (I) and (II) of this paragraph (b) as is applicable for the purposes for which such property is used.

(4) If, subsequent to the time that exemption of any property was initially granted or annually renewed, as provided in subsections (1) and (3) of this section, it is determined that such exemption was granted or renewed as the result of false or misleading information contained in the initial application, the annual report, or any false information provided by owners or users of such property, then the property tax administrator shall revoke the exemption, and taxes shall be assessed against such property for the year or years affected by such false or misleading information, and all delinquent interest provided by law shall apply to such taxes.

(5) (a) (I) If the administrator tentatively determines that the property does not so qualify, except for the disqualification for failure to file an annual report required in subsection (3) of this section, he shall notify, by certified mail, the owner of such property of his tentative determination. The administrator shall also notify the owner of the owner's right to a public hearing, as provided for in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a).

(II) Within thirty days after the issuance of a tentative determination, the owner may request a public hearing regarding the determination. Upon the making of such a request, the administrator or his designees shall provide said owner with a public hearing at which said owner and any users of the property other than the owner, if their use is relevant to the determination of whether the property is exempt, shall be heard if they so desire. Such hearing shall be held no later than ninety days following the issuance of the tentative determination.

(III) Upon the conclusion of such hearing, the administrator shall provide the owner and any users sixty days within which to comply, so as to retain the exemption. If the owner fails to comply within sixty days, the administrator shall notify the owner in writing that the property has been disqualified.

(IV) The owner may waive his right to a public hearing by filing with the administrator a written statement that said right is waived. Upon receipt of such waiver, the administrator shall issue a final determination, in writing, which notifies the owner that the property does not qualify for exemption.

(V) If the owner does not request a public hearing, as provided for in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a), or does not file a waiver of his right to a public hearing, as provided for in subparagraph (IV) of this paragraph (a), the administrator shall provide the owner sixty days from the issuance of the tentative determination to file any additional information relevant to the determination of whether the property is exempt. At the conclusion of such sixty-day period, the administrator shall issue a final determination, in writing, which notifies the owner whether the property qualifies for exemption.

(b) An appeal from any decision of the administrator may be taken by the board of county commissioners of the county wherein such property is located, or by any owner of taxable property in such county, or by the owner of the property for which exemption is claimed if exemption has been denied or revoked in full or in part. Any such appeal shall be taken to the board of assessment appeals pursuant to the provisions of section 39-2-125 no later than thirty days following the decision of the administrator.

(6) If the decision of the board is against the petitioner, the petitioner may petition the court of appeals for judicial review thereof according to the Colorado appellate rules and the provisions of section 24-4-106 (11), C.R.S. If the decision of the board is against the respondent, the respondent, upon the recommendation of the board that it is a matter of statewide concern, may petition the court of appeals for judicial review according to the Colorado appellate rules and the provisions of section 24-4-106 (11), C.R.S.

(7) The administrator shall adopt rules to implement the provisions of this section pursuant to the provisions of article 4 of title 24, C.R.S., including any rules necessary to specify what shall qualify as "good cause shown" for purposes of waiving all or a portion of the late filing fees specified in subparagraphs (I) and (III) of paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of this section.

(8) All fees collected pursuant to this section shall be transmitted to the state treasurer who shall credit such revenues to the property tax exemption fund, which fund is hereby created in the state treasury. The moneys in the fund shall be subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly for the direct and indirect costs of the administration of this article.

Law reviews. For article, "Property Tax Exemptions for Religious And Nonprofit Organizations", see 18 Colo. Law. 1939 (1989). For article, "Colorado State and Local Tax Exemptions for Charitable Organizations-Part I", see 28 Colo. Law. 57 (November 1999).

Exemption from property tax is initiated at state level, rather than county level, by filing an application for exemption with the property tax administrator. West-Brandt Found., Inc. v. Carper, 199 Colo. 334, 608 P.2d 339 (1980).

Property tax exemptions are determined on an annual basis under the property tax scheme, based on the use of the property in each tax year. St. Mark Coptic Orthodox Church v. State Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 762 P.2d 775 (Colo. App. 1988); Pilgrim Rest Baptist Church, Inc. v. Prop. Tax Adm'r, 971 P.2d 270 (Colo. App. 1998).

Implicit within the property tax scheme is a requirement that in order for the property to qualify for tax exemption for that tax year, there must be at least some actual use of the property for tax exempt purposes in that tax year. Pilgrim Rest Baptist Church, Inc. v. Prop. Tax Adm'r, 971 P.2d 270 (Colo. App. 1998).

County not indispensable party in appeal of exemption denial. The county in which the affected property is located is not an indispensable party in an appeal to the state board of assessment appeals of the property tax administrator's denial of exemption. West-Brandt Found., Inc. v. Carper, 199 Colo. 334, 608 P.2d 339 (1980).

The procedure for determining the running of the thirty-day period in this section prevails over § 24-4-105 which deals generally with administrative proceedings. Colo. Rocky Mtn. Sch., Inc. v. Shriver, 689 P.2d 651 (Colo. App. 1984).

Under subsection (6), only the district court in the county where the property is situated has subject matter jurisdiction over appeals of administrative decisions concerning exemptions. The district court in which the property was situated did not have subject matter jurisdiction over a case on appeal because Plaintiff did not timely perfect the review proceedings in said court. Instead, the complaint for review was filed in another district court which did not have subject matter jurisdiction and which attempted to transfer the case to the proper district court. Mile High United Way v. Assessment App., 801 P.2d 3 (Colo. App. 1990) (decided under law in effect prior to 1990 amendments).

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Appealing Property Tax Assessments", see 15 Colo. Law. 798 (1986).

Board's rules and regulations were not abolished by legislation abolishing existing board and immediately creating a newly constituted one, nor was board required to re-enact, ratify, or promulgate new rules and regulations, since annual legislation by the general assembly specifically postponing the expiration of the board's rules effectively postponed the rules of the "old" board and continued their application under the "new" board. 1st Am. Sav. Bank v. Boulder County, 888 P.2d 360 (Colo. App. 1994).

Board rule requiring parties to exchange witness lists ten days prior to hearing has a legitimate relationship to express statutory provisions since need for the rule is paramount where the board's procedures do not allow discovery. 1st Am. Sav. Bank v. Boulder County, 888 P.2d 360 (Colo. App. 1994).

Board abused its discretion in denying the right to call a witness it had inadvertently omitted from its witness list where taxpayer's attorney had implicit knowledge of the witness and subject matter of the witness' testimony and no prejudice was claimed if the testimony was allowed. 1st Am. Sav. Bank v. Boulder County, 888 P.2d 360 (Colo. App. 1994).

39-2-124. Executive director to furnish employees and clerical assistance. Clerical assistance and such employees as are necessary shall be furnished for the board by the executive director of the department of local affairs.

39-2-125. Duties of the board. (1) The board of assessment appeals shall perform the following duties, such performance to be in accordance with the applicable provisions of article 4 of title 24, C.R.S.:

(a) Adopt procedures of practice before and procedures of review by the board;

(b) (I) Hear appeals from orders and decisions of the property tax administrator filed not later than thirty days after the entry of any such order or decision.

(II) Such hearings shall include evidence as to the rationale of such order or decision and the detailed data in support thereof.

(c) Hear appeals from decisions of county boards of equalization filed not later than thirty days after the entry of any such decision. Appeal decisions shall be rendered within thirty days after the date of hearing or by the last day of the same calendar year, whichever is the earlier date. However, if, as a result of an extraordinary work load, all hearings cannot be completed before the last day of the same calendar year, the general assembly may, by appropriation, provide for the following:

(I) The appointment of up to six additional members to the board in the same manner as specified in section 39-2-123 (2). Such members shall satisfy such qualifications and shall be entitled to such compensation as are specified in section 39-2-123. Such additional members shall be appointed for terms of one state fiscal year each.

(II) The authorization for the board to schedule hearings for a period of time not to exceed the time for which such appropriation is made; and

(III) The hiring of additional personnel on a contract basis for the members of the board appointed pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c) and to assist in handling such caseload.

(d) Repealed.

(e) Hear appeals from determinations by county assessors when a county board of equalization or an assessor has failed to respond within the time provided by statute to an appeal properly filed by a taxpayer;

(f) Hear appeals from decisions of boards of county commissioners filed not later than thirty days after the entry of any such decision when a claim for refund or abatement of taxes is denied in full or in part;

(g) Repealed.

(h) Collect any filing fee that shall accompany a taxpayer's request for a hearing before the board pursuant to this section. All fees collected by the board shall be transmitted to the state treasurer, who shall credit the same to the general fund. Any request for a hearing before the board pursuant to sections 39-2-117 (5) (b), 39-4-108 (8), 39-8-108 (1), and 39-10-114.5 (1) shall be accompanied by a nonrefundable filing fee as follows:

(I) For any person other than a taxpayer pro se, a fee of one hundred one dollars and twenty-five cents for each tract, parcel, or lot of real property and for each schedule of personal property included in such request; except that, if any request for a hearing before the board involves more than one tract, parcel, or lot owned by the same taxpayer and involves the same issue regarding the valuation of such real property, only one filing fee shall be required for such request for a hearing.

(II) For any person who is a taxpayer pro se, for the first two requests for a hearing within a fiscal year, the taxpayer shall not be required to pay a filing fee, and for each additional request within such fiscal year, a fee of thirty-three dollars and seventy-five cents for each tract, parcel, or lot of real property, and for each schedule of personal property included in such request; except that, if any request for a hearing before the board involves more than one tract, parcel, or lot owned by the same taxpayer and involves the same issue regarding the valuation of such real property, only one filing fee shall be required for such request for a hearing.

(1.5) As used in this section, notwithstanding any other law, “taxpayer pro se” includes the trustee of a trust.

(2) Complaints filed by the property tax administrator shall be advanced on the calendar and shall take precedence over other matters pending before the board.

(3) Effective January 1, 1983, the consideration of a property’s market value in the ordinary course of trade and the comparison of a property with other properties of known or recognized value by the board when considering the market approach to appraisal in its review of the determination of a property’s actual value are subject to the provisions of section 39-1-103 (8).

Law reviews. For article, “Property Tax Assessments in Colorado”, see 12 Colo. Law. 563 (1983). For article, “Appealing Property Tax Assessments”, see 15 Colo. Law. 798 (1986). For article, “Property Tax Litigation Before the Board of Assessment Appeals”, see 35 Colo. Law. 87 (August 2006).

Thirty-day requirements of subsection (1)(c). The initial 30-day requirement in subsection (1)(c) relates to the filing of the appeal, and the subsequent one to the rendering of the decision following the hearing before the appeals board. Honeywell Info. Systems v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 654 P.2d 337 (Colo. App. 1982).

The procedure for determining the running of the 30-day period in this section prevails over § 24-4-105 which deals generally with administrative proceedings. Colo. Rocky Mtn. Sch., Inc. v. Shriver, 689 P.2d 651 (Colo. App. 1984).

Board of assessment appeals may conduct a de novo review in reviewing a taxpayer’s appeal from property tax administrator. Bd. of Assessment Appeals v. Valley Country Club, 792 P.2d 299 (Colo. 1990).

Board of assessment appeals has jurisdiction to hear appeals from the county board. Language mandating that the board hear appeals from the county board’s denial of an abatement is based, by necessity, on a concurrent right of the taxpayer to appeal such denial to the board of assessment appeals. 5050 S. Broadway Corporation v. Arapahoe County Bd. of Comm’rs, 815 P.2d 966 (Colo. App. 1991).

Date of presentation of county board of equalization’s resolutions constitutes date of entry for purposes of computing 30-day time period. BQP Industries v. State Bd. of Equalization, 694 P.2d 337 (Colo. App. 1984).

Non-compliance with the 30-day requirement of subsection (1)(c) should be avoided, but it will not constitute reversible error in the absence of any demonstrated damage or prejudice to the taxpayer. Burns v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 820 P.2d 1175 (Colo. App. 1991).

The board's action on taxpayer's administrative appeal is not limited to review of any previous action taken, rather the board is authorized to conduct de novo evidentiary proceedings on the merits in every matter before it including administrative appeals taken from boards of county commissioners in abatement and refund proceedings. D.C. Burns Realty v. Jefferson County, 849 P.2d 900 (Colo. App. 1992).

Apart from timely filing requirement, there are no other statutory jurisdictional requirements for taking administrative appeals before the BAA. Fleisher-Smyth v. Bd. of Assessment App., 865 P.2d 922 (Colo. App. 1993).

Applied in West-Brandt Found., Inc. v. Carper, 199 Colo. 334, 608 P.2d 339 (1980); Lucchesi v. State, 807 P.2d 1185 (Colo. App. 1990).

39-2-126. Delaying effect of decision - when. If the finality of a decision of the board of assessment appeals is suspended until after the last day of the calendar year by a pending judicial review, the property tax valuations for the current year shall be those established by the administrator as to utilities under the provisions of article 4 of this title, or by the county assessor or those approved by the county board of equalization, subject to the refund provisions of section 39-8-109.

(1) The board of assessment appeals shall maintain its headquarters in the city and county of Denver but may transact its official business at any other place within the state. All its sessions shall be open to the public, and full and correct minutes thereof shall be kept, and such minutes shall be a public record open to public inspection.

(2) At the direction of the chairman and with the agreement of the parties before the board, one or more of the members of the board of assessment appeals may conduct hearings in Denver or in a county of closer location to the subject property, administer oaths, examine witnesses, receive evidence, issue subpoenas, and render preliminary decisions subject to concurrence and modification by agreement of at least two members of the board. An additional board member may be added after a hearing to review the evidence and hearing transcript or recording and render a decision in the event the board members who conducted the hearing are unable to reach a decision.

(3) Upon request of any member of the board, legal counsel provided by the office of the attorney general shall attend hearings on appeals before the board and shall advise the board as to matters of procedure, evidence, and law arising in the course of such appeals. Upon the board's own motion, legal counsel shall provide other legal services to the board. When the state property tax administrator is a party to the appeal, such legal counsel shall not be the same legal counsel who advises or represents the state property tax administrator at proceedings before the board.

(4) Any person who is a party in a proceeding before the board may appear on his or her own behalf or be represented by an attorney admitted to practice law in this state or by any other individual of his or her choice. A trust may be represented by an attorney admitted to practice law in this state, by the trustee of the trust, or by the trustee's designee.

(5) The board may permit, in its discretion and upon prior written application, the intervention of another affected party in a matter pending before the board. The board may limit or restrict the participation of an intervenor in such manner as the board, in its discretion, orders.

PROPERTY EXEMPT FROM TAXATION

39-3-101. Legislative declaration - presumption of charitable purpose. The general assembly recognizes that only the judiciary may make a final decision as to whether or not any given property is used for charitable purposes within the meaning of the Colorado constitution; nevertheless, in order to guide members of the public and public officials alike in the making of their day-to-day decisions and to assist in the avoidance of litigation, the general assembly hereby finds, declares, and determines that the uses of property which are set forth in this part 1 as uses for charitable purposes benefit the people of Colorado and lessen the burdens of government by performing services which government would otherwise be required to perform. Therefore, property used for such purposes shall be presumed to be owned and used solely and exclusively for strictly charitable purposes and not for private gain or corporate profit, and, consequently, property used for such purposes is entitled to be exempt from the levy and collection of property tax pursuant to the provisions of this part 1 and the Colorado constitution. This legislative finding, declaration, determination, and presumption shall not be questioned by the administrator and shall be entitled to great weight in any and every court.

Law reviews. For comment on Young Life Campaign v. Chaffee County appearing below, see 29 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 143 (1956).

Annotator's note. The cases annotated under this section were decided under § 39-3-101 (1)(g) as it existed prior to the 1989 repeal and reenactment of this article.

For when home for aged deemed charitable, see Stanbro v. Baptist Home Ass'n of Colo. for Aged, 172 Colo. 572, 475 P.2d 23 (1970).

Charity, in legal sense, defined as gift. A charity, in the legal sense may be more fully defined as a gift to be applied consistently with existing laws for the benefit of an indefinite number of persons by erecting or maintaining public buildings or works or otherwise lessening the burdens of government. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Denver & R. G. R. R. Employees' Relief Ass'n, 70 Colo. 592, 203 P. 850 (1922); Am. Water Works Ass'n v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 38 Colo. App. 341, 563 P.2d 359 (1976).

Charitable exemptions to be liberally construed. While charitable purpose as an end will be strictly construed as long as the end is clearly established as charitable, the means used to achieve that end will be liberally construed as a use for a charitable purpose. West Brandt Found., Inc. v. Carper, 652 P.2d 564 (Colo. 1982).

Statutory provisions exempting from taxation properties used for charitable purposes are liberally construed. Horton v. Colo. Springs Masonic Bldg. Soc'y, 64 Colo. 529, 173 P. 61 (1918).

There is no requirement in this section that the property be owned and used by the same entity. Maurer v. Denver Urban Economic Dev., 781 P.2d 111 (Colo. App. 1989).

Tax exemptions must arise directly from constitutional authorization; and, until such authorization is granted, the legislative branch of the government is impotent. Young Life Campaign v. Chaffee County, 134 Colo. 15, 300 P.2d 535 (1956).

There are no implied tax exemptions. Young Life Campaign v. Chaffee County, 134 Colo. 15, 300 P.2d 535 (1956).

Exemptions from taxation are to be strictly construed and cannot be enlarged by construction. Murray v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 28 Colo. 427, 65 P. 26 (1901); San Luis Power & Water Co. v. Trujillo, 93 Colo. 385, 26 P.2d 537 (1933).

Water treatment facility, built pursuant to a directive issued by the federal environmental protection agency, was not among the types of property specifically exempted from taxation and therefore was not exempt. ASARCO, Inc. v. Bd. of Comm'rs of Lake County, 916 P.2d 550 (Colo. App. 1995).

Charitable exemptions to be liberally construed. While charitable purpose as an end will be strictly construed as long as the end is clearly established as charitable, the means used to achieve that end will be liberally construed as a use for a charitable purpose. West Brandt Found., Inc. v. Carper, 652 P.2d 564 (Colo. 1982).

39-3-102. Household furnishings - exemption. (1) Household furnishings, including free-standing household appliances, wall-to-wall carpeting, an independently owned residential solar electric generation facility, and security devices and systems that are not used for the production of income at any time shall be exempt from the levy and collection of property tax. If any household furnishings are used for the production of income for any period of time during the taxable year, such household furnishings shall be taxable for the entire taxable year. An independently owned residential solar electric generation facility shall not be considered to be used for the production of income unless the facility produces income for the owner of the residential real property on which the facility is located. For property tax purposes only, rebates, offsets, credits, and reimbursements specified in section 40-2-124, C.R.S., shall not constitute the production of income. For purposes of this subsection (1), for property tax purposes only, security devices and systems shall include, but shall not be limited to, security doors, security bars, and alarm systems.

(2) For property tax years commencing on and after January 1, 1990, no work of art, as defined in section 39-1-102 (18), which is not subject to annual depreciation and which would otherwise be exempt under this section shall cease to be exempt because it is stored or displayed on premises other than a residence.

Irrigation ditch system not taxable separately from land irrigated. A ditch conveying water to a reservoir, whence it is distributed solely for the irrigation of the lands of those entitled to the ditch, is not subject to taxation, separate from the land irrigated: neither is the reservoir nor the bed thereof. Shaw v. Bond, 64 Colo. 366, 171 P. 1142 (1918).

Unless rights retained in ditch by third party. Where a ditch company retains an interest in the ditch with water rights unsold, the ditch is not exempt from taxation. Murray v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 28 Colo. 427, 65 P. 26 (1901).

Water rights deemed improvement to the lands benefitted. Water rights, although represented by stock in a mutual ditch company, are properly classified as an improvement to the land benefitted by the availability of irrigation for purposes of valuation of the real estate for taxes. Beatty v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 101 Colo. 346, 73 P.2d 982 (1937).

ANNOTATION

Property of the fire and police pension association not exempt from taxation under this section. The fire and police pension association (FPPA) is not a political subdivision as defined in § 39-1-102 (12) and the general assembly has not specifically exempted the FPPA's property from taxation as property of the state. City and County of Denver v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 30 P.3d 177 (Colo. 2001).

39-3-106. Property - religious purposes - exemption - legislative declaration.

(1) Property, real and personal, which is owned and used solely and exclusively for religious purposes and not for private gain or corporate profit shall be exempt from the levy and collection of property tax.

(2) In order to guide members of the public and public officials alike in the making of their day-to-day decisions, to provide for a consistent application of the laws, and to assist in the avoidance of litigation, the general assembly hereby finds and declares that religious worship has different meanings to different religious organizations; that the constitutional guarantees regarding establishment of religion and the free exercise of religion prevent public officials from inquiring as to whether particular activities of religious organizations constitute religious worship; that many activities of religious organizations are in the furtherance of the religious purposes of such organizations; that such religious activities are an integral part of the religious worship of religious organizations; and that activities of religious organizations which are in furtherance of their religious purposes constitute religious worship for purposes of section 5 of article X of the Colorado constitution. This legislative finding and declaration shall be entitled to great weight in any and every court.

(3) For the purpose of claiming an exemption pursuant to this section, property that is owned and used by a charitable trust that is exempt from taxation under section 501 (c) (3) of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended, shall be treated the same as property that is owned and used by any other type of nonprofit organization.

Annotator's note. Since § 39-3-106 is similar to § 39-3-101 (1)(e) as it existed prior to the 1989 repeal and reenactment of this article, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

Exemption not perpetual. The exemption provided by article X, § 5 of the state constitution is not perpetual and does not run with the land but is dependent upon the use to which the property is put. St. Mark Coptic Orthodox Church v. State Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 762 P.2d 775 (Colo. App. 1988).

Distinction must be made between charitable and religious exemptions. A religious group does not have as a fundamental purpose the providing of services which the state would otherwise have to provide since the state is constitutionally prohibited from such religious involvement. General Conference of Church of God—7th Day v. Carper, 192 Colo. 178, 557 P.2d 832 (1976).

Constitutionality of tax exemptions for religious organizations. Tax exemptions for religious organizations, in and of themselves, do not violate the establishment clause of the federal constitution. General Conference of Church of God—7th Day v. Carper, 192 Colo. 178, 557 P.2d 832 (1976).

But tax incentives that inure only to the benefit of religious organizations solely by virtue of their religious nature do violate the establishment clause. Catholic Health Initiatives Colo. v. City of Pueblo, 207 P.3d 812 (Colo. 2009).

One seeking an exemption must comply with the statutory prerequisites for qualification. St. Mark Coptic Orthodox Church v. State Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 762 P.2d 775 (Colo. App. 1988).

The test for determining whether the exemption for property used for religious worship applies depends upon the character of the use to which the property is put. St. Mark Coptic Orthodox Church v. State Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 762 P.2d 775 (Colo. App. 1988); Maurer v. Young Life, 779 P.2d 1317 (Colo. 1989); Pilgrim Rest Baptist Church, Inc. v. Property Tax Adm'r, 971 P.2d 270 (Colo. App. 1998).

Property tax exemptions based on religious use should not be narrowly construed, and each claim for tax exemption must be resolved on the basis of its own facts under the applicable legal standards. Maurer v. Young Life, 779 P.2d 1317 (Colo. 1989); Bd. of Assessment Appeals v. AM/FM Int'l, 940 P.2d 338 (Colo. 1997); Pilgrim Rest Baptist Church, Inc. v. Property Tax Adm'r, 971 P.2d 270 (Colo. App. 1998).

Implicit within the property tax scheme is a requirement that in order for the property to qualify for tax exemption for that tax year, there must be at least some actual use of the property for tax exempt purposes in that tax year. Pilgrim Rest Baptist Church, Inc. v. Property Tax Adm'r, 971 P.2d 270 (Colo. App. 1998).

Court declines to hold, as a matter of law, that any particular frequency or quantity of use religious in character is required to satisfy the constitutional and statutory standards for an exemption based on religious use. Pilgrim Rest Baptist Church, Inc. v. Property Tax Adm'r, 971 P.2d 270 (Colo. App. 1998).

Church failed to sustain its burden of establishing its right to a tax exemption for maintenance building and property on which it was located. First Christian Church v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 711 P.2d 721 (Colo. App. 1985).

Although board must examine the use to which property is put and not the character of the owner, board permissibly considered the character of the property owner in concluding that properties were used for religious worship and reflection. Maurer v. Young Life, 779 P.2d 1317 (Colo. 1989).

Board is permitted and properly concluded that any nonreligious aspects of the activities conducted on properties were incidental to the religious worship and reflection purposes for which the owner claimed such properties were used. Maurer v. Young Life, 779 P.2d 1317 (Colo. 1989).

Thus, social benefit analysis inapplicable to religious groups. While a social benefit analysis may have validity in the determination of charitable exemptions, it has no place in the state's evaluation of its treatment of bona fide religious groups. General Conference of Church of God—7th Day v. Carper, 192 Colo. 178, 557 P.2d 832 (1976).

For broad interpretation of charitable and religious tax exemptions, see General Conference of Church of God—7th Day v. Carper, 192 Colo. 178, 557 P.2d 832 (1976).

Religious group entitled to presumption of use consistent with exemption. Where a church organization has no objectives other than religious, charitable, and educational, it is entitled to the benefit of the presumption that when its building is completed, it will be used exclusively for religious purposes. McGlone v. First Baptist Church, 97 Colo. 427, 50 P.2d 547 (1935).

39-3-106.5. Tax-exempt property - incidental use - exemption - limitations. (1) If any property, real or personal, which is otherwise exempt from the levy and collection of property tax pursuant to the provisions of section 39-3-106, is used for any purpose other than the purposes specified in sections 39-3-106 to 39-3-113, such property shall be exempt from the levy and collection of property tax if:

(a) The property is used for such purposes for less than two hundred eight hours, adjusted for partial usage if necessary on the basis of the relationship that the amount of time and space used for such other purpose bears to the total available time and space, during the calendar year; or

(b) The use of the property for such purposes results in either:

(I) Less than ten thousand dollars of gross income to the owner of such property which is derived from any unrelated trade or business, as determined pursuant to the provisions of sections 511 to 513 of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended; or

(II) Less than ten thousand dollars of gross rental income to the owner of such property.

(1.5) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (1) of this section, for property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1994, if any property, real or personal, which is otherwise exempt from the levy and collection of property tax pursuant to the provisions of section 39-3-106, is used for any purpose other than the purposes specified in sections 39-3-106 to 39-3-113, such property shall be exempt from the levy and collection of property tax if:

(a) The property is used for such purposes for less than two hundred eight hours, adjusted for partial usage if necessary on the basis of the relationship that the amount of time and space used for such other purpose bears to the total available time and space, during the calendar year; or

(b) The use of the property for such purposes results in:

(I) Less than ten thousand dollars of gross income to the owner of such property which is derived from any unrelated trade or business, as determined pursuant to the provisions of sections 511 to 513 of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended; and

(II) Less than ten thousand dollars of gross rental income to the owner of such property.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in section 39-3-108 (3) and subsection (3) of this section, if any property, real or personal, that is otherwise exempt from the levy and collection of property tax pursuant to the provisions of sections 39-3-107 to 39-3-113 is used on an occasional, noncontinuous basis for any purpose other than the purposes specified in sections 39-3-106 to 39-3-113, such property shall be exempt from the levy and collection of property tax if:

(a) The property is used for such purposes for less than two hundred eight hours, adjusted for partial usage if necessary on the basis of the relationship that the amount of time and space used for such other purpose bears to the total available time and space, during the calendar year; or

(b) The use of the property for such purposes results in less than twenty-five thousand dollars of gross rental income to the owner of such property.

(3) The requirement that property be used on an occasional basis in order to qualify for the exemption set forth in subsection (2) of this section shall not apply to property, real or personal, that is otherwise exempt from the levy and collection of property tax pursuant to the provisions of section 39-3-111 that is used for any purpose other than the purposes specified in sections 39-3-106 to 39-3-113.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 39-3-107 is similar to § 39-3-101 (1)(f) as it existed prior to the 1989 repeal and reenactment of this article, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

Validity of section upheld. The validity of this section exempting from taxation educational and charitable institutions is upheld on the ground that if they were not in existence their work would have to be carried on at the expense of the taxpayers. Kemp v. Pillar of Fire, 94 Colo. 41, 27 P.2d 1036 (1933); United Presbyterian Ass'n v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 167 Colo. 485, 448 P.2d 967 (1968).

Educational and charitable exemptions upheld on grounds of benefit to citizens. An institution or nonprofit organization, either domestic or foreign, is entitled to the constitutional and statutory tax exemption if its property in this state is used solely and exclusively for schools or for strictly charitable purposes, thus relieving Colorado taxpayers of the burden and expense of providing such advantages to its citizens. Young Life Campaign v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 134 Colo. 15, 300 P.2d 535 (1956).

Determination of exemption based on all proper and appropriate uses. Because the fundamental object of this section is to exempt school property used for educational purposes, the uses permissible must necessarily embrace all which are proper and appropriate to effect the objects of the institution claiming the benefits of the exemption. Bishop & Chapter of Cathedral of St. John the Evangelist v. Treasurer of Arapahoe County, 29 Colo. 143, 68 P. 272 (1901); Horton v. Fountain Valley Sch., 98 Colo. 480, 56 P.2d 933 (1936).

Use incident to main purpose insufficient to alter exempt status. A use incident to the main purpose for which the property is held is not enough to lose tax exemption. Occupation of part of school premises by a bishop and his family does not render the property subject to taxation so long as his dominant purpose in residing therein is to carry out the educational objects of the institution. Bishop & Chapter of Cathedral of St. John the Evangelist v. Treasurer of Arapahoe County, 29 Colo. 143, 68 P. 272 (1901).

Exemption unaffected by receipt of part tuition. The fact that some money is received from a few students as part payment for their tuition, board, and lodging does not, in the circumstances, deprive the property of its exempt character. Kemp v. Pillar of Fire, 94 Colo. 41, 27 P.2d 1036 (1933).

39-3-108. Property - nonresidential - health care facility - water company - charitable purposes - exemption - limitations. (1) Property, real and personal, which is owned and used solely and exclusively for strictly charitable purposes and not for private gain or corporate profit shall be exempt from the levy and collection of property tax if:

- (a) Such property is nonresidential;
- (b) Such property is licensed by the state of Colorado as a health care facility; or
- (c) Such property is used as an integral part of a nonprofit domestic water company.

(1.3) Nonresidential property that is owned and used solely and exclusively by a qualified amateur sports organization shall be presumed to be owned and used solely and exclusively for strictly charitable purposes. For purposes of this subsection (1.3), the term "qualified amateur sports organization" means any organization organized and operated exclusively to foster local, statewide, national, or international amateur sports competition if such organization is also organized and operated primarily to support and develop amateur athletes for national or international competition in sports; except that no part of the net earnings of such organization inure to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual. So long as a qualified amateur sports organization demonstrates that its membership is open to any individual who is an amateur athlete, coach, trainer, manager, administrator, or official active in such sport or to any amateur sports organization that conducts programs in such sport, or both, the organization shall be presumed to provide public benefits to an indefinite number of persons and to directly benefit the people of Colorado whether or not the right to benefit may depend upon voluntary membership in the organization.

(1.5) No requirement shall be imposed that use of property which is otherwise exempt pursuant to the provisions of this section shall benefit the people of Colorado in order to qualify for said exemption.

(2) Any exemption claimed pursuant to the provisions of subsection (1) of this section shall comply with the provisions of section 39-2-117.

(3) (a) When any property of a health care facility, real or personal, or any portion thereof, which is otherwise exempt from the levy and collection of property tax pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section, is used for any purpose other than the purposes specified in sections 39-3-106 to 39-3-113, such property or portion thereof shall be exempt from the levy and collection of property tax if the use of the property or portion thereof does not result in gross income derived from any unrelated trade or business to the owner which is in excess of fifteen percent of the total gross revenues derived from the operation of the property. Gross income derived from any unrelated trade or business shall be determined pursuant to the provisions of sections 511 through 513 of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended.

(b) If the use of any property or portion thereof results in gross income derived from any unrelated trade or business in excess of fifteen percent of the total gross revenues to the owner derived from the operation of the property, the administrator shall determine the value of the nonexempt portion of the property for property tax purposes.

Annotator's note. Since § 39-3-108 is similar to § 39-3-101 (1)(g) as it existed prior to the 1989 repeal and reenactment of this article, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

One justification for exempting charitable enterprises from taxation is that they perform functions which tax-supported governmental entities would otherwise be required to perform. West Brandt Found., Inc. v. Carper, 652 P.2d 564 (Colo. 1982); Bd. of Assessment Appeals v. AM/FM Int'l, 940 P.2d 338 (Colo. 1997).

Neither art. X, sec. 5 of the state constitution nor this section defines "strictly charitable purposes". Therefore it is for the judiciary to construe their meaning on a case by case basis. Bd. of Assessment Appeals v. AM/FM Int'l, 940 P.2d 338 (Colo. 1997).

Court will not reverse a decision of board of assessment appeals supported by the record finding that an applicant's activities did not lessen a burden on government and that the applicant operates on a quid pro quo basis. Bd. of Assessment Appeals v. AM/FM Int'l, 940 P.2d 338 (Colo. 1997).

Claimant has burden of proof to establish that activity has a charitable purpose and is used solely for such purpose. Inst. For Research v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 748 P.2d 1346 (Colo. App. 1987).

Right to property tax exemption for charitable use has not been established until it is shown that property is nonresidential. Anderson Ranch Arts Found. v. Prop. Tax Adm'r, 729 P.2d 992 (Colo. 1986).

Nonresidential use not found and therefore charitable exemption not applicable. Anderson Ranch Arts Found. v. Prop. Tax Adm'r, 729 P.2d 992 (Colo. 1986).

The 15 percent provision found in subsection (3)(a) does not apply unless the property first qualifies as tax-exempt property under subsection (1)(b). Thus portions of offices that were neither part of a licensed health care facility nor owned by an entity that is a licensed health care facility were not exempt from property taxation. Jefferson County Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Prop. Tax Adm'r, 989 P.2d 227 (Colo. App. 1999).

Exempt status unaffected by receipt of money from beneficiaries. The fact that fees are charged for use of facilities is not fatal to a claim for exemption. West Brandt Found., Inc. v. Carper, 652 P.2d 564 (Colo. 1982).

The national junior college athletic association met all the statutory criteria to constitute a "qualified amateur sports organization" under the provisions of subsection (1.3). Nat'l Jr. Coll. Athletic v. Huddleston, 939 P.2d 509 (Colo. App. 1997).

Gun club did not qualify for a tax exemption pursuant to subsection (1.3), because it did not meet the threshold requirement that it be "organized exclusively" to foster amateur sports competition. Cherry Creek Gun Club, Inc. v. Huddleston, 119 P.3d 592 (Colo. App. 2005).

Evidence insufficient to support claim for exemption. West Brandt Found., Inc. v. Carper, 652 P.2d 564 (Colo. 1982).

The determination as to what portion of such structure is so utilized shall be made by the administrator on the basis of the facts existing on the annual assessment date for such property, and the administrator shall have the authority to determine a ratio which reflects the value of the nonexempt portion of such structure in relation to the total value of the whole structure and the land upon which such structure is located and which is identical to the ratio of the number of residential units occupied by nonqualified occupants to the total number of occupied residential units in such structure.

(2.5) No requirement shall be imposed that use of property which is otherwise exempt pursuant to the provisions of this section shall benefit the people of Colorado in order to qualify for said exemption.

(3) Any exemption claimed pursuant to the provisions of this section shall comply with the provisions of section 39-2-117.

ANNOTATION

Statutory presumption of use for charitable purpose relieves fraternal organization only of its burden to establish such use; however, once the finding of charitable purpose is made, such organization has the burden of showing the irrevocable dedication of the net income of such property to the enumerated statutory uses and purpose set out in this section. Western Slavonic Ass'n v. Prop. Tax Adm'r, 835 P.2d 621 (Colo. App. 1992).

Annotator's note. Since § 39-3-111.5 is similar to § 39-3-101 (1)(g)(I)(D) as it existed prior to the 1989 repeal and reenactment of this article, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

Exempt status unaffected by receipt of money from beneficiaries. (a) The residential structure is:

(I) Occupied as an orphanage; or

(II) Occupied by:

(A) Single individuals who are sixty-two years of age or older or who are disabled, or a family, the head of which, or whose spouse, is sixty-two years of age or older or is disabled, and whose incomes are within one hundred fifty percent of the limits prescribed for similar individuals or families who occupy low-rent public housing operated by a city or county housing authority which is nearest in distance to such structure; or

(B) The provisions of this subparagraph (II) shall not apply if, during such compliance period, such domestic or foreign limited partnership which owns the residential structure distributes income or has income available for distribution to its partners or if the residential structure is sold or otherwise disposed of during such compliance period. If the administrator determines that, as specified in this sub-subparagraph (B), income has been distributed or has been available for distribution or the residential property has been sold or otherwise disposed of, the administrator shall revoke the property tax exemption for the residential property and property taxes shall be levied and collected against the residential property, which would have otherwise been levied and collected from the date on which the exemption was initially granted plus all delinquent interest as provided for by law.

(IV) (A) With respect to elderly or disabled low-income residential facilities or low-income household residential facilities, during any compliance period, as defined by section 42 (i) (1) of the "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended, by any domestic or foreign limited partnership so long as each of the general partners of such limited partnership is a for-profit corporation, seventy-five percent or more of the outstanding voting stock of which is owned by, and seventy-five percent or more of the members of the board of directors of which is elected by, one or more nonprofit corporations that satisfy the provisions of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c) and so long as such limited partnership was formed for the purpose of obtaining, and the structure that is owned by such limited partnership has been allocated, low-income housing credits pursuant to section 42 of the "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended.

(B) The provisions of this subparagraph (IV) shall not apply if, during any compliance period: Any of the general partners of the domestic or foreign limited partnership which owns the residential structure specified in sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (IV) cease to meet the requirements specified in sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (IV); the domestic or foreign limited partnership which owns such residential structure distributes cash or other property to its partners; or such residential structure is sold or otherwise disposed of.

(C) Upon a determination by the administrator that any of the events specified in sub-subparagraph (B) of this subparagraph (IV) have occurred, the administrator shall revoke the property tax exemption for the residential facility specified in sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (IV), and property taxes shall be levied and collected against such residential facility in the amount which would have otherwise been levied and collected from the date on which such exemption was initially granted, and all delinquent interest provided by law shall apply to such taxes.

(D) The provisions of this subparagraph (IV) shall apply to applications for exemption made pursuant to section 39-2-117 which are filed on or after January 1, 1993, or which are pending on such date.

The determination as to what portion of such structure is so utilized shall be made by the administrator on the basis of the facts existing on the annual assessment date for such property, and the administrator shall have the authority to determine a ratio which reflects the value of the nonexempt portion of such structure in relation to the total value of the whole structure and the land upon which such structure is located and which is identical to the ratio of the number of residential units occupied by nonqualified occupants to the total number of occupied residential units in such structure.

(4.5) No requirement shall be imposed that use of property which is otherwise exempt pursuant to the provisions of this section shall benefit the people of Colorado in order to qualify for said exemption.

(5) Any exemption claimed pursuant to the provisions of this section shall comply with the provisions of section 39-2-117.

Requiring ownership as well as use deemed within constitutional authorization. In requiring ownership, as well as use for strictly charitable purposes, the general assembly acted within its power, under § 5, art. X, Colo. Const., to vary, by general law, such exemptions created by the constitution. First Nat'l Bank v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 189 Colo. 128, 538 P.2d 427 (1975).

When there is neither a present charitable use nor the vestige of a building in which such use might be carried on, there is no possible basis for exemption. Grace Calvary Church v. City & County of Denver, 130 Colo. 290, 274 P.2d 983 (1954).

Where unfinished building deemed within exemption. The fact that a building remains in an unfinished state, due to inability to obtain funds to complete it, does not destroy the property's tax exempt status, because of the uses, wholly consistent with the operation of a hospital, to which it is being put pending its completion. City & County of Denver v. Spears Free Clinic Hosp. for Poor Children, 142 Colo. 347, 350 P.2d 1057 (1960).

39-3-113.5. Property acquired by nonprofit housing provider for low-income housing - use for charitable purposes - exemption - limitations - definitions. (1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) “Area median income” means the median income of any county in which property is located in relation to family size, as published annually by the United States department of housing and urban development.

(b) “Indicators of intent” means off-site activities of a nonprofit housing provider that establish the provider’s specific intent to use property for the purpose of constructing or rehabilitating housing to be sold to low-income applicants.

(c) “Low-income applicant” means an individual or family whose total income is no greater than sixty percent of the area median income and who applies to a nonprofit housing provider to assist in the construction and purchase of housing to be constructed by the provider.

(d) “Nonprofit housing provider” means an organization that is exempt from federal income tax pursuant to section 501 (c) (3) of the federal “Internal Revenue Code of 1986”, as amended, and that has a primary organizational mission of working with low-income applicants to construct or rehabilitate housing that the organization then sells to the low-income applicants for their residential use.

(2) Subject to the limitations specified in subsection (3) of this section, for property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2011, real property acquired by a nonprofit housing provider upon which the provider intends to construct or rehabilitate housing to be sold to low-income applicants is deemed to be being used for strictly charitable purposes, regardless of whether or not there is actual physical use of the property, and shall be exempt from property taxation in accordance with section 5 of article X of the state constitution. In determining whether a nonprofit housing provider satisfies the intent requirement of this subsection (2) with respect to particular property, the administrator may consider indicators of intent, including but not limited to:

(a) The establishment by the nonprofit housing provider of a committee or other structure for the purpose of planning the construction or rehabilitation of housing on the property;

(b) Steps taken by the nonprofit housing provider to obtain any required local government approvals for the construction or rehabilitation of housing on the property;

(c) Steps taken by the nonprofit housing provider to develop and implement a financing plan for the construction or rehabilitation of housing on the property;

(d) The hiring of architects, contractors, or other professionals by the nonprofit housing provider in preparation for the actual construction or rehabilitation of housing on the property; and

(e) The solicitation or acceptance by the nonprofit housing provider of applications from low-income applicants for housing to be constructed or rehabilitated on the property.

(3) The property tax exemption allowed to a nonprofit housing provider by subsection (2) of this section is subject to the following limitations:

(a) The exemption may be allowed for a maximum of five consecutive property tax years, beginning with the property tax year in which the nonprofit housing provider obtained title to the property; and

(b) If the nonprofit housing provider is allowed an exemption for any property tax year and subsequently sells, donates, or leases the property to any person other than a low-income applicant who assisted in the construction of housing for the applicant’s residential use on the property, the provider shall be liable for all property taxes that the provider did not previously pay due to the exemption.

39-3-114. Burden - claim for charitable exemption. The burden shall be on the owner and operator of any residential property for which an exemption is claimed pursuant to any of the provisions of sections 39-3-109 and 39-3-112 to show facts sufficient to support the exemption claimed. In determining whether or not a particular property is entitled to such an exemption provided for in any of said sections, the administrator may require the owner or operator of such property to annually submit a complete financial report on its operations and may require any occupants whose residential units are claimed to qualify for such exemption to submit copies of their federal or state income tax returns.

Editor's note: This section is similar to former § 39-3-101 (1)(g) as it existed prior to 1989.

ANNOTATION

Subsection (1)(g) not violative of equal protection. There can be no doubt that the general assembly intended to treat property owned and used by a charity differently than property merely used by a charity. Since within these classes all persons or entities are treated similarly, there is no violation of equal protection under the fourteenth amendment. First Nat'l Bank v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 189 Colo. 128, 538 P.2d 427 (1975) (decided under former law).

39-3-114.5. Charitable exemption - owner claiming federal tax credit - fee in lieu of school district tax. (1) Whenever an entity organized for the purpose of obtaining tax credits through the new markets tax credit program under 26 U.S.C. sec. 45 D of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended, or the rehabilitation tax credit program under 26 U.S.C. sec. 47 of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended, owns an interest in real property for which an exemption is claimed, the entity shall pay annually to the treasurer of the county in which the property is located a payment in lieu of taxes, which payment shall not exceed the amount of taxes that would be due for total program for the school district in which the property is located if the interest were taxable.

(2) Each year during the regular tax assessment period, the board of county commissioners of each county in which a real property interest described in subsection (1) of this section is located shall provide to each entity that holds such real property interest the following information in the same manner as such information is provided to any other owner of real property in the county:

(a) The current assessed value of the real property interest expressed in dollars;
(b) The amount of the payment in lieu of taxes due on the real property interest based on the value and tax rate levied for total program for the school district in which the property is located that would be applicable to the real property interest if it were taxable; and

(c) The date the payment in lieu of taxes is due for such real property interest based on the date property taxes within the county are due.

(3) The treasurer of each county that receives a payment in lieu of taxes pursuant to this section shall pay over to the school district in which the real property interest described in subsection (1) of this section is located the amount of the total payment; except that the treasurer may deduct the costs incurred by the treasurer in administering this subsection (3).

(4) Each school district that receives a payment in lieu of taxes pursuant to this section shall certify the amount paid or received to the state board of education.

39-3-116. Combination use of property - charitable, religious, and educational purposes - exemption - limitations. (1) Except as otherwise provided in this section, property, real and personal, which is owned and used by the owner thereof or by any other person or organization solely and exclusively for any combination of the purposes specified in sections 39-3-106 to 39-3-113, subject to the limitations and requirements in said sections, including but not limited to the requirement that property not be owned or used for private or corporate gain or profit, shall be exempt from the levy and collection of property tax. No requirement shall be imposed that use of property which is otherwise exempt pursuant to any of said sections shall benefit the people of Colorado in order to qualify for said exemption. Property which is otherwise exempt pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be subject to the provisions of section 39-3-129 relating to the proportional valuation of exempt property if such property is partially leased, loaned, or otherwise made available for a portion of any calendar year to any business conducted for profit.

(2) In the event that such property is used by any person or organization other than the owner:

(a) The use of the property by the owner, if any, must qualify pursuant to the provisions of this section or pursuant to any of the provisions of sections 39-3-106 to 39-3-113, and, in addition, the owner must qualify for an exemption pursuant to the provisions of section 39-2-117;

(b) The use of the property by the person or organization other than the owner is a use described in the provisions of this section or in any of the provisions of sections 39-3-106 to 39-3-113 or such person or organization is otherwise exempt from the payment of property taxes; and

(c) The amount received by the owner for the use of such property specified in sections 39-3-107 to 39-3-113, other than from any shareholder or member of the owner or from any person or organization controlled by an organization which also controls such shareholder or member, shall not exceed one dollar per year plus an equitable portion of the reasonable expenses incurred in the operation and maintenance of the property so used. For purposes of this paragraph (c), reasonable expenses shall include interest expenses but shall not include depreciation or any amount expended to reduce debt.

(3) Any exemption claimed pursuant to the provisions of this section shall comply with the provisions of section 39-2-117.

Annotator's note. Since § 39-3-116 is similar to § 39-3-101 (1)(g.1) as it existed prior to the 1989 repeal and reenactment of this article, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in the annotations to this section.

ANNOTATION

Intangible personal property exemption does not apply to a public utility. Division of property taxation reasonably interpreted section as applying to cable companies but not a public utility that provided similar service, and this interpretation did not violate the constitutional guarantees of uniform taxation and equal protection. Qwest Corp. v. Colo. Div. of Prop. Taxation, ___ P.3d ___ (Colo. App. 2011).

39-3-118.5. Business personal property - exemption. For property tax years commencing on and after January 1, 1996, business personal property shall be exempt from the levy and collection of property tax until such business personal property is first used in the business after acquisition.

The property tax administrator shall publish in the manuals, appraisal procedures, and instructions prepared and published pursuant to section 39-2-109 (1) (e) a definition or description of the types of personal property that are "held for consumption by any business" and therefore exempt from the levy and collection of property tax pursuant to this section.

Television signal boxes and filters owned by a television service provider and leased to customers are exempt property. The property tax administrator's published guidelines for the consumable personal property tax exemption allow for personal property to be exempt from taxation if the acquisition cost of the property is $250 or less. Because the value of each box and filter, or each combination of one box and one filter, was less than $250 and the boxes and filters were produced by different manufacturers and recorded as separate assets by the television service provider, the boxes and filters are considered individual items worth less than $250 rather than components of a larger system worth more than $250. EchoStar Satellite, L.L.C. v. Arapahoe County Bd. of Equaliz., 171 P.3d 633 (Colo. App. 2007).

39-3-119.5. Personal property - exemption - definitions. (1) For property tax years commencing on and after January 1, 1997, personal property not otherwise exempt from property tax shall be exempt from the levy and collection of property tax if the personal property would otherwise be listed on a single personal property schedule and the actual value of such personal property is less than or equal to the amount set forth in subsection (2) of this section.

(2) (a) The exemption created in subsection (1) of this section shall be up to and including the following amounts:

(I) Two thousand five hundred dollars for property tax years commencing prior to January 1, 2009;

(II) Four thousand dollars for property tax years commencing on January 1, 2009, and January 1, 2010;

(III) Five thousand five hundred dollars for property tax years commencing on January 1, 2011, and January 1, 2012; and

(IV) Seven thousand dollars for property tax years commencing on January 1, 2013, and January 1, 2014.

(b) (I) Beginning with the property tax year commencing on January 1, 2015, the amount of the exemption created in subsection (1) of this section shall be adjusted biennially to account for inflation since the amount of the exemption last changed pursuant to this subsection (2). On or before November 1, 2014, and each even-numbered year thereafter, the administrator shall calculate the amount of the exemption for the next two-year cycle using inflation for the prior two calendar years as of the date of the calculation. The adjusted exemption shall be rounded upward to the nearest one hundred dollar increment. The administrator shall certify the amount of the exemption for the next two-year cycle and publish the amount on the web site maintained by the division of property taxation in the department of local affairs.

(II) As used in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b), "inflation" means the annual percentage change in the United States department of labor, bureau of labor statistics, consumer price index for Denver-Boulder-Greeley, all items, all urban consumers, or its successor index.

ANNOTATION

Under both the plain language and the legislative history of this section, the statutory $2,500 exemption threshold must be applied on a "per schedule" basis and not on a "per business location" basis. SecurityLink from Ameritech, Inc. v. City & County of Denver, 32 P.3d 499 (Colo. App. 2000).

Where personal property situated in multiple locations throughout the county was listed on a single personal property schedule and the total valuation of all the property listed on the schedule exceeded the $2,500 exemption threshold, neither the language of the statute nor the legislative history supports the view that the general assembly intended to exempt such property from taxation under these circumstances. SecurityLink from Ameritech, Inc. v. City & County of Denver, 32 P.3d 499 (Colo. App. 2000).

The plain language of this section does not contemplate an exemption where property located at multiple locations was encompassed in a single schedule and the total property value per schedule far exceeded $2,500. TCI Satellite Entm't, Inc. v. Bd. of Equaliz., 9 P.3d 1179 (Colo. App. 2000), aff'd, 31 P.3d 155 (Colo. 2001).

This section merely exempts a taxpayer's otherwise non-exempt personal property in a particular county if the aggregate value of such property does not exceed $2,500. Huddleston v. Bd. of Equaliz., 31 P.3d 155 (Colo. 2001).

This exemption allowed by this section must be applied on a per-schedule basis and this section contemplates that all listings of personal property owned by a single taxpayer in a single county will be treated as a single schedule. Huddleston v. Montezuma County Bd. of Equaliz., 31 P.3d 155 (Colo. 2001).

39-3-123. Works of art, literary materials, and artifacts - on loan - exemption - limitations - definitions. (1) Works of art, literary materials, and artifacts shall be exempt from the levy and collection of property tax if such works of art, literary materials, and artifacts are loaned to and are in the custody and control of:

- (a) The state or a political subdivision thereof; or
- (b) A library or any art gallery or museum which is owned or operated by a charitable organization whose property is irrevocably dedicated to charitable purposes and whose assets shall not inure to the benefit of any private person upon the liquidation, dissolution, or abandonment by the owner, and which uses such works of art, literary materials, and artifacts for charitable purposes. This exemption shall apply only for the period of time during which such works of art, literary materials, and artifacts are actually on loan and shall be in addition to such exemptions provided for in sections 39-3-108 to 39-3-113.

(2) Any exemption claimed pursuant to the provisions of subsection (1) of this section shall comply with the provisions of section 39-5-113.5.

(3) For purposes of subsection (1) of this section:

(a) "Artifacts" means items of personal property which are objects of human workmanship and which have archaeological or historical significance.

(b) "Charitable organization" means a charitable organization as defined in section 39-26-102 (2.5).

(c) "Charitable purposes" means public display, research, educational study, maintenance of property, and preparation for display.

(d) “Literary materials” means items of personal property including, but not limited to, books, letters, diaries, records, documents, memoranda, journals, magazines, and notes.

(e) “Works of art” means works of art as defined in section 39-1-102 (18).

39-3-124. Property used by state entity - installment sales or lease agreement - lease-purchase or leveraged lease agreement - exemption. (1) (a) Property, real and personal, that is used by the state or any of its political subdivisions pursuant to the provisions of any installment sales agreement, lease-purchase agreement, or any other agreement whereby the state or such political subdivision shall be entitled to acquire title to such property at the end of the agreement term without cost or for only nominal consideration shall be exempt from the levy and collection of property tax.

(b) (I) (A) Subject to the provisions of sub-subparagraph (B) of this subparagraph (I), on and after January 1, 2009, the part of real property that is used by the state, a political subdivision, or a state-supported institution of higher education pursuant to the provisions of any lease or rental agreement for at least a one-year term, with or without an option to purchase, and pursuant to which the subject real property is used for purposes of the state, political subdivision, or institution of higher education, as applicable, shall be exempt from the levy and collection of property tax. If the state or any political subdivision or state-supported institution of higher education enters into a lease or rental agreement or is already in a lease or rental agreement on or after January 1, 2009, and is exempt from the levy and collection of property tax pursuant to this section, the state, political subdivision, or state-supported institution of higher education, as applicable, shall file a copy of the lease or rental agreement with the county assessor’s office. The state or a political subdivision or institution of higher education shall notify the county assessor’s office in the event that the lease or rental agreement is terminated prior to the term stated in such lease or rental agreement. Nothing in this paragraph (b) shall affect property tax exemptions allowed pursuant to section 8-82-104, 22-32-127, 29-4-227, 30-11-104.2, 31-15-802, or 43-1-214, C.R.S.

(B) The state, a political subdivision, or a state-supported institution of higher education shall reduce, deduct, or offset property taxes from rent due under any lease or rental agreement pursuant to sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (I). Upon receipt of a lease or rental agreement for the state, a political subdivision, or a state-supported institution of higher education, the county assessor shall send a notice to the landlord acknowledging receipt of the lease or rental agreement. The notice shall identify the property, the property address, and the parties to the lease or rental agreement.

(C) To the extent that real property taxes are shared and payable by one or more tenants under the lease of property that are not the state, a political subdivision, or a state-supported institution of higher education, real property taxes otherwise due but for the application of this paragraph (b) shall be deemed taxes paid by the property owner or the landlord of a property leased in part to the state, a political subdivision, or a state-supported institution of higher education.

(D) Only a tenant that is the state, a political subdivision, or a state-supported institution of higher education shall receive any benefit related to the tenant’s property tax-exempt status pursuant to this paragraph (b).

(E) It is the general assembly’s intent that the application of this paragraph (b) be cost-neutral in that the tax reduction and the rent reduction pursuant to this paragraph (b) are equal.

(II) For purposes of this paragraph (b), “state-supported institution of higher education” includes, but need not be limited to, all postsecondary institutions in the state supported in whole or in part by state funds, including junior colleges and community colleges, extension programs of the state-supported universities and colleges, local district colleges, area vocational schools, and the institutions governed by the regents of the university of Colorado.

(2) A leasehold interest in real or personal property that is owned by the state or by a political subdivision of the state and that has been leased to a private person, the use and possession of which has been leased back to the state or a political subdivision of the state, shall be exempt from the levy and collection of property tax during the term of the use and possession of the property by the state or a political subdivision of the state. Property that is the subject of a leveraged leasing agreement executed by the state or by a political subdivision of the state shall be treated as tax-exempt property owned by the state for purposes of any state or local tax.

(3) The lease of property by a political subdivision of the state to a private person and the sublease of the property back to the political subdivision of the state pursuant to a leveraged leasing agreement shall not cause the private person to whom the property has been leased to incur any liability in tort by virtue of the private person's status as a lessor under the leveraged leasing agreement.

39-3-129. Proportional valuation - exempt property. (1) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (2) of this section, whenever any real property that was previously taxable becomes legally exempt from the levy and collection of property tax or any real property that was previously legally exempt from the levy and collection of property tax becomes taxable, the valuation for assessment of the real property shall be a proportion of the valuation for assessment of the real property for the entire taxable year based upon the ratio of the portion of the taxable year in which the property is taxable to the entire taxable year. In the event the real property is partially leased, loaned, or otherwise made available to and used by a business conducted for profit, the determination as to what portion of the real property is so utilized shall be made by the administrator on the basis of the facts existing on the annual assessment date for the real property. The administrator shall have the authority to determine the actual value of the nonexempt portion of the property in relation to the actual value of the entire property by using the ratio of the square foot area of the property utilized by the business conducted for profit to the total square foot area of the property. Where shown to be more appropriate, in order to determine the relationship between the actual value of the nonexempt portion of the property and the actual value of the total property, the administrator may employ the ratio of the portion as measured in hours of any calendar year in which the property is leased, loaned, or otherwise made available to and used by any business conducted for profit to the entire calendar year.

(2.5) For the purpose of verifying the eligibility of each applicant for the exemption allowed to qualifying disabled veterans under section 39-3-203 (1.5) efficiently and with minimal inconvenience to each applicant, the division shall determine whether an applicant for the exemption is a qualifying disabled veteran. If the division determines that the applicant is a qualifying disabled veteran, it shall also send notice of its determination and a copy of the exemption application to the assessor for the county where the property is located. If the division is unable to determine whether the applicant is a qualifying disabled veteran on or before said August 1, it shall send preliminary notice to both the applicant and the assessor that its determination is pending and shall follow up the preliminary notice by sending final notice of its ultimate determination to the applicant and, together with a copy of the exemption application, to the assessor as soon as possible thereafter.

(3) (a) In addition to any penalties prescribed by law for perjury in the second degree, an applicant who knowingly provides false information on an exemption application or files more than one exemption application in any property tax year:

(I) Shall not be entitled to an exemption;

(II) Shall be required to pay, to the treasurer of any county in which an exemption was improperly allowed due to the provision by the applicant of false information or the filing by the applicant of more than one exemption application, an amount equal to the amount of property taxes not paid as a result of the exemption being improperly allowed; and

(III) Shall, upon conviction of perjury, be required to pay to the treasurer of any county in which an invalid exemption application was filed an additional amount equal to twice the amount of the property taxes that would not have had to be paid had the exemption application been valid plus interest. Interest shall be calculated at the annual rate calculated pursuant to section 39-21-110.5 (2) and (3) from the date the invalid exemption application was filed until the date the applicant makes the payment required by this subparagraph (III).

(b) If an applicant or a trustee fails to inform the assessor within sixty days of any change in the ownership or occupancy of residential real property for which an exemption has been applied for or allowed that would prevent an exemption from being allowed for the property as required by paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section:

(I) An exemption shall not be allowed with respect to the residential real property; and

(II) The applicant or trustee shall be required to pay, to the treasurer of any county in which an exemption was improperly allowed due to the applicant's or trustee's failure to immediately inform the assessor of any change in the ownership or occupancy of residential real property, an amount equal to the amount of property taxes not paid as a result of the exemption being improperly allowed plus interest. Interest shall be calculated at the annual rate calculated pursuant to section 39-21-110.5 (2) and (3) from the date on which the change in the ownership or occupancy occurred until the date the applicant makes the payment required by this subparagraph (II).

(c) Any amount required to be paid to a treasurer pursuant to paragraph (a) or (b) of this subsection (3) shall be deemed part of the lien of general taxes imposed on the person required to pay the amount and shall have the priority specified in section 39-1-107 (2).

(4) (a) Completed exemption applications shall be kept confidential; except that:

(I) (A) An assessor or the division may release statistical compilations or informational summaries of any information contained in exemption applications and shall provide a copy of an exemption application to the applicant who returned the application, the treasurer of the same county as the assessor, the administrator, the state treasurer, or the state auditor upon request or as otherwise required by this part 2.

(B) An assessor or the division may introduce a copy of an exemption application as evidence in any administrative hearing or legal proceeding in which the accuracy or veracity of the exemption application is at issue so long as neither the applicant's social security number nor any other social security number set forth in the application are divulged.

(II) A treasurer, the administrator, the state treasurer, or the state auditor shall keep confidential each individual exemption application that it may receive from an assessor or the division but may release statistical compilations or informational summaries of any information contained in exemption applications and may introduce a copy of an exemption application as evidence in any administrative hearing or legal proceeding in which the accuracy or veracity of the exemption application is at issue so long as neither the applicant's social security number nor any other social security number set forth in the application are divulged.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (4), an assessor, the division, a treasurer, the administrator, the state treasurer, or the state auditor shall not give any other person any listing of individuals who have applied for an exemption or any other information that would enable a person to easily assemble a mailing list of individuals who have applied for an exemption.

39-3-206. Notice to individuals returning incomplete or nonqualifying exemption applications - denial of exemption - administrative remedies. (1) (a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (a.5) of subsection (2) of this section, an assessor shall only grant the exemption allowed to qualifying seniors under section 39-3-203 (1) to an applicant who has timely returned an exemption application in accordance with section 39-3-205 (1) (a) that establishes that the applicant is entitled to the exemption.

(b) If the information provided on or with an application for the exemption allowed to qualifying seniors under section 39-3-203 (1) indicates that the applicant is not entitled to the exemption, or is insufficient to allow the assessor to determine whether or not the applicant is entitled to the exemption, the assessor shall deny the application and mail to the applicant a statement providing the reasons for the denial and informing the applicant of the applicant's right to contest the denial pursuant to subsection (2) of this section. The assessor shall mail the statement no later than August 15 of the property tax year for which the exemption application was filed.

(1.5) (a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (a.7) of subsection (2) of this section, the division shall only accept an application for the exemption allowed to qualifying disabled veterans under section 39-3-203 (1.5) if the applicant timely returned the exemption application in accordance with section 39-3-205 (1) (b), and an assessor shall only grant the exemption if the division verifies that the applicant is a qualified disabled veteran and the exemption application forwarded by the division to the assessor pursuant to section 39-3-205 (2.5) establishes that the applicant meets the other requirements to be entitled to the exemption.

(b) If the information provided on or with an application for the exemption allowed to qualifying disabled veterans under section 39-3-203 (1.5) that is forwarded by the division to an assessor pursuant to section 39-3-205 (2.5) indicates that the applicant is not entitled to the exemption, or is insufficient to allow the assessor to determine whether or not the applicant is entitled to the exemption, the assessor shall deny the application and mail to the applicant a statement providing the reasons for the denial and informing the applicant of the applicant's right to contest the denial pursuant to subsection (2) of this section. The assessor shall mail the statement no later than August 15 of the property tax year for which the exemption application was filed.

(2) (a) An applicant whose exemption application has been denied pursuant to paragraph (b) of subsection (1) or paragraph (b) of subsection (1.5) of this section may contest the denial by requesting a hearing before the county commissioners sitting as the county board of equalization no later than September 15 of the property tax year for which the exemption application was filed. The hearing shall be held on or after September 1 and no later than October 1 of the property tax year for which the exemption application was filed, and the decision of the county board of equalization shall not be subject to further administrative appeal by either the applicant or the assessor. An applicant may not contest a determination by the division that the applicant is not a qualifying disabled veteran at a hearing requested pursuant to this paragraph (a).

(a.5) An individual who wishes to claim the exemption for qualifying seniors allowed by section 39-3-203 (1), but who has not timely filed an exemption application with the assessor, may request that the assessor waive the application deadline and allow the individual to file a late exemption application no later than the September 15 that immediately follows the original application deadline. The assessor may accept an application if, in the assessor's sole discretion, the applicant shows good cause for not timely filing an application, but the property tax administrator shall prepare and furnish to each assessor uniform standards to be applied by the assessor in determining whether an applicant has shown good cause. The assessor shall grant an exemption if an accepted late application establishes that the applicant is entitled to the exemption. A decision of an assessor to allow or disallow the filing of a late application or to grant or deny an exemption to an applicant who has filed a late application is final, and an applicant who is denied late filing or an exemption may not contest the denial.

(a.7) An individual who wishes to claim the exemption for qualifying disabled veterans allowed by section 39-3-203 (1.5), but who has not timely filed an exemption application with the division, may request that the division waive the application deadline and allow the individual to file a late exemption application no later than the September 1 that immediately follows the original application deadline. The division may accept an application if, in the division's sole discretion, the applicant shows good cause for not timely filing an application. If the division accepts a late application, it shall determine whether the applicant is a qualifying disabled veteran and shall mail notice of its determination to the applicant no later than the September 25 that immediately follows the late application deadline. If the division determines that a veteran is a qualifying disabled veteran, it shall mail a copy of the notice of its determination to the assessor for the county in which the property for which the applicant has claimed the exemption is located and shall include with the notice a copy of the applicant's exemption application. The assessor shall grant an exemption if the notice and application forwarded by the division to the assessor establish that the applicant is entitled to the exemption. A decision of the division to allow or disallow the filing of a late application or of an assessor to grant or deny an exemption to an applicant who has filed a late application is final, and an applicant who is denied late filing or an exemption may not contest the denial.

(b) The county board of equalization may appoint independent referees to conduct hearings requested pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) on behalf of the county board and to make findings and submit recommendations to the county board for its final action.

39-3-207. Reporting of exemptions - reimbursement to local governmental entities - transfer of unencumbered balances. (1) No later than October 10, 2002, and no later than each October 10 thereafter, each assessor shall forward to the administrator a report on the exemptions allowed in his or her county for the current property tax year. The report shall include:

(a) A statement of the total amount of actual value of residential real property within the county that is exempted from taxation;

(b) With respect to each unit of residential real property for which an exemption is allowed:

(I) The legal description of the property;

(II) The schedule or parcel number for the property;

(III) The name and social security number of the applicant who claimed an exemption for the property and each additional person who occupies the property; and

(IV) A statement of the taxable and tax exempt value of the property; and

(c) For reports issued for the 2007 property tax year and for each subsequent property tax year, separate identification, in such form as the administrator may require, of the units of residential real property within the county exempted from taxation under section 39-3-203 (1.5) and of the total amount of actual value of the property so exempted.

(2) (a) (I) The administrator shall examine the reports sent by each assessor pursuant to subsection (1) of this section to ensure that no applicant has claimed more than one exemption. No later than November 1, 2002, and no later than each November 1 thereafter, if the administrator determines that an applicant has claimed more than one exemption, the administrator shall provide written notice to the applicant that the applicant has claimed more than one exemption and is therefore not entitled to any exemption. The notice shall also include a statement specifying the deadline and procedures for protesting the denial of the exemptions claimed.

(II) An applicant whose claims for exemption are denied by the administrator pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a) may file a written protest with the administrator no later than November 15 of the year in which the exemptions were denied. The sole ground for a protest shall be that the applicant filed only one claim for an exemption and the protest shall specify property or properties identified by the administrator in the notice denying exemptions for which no exemption was claimed. The administrator shall request that any appropriate assessor check the assessor's records of exemption applications to determine whether the applicant filed a disputed exemption application and shall decide the protest accordingly. If a protest is denied, the administrator shall mail the applicant a written statement of the basis for the denial and a copy of each exemption application filed with an assessor that the applicant claimed had not been filed.

(b) No later than December 1, 2002, and no later than each December 1 thereafter, and after examining the reports sent by each assessor, denying claims for exemptions, and deciding protests in accordance with paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), the administrator shall provide written notice to the assessor of each county in which an exemption application has been denied because the applicant filed multiple exemption applications with the identity of the applicant who filed multiple exemption applications and the denial of the exemption.

(3) No later than April 1, 2003, and no later than each April 1 thereafter, to enable the state treasurer to issue a reimbursement warrant to each treasurer in accordance with subsection (4) of this section, each treasurer shall forward to the state treasurer a report on the exemptions allowed in his or her county for the previous property tax year. The report shall include:

(a) A statement of the total amount of actual value of residential real property within the county that was exempted from taxation and the total amount of property tax revenues lost by local governmental entities within the county as a result of the exemption that must be reimbursed by the state;

(b) With respect to each unit of residential real property for which an exemption was allowed:

(I) The legal description of the property;

(II) The schedule or parcel number for the property;

(III) The name of the applicant who claimed an exemption for the property and each additional person who occupies the property; and

(IV) A statement of the taxable and tax exempt value of the property and the amount of taxes due on the property; and

(c) For reports issued for the 2007 property tax year and for each subsequent property tax year, separate identification, in such form as the administrator may require, of the units of residential real property within the county exempted from taxation under section 39-3-203 (1.5), the total amount of actual value of the property so exempted, and the total amount of property tax revenues lost by local government entities within the county as a result of the exemption.

(4) (a) In accordance with section 3.5 of article X of the state constitution, no later than April 15, 2003, and each April 15 thereafter, the state treasurer shall issue a warrant to each treasurer for the amount needed to fully reimburse all local governmental entities within the treasurer's county for the amount of property tax revenues lost as a result of the application of the exemption to property taxes that accrued during the previous property tax year and are payable during the year in which the state treasurer issues the warrant. The reimbursement shall be paid from the state general fund and shall not be subject to the statutory limitation on state general fund appropriations set forth in section 24-75-201.1, C.R.S.

(b) Each treasurer shall distribute the total amount received from the state treasurer pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) to the local governmental entities within the treasurer's county as if the lost tax revenues had been regularly paid. When a treasurer distributes said amount, the treasurer shall provide each local governmental entity with a statement of the amount distributed to the local governmental entity that represents reimbursement received from the state for property tax revenues lost as a result of the exemption. In accordance with section 3.5 of article X of the state constitution, moneys distributed to a local governmental entity as reimbursement for property tax revenues lost as a result of the exemption shall not be included in the local governmental entity's fiscal year spending for purposes of section 20 of article X of the state constitution.

(5) Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, the reports required by this section and the contents thereof shall be kept confidential by an assessor, a treasurer, the administrator, the state treasurer, or the state auditor; except that said persons may provide the reports to each other as required or authorized by law.

(6) On June 30, 2013, and on each June 30 thereafter, the state treasurer shall transfer to the senior services account within the older Coloradans cash fund, created pursuant to section 26-11-205.5 (5) (b), C.R.S., an amount equal to the amount by which the total estimated amount specified in the annual general appropriations act for the costs of this part 2 exceeds the total amount of all warrants issued by the state treasurer pursuant to paragraph (a) of subsection (4) of this section.

In connection with an audit, the state auditor may suggest means of improving the administration of the program. (1) (a) Subject to the provisions of this article, a person who is sixty-five years of age or older or who is a person called into military service on January 1 of the year in which the person files a claim under this section may elect to defer the payment of real property taxes. To exercise this option, the taxpayer shall file a claim for deferral with the treasurer of the county in which the taxpayer's homestead is located. The claim shall be filed after January 1 and on or before April 1 of each year in which the taxpayer claims the deferral.

(b) Notwithstanding paragraph (a) of this subsection (1), a person called into military service at any time between January 1, 2003, and June 30, 2003, may defer the payment of real property taxes for the property tax year 2002 by filing a claim pursuant to this section on or before June 30, 2003.

(2) When a taxpayer who is sixty-five years of age or older or who is a person called into military service files a valid claim for deferral under subsection (1) of this section, it shall have the effect of:

(B) Includes measures to prevent fish mortality in facilities on reservoirs and natural waterways; and

(C) Does not cause any violation of state water quality standards when operated.

(b) For purposes of this subsection (3.3), “new facility” includes a combined facility that is a combination of a facility placed in production before January 1, 2010, that uses real and personal property to generate and deliver to the interconnection meter any source of electric or mechanical energy by harnessing the kinetic energy of water and that is not primarily designed to supply energy for consumption on site and an addition or energy efficiency improvement to the facility first placed in production on or after January 1, 2010, if the addition or efficiency improvement increases the electrical or mechanical energy-producing capacity of the combined facility by at least twenty-five percent over the capacity of the facility placed in production before January 1, 2010, alone.

(3.5) “Solar energy facility” means a new facility first placed in production on or after January 1, 2009, that uses real and personal property, including but not limited to one or more solar energy devices, as defined in section 38-32.5-100.3 (2), C.R.S., leaseholds, and easements, to generate and deliver to the interconnection meter any source of electrical, thermal, or mechanical energy in excess of two megawatts by harnessing the radiant energy of the sun and that is not primarily designed to supply electricity for consumption on site.

(4) “Wind energy facility” means a new facility first placed in production on or after January 1, 2006, that uses property, real and personal, including one or more wind turbines, leaseholds, and easements, to generate and deliver to the interconnection meter any source of electrical or mechanical energy in excess of two megawatts by harnessing the kinetic energy of the wind.

ANNOTATION

Since the general assembly failed to define “telephone company” as used in the definition of “public utility” in this section, it must be assumed that the general assembly intended to give the term its usual and ordinary meaning. Transponder Corp. of Denver v. Propty. Tax Adm'r, 681 P.2d 499 (Colo. 1984); U.S. Transmission Sys. v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 715 P.2d 1249 (Colo. 1986).

Because the company directly facilities two-way communication between a significant number of unrelated persons or businesses, the company is a "telephone company". U.S. Transmission Sys. v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 715 P.2d 1249 (Colo. 1986).

"Public utilities". There is no evidence that the general assembly intended to limit its definition of "public utility" for property tax purposes to those companies that are regulated monopolies. U.S. Transmission Sys. v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 715 P.2d 1249 (Colo. 1986).

Because the petitioner was doing business as a "telephone company" within the state of Colorado it was a public utility subject to unitary valuation for property tax assessment. U.S. Transmission Sys. v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 715 P.2d 1249 (Colo. 1986).

A nonfacilities-based reseller of long distance telephone services is a telephone company within the meaning of subsection (3)(a). OPEX Commc'ns, Inc. v. Prop. Tax Adm'r, 166 P.3d 225 (Colo. App. 2007).

Applied in State Pers. Bd. v. District Court, 637 P.2d 333 (Colo. App. 1981).

39-4-102. Valuation of public utilities. (1) The administrator shall determine the actual value of the operating property and plant of each public utility as a unit, giving consideration to the following factors and assigning such weight to each of such factors as in the administrator's judgment will secure a just value of such public utility as a unit:

(a) The tangible property comprising its plant, whether the same is situated within this state or both within and without this state, exclusive of any tangible property situated without this state which is not directly connected with the business in which such public utility is engaged within this state;

(b) Its intangibles, such as special privileges, franchises, contract rights and obligations, and rights-of-way; except that licenses granted by the federal communications commission to a wireless carrier, as defined in section 29-11-101, C.R.S., shall not be considered, nor shall the value of such licenses be reflected, in the administrator's valuation of the carrier's tangible property;

(c) Its gross and net operating revenues during a reasonable period of time not to exceed the most recent five-year period, capitalized at indicative rates;

(d) The average market value of its outstanding securities during the preceding calendar year, if such market value is determinable;

(e) (I) When determining the actual value of a renewable energy facility that primarily produces more than two megawatts of alternating current electricity, the administrator shall:

(A) Consider the additional incremental cost per kilowatt of the construction of the renewable energy facility over that of the construction cost of a comparable nonrenewable energy facility, inclusive of the cost of all property required to generate and deliver energy to the interconnection meter, that primarily produces alternating current electricity to be an investment cost and shall not include such additional incremental cost in the valuation of the facility; and

(B) Not add value to a renewable energy facility for any renewable energy credits created by the production of alternating current electricity.

(II) For purposes of this paragraph (e), "renewable energy" has the meaning provided in section 40-1-102 (11), C.R.S., but shall not include energy generated from a small or low impact hydroelectric energy facility, a geothermal energy facility, a biomass energy facility, a wind energy facility, or a solar energy facility.

(III) (A) For purposes of determining the actual value of a renewable energy facility as specified in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (e), an owner or operator of a facility shall provide a copy of the facility's current power purchase agreement to the administrator by April 1 of each assessment year as an attachment to the statement required as specified in section 39-4-103 (1); except that, if a copy of the current power purchase agreement was previously provided either by the owner or operator or by the purchaser of power and there is no material change in the facility's current power purchase agreement, the owner or operator of a facility shall not be required to provide a copy of the agreement.

(B) If the owner or operator of a facility does not provide a copy of the facility's current power purchase agreement as specified in sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (III), the administrator shall have the authority to request a copy of the current power purchase agreement from the purchaser of power generated at the facility; except that, if a copy of the current power purchase agreement was previously provided either by the owner or operator or by the purchaser of power and there is no material change in the facility's current power purchase agreement, the purchaser of power shall not be required to provide a copy of the agreement.

(C) All power purchase agreements provided to the administrator pursuant to this subparagraph (III) shall be considered private documents and shall be available only to the administrator and the employees of the division of property taxation in the department of local affairs.

(1.5) The administrator shall determine the actual value of a small or low impact hydroelectric energy facility, a geothermal energy facility, a biomass energy facility, a wind energy facility, or a solar energy facility as follows:

(a) The general assembly hereby declares that consideration by the administrator of the cost approach and market approach to the appraisal of a wind energy facility or a solar energy facility results in valuations that are neither uniform nor just and equal because of wide variations in the production of energy from wind turbines and solar energy devices, as defined in section 38-32.5-100.3 (2), C.R.S., because of the uncertainty of wind and sunlight available for energy production, and because constructing a wind energy facility or a solar energy facility is significantly more expensive than constructing any other utility production facility. The general assembly further declares that it is also appropriate to value small or low impact hydroelectric energy facilities, geothermal energy facilities, and biomass energy facilities, which also have high construction costs relative to their ongoing operational costs, using the income approach. Therefore, in the absence of preponderant evidence shown by the administrator that the use of the cost approach and market approach results in uniform and just and equal valuation, a small or low impact hydroelectric energy facility, a geothermal energy facility, a biomass energy facility, a wind energy facility, or a solar energy facility shall be valued based solely upon the income approach.

(b) (I) The actual value of a small or low impact hydroelectric energy facility, a geothermal energy facility, a biomass energy facility, a wind energy facility, or a solar energy facility shall be at an amount equal to a tax factor times the selling price at the interconnection meter.

(II) As used in this article, "interconnection meter" means the meter located at the point of delivery of energy to the purchaser.

(III) As used in this paragraph (b), "selling price at the interconnection meter" means the gross taxable revenues realized by the taxpayer from the sale of energy at the interconnection meter.

(IV) As used in this paragraph (b), "tax factor" means a factor annually established by the administrator. The tax factor shall be a number that when applied to the selling price at the interconnection meter results in approximately the same tax revenue over a twenty-year period on a nominal dollar basis that would have been collected using the cost basis method of taxation as determined by the administrator for a renewable energy facility pursuant to paragraph (e) of subsection (1) of this section. For a renewable energy facility that begins generating energy before January 1, 2012, the administrator shall include only the cost of all property required to generate and deliver renewable energy to the interconnection meter that does not exceed the cost of property required to generate nonrenewable energy. For a renewable energy facility that begins generating energy on or after January 1, 2012, the administrator shall include only the cost of all property required to generate and deliver renewable energy to the interconnection meter that does not exceed the cost of property required to generate and deliver nonrenewable energy to the interconnection meter.

(V) For purposes of calculating the tax factor as required in subparagraph (IV) of this paragraph (b), an owner or operator of a small or low impact hydroelectric energy facility, a geothermal energy facility, a biomass energy facility, a wind energy facility, or a solar energy facility shall provide a copy of the small or low impact hydroelectric energy facility's, geothermal energy facility's, biomass energy facility's, wind energy facility's, or solar energy facility's current power purchase agreement to the administrator by April 1 of each assessment year. The administrator shall also have the authority to request a copy of the current power purchase agreement from the purchaser of power generated at a small or low impact hydroelectric energy facility, a geothermal energy facility, a biomass energy facility, a wind energy facility, or a solar energy facility. All agreements provided to the administrator pursuant to this subparagraph (V) shall be considered private documents and shall be available only to the administrator and the employees of the division of property taxation in the department of local affairs.

(c) The location of a small or low impact hydroelectric energy facility, a geothermal energy facility, a biomass energy facility, a wind energy facility, or a solar energy facility on real property shall not affect the classification of that real property for purposes of determining the actual value of that real property as provided in section 39-1-103.

(d) Pursuant to section 39-3-118.5, no actual value for any personal property used in a small or low impact hydroelectric energy facility, a geothermal energy facility, a biomass energy facility, a wind energy facility, or a solar energy facility shall be assigned until the personal property is first put into use by the facility. If any item of personal property is used in the facility and is subsequently taken out of service so that no small or low impact hydroelectric energy, geothermal energy, biomass energy, wind energy, or solar energy is produced from that facility for the preceding calendar year, no actual value shall be assigned to that item of more than five percent of the installed cost of the item for that assessment year.

(2) If, in the judgment of the administrator, the books and records of any public utility accurately reflect its tangible property, its intangibles, and its earnings within this state during the most recent five-year period, the administrator may determine from such books and records the actual value of its property and plant within this state and need not determine the entire value of its property and plant both within and without this state.

(3) (a) For property tax years 1982 through 1986, there shall be applied to the actual value of each public utility an equalization factor to adjust the actual value for the current year of assessment as determined by the administrator pursuant to subsections (1) and (2) of this section to the public utility's level of value in 1981.

(b) For property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1987, there shall be applied to the actual value of each public utility an equalization factor to adjust the actual value for the current year of assessment as determined by the administrator pursuant to subsections (1) and (2) of this section to the public utility's level of value in the appropriate year that is prescribed in section 39-1-104 (10.2) and that is used to determine the actual value of properties that are subject to said applicable subsection.

(c) Appraisal procedures, instructions, and factors utilized by the administrator in carrying out the provisions of this section shall be subject to legislative review, the same as rules and regulations, pursuant to section 24-4-103 (8) (d), C.R.S.

(d) The administrator shall certify to the public utility any difference in valuation resulting from the application of this section. Said certification shall be part of the evidence presented in determining rate structures by any applicable rate-setting body.

ANNOTATION

No statutory conflict. The requirement of this section that a public utility's intangibles be considered when valuing such utility's operating property and plant as a unit does not necessarily conflict with the general exemption for intangible personal property pursuant to § 39-3-101 (1)(i). U.S. Transmission Sys. v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 715 P.2d 1249 (Colo. 1986) (decided under former law).

Board of assessment appeals was not required, as a matter of law, to include financing costs in the valuation of plaintiff's property. The method by which the property tax administrator arrived at her valuation was authorized under this section. Colo. Interstate Gas Co. v. Huddleston, 28 P.3d 958 (Colo. App. 2000).

"Operating property and plant" includes the tangible property comprising the plant and the intangible rights of the utility that directly contribute to the utility's operations. U.S. Transmission Sys. v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 715 P.2d 1249 (Colo. 1986).

Property taxation of a public utility in Colorado is not precluded simply because the only portion of the public utility's operating property and plant found within this state is the intangible rights derived from rental of telephone circuits. U.S. Transmission Sys. v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 715 P.2d 1249 (Colo. 1986).

Telephone circuits leased by petitioner from other telecommunication companies in Colorado constituted intangible rights held by a public utility as part of its operating property and plant and as such were property considered in determining petitioner's property tax assessment. U.S. Transmission Sys. v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 715 P.2d 1249 (Colo. 1986).

Value of the "operating property and plant". The statute reflects the view that the true measure of value of the property of a public utility is its worth as an integrated and operating unit rather than the sum of the values of the various components making up that unit. Therefore, the fact that petitioner's property rights in the circuits leased from other telecommunication companies has no independent market value is not dispositive of such property's assessment value. U.S. Transmission Sys. v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 715 P.2d 1249 (Colo. 1986).

The operating property and plant to be valued as a unit consists of the public utility's property and plant used in carrying on its business. Such valuation also includes intangible rights derived from other property and plant even if owned by a parent company or other subsidiary if they contribute directly to the operation of the public utility as an ongoing concern. United Parcel Serv. of Am., Inc. v. Huddleston, 981 P.2d 223 (Colo. App. 1999).

The general assembly did not intend to equate "actual value" with "market value". Actual value is not the same as market value and the terms cannot be used interchangeably. Colo. Interstate Gas Co. v. Huddleston, 28 P.3d 958 (Colo. App. 2000).

The general assembly's intent is apparent from its use of the term "actual value" when referring to the overall property value, and use of "market value" to refer only to the value of a public utilities outstanding securities during the calendar year preceding valuation. Colo. Interstate Gas Co. v. Huddleston, 28 P.3d 958 (Colo. App. 2000).

Applied in Salt River Project v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 719 P.2d 368 (Colo. App. 1986).

39-4-103. Schedules of property - confidential records - late filing penalties.

(1) (a) Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph (a), no later than April 1 of each year, each public utility doing business in this state shall file with the administrator, on a form provided by the administrator, a statement, signed by an officer of such public utility under the penalties of perjury in the second degree, containing such information concerning itself and all of its property, wherever situated, as the administrator may reasonably require for the purpose of determining the actual value of such public utility in this state and for apportioning the valuation for assessment of such public utility among the several counties of this state. Upon good cause shown, the administrator may grant an extension for filing such statement to any public utility. Any extension granted pursuant to this paragraph (a) shall be for a reasonable amount of time as determined by the administrator.

(b) Such statement shall include a specific identification of each and every item of property owned, leased, or used which is not included in the rendition of the operating property and plant and the county in which each item is located.

(1.5) (a) If a public utility fails to complete a statement of property and legally postmark it for return by April 1, the administrator shall impose on such public utility a late filing penalty in the amount of one hundred dollars for each calendar day the statement of property remains delinquent; except that the late filing penalty shall not exceed three thousand dollars. If, by June 1, the public utility continues to be delinquent in filing a statement of property, the administrator shall, in addition to imposing a late filing penalty, determine the actual value of such utility on the basis of the best information available. All late filing penalties shall be credited to the general fund.

(b) If any public utility fails to file a completed statement of property, or includes in a filed statement of property any information concerning the public utility property which is false, erroneous, or misleading, or fails to include in the statement of property any taxable property owned by the public utility, then the administrator may determine the actual value of such taxable property on the basis of the best information available.

(c) If a public utility fails to file a statement of property and does not file a petition or complaint pursuant to section 39-4-108 regarding the actual value of its taxable property as determined on the basis of the best information available pursuant to this subsection (1.5), the public utility shall be deemed to have waived any right to file an abatement or refund petition regarding such actual value pursuant to section 39-10-114.

(2) All such statements filed with the administrator shall be considered private documents and shall be available only to the administrator and the employees of the division of property taxation and to assessors.

39-4-104. Inspection of records of utility. The division of property taxation, through the administrator, and its employees, shall have the right at any time, upon demand, to inspect the books, accounts, and records of any public utility doing business in this state for the purpose of verifying the information contained in its filed statement and to examine under oath any officer, employee, or agent of such public utility. Any person making such demand upon a public utility on behalf of the administrator shall produce and exhibit his authority to make such inspection or examination.

By order or subpoena, the administrator may require the production of any books, accounts, or records of any public utility doing business in this state, or verified copies of the same, for examination, and any public utility failing or refusing to comply with any such order or subpoena shall forfeit and pay to the state the sum of one hundred dollars for each day it so fails or refuses.

(1) Repealed.

(2) In the specific case of a telegraph company, the administrator shall:

(a) Determine, as of the last day of December of each year, the actual value of such company as a unit, or of its property and plant within this state, in the manner provided in section 39-4-102;

(b) Allocate to this state, if the actual value of such company is determined as a unit, that proportion of such actual value as in his judgment accurately represents the value of the property and plant of such company within this state, utilizing commonly recognized methods of allocation as in his judgment are just and equitable;

(c) Compute the valuation for assessment of such company in this state as provided in section 39-1-104;

(d) Apportion the valuation for assessment of such company in this state among the several counties of this state in such proportion as in his judgment will fairly represent the valuation for assessment within each such county, utilizing commonly recognized methods of apportioning as in his judgment are just and equitable.

(3) In the specific case of a telephone company, the administrator shall:

(a) Determine, as of the last day of December of each year, the actual value of such company as a unit, or of its property and plant within this state, in the manner provided in section 39-4-102;

(b) Allocate to this state, if the actual value of such company is determined as a unit, that proportion of such actual value as in his judgment accurately represents the value of the property and plant of such company within this state, utilizing commonly recognized methods of allocation as in his judgment are just and equitable;

(c) Compute the valuation for assessment of such company in this state as provided in section 39-1-104;

(d) Apportion the valuation for assessment of such company in this state among the several counties of this state in such proportion as in his judgment will fairly represent the valuation for assessment within each such county, utilizing commonly recognized methods of apportioning as in his judgment are just and equitable.

(4) Repealed.

(5) In the specific case of a pipeline company engaged in the transportation of gas, oil, or petroleum products or coal slurry or other coal products in pipelines through or in this state, the administrator shall:

(a) Determine, as of the last day of December of each year, the actual value of the property of such company within this state, either in the manner provided in section 39-4-102 or, with respect to its pipelines, on a diameter per inch per mile basis and its land, improvements, pump and compressor stations, and miscellaneous equipment, wherever situated, being valued separately in the same manner as all other real and personal property;

(b) Compute the valuation for assessment of such company in this state as provided in section 39-1-104;

(c) Apportion the valuation for assessment of such company in this state among the several counties of the state in such proportion as in his judgment will fairly represent the valuation for assessment within each such county, utilizing commonly recognized methods of apportioning as in his judgment shall be just and equitable.

ANNOTATION

No commerce clause violation. Where the utility's intangible property, in-state circuits leased by the utility to transmit calls in and out of state, provides a sufficient nexus between the utility and the state to support a tax, and where the tax was apportioned in the tax administrator's judgment to represent the value of the utility's property and plant within the state, the resulting valuation for assessment did not violate the commerce clause. U.S. Transmission Sys. v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 715 P.2d 1249 (Colo. 1986).

Allocation formula for apportioning the unitary value of a telephone company's property to Colorado. In the absence of a showing of significant prejudice by petitioner, the board's employment of a single factor allocation formula based on gross revenues was in compliance with the tax administrator's statutory charge to apportion fairly the value of the property and plant to represent the value attributable to the state. U.S. Transmission Sys. v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 715 P.2d 1249 (Colo. 1986).

39-4-107. Statement of valuation to counties. No later than July 1 in each year, the administrator shall advise both the assessor of each county wherein property of a public utility is located and the public utility itself of the valuation of such public utility in such county, and such amount shall be entered on the tax roll of such county by the assessor in the same manner as though determined by the assessor.

39-4-108. Complaint - hearing - decision. (1) Any public utility, being of the opinion that the actual value of its property and plant as determined by the administrator is illegal, erroneous, or not uniform with the actual value of like property similarly situated, as determined by the administrator, may, no later than July 15, file a petition or complaint with the administrator, setting forth such illegality, error, or lack of uniformity.

(2) Any assessor or board of county commissioners, being of the opinion that the actual value of the property and plant of any public utility as determined by the administrator is illegal, erroneous, or not uniform with the actual value of like property similarly situated, as determined by the administrator, or that the amount of valuation of any public utility has not been correctly apportioned among the counties entitled thereto may, no later than July 15, file a petition or complaint with the administrator setting forth such illegality, error, lack of uniformity, or incorrect apportionment.

(3) Upon the filing of any petition or complaint provided for in this section, the administrator shall cause notice of such filing to be given to the assessor and the board of county commissioners of any county directly affected and to any public utility directly affected, as may appear from such petition or complaint. Such notice shall be mailed at least five days prior to the meeting with the administrator at which such petition or complaint will be heard.

(4) The administrator shall, on the first working day after notices of valuation are mailed and on succeeding days if necessary, hear all such petitions and complaints. In case there are several petitions or complaints filed involving like questions, the same may be consolidated for the purpose of hearing and determination. The administrator shall hear all evidence presented and listen to arguments touching upon the matters concerning which the petition or complaint was filed. He shall have power to subpoena and compel the attendance of witnesses and to require the production of any books or records deemed necessary to arrive at a proper determination of the matter. Upon good cause, any hearing may be adjourned from time to time, but in no event beyond July 27. Hearings conducted under this section shall be informal, and a verbatim record need not be made, as required under section 24-4-105 (13), C.R.S.

(5) The administrator shall render his decision upon any petition or complaint, in writing, no later than August 1 and shall transmit a copy thereof to all parties affected.

(6) If the administrator grants the petition, in whole or in part, the administrator shall make the appropriate corrections or changes in the valuation of such public utility, or in the apportionment thereof, and shall certify the same to the assessor of the county affected thereby. Such decision shall control all proceedings thereafter, the same as though originally certified by the administrator.

(7) If the administrator denies the petition, in whole or in part, all costs and expenses incurred in conducting the hearing shall be chargeable to the petitioner and shall be enforceable and collectible as in the case of other claims and demands.

(8) Further proceedings brought by a party adversely affected by the administrator's decision shall be before the board of assessment appeals under the provisions of section 39-2-125 or before the Denver district court for a trial de novo with no presumption in favor of any pending valuation, and no judicial review shall be available to any party under the provisions of section 39-4-109 until the board or the district court has rendered its decision.

ANNOTATION

This section provides no basis for the contention that the abatement and refund scheme is inapplicable to state-assessed public utility property or that the protest and adjustment scheme is the exclusive method for adjusting property tax disputes involving such property.

Huerfano County Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Atlantic Richfield Co., 976 P.2d 893 (Colo. App. 1999).

The protest and adjustment procedure under this section is a separate and independent procedural system from the abatement and refund procedure and is governed by a different statute. Huerfano County Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Atlantic Richfield Co., 976 P.2d 893 (Colo. App. 1999).

Applied in People v. Nichols, 34 Colo. App. 276, 527 P.2d 941 (1974).

39-4-109. Judicial review. (1) Any petitioner or any other public utility, assessor, or board of county commissioners adversely affected or the administrator may appeal any decision of the board of assessment appeals or the district court denying a petition in whole or in part to the court of appeals. No new or additional evidence may be introduced in the court of appeals unless such other public utility, assessor, or board of county commissioners adversely affected has had no opportunity to present such evidence at the hearing before the board of assessment appeals or at the trial in the district court; otherwise, the cause shall be heard on the record of the board of assessment appeals or the district court, which shall be certified by it to the court in which the appeal was taken. Whenever any new or additional evidence is introduced, the court, in its discretion, may remand the case to the board of assessment appeals or the district court for rehearing.

(2) An appeal may be taken to the court of appeals according to the Colorado appellate rules and the provisions of section 24-4-106 (11), C.R.S., after the decision of the board of assessment appeals or the district court is issued, but, if the appeal is taken by the public utility actually owning the property involved in the petition to the board of assessment appeals or the district court, such public utility shall pay the full amount of all taxes levied upon the valuation for assessment of its property and plant to the treasurer of the county in which the same is located prior to taking its appeal.

(3) If, upon appeal to the court of appeals, the petitioner is sustained, in whole or in part, then, upon presentation to the treasurer to whom the taxes were paid of a certified copy of the order modifying the valuation for assessment of its property and plant, the treasurer shall forthwith make the appropriate refund of taxes, together with refund interest at the same rate as delinquent interest as specified in section 39-10-104.5, and the petitioner shall also be entitled to a refund of costs incurred in the hearing before the board of assessment appeals or the trial in the district court and in the appeal to the court or such portion thereof as the court may decree; but, if judgment is for the board of assessment appeals, then the board of assessment appeals shall receive its costs from the appellant. Such refund interest shall only accrue from the date on which payment of taxes was received by the treasurer from the petitioner.

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

Office of county assessor created by constitution. The office of county assessor in each county was created by the constitution, but the duties thereof are prescribed by legislative acts. Bartlett & Co. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 152 Colo. 388, 382 P.2d 193 (1963).

Legislative duties must comply with constitution. County assessors have specific duties to perform in conformity with legislative directions and, in performing such duties, they must comply with the general admonition of § 3 of art. X, Colo. Const., with the ultimate goal of securing just and equalized valuations. Bartlett & Co. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 152 Colo. 388, 382 P.2d 193 (1963).

Applied in Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Colo. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 628 P.2d 156 (Colo. App. 1981).

39-5-102. When schedules required - nonresident owners listed. (1) Ownership of real property shall be ascertained by the assessor from the records of the county clerk and recorder, and owners of real property shall not be required to file schedules listing the same; but any person having or claiming to have an undivided interest in any real property, or any inchoate, possessory, or equitable interest therein, or any other estate less than the fee, or any lien on any real property may file a schedule with the assessor, specifying such interest.

(2) When the ownership of any real or personal property cannot be ascertained by the assessor after due diligence, he may list such property under the legend "owner unknown".

(3) The assessor shall furnish annually by the first day of June to the executive director of the department of revenue a list of the names and addresses of all nonresidents of the state as shown by the assessor's records as of the previous assessment date to have owned real or personal property within the county.

39-5-103. Property described. In listing tracts or parcels of real property, the assessor shall identify the same by section, or part of a section, township, and range, and, if such part of a section is not a legal subdivision, then by some other description sufficient to identify the same. In listing town or city lots, he shall describe the same by number of lot and block, or otherwise, in accordance with the system of numbering or describing used by the town or city in which said lots are located.

39-5-103.5. Maps of parcels of land in the county. (1) Prior to January 1, 1981, each assessor shall prepare and maintain full, accurate, and complete maps showing the parcels of land in his county. The maps shall include a master county index map, together with applicable township, section, and quarter-section maps, depending on density. Guidelines shall be established by the administrator to produce uniformity throughout the state. The guidelines shall include the definition of a parcel, the development of a parcel numbering system, map size, map scale, and suggestions for minimum information to be plotted.

(2) In fulfilling the duty imposed upon him by subsection (1) of this section, the assessor may employ other mapping resources or maps available to him.

39-5-104. Valuation of property. Each tract or parcel of land and each town or city lot shall be separately appraised and valued, except when two or more adjoining tracts, parcels, or lots are owned by the same person, in which case the same may be appraised and valued either separately or collectively. When a single structure, used for a single purpose, is located on more than one town or city lot, the entire land area shall be appraised and valued as a single property.

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

Separate assessments for estates owned by different persons. This section requires separate assessment where separate estates are owned by different persons. If the separate estate of an owner of an oil interest is held to be included in a description by section number of the surface without more to identify the severed interest, the result would be that the estate in oil is taxed without notice to the owner. Mitchell v. Espinosa, 125 Colo. 267, 243 P.2d 412 (1952).

This section permits single assessment of several adjoining lots if returned by the same person. Crisman v. Johnson, 23 Colo. 264, 47 P. 296 58 Am. St. R. 224 (1896).

Lots are presumed to be adjoining if so assessed. As public policy requires that all presumptions should be in favor of the legality of an assessment, where a complaint in an action protesting an assessment does not allege that the lots were not adjoining, the presumption is that they were. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Yingling, 14 Colo. App. 449, 60 P. 582 (1900).

39-5-104.5. Valuation of personal property. (1) On and after January 1, 1996, personal property shall be valued as of the assessment date, and the tax shall apply for the full assessment year without regard to any destruction, conveyance, relocation, or change in tax status occurring after the assessment date. The owner of taxable personal property on the assessment date shall be responsible for the property tax assessed for the full property tax year without proration.

(2) Personal property tax obligations resulting from any conveyance, relocation, or change in tax status of the property during the property tax year that are not in the process of collection as of January 1, 1997, shall be waived, and the treasurer shall not commence any action to collect such obligations.

39-5-104.7. Valuation of real and personal property that produces alternating current electricity from a renewable energy source. (1) (a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (1), on and after January 1, 2008, all real and personal property used to produce two megawatts or less of alternating current electricity from a renewable energy source shall be valued by the assessor in the county where the property is located in accordance with valuation procedures developed by the administrator.

(b) The valuation requirements specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) shall not apply to small or low impact hydroelectric energy facilities, geothermal energy facilities, biomass energy facilities, solar energy facilities, or wind energy facilities, as those terms are defined in section 39-4-101.

(2) In developing the valuation procedures specified in paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section, the administrator shall utilize the procedures adopted for determining the actual value of a renewable energy facility as specified in section 39-4-102 (1) (e).

(3) A taxpayer shall notify the taxpayer's county assessor when the taxpayer installs real and personal property used to produce two megawatts or less of alternating current electricity from a renewable energy source; except that, if the taxpayer obtains a building permit under the jurisdiction of a local government for the installation, the notification required in this subsection (3) shall not be necessary.

39-5-105. Improvements - water rights - valuation. (1) Improvements shall be appraised and valued separately from land, except improvements other than buildings on land which is used solely and exclusively for agricultural purposes, in which case the land, water rights, and improvements other than buildings shall be appraised and valued as a unit.

(1.1) (a) (I) Water rights, together with any dam, ditch, canal, flume, reservoir, bypass, pipeline, conduit, well, pump, or other associated structure or device as defined in article 92 of title 37, C.R.S., being used to produce water or held to produce or exchange water to support uses of any item of real property specified in section 39-1-102 (14), other than for agricultural purposes, shall not be appraised and valued separately but shall be appraised and valued with the item of real property served as a unit.

(II) For purposes of this section, valuing the water rights and the item of real property served by the water rights "as a unit" means that any increase in value of the property served with water made available directly, or by exchange, by the use of any dam, ditch, pipeline, canal, flume, reservoir, bypass, conduit, well, pump, or other associated structure or device, as defined in article 92 of title 37, C.R.S., shall be included in the valuation of the real property served by the water rights.

(b) The general assembly finds and declares that the value of water rights, and any dam, ditch, pipeline, canal, flume, reservoir, bypass, conduit, well, pump, or other associated structure or device, as defined in article 92 of title 37, C.R.S., used or held to produce or exchange water, for taxation purposes, should be recognized as a contribution to the value of all of the interests in the entire property served thereby and that the separate valuation of such water rights could result in double taxation. The provision of this subsection (1.1) shall not be construed to exempt any water rights from taxation but shall be construed as setting forth procedures for the valuation thereof.

39-5-107. Personal property schedule. (1) All taxable personal property shall be listed on a form of schedule approved by the administrator and prepared and furnished by the assessor. Such schedule shall be so designed as to show the owner's name, address, social security number or federal employer identification number, and the location and general description of the owner's taxable personal property, divided into the various subclasses, and shall provide sufficient space for the furnishing of such information, derived from the books of account, records, or Colorado income tax returns of the owner of such property, as may be required by the assessor to determine the actual value of such property.

(2) There shall be subjoined to such schedule the following declaration:

"I declare, under the penalty of perjury in the second degree, that this schedule, together with any accompanying exhibits or statements, has been examined by me and to the best of my knowledge, information, and belief sets forth a full and complete list of all taxable personal property owned by me, or in my possession, or under my control, located in county, Colorado, on the assessment date of this year; that such property has been reasonably described and its value fairly represented; and that no attempt has been made to mislead the assessor as to its age, quality, quantity, or value.

Exhibits and statements attached to the personal property schedule shall be deemed sufficient for the purposes of the schedule if such exhibits or statements clearly list the property, the cost of the property, and the date the property was acquired.

39-5-108.5. Furnished residential real property rental advertisements - information to be provided to the assessor - legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) Each assessor is required by law to discover and assess taxable personal property in the assessor's county and to provide each person known or believed to own taxable personal property in the county with a personal property schedule;

(b) Each owner of taxable personal property is required by law to list the owner's taxable personal property on the personal property schedule, and the receipt of a personal property schedule from the assessor provides notice to a property owner that the property owner may own taxable personal property, which helps to ensure that:

(I) More property owners comply with state property tax laws;

(II) The property tax burden is more fairly distributed; and

(III) The amount of property tax revenues lost by local governments due to property owners' lack of knowledge regarding the taxable status of certain personal property is minimized;

(c) Personal property that is used to furnish residential real property is exempt from property taxation so long as it is not used for the production of income at any time, but generally becomes subject to taxation if the residential real property is offered for rent on a furnished basis or otherwise used for business purposes;

(d) In certain areas of the state, a high proportion of residential real property is advertised for rent on a furnished basis directly by property owners or by real estate agents, property management companies, lodging companies, and internet and print-based listing services that act as agents for multiple property owners and advertise multiple properties for rent, and because the advertisements typically do not precisely identify the property offered for rent by address or the owner's name:

(I) It is difficult for each assessor to accurately identify which parcels of furnished residential real property are being offered for rent and to which owners of furnished residential real property the assessor should provide personal property schedules; and

(II) This difficulty impairs the fairness and efficiency of the property tax system and reduces property tax collections by making it more likely that owners of furnished residential real property rented to others will, in some cases deliberately and in many other cases due to a lack of notice regarding state property tax laws, fail to pay property taxes due on personal property used to furnish the residential real property; and

(e) It is therefore necessary and appropriate to require the owner of furnished residential real property or an agent of the owner who advertises the property for rent to provide identifying information regarding the property to the assessor of the county in which the property is located upon the request of the assessor made no more than twice during any year as specified in this section or as mutually agreed to by the assessor and the owner or agent pursuant to paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section.

(2) (a) Upon the request of the assessor of any county or city and county made no more than twice during any year:

(I) A property owner who advertises for rent furnished residential real property that is located within the county or city and county shall provide to the assessor a list that identifies each property so advertised by address; and

(II) An agent who advertises for rent on behalf of a property owner furnished residential real property that is located within the county or city and county shall provide to the assessor a list that identifies each property so advertised by owner and address.

(b) An assessor and a property owner or agent may mutually agree that the owner or agent shall annually provide to the assessor by a specified date the information that an assessor may require to be provided pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2).

(3) For purposes of this section, "agent" means a real estate broker, as defined in section 12-61-101 (2) (a), C.R.S., a property management company, a lodging company, an internet web site listing service, a print-based listing service, or any other person that either separately or as part of a package of services advertises furnished residential real property in the state for rent on behalf of the owner of the property in exchange for compensation.

(1) Whenever any taxable personal property is brought from outside the state into any county of the state at any time after the assessment date in any year, the owner shall list the property on the personal property schedule sent to the taxpayer pursuant to section 39-5-108.

(2) If any taxable personal property located in the state on the assessment date or brought into the state at any time after the assessment date is removed from the state before the next following assessment date, the owner of the property shall not be relieved of any tax obligation with respect to the property as a result of the transfer of the property for the property tax year in which the transfer occurred.

39-5-113. Movable equipment - apportionment of value. (1) Any person owning any portable or movable equipment which is apt to be located or maintained in two or more counties of the state during any calendar year shall indicate in a statement accompanying his personal property schedule the kind and description and a serial number, if available, of such equipment, the counties in which such equipment is apt to be located or maintained, and the estimated period of time during the calendar year in which such equipment is apt to be so located and maintained.

(2) The assessor of the county in which such equipment is located on the assessment date shall determine its value and shall apportion such value between the counties affected and the school districts thereof, in the proportion that the periods of time during which such equipment may be located or maintained in such counties bear to the full calendar year. He shall furnish a copy of such valuation and apportionment to the owner of such equipment or to his agent and shall also transmit a copy thereof to the assessor of each county affected as his authority to list the apportioned value of such equipment on the assessment roll of his county. For purposes of making such apportionment, the valuation of the portable or movable equipment made by the assessor of the county of original assessment shall be used by all county assessors involved.

(3) If, subsequent to the making of such apportionment of value, any such equipment is removed to a county not initially included in such apportionment or if any such equipment is located or maintained in any county for a period of time different from that used in the initial apportionment, then an amended apportionment of value shall be requested by the assessor of any county so affected. Such assessor shall furnish a copy of such requested amended apportionment to the owner of such equipment or to his agent and shall also transmit a copy thereof to the assessor of each county affected, as his authority to list such reapportioned value on the assessment roll of his county. Failure of a county assessor to request such an amended apportionment shall permit the original apportionment of value to stand, and no other county assessor shall assess such equipment as is listed in the original apportionment for any period during the year of the original assessment. If such amended apportionment of value is received by any assessor after he has filed his annual abstract of assessment with the administrator, then either an abatement or an additional assessment shall be made, as the case may be.

(4) Repealed.

39-5-113.3. Oil and gas drilling rigs - apportionment of value. (1) As soon after the assessment date as may be practicable, the assessor shall determine those oil or gas drilling rigs that were operating, stored, or maintained in the county during the preceding calendar year and shall mail or deliver two copies of a declaration to the place of business or drilling operation or to the residence of each person known or believed to own such rigs, or to the agent of such person. Such person or his agent shall list in such declaration all oil or gas drilling rigs owned by him, or in his possession, or under his control that were located in said county during the previous calendar year, attaching thereto the drilling logs of the respective rigs showing their various locations and corresponding dates. In addition, such person or his agent shall provide to the assessor of the first county in Colorado listed on each rig's log an inventory of that rig's equipment sufficient to determine a valuation for assessment. The original copy of the declaration shall be signed and returned to the assessor no later than the April 15 next following.

(2) The assessor, upon receiving such inventory and notification that his county was the first location of the rig in Colorado, shall determine its value and shall apportion such value between the counties in which the drilling rig was located during the preceding year and the districts thereof, in the proportion that the periods of time during which such equipment was located or maintained in such counties bear to the full calendar year. On or before June 15, the assessor shall furnish a copy of such valuation and apportionment to the owner of such equipment or to his agent and shall also transmit a copy thereof to the assessor of each county affected, together with a copy of the drilling log for that rig. For purposes of making such apportionment, the valuation of the oil or gas drilling rig made by the assessor of the first Colorado county on the log shall be used by all county assessors involved. In the subsequent counties, the assessor shall accept the returned declaration with the rig's name and location data as a proper filing.

(3) The values so apportioned shall be included in the affected counties' abstracts of assessment filed pursuant to section 39-5-123.

(4) This section shall apply to the apportionment of value of oil or gas drilling rigs and not the provisions of section 39-5-113.

(5) For purposes of this section "oil and gas drilling rigs" shall be defined by the property tax administrator pursuant to section 39-2-109 (1) (e), which definitions shall be uniform and consistent throughout the state.

39-5-113.5. Works of art - apportionment of value. (1) Any persons owning any works of art which are apt to be displayed in any county of the state during any calendar year shall indicate in a statement accompanying their personal property schedule the kind and description of such works of art and the estimated period of time during the calendar year in which such works of art are to be so displayed and shall provide to the assessor proof of exemption pursuant to the provisions of sections 39-3-123 and 39-26-102 (2.5). Failure to file a statement results in forfeiture of a claim for exemption in that calendar year.

(2) The assessor of the county in which such works of art are displayed shall determine its value in the proportion that the periods of time during which such works of art may be displayed bear to the full calendar year. He shall furnish a copy of such valuation to the owner of such works of art or to his agent.

39-5-114. Unclassified property shown on schedule. If any person owns, holds, or controls any kind or character of taxable personal property which is not specifically classified on the personal property schedule, he shall note such property therein, and such notation shall be held to be a sufficient description thereof for purposes of valuing the same, without further enumeration or description; but if the assessor so requests, such person shall disclose of what said property consists and its uses in detail.

39-5-115. Taxpayer to furnish information - affidavit on mineral leases. (1) At any time prior or subsequent to April 15 of each year, the assessor may request any person known or believed to own taxable property located in his county to furnish such information or to make available for examination such records as may be required by him to determine the actual value of such property.

(2) Within ten days after the execution of a mineral lease, a lessor shall file with the assessor an affidavit stating the annual net rental payable under such lease for the purposes of determining the actual value of such mineral interest where the income approach to appraisal is utilized by the assessor. Such affidavit shall constitute a private document and shall be available on a confidential basis as provided in section 39-5-120.

39-5-116. Failure to file schedule - failure to fully and completely disclose. (1) If any person owning taxable personal property to whom one or more personal property schedules have been mailed, or upon whom the assessor or his deputy has called and left one or more schedules, fails to complete and return the same to the assessor by the April 15 next following, unless by such date such person has requested an extension of filing time as provided for in this section, the assessor shall impose a late filing penalty in the amount of fifty dollars or, if a lesser amount, fifteen percent of the amount of tax due on the valuation for assessment determined for the personal property for which any delinquent schedule or schedules are required to be filed. Any person who is unable to properly complete and file one or more of such schedules by April 15 may request an extension of time for filing, for a period of either ten or twenty days, which request shall be in writing and shall be accompanied by payment of an extension fee in the amount of two dollars per day of extension requested. A single request for extension shall be sufficient to extend the filing date for all such schedules which a person is required to file in a single county. Any person who fails to file one or more schedules by the end of the extension time requested shall be subject to a late filing penalty as though no extension had been requested. Further, if any person fails to complete and file one or more schedules by April 15 or, if an extension is requested, by the end of the requested extension, then the assessor may determine the actual value of such person's taxable personal property on the basis of the best information available to and obtainable by him and shall promptly notify such person or his agent of such valuation. Extension fees and late filing penalties shall be fees of the assessor's office. Penalties, if unpaid, shall be certified to the treasurer for collection with taxes levied upon the person's property.

(2) (a) If any person owning taxable personal property to whom two successive personal property schedules have been mailed or upon whom the assessor or his deputy has called and left one or more schedules fails to make a full and complete disclosure of his personal property for assessment purposes, the assessor, after notifying the person of his failure to make such a full and complete disclosure and allowing such person ten days from the date of notification to comply, shall, upon discovery, determine the actual value of such person's taxable property on the basis of the best information available to and obtainable by him and shall promptly notify such person or his agent of such valuation. The assessor shall impose a penalty in an amount of up to twenty-five percent of the valuation for assessment determined for the omitted personal property. Penalties, if unpaid, shall be certified to the treasurer for collection with taxes levied upon the person's personal property. A person fails to make a full and complete disclosure of his personal property pursuant to this paragraph (a) if he includes in a filed schedule any information concerning his property which is false, erroneous, or misleading or fails to include in a schedule any taxable property owned by him.

(b) Any person who makes full and complete disclosure on the first personal property schedules issued to him on or after August 1, 1987, shall not be assessed a penalty for property previously omitted from the assessment rolls under this article.

(c) Any person subject to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) shall have the right to pursue the administrative remedies available to taxpayers under this title, dependent upon the basis of his claim.

39-5-117. Property improvements destroyed after assessment date. Whenever any improvements are destroyed or demolished subsequent to the assessment date in any year, it is the duty of the owner thereof or the owner's agent to promptly notify the assessor of such destruction or demolition and the date upon which the same occurred. In all such cases, such improvements shall be valued by the assessor at the proportion of its valuation for the full calendar year that the period of time in such year prior to its destruction or demolition bears to the full calendar year. Failure of the owner thereof or of the owner's agent to so notify the assessor prior to the date taxes are levied shall be considered a waiver, and no proportionate valuation by the assessor shall then be required.

39-5-118. Failure to receive schedule - validity of valuation. ANNOTATION

Statute did not unconstitutionally violate taxpayers' due process rights where the statutory scheme provided a protest procedure which the taxpayers choose to forego and the taxpayers own actions, not those of any governmental entity, have allegedly deprived the taxpayers of their property. Prop. Tax Adm'r v. Prod. Geophysical, 860 P.2d 514 (Colo. 1993).

The purpose of this section is to prevent an invalidation of an assessment solely on the ground that a taxpayer has failed to return a property tax schedule or that the assessor, for any other reason, has failed to receive the schedule. Prop. Tax Adm'r v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 837 P.2d 244 (Colo. App. 1992).

Challenges based on overvaluation. Although taxpayers challenged the amount of taxes assessed as excessive, this was not an "overvaluation" as the term is used in § 39-10-114 because, due to the taxpayers' wrongful inaction, the assessor's BIA valuations are presumed to be valid. Therefore, for purposes of § 39-10-114, the assessor's valuation cannot be considered an overvaluation, and § 39-10-114 may not be asserted by a taxpayer to avoid the provisions of this section and the protest procedure under § 39-5-122. Prop. Tax Adm'r v. Prod. Geophysical, 860 P.2d 514 (Colo. 1993).

39-5-119. Refusal to answer - court order. Whenever any person refuses to be interviewed by the assessor or his deputy or refuses to answer any pertinent questions relative to taxable property owned by him, or in his possession, or under his control, then, in the discretion of the district court having jurisdiction in the county and upon affidavit of the assessor or his deputy showing such refusal to be interviewed or to answer such questions, such person shall be cited before such court and shall be required by the court then and there to submit to such interview and to answer such questions. All costs of such proceedings shall be assessed by the court against such person, and judgment and execution shall be entered therefor as in other civil cases.

39-5-120. Tax schedules endorsed and filed - availability for inspection. All personal property schedules and exhibits or statements attached thereto returned to or secured by the assessor shall be endorsed with the name of the person whose taxable personal property is listed therein and shall be filed in either alphabetical or numerical order and retained for a period of six years, after which time they may be destroyed. Such schedules and accompanying exhibits or statements shall be considered private documents and shall be available on a confidential basis only to the assessor and the employees of his office, the treasurer and the employees of his office, the annual study contractor hired pursuant to section 39-1-104 (16) and his employees, the executive director of the department of revenue and the employees of his office, the administrator and the employees of his office, and the person whose taxable personal property is listed therein. Such exhibits or statements shall be available on a confidential basis to the board and the county board of equalization when information contained in such documents is pertinent to an appeal or protest.

39-5-121. Notice of valuation - legislative declaration. (1) (a) No later than May 1 in each year, the assessor shall mail to each person who owns land or improvements a notice setting forth the valuation of such land or improvements. For agricultural property, the notice shall separately state the actual value of such land or improvements in the previous year, the actual value in the current year, and the amount of any adjustment in actual value. For all other property, the notice shall state the total actual value of such land and improvements together in the previous year, the total actual value in the current year, and the amount of any adjustment in total actual value. The notice shall not state the valuation for assessment of such land or improvements or combination of land and improvements. Based upon the classification of such taxable property, the notice shall also set forth either the ratio of valuation for assessment to be applied to said actual value of all taxable real property other than residential real property prior to the calculation of property taxes for the current year or the projected ratio of valuation for assessment to be applied to said actual value of residential real property prior to the calculation of property taxes for the current year and that any change or adjustment of the projected ratio of valuation for assessment for residential real property shall not constitute grounds for the protest or abatement of taxes. With the approval of the board of county commissioners, the assessor may include in the notice an estimate of the taxes that shall be owed for the current property tax year. If such estimate is included, the notice shall clearly state that the tax amount is merely an estimate based upon the best available information. The notice shall state, in bold-faced type, that the taxpayer has the right to protest any adjustment in valuation but not the estimate of taxes if such an estimate is included in the notice, the classification of the property that determines the assessment percentage to be applied, and the dates and places at which the assessor will hear such protest. Such notice shall also set forth the following: That, to preserve the taxpayer's right to protest, the taxpayer must notify the assessor either in writing or in person of the taxpayer's objection and protest; that such notice must be delivered, postmarked, or given in person no later than June 1; and that, after such date, the taxpayer's right to object and protest the adjustment in valuation is lost. The notice shall be mailed together with a form that, if completed by the taxpayer, allows the taxpayer to explain the basis for the taxpayer's valuation of the property. Such form may be completed by the taxpayer to initiate an appeal of the assessor's valuation. However, in accordance with section 39-5-122 (2), completion of this form shall not constitute the exclusive means of appealing the assessor's valuation. For the years that intervene between changes in the level of value, if the difference between the actual value of such land or improvements in the previous year and the actual value of such land or improvements in the intervening year as set forth in such notice constitutes an increase in actual value of more than seventy-five percent, the assessor shall mail together with the notice an explanation of the reasons for such increase in actual value.

(b) (I) Commencing as provided in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b), the notice of valuation for the first year of each reassessment cycle that is mailed to each person who owns land or improvements pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) shall include, in addition to the information specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1), an itemized listing of the land and improvements and the characteristics that are germane to the value of such land and improvements.

(II) In a county with a population in excess of fifty thousand people, the information specified in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b) shall be included in notices of valuation mailed on or after January 1, 2001. In a county with a population of twenty-five thousand people or more but not more than fifty thousand people, the information specified in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b) shall be included in notices of valuation mailed on or after January 1, 2003. In a county with a population of less than twenty-five thousand people, the information specified in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b) shall be included in notices of valuation mailed on or after January 1, 2005.

(1.2) A notice of valuation included with the tax bill shall fulfill the requirements of subsection (1) of this section. The general assembly hereby finds and declares that the notice procedure set forth in this subsection (1.2) facilitates the efficient and economic operation of local governments, consistent with the expressed purpose of section 20 of article X of the state constitution to reasonably restrain most the growth of government, and still fulfills the purposes of section 20 (8) (c) of said article X in the intervening year of each reassessment cycle when there is no change in value for the property in such year.

(1.5) (a) No later than June 15 in each year, the assessor shall mail to each person who owns taxable personal property a notice setting forth the valuation of the personal property. The notice shall state the actual value of such personal property in the previous year, the actual value in the current year, and the amount of any adjustment in actual value. The notice shall not state the valuation for assessment of the personal property. The notice shall also set forth the ratio of valuation for assessment to be applied to said actual value prior to the calculation of property taxes for the current year. With the approval of the board of county commissioners, the assessor may include in the notice an estimate of the taxes that shall be owed for the current property tax year. If such an estimate is included, the notice shall clearly state that the tax amount is merely an estimate based upon the best available information. The notice shall state, in bold-faced type, that the taxpayer has the right to protest any adjustment in valuation but not the estimate of taxes if such an estimate is included in the notice, and the dates and places at which the assessor will hear protests. The notice shall also set forth the following: To preserve the taxpayer's right to protest, the taxpayer must notify the assessor either by mail or in person of the taxpayer's objection and protest; that the notice must be postmarked or physically delivered no later than June 30; and that, after such date, the taxpayer's right to object and protest the adjustment in valuation is lost. The notice shall be mailed together with a form that, if completed by the taxpayer, allows the taxpayer to explain the basis for the taxpayer's valuation of the property. The form may be completed by the taxpayer to initiate an appeal of the assessor's valuation. However, in accordance with section 39-5-122 (2), completion of this form shall not constitute the exclusive means of appealing the assessor's valuation.

(b) Notwithstanding paragraph (a) of this subsection (1.5), for taxable personal property on oil and gas leaseholds or lands for which the operator has filed the statement required by section 39-7-101 (1), the assessor shall send the notice of valuation only to the operator, who shall accept it. The acceptance of the notice of valuation by the operator shall not be construed as an indication that the operator agrees with the amount of the actual value of the property stated in the notice or as obligating the operator to pay the tax attributable to property in which the operator has no ownership interest. Upon the written request of the county treasurer, the operator shall submit to the treasurer a written statement containing the name and address of each person who has an ownership interest in the property. If the operator fails to submit the statement within thirty days after receiving the request, the operator shall pay a penalty to the treasurer in the amount of one hundred dollars or the amount of tax due on the property, whichever is less.

(1.7) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a taxpayer may request to receive by electronic transmission the notices of valuation required by subsections (1) and (1.5) of this section. The taxpayer shall submit along with the request an electronic address to which the assessor may send future notices of valuation. The assessor, upon receipt of such request by a taxpayer to receive notices of valuation electronically, may send all future notices of valuation by electronic transmission to the electronic address supplied by the taxpayer; except that, if a taxpayer subsequently requests to cease the electronic transmission of such notices and requests to receive future notices of valuation by mail, the assessor shall comply with the request. Failure of a taxpayer to receive the electronic notice of valuation shall not preclude collection by the treasurer of the amount of taxes due from and payable by the taxpayer.

(2) (a) The assessor shall, no later than August 25 of each year, notify each taxing entity subject to the provisions of section 29-1-301, C.R.S., the division of local government, and the department of education of the total valuation for assessment of land and improvements within the entity and shall also report: The amount of the total valuation for assessment attributable to annexation or inclusion of additional land, and the improvements thereon, and personal property connected therewith, within the taxing entity for the preceding year; the amount attributable to new construction and personal property connected therewith, as defined by the administrator in manuals prepared pursuant to section 39-2-109 (1) (e), within the taxing entity for the preceding year; the amount attributable to increased volume of production for the preceding year by a producing mine if said mine is wholly or partially within the taxing entity and if such increase in volume of production causes an increase in the level of services provided by the taxing entity; and the amount attributable to previously legally exempt federal property that becomes taxable if such property causes an increase in the level of services provided by the taxing entity.

(b) In addition to the information specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), the assessor shall, no later than August 25 of each year, notify each taxing entity except school districts of the total actual value of all real property within the taxing entity and the total actual value of all real property within the taxing entity from construction of taxable real property improvements, minus destruction of similar improvements, and additions to, minus deletions from, taxable real property, in accordance with the manner prescribed by the administrator in manuals prepared pursuant to section 39-2-109 (1) (e).

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

Assessor's compliance with section condition precedent to tax levy. A compliance with this section by the county assessor is a condition precedent to the validity of a tax levy. Goldsmith v. Standard Chem. Co., 77 Colo. 1, 233 P. 1110 (1925).

The assessor cannot ignore law and deprive taxpayer of rights. The omission of an assessor to give the statutory notice of a change in a tax schedule to a taxpayer is a denial of a substantial right; the assessor cannot, by ignoring the law, deprive the taxpayer of a right expressly fixed by these sections. Goldsmith v. Standard Chem. Co., 77 Colo. 1, 233 P. 1110 (1925).

Proper discharge of duties is rebuttable presumption. A rebuttable presumption exists that public officials, including county assessors, properly discharge their statutory duties. Canyon Crest Villas S. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 36 Colo. App. 409, 542 P.2d 395 (1975).

Section deemed mandatory when taxpayer denied hearing. The requirements of this section and §§ 39-8-103 and 39-8-104 are to be construed as mandatory only in specific instances where it is clearly shown on behalf of an aggrieved taxpayer, that, on account of noncompliance with these statutory requirements by the county officials charged therewith, the taxpayer has been deprived of an opportunity for a hearing, or other right important to him. Northcutt v. Burton, 127 Colo. 145, 254 P.2d 1013 (1953); Rico Argentine Mining Co. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 215 F. Supp. 208 (D. Colo. 1963).

No deprivation of relief by failure to file timely notice. The failure to provide timely notice of the correct amount of an increase in valuation does not deprive taxpayer of the right to administrative or judicial relief. Modular Cmtys., Inc. v. McKnight, 191 Colo. 101, 550 P.2d 866 (1976).

39-5-121.5. Valuation - inspection of data by taxpayers. At the written request of any taxpayer or any agent of such taxpayer and subject to such confidentiality requirements as provided by law, the assessor shall, within seven working days after receipt of said request, make available to the taxpayer or agent the data used by the assessor in determining the actual value of any property owned by such taxpayer. At the assessor's election, the assessor may either mail, fax, or send by electronic transmission to the address, phone number, or electronic address supplied by said taxpayer or agent such data. Such data shall include but shall not be limited to the data derived from the declarations filed pursuant to the provisions of article 14 of this title and confidential data, provided that such confidential data shall be presented in such a manner that the source cannot be identified. Upon receipt of such request, the assessor shall notify the taxpayer or agent of the estimated cost of providing such information, payment of which shall be made prior to providing such information. Upon providing such information, the assessor may include a bill for the reasonable cost above the estimated cost and up to the statutory maximum which shall be due and payable upon receipt by the taxpayer or agent.

39-5-122. Taxpayer's remedies to correct errors. (1) On or before May 1 of each year, the assessor shall give public notice in at least one issue of a newspaper published in his or her county that, beginning on the first working day after notices of adjusted valuation are mailed to taxpayers, the assessor will sit to hear all objections and protests concerning valuations of taxable real property determined by the assessor for the current year; that, for a taxpayer's objection and protest to be heard, notice must be given to the assessor; and that such notice must be postmarked, delivered, or given in person by June 1. The notice shall also state that objections and protests concerning valuations of taxable personal property determined by the assessor for the current year will be heard commencing June 15; that, for a taxpayer's objection and protest to be heard, notice must be given to the assessor; and that such notice must be postmarked or physically delivered by June 30. If there is no such newspaper, then such notice shall be conspicuously posted in the offices of the assessor, the treasurer, and the county clerk and recorder, and in at least two other public places in the county seat. The assessor shall send news releases containing such notice to radio stations, television stations, and newspapers of general circulation in the county.

(2) If any person is of the opinion that his or her property has been valued too high, has been twice valued, or is exempt by law from taxation or that property has been erroneously assessed to such person, he or she may appear before the assessor and object, complete the form mailed with his or her notice of valuation pursuant to section 39-5-121 (1) or (1.5), or file a written letter of objection and protest by mail with the assessor's office before the last day specified in the notice, stating in general terms the reason for the objection and protest. Reasons for the objection and protest may include, but shall not be limited to, the installation and operation of surface equipment relating to oil and gas wells on agricultural land. Any change or adjustment of any ratio of valuation for assessment for residential real property pursuant to the provisions of section 39-1-104.2 shall not constitute grounds for an objection. If the form initiating an appeal or the written letter of objection and protest is filed by mail, it shall be presumed that it was received as of the day it was postmarked. If the form initiating an appeal or the written letter of objection and protest is hand-delivered, the date it was received by the assessor shall be stamped on the form or letter. As stated in the public notice given by the assessor pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, the taxpayer's notification to the assessor of his or her objection and protest to the adjustment in valuation must be delivered, postmarked, or given in person by June 1 in the case of real property. In the case of personal property, the notice must be postmarked or physically delivered by June 30. All such forms and letters received from protesters shall be presumed to be on time unless the assessor can present evidence to show otherwise. The county shall not prescribe the written form of objection and protest to be used. The protester shall have the opportunity on the days specified in the public notice to present his or her objection in writing or protest in person and be heard, whether or not there has been a change in valuation of such property from the previous year and whether or not any change is the result of a determination by the assessor for the current year or by the state board of equalization for the previous year. If the assessor finds any valuation to be erroneous or otherwise improper, the assessor shall correct the error. If the assessor declines to change any valuation that the assessor has determined, the assessor shall state his or her reasons in writing on the form described in section 39-8-106, shall insert the information otherwise required by the form, and shall mail two copies of the completed form to the person presenting the objection and protest so denied on or before the last regular working day of the assessor in June in the case of real property and on or before July 10 in the case of personal property; except that, if a county has made an election pursuant to section 39-5-122.7 (1), the assessor shall mail the copies on or before the last working day of the assessor in August in the case of both real and personal property.

(3) Any person whose objection and protest has been denied in writing by the assessor may appeal to the county board of equalization in the manner provided in article 8 of this title.

(4) The assessor shall continue his hearings from day to day until all objections and protests have been heard, but all such hearings shall be concluded by June 1 in the case of real property and July 5 in the case of personal property.

(5) (a) Any written statement given by any assessor which consists only of a denial of any objection and protest or which consists of a statement referring to compliance by the county with the requirements of valuation for assessment study shall not be sufficient to satisfy the requirements of subsection (2) of this section concerning the statement of reasons why an objection and protest is denied.

(b) Any information presented by the taxpayer regarding the value of his property shall be considered by the assessor in determining whether an adjustment in value is warranted.

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

Statutes fixing meeting times deemed directory. Statutes fixing times for meetings and other functions of state officials are merely directory; the alleged noncompliance therewith on the part of said officials being matters nonprejudicial to complainants, they are not subject to attack on their part. Citizens' Comm. for Fair Property Taxation v. Warner, 127 Colo. 121, 254 P.2d 1005 (1953).

Steps in assessment process which are for benefit of taxpayer are mandatory. Sperry Rand Corp. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 31 Colo. App. 444, 503 P.2d 356 (1972).

The statutory requirements set forth in this section are mandatory only if an aggrieved taxpayer can show that noncompliance by county officials has deprived him of an opportunity for a hearing or other right which he might otherwise have had. Modular Cmtys., Inc. v. McKnight, 191 Colo. 101, 550 P.2d 866 (1976).

The provisions of § 39-8-106 and this section are remedial. Kortz v. Ellingson, 181 F. Supp. 857 (D. Colo. 1960).

Property tax valuation challenge. A taxpayer has the statutory right to challenge a property tax valuation for each tax year under the protest and adjustment procedure and possibly through de novo evidentiary proceedings before the board of assessment appeals. Weingarten v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 876 P.2d 118 (Colo. App. 1994).

Subsection (2) is unambiguous and authorizes an assessor to raise a property valuation after a taxpayer has filed a protest challenging the original valuation of the property. San Miguel County Bd. of Equaliz. v. Telluride Co., 947 P.2d 1381 (Colo. 1997).

Aggrieved person must conform to provisions of section. This section gives to an aggrieved property owner a remedy which, in its absence, he would not have by prescribing a special procedure to which the person seeking to avail himself of its provisions must conform. It cannot by construction be extended to embrace cases not falling within its letter or spirit. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Denver Union Water Co., 32 Colo. 382, 76 P. 1060 (1904).

If an assessment is erroneous or excessive, the right to relief can be lost through failure to pursue the proper statutory remedy. Citizens' Comm. for Fair Property Taxation v. Warner, 127 Colo. 121, 254 P.2d 1005 (1953).

When burden on taxpayer to show illegal tax. Where a taxpayer claims a refund of taxes, paid under protest, for over-valuation in successive years, and where the facts show that the initial over-valuation based on the type of construction was neither illegal nor invalid, the taxpayer has burden, if proceeding under this section, of showing that the tax was illegally laid, erroneous in its entirety, and incapable of adjustment. City & County of Denver v. Athmar Park Bldg. Co., 151 Colo. 424, 378 P.2d 638 (1963).

There is no need to characterize the tax paid as wholly illegal before claiming a refund. Bd. of Assessment Appeals v. Benbrook, 735 P.2d 860 (Colo. 1987) (overruling prior cases).

Administrative remedies to be exhausted before court action permissible. Exhaustion of administrative remedies, as provided by this section and § 39-8-106 is a requisite precedent to the maintenance of a court action. Citizens' Comm. for Fair Property Taxation v. Warner, 127 Colo. 121, 254 P.2d 1005 (1953).

The trial court is without jurisdiction to permit condominium owners to bring a class action challenging the assessor's routine increase in valuation of all condominiums upon their conversion where most owners had not pursued the remedy provided by this section. Hoffman v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 683 P.2d 783 (Colo. 1984).

Until relief under this section is sought, a taxpayer cannot appeal. Bordner v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 92 Colo. 81, 18 P.2d 323 (1932).

A taxpayer is not entitled to bring C.R.C.P. 106 proceeding without first having filed its protest and pursued the proper administrative remedies. Honeywell Info. Sys. v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 654 P.2d 337 (Colo. App. 1982).

No deprivation of relief by failure to provide timely notice. The failure to provide timely notice of the correct amount of an increase in valuation does not deprive taxpayer of the right to administrative or judicial relief. Modular Cmtys., Inc. v. McKnight, 191 Colo. 101, 550 P.2d 866 (1976).

Provisions on abatement and refund of taxes apply to relief sought under this section. When a taxpayer who seeks administrative relief under this section prevails before the board of assessment appeals or the district court and such board or court's decision occurs after the challenged property tax is due, §§ 39-1-113 and 39-10-114 apply to the refund of taxes paid under § 39-8-109. Bd. of Assessment Appeals v. Benbrook, 735 P.2d 860 (Colo. 1987).

Because the term "erroneous valuation for assessment" in § 39-10-114 on abatement of taxes and "excessive valuation" under the protest and adjustment provisions of this section refer to the same process of assessment, the remedies available to the taxpayer regarding abatements apply to refunds ordered pursuant to this section. Bd. of Assessment Appeals v. Benbrook, 735 P.2d 860 (Colo. 1987).

No choice of remedies. The legislature's perpetuation of procedures and remedies for protest and adjustment separate and distinct from procedures and remedies for abatement and refund indicates that a taxpayer who seeks redress under one procedure cannot claim the remedy of the other procedure if the taxpayer ultimately prevails. Gates Rubber Co. v. Bd. of Equalization, 770 P.2d 1189 (Colo. 1989).

For the assessor's yearly property valuations of which the taxpayer has received notice, this section is the appropriate route of protest. Sections 39-1-113 and 39-10-114 provide a remedy for the abatement or refund of property taxes that cannot be challenged under this section. Valley Country Club v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 778 P.2d 285 (Colo. App. 1989), rev'd on other grounds, 792 P.2d 299 (Colo. 1990).

If a taxpayer receives no notice of a higher assessment and therefore is unable to file a timely protest under this section, the taxpayer may instead apply for abatement or refund under §§ 39-1-113 and 39-10-114. Valley Country Club v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 778 P.2d 285 (Colo. App. 1989), rev'd on other grounds, 792 P.2d 299 (Colo. 1990).

If appeal is directed at assessor and made prior to levy, it is correct to follow procedure specified in this section, rather than that for abatement and refund. B.A. Leasing Corp. v. State Bd. of Equal., 745 P.2d 254 (Colo. App. 1987), aff'd sub nom. Gates Rubber Co. v. Bd. of Equalization, 770 P.2d 1189 (Colo. 1989).

Where property has been assessed improperly because of an error capable of adjustment, this section must be followed and the procedure in §§ 39-1-113 and 39-10-114 for abatement or refund is not available. Schmidt-Tiago Const. Co. v. Prop. Tax Adm'r, 687 P.2d 528 (Colo. App. 1984); Alpenrose Unit Week Ass'n v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 713 P.2d 932 (Colo. App. 1985).

Where assessor failed to give timely notice of property valuation, proper remedy is not to invalidate tax but to allow taxpayer to seek abatement of the tax increase pursuant to § 39-10-114. Bea Kay Real Estate Corp. v. Aragon, 782 P.2d 837 (Colo. App. 1989).

Burden of proof that assessment incorrect. A taxpayer who protests a property tax assessment bears the burden of proving, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the assessment is incorrect. Honeywell Info. Sys. v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 654 P.2d 337 (Colo. App. 1982).

Challenges based on overvaluation. Although taxpayers challenged the amount of taxes assessed as excessive, this was not an "overvaluation" as the term is used in § 39-10-114 because, due to the taxpayers' wrongful inaction, the assessor's BIA valuations are presumed to be valid. Therefore, for purposes of § 39-10-114, the assessor's valuation cannot be considered an overvaluation, and § 39-10-114 may not be asserted by a taxpayer to avoid the provisions of § 39-5-118 and the protest procedure under this section. Prop. Tax Adm'r v. Prod. Geophysical, 860 P.2d 514 (Colo. 1993).

Application of abatement procedure to personal property taxes. The protest procedure set forth in this section, as opposed to the abatement procedure set forth in § 39-10-114, is the exclusive method for challenging personal property BIA evaluations. Prop. Tax Adm'r v. Prod. Geophysical, 860 P.2d 514 (Colo. 1993); Spectra Pub. v. Prop. Tax Adm'r, 860 P.2d 520 (Colo. 1993).

Taxpayer may seek an abatement and refund under § 39-10-114 even though taxpayer initially protested valuation of the property under this section, because the taxpayer did not base its petition for abatement on the ground of overvaluation but on the arbitrator's clerical error. Landmark Petroleum v. County Comm'rs, 870 P.2d 610 (Colo. App. 1993).

A party may seek review of only the total valuation for assessment and not of the component parts of that total. The statutes speak only of the right to appeal the value or the valuation assessment set by the assessor. Notably absent from the statutes is language that would permit a party to limit the scope of the protest by appealing only a portion or component of the assessed value. Cherne v. Bd. of Equaliz., 885 P.2d 258 (Colo. App. 1994).

39-5-122.7. Alternate protest and appeal procedure for specified counties.

(1) The governing body of any county may, at the request of the assessor, elect to use an alternate protest and appeal procedure to determine objections and protests concerning valuations of taxable property. The election shall not be made unless the assessor has requested the use of the alternative protest and appeal procedure. The election shall be made on or before May 1 of each year and shall be effective for all objections and protests concerning valuations of taxable property for the year. The governing body of the county shall provide notice of the election to the board of assessment appeals and to the district court in such county.

(2) In the event that a county elects to follow an alternative protest and appeal procedure as authorized by subsection (1) of this section, the assessor shall issue any written determination regarding the objection and protest by the date specified in section 39-5-122 (2).

(3) For purposes of this section, "county" shall include a city and county.

39-5-123. Abstract of assessment or amended abstract of assessment.

(1) (a) Upon conclusion of hearings by the county board of equalization, as provided in article 8 of this title, the assessor shall complete the assessment roll of all taxable property within the assessor's county, and, no later than August 25 in each year or no later than November 21 in each year in any county that has made an election pursuant to section 39-5-122.7, the assessor shall prepare therefrom three copies of the abstract of assessment and in person, and not by deputy, shall subscribe his or her name, under oath, to the following statement, which shall be a part of such abstract:

I,, the assessor of county, Colorado, do solemnly swear that in the assessment roll of such county I have listed and valued all taxable property located therein and that such property has been assessed for the current year in the manner prescribed by law and that the foregoing abstract of assessment is a true and correct compilation of each schedule.

(b) Upon completion by the assessor of the abstract of assessment, the chairman of the board of county commissioners shall examine such abstract and shall sign the following statement, which shall be a part of such abstract:

I,, chairman of the county board of county commissioners, certify that the county board of equalization has concluded its hearings, pursuant to the provisions of article 8 of this title, that I have examined the abstract of assessment, and that all valuation changes ordered by the county board of equalization have been incorporated therein.

(2) The assessor shall file two copies of the abstract of assessment with the administrator, and, appended thereto, the assessor shall also file the aggregate valuation for assessment of all taxable property in the county, each municipality, and each school district within the county, by classes and subclasses, on a form prescribed by the administrator.

(3) Along with the abstract of assessment, the assessor shall file with the property tax administrator information relating to the valuation for assessment for residential real property, including new construction, increased volume of mineral and oil and gas production, and any other data determined by the administrator as necessary to determine the valuation for assessment for such property.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

Failure to subscribe to assessment rolls does not invalidate assessment. This section, providing that the assessment rolls shall be authenticated by the assessor attaching a prescribed oath to the assessment book, does not mean that a failure to subscribe the oath invalidates the assessment, or that a tax deed is void because the assessment roll was not authenticated by the assessor as required by this section. Duggan v. McCullough, 27 Colo. 43, 59 P. 743 (1899).

After assessment submitted, assessor's duties become ministerial. After county assessor has completed his assessment and submitted his assessment roll to the county board of equalization, his quasi-judicial functions end, and his duties thereafter to be performed are purely ministerial. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Love, 172 Colo. 121, 470 P.2d 861 (1970).

39-5-124. Property tax administrator to examine abstract. (1) When the abstract of assessment has been subscribed and sworn to by the assessor and by the chairman of the board of county commissioners, the assessor shall transmit two copies thereof to the administrator and shall retain the third copy for endorsement of the tax warrant thereon.

(2) Upon receipt of such abstract, the administrator shall examine the same without delay and, if it is found correct as to form, shall certify such fact to the assessor, and such certification shall be conclusive evidence of the fact, time, and place of filing such abstract. If such abstract is found incorrect as to form, the administrator shall return the same to the assessor for correction.

39-5-125. Omission - correction of errors. (1) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (3) of this section, whenever it is discovered that any taxable property has been omitted from the assessment roll of any year or series of years, the assessor shall immediately determine the value of such omitted property and shall list the same on the assessment roll of the year in which the discovery was made and shall notify the treasurer of any unpaid taxes on such property for prior years.

(2) Omissions and errors in the assessment roll, when it can be ascertained therefrom what was intended, may be supplied or corrected by the assessor at any time before the tax warrant is delivered to the treasurer or by the treasurer at any time after the tax warrant has come into his hands.

(3) If taxable personal property that has been omitted from the assessment roll of any year or series of years is discovered due to a property owner or an agent of a property owner who advertises for rent furnished residential real property providing information to the assessor pursuant to section 39-5-108.5 (2), the assessor shall not notify the treasurer of any unpaid taxes on the taxable personal property for prior years and the property owner or agent shall not be liable for any such unpaid taxes for prior years.

ANNOTATION

- I. General Consideration.
- II. Property Omitted from Rolls.
- III. Errors in Rolls.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

This section expressly authorizes assessor and treasurer to correct errors in the assessment roll at any time, before or after the treasurer receives the tax warrant. Modular Cmty's., Inc. v. McKnight, 191 Colo. 101, 550 P.2d 866 (1976); RTV, L.L.C. v. Grandote Int'l Ltd., 937 P.2d 768 (Colo. App. 1996).

Treasurer making correction must exercise reason and sound judgment. Haley v. Elliott, 20 Colo. 379, 38 P. 771 (1894).

This section does not obviate the necessity of notice required by § 39-5-122. Gale v. Statler, 47 Colo. 72, 105 P. 858 (1909).

Applied in Haley v. Elliot, 20 Colo. 379, 38 P. 771 (1894); Chase v. Boar of County Comm'rs, 37 Colo. 268, 86 P. 1011 (1906); City & County of Denver v. Pitcher, 54 Colo. 203, 129 P. 1015 (1913); San Luis Power & Water Co. v. Trujillo, 93 Colo. 385, 26 P.2d 537 (1933).

II. PROPERTY OMITTED FROM ROLLS.

Assessor must account for omitted taxes and arrearages. The assessor has power and it is his duty, under this section, when it is discovered that certain special taxes upon particular property have been omitted from the assessment book, to place the same upon his book with all arrearages which should have been assessed in former years, notwithstanding the property had been regularly listed and the omission consisted only in failing to extend the special tax levy.

Aggers v. People ex rel. Town of Montclair, 20 Colo. 348, 38 P. 386 (1894).

List property omitted by owner. In the event of a failure by the owner to list his property, it is made the duty of the assessor to do so. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Yingling, 14 Colo. App. 449, 60 P. 582 (1900).

Assessor has the authority to assess taxes retroactively on property previously omitted from the assessment rolls, including the "value of improvements" located on land. Chew v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 673 P.2d 1028 (Colo. App. 1983); RTV, L.L.C. v. Grandote Int'l Ltd., 937 P.2d 768 (Colo. App. 1996).

This section and § 39-10-101 (2)(a) authorize retroactive assessments of additional property taxes only against "omitted property" and not against "omitted value". Cabot Petroleum Corp. v. Yuma County Bd. of Equaliz., 847 P.2d 152 (Colo. App. 1992), rev'd on other grounds, 856 P.2d 844 (Colo. 1993); Jet Black, LLC v. Routt County Bd. of County Comm'rs, 165 P.3d 744 (Colo. App. 2006).

This section does not authorize retroactive assessments against previously undervalued property, because such valuation increases do not involve omitted property. In Stitches, Inc. v. Denver County Bd. of County Comm'rs, 62 P.3d 1080 (Colo. App. 2002).

The value of previously omitted common area parcels could be added on a proportional basis to ownership parcels even though the ownership parcels had previously been assessed at a lower value. Jet Black, LLC v. Routt County Bd. of County Comm'rs, 165 P.3d 744 (Colo. App. 2006).

III. ERRORS IN ROLLS.

Dollar mark omitted before valuation figures may be supplied. Where in the copy of an assessment roll the dollar mark ($) was omitted before the valuation figures, it is one of those omissions or informalities which the assessor or treasurer is authorized to correct. Haley v. Elliott, 20 Colo. 379, 38 P. 771 (1894).

39-5-126. Wrongful return by assessor. Whenever any assessor willfully and knowingly omits any taxable property in his county from the assessment roll, or willfully and knowingly values any taxable property in his county contrary to the manner prescribed by law, and willfully and knowingly subscribes and swears to an abstract of assessment reflecting such omissions and containing such unlawful valuations, he is guilty of perjury in the second degree and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished according to law.

Cross references: For perjury in the second degree and the penalty therefor, see §§ 18-8-503 and 18-1.3-501.

39-5-127. Correction of assessments. Whenever the state board of equalization makes any change in the abstract of assessment of any county or orders an increase or decrease in the valuation of any class or subclass of property located therein, the assessor shall make the necessary changes in the abstract of assessment of the next succeeding taxable year required to carry out such order; except that, whenever the state board of equalization changes the valuation of any class or subclass of property pursuant to section 39-9-103 (7), the assessor shall make the necessary changes in the abstract of assessment of the current taxable year required to carry out such order.

Applied in Lamm v. Barber, 192 Colo. 511, 565 P.2d 538 (1977).

39-5-128. Certification of valuation for assessment. (1) No later than August 25 of each year, the assessor shall certify to the department of education, to the clerk of each town and city, to the secretary of each school district, and to the secretary of each special district within the assessor's county the total valuation for assessment of all taxable property located within the territorial limits of each such town, city, school district, or special district and shall notify each such clerk, secretary, and board to officially certify the levy of such town, city, school district, or special district to the board of county commissioners no later than December 15. The assessor shall also certify to the secretary of each school district the actual value of the taxable property in the district.

(2) Repealed.

(3) If the valuation for assessment for all or part of any such political subdivision has been divided for an urban renewal area, pursuant to section 31-25-107 (9) (a), C.R.S., any certification under this section shall be based upon that portion of the valuation for assessment under subparagraph (I) of said section 31-25-107 (9) (a), C.R.S., so long as such division remains in effect.

39-5-129. Delivery of tax warrant - public inspection. As soon as practicable after the requisite taxes for the year have been levied but in no event later than January 10 of each year, the assessor shall deliver the tax warrant under his hand and official seal to the treasurer, which shall be made readily available to the general public during the collection year in a convenient location in the courthouse. The assessor shall retain one or more true copies thereof, which shall be made readily available to the general public during the collection year in a convenient location in the courthouse. Such tax warrant shall set forth the assessment roll, reciting the persons in whose names taxable property in the county has been listed, the class of such taxable property and the valuation for assessment thereof, the several taxes levied against such valuation, and the amount of such taxes extended against each separate valuation. At the end of the warrant, the aggregate of all taxes levied shall be totaled, balanced, and prorated to the several funds of each levying authority, and the treasurer shall be commanded to collect all such taxes.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

This section is directory and not mandatory. To hold that all county tax collections are void because an assessor fails to deliver the tax list and warrant on the appointed day would in large measure emasculate the tax structure. People ex rel. Dunbar v. Hively, 140 Colo. 265, 344 P.2d 443 (1959).

Tax collector must have some authority or warrant for collection. All the authorities agree that the collector of taxes, by whatever title called, must have some authority or warrant for their collection; or, in lieu thereof, his acts are trespasses. City of Highlands v. Johnson, 24 Colo. 371, 51 P. 1004 (1897).

When taxes due and payable. It was seemingly the intention of the general assembly to make all taxes due and payable from the time the tax list and warrant were delivered to the treasurer, and to fix the ultimate date of such delivery as of the first of January after the levy; from this date the treasurer was commanded to collect said taxes. Cristler v. Beardsley, 25 Colo. App. 369, 138 P. 68 (1914).

Applied in Haley v. Elliott, 20 Colo. 379, 38 P. 771 (1894); Moore v. Gas Sec. Co., 278 F. 111 (8th Cir. 1921).

39-5-130. Informality not to invalidate. No informality in complying with the requirements of section 39-5-129 shall render any proceedings for the collection of taxes invalid. The assessor shall take the receipt of the treasurer for the tax warrant, and such warrant shall be full and complete authority for the treasurer to collect all taxes therein set forth.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

Technical objections, without merit, shall not interfere with collection of the public revenue, as the assessor or treasurer may correct any defect in form on the assessment list or tax roll. Haley v. Elliott, 20 Colo. 379, 38 P. 771 (1894).

Defective description of realty does not affect tax on personality. Where, in an assessment roll, there is a defective description of the realty, the validity of the tax against the personality is not necessarily affected. Haley v. Elliott, 20 Colo. 379, 38 P. 771 (1894).

This section does not obviate necessity of notice required by § 39-5-122. Gale v. Statler, 47 Colo. 72, 105 P. 858 (1909).

39-5-131. Certification and valuation of pollution control property. (Repealed)

Source: L. 78: Entire section added, p. 468, § 3, effective July 1. L. 79: (1), (3), (4), and (8) amended and (9) added, pp. 1455, 1456, §§ 2, 4, effective June 22. L. 81: (9) R&RE, p. 1872, § 6, effective June 29. L. 88: Entire section repealed, p. 1275, § 14, effective May 29.

39-5-132. Assessment and taxation of new construction. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that it is a matter of statewide concern that revenues from property taxes on newly constructed buildings may need to be put to special use in order to accommodate the capital needs resulting from such new construction, especially to accommodate the capital needs of the public schools in this state. The general assembly further declares that it is essential that such revenue be available as soon as possible after the time such new construction is put to use. The general assembly further finds and declares that the board of county commissioners is the appropriate governmental unit to determine the extent of the growth within the county and the finding of severe growth impact shall be at the sole discretion of the board.

(2) (a) (I) (A) If the board of county commissioners determines that a county is becoming severely impacted by residential growth, the board of county commissioners shall make a finding of severe growth impact based upon the rate of increase in the county of the number of residential units being constructed within the county and an increase in pupil enrollment in school districts within the county such that at least one school district in the county meets the growth criteria described in sub-subparagraph (E) of this subparagraph (I), and other factors which indicate patterns of growth and growth impact, and shall, on or before January 1, resolve to implement the assessment and levy procedures required under this section. When a board of county commissioners makes such resolution, the provisions of this section shall apply countywide notwithstanding any law to the contrary. The board of county commissioners shall not make a finding of severe growth impact unless the number of residential units in the county will increase by over two percent during the county's current fiscal year. The board of county commissioners may negotiate with taxing authorities in the county to provide the costs of implementing the assessment and levy procedures required under this section. Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, any such taxing authority is hereby authorized to use moneys from its general fund to provide the costs specified in this subparagraph (I) and to deposit any moneys received as reimbursement pursuant to subsection (4) of this section into its general fund.

(B) Whenever construction occurs on any new taxable building within the boundaries of a county after January 1 of a given year, the assessor shall value the building on July 1 of that year, and the assessor shall add the valuation for assessment thereof to the abstract of assessment for such tax year, except that portion of the valuation for assessment as is excluded by paragraph (b) of this subsection (2). If the building is complete on July 1, such valuation for assessment shall be prorated at the same ratio as the number of months it is completed bears to the full year. Otherwise, the valuation added to the abstract shall be one-half of the difference between the valuation for assessment on January 1 and the valuation for assessment on July 1. For the purposes of this section, the total valuation for assessment of all newly constructed taxable buildings in a county as calculated pursuant to this subsection (2) shall be known as the "growth valuation for assessment" for such county. For purposes of this section, completion shall be considered to be when a certificate of occupancy is issued, when the building is ready for use, or after the final inspection, at the sole discretion of the county assessor. As used in this section, "building" means a roofed and walled real property improvement, and any uncertainty concerning whether or not a particular real property improvement is a building within the meaning of this definition shall be resolved by the property tax administrator.

(C) The assessor shall give written notification of the valuation of such newly constructed taxable building to the taxpayer. The notice shall, at a minimum, set forth the valuation on the assessment date, the prorated valuation of the newly constructed taxable building, and the total valuation for the property tax year. The notice shall also advise the taxpayer that he may protest and appeal the valuation of the newly constructed taxable building at the same time and in the same manner, pursuant to section 39-5-122, as the total valuation of his property for the next property tax year may be appealed. If the taxpayer is successful in the protest or appeal, the amount in excess shall be refunded directly to the taxpayer by the county treasurer.

(D) In order to promote the most efficient administration of this section, each county or municipality shall ensure that any office or agency that received information relative to the state of completion of new taxable buildings shall promptly transmit such information to the county assessor. After January 1, 1987, the property tax administrator shall transmit to the assessor in August of each year both the assessed value of any newly constructed buildings owned by public utility companies and their state of completion on July 1 as well as their value on the previous January 1.

(E) The growth criteria for school districts for purposes of sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (I) shall be whether the commissioner of education or the commissioner's designee certifies that the pupil enrollment of the district for the past three years, as determined on October 1 of each year in accordance with former section 22-53-103 (7) or section 22-54-103 (10), has increased by three percent or more over each preceding year for those districts with pupil enrollments of at least one thousand pupils or by twenty-five or more pupils each year for those districts with pupil enrollments of less than one thousand pupils.

(II) All general property taxes which are levied on all other taxable real and personal property within a county in the tax year during which such construction occurs shall also be levied against the growth valuation for assessment of such county for collection the following year. Revenues raised from taxes levied on such growth valuation for assessment shall be credited to the county's capital growth fund, which each board of county commissioners shall establish, for use and distribution pursuant to subsection (4) of this section. The actual value and valuation for assessment of such newly constructed taxable building for subsequent years shall be the actual value and valuation for assessment as determined by the provisions of law other than this section, and tax revenues attributable thereto shall be distributed as provided by law without regard to this section.

(b) The provisions of this section shall not apply to that portion of the valuation for assessment of a newly constructed taxable building and the land underlying such building which is contained in the abstract of assessment on the assessment date.

(c) If the newly constructed taxable building is a residential unit, the assessment percentage to be applied to the land underlying such building shall be based on a residential classification of the land. If the land underlying such building was classified as vacant land, the classification shall be changed to residential on the abstract of assessment for the tax year in which the assessor added the valuation of the newly taxable residential building to the abstract for assessment.

(3) By August 25 of each year, the assessor shall notify the board of county commissioners of the amount of the growth valuation for assessment of the county for that tax year, the percentage that such growth valuation for assessment bears to the total valuation for assessment of the county for such tax year, the portion of such growth valuation for assessment that is attributable to newly constructed taxable buildings within the boundaries of each taxing authority in the county, and the percentage that such portion bears to the total valuation for assessment of each taxing authority in which such newly constructed taxable buildings are located.

(4) Upon collection of taxes on the growth valuation for assessment in the first year, the board of county commissioners shall reimburse the county general fund and the taxing authorities which contributed to the costs of implementing the procedures specified pursuant to this section and shall also pay into the county general fund the projected budgeted costs of implementation in this second year. The remaining moneys shall be distributed to the taxing authorities as next specified in this subsection (4). In the second and subsequent years that procedures are implemented pursuant to this section, the board of county commissioners, after depositing into the county general fund the projected budgeted costs of administering this section in the current year, shall distribute the moneys in the county's capital growth fund to the taxing authorities where the newly constructed taxable building is actually located in the same manner as all other property tax revenues collected on similar taxable buildings are distributed; except that such moneys shall be used by the taxing authority for capital expenditures only and not for operating expenses. Every taxing authority receiving funds pursuant to this subsection (4) shall make capital expenditures so that they benefit the taxing authority within the county levying on the growth valuation for assessment pursuant to this section, unless such governing body finds a compelling reason for making expenditures so that they benefit the taxing authority within another county.

(5) Moneys received by a school district pursuant to this section shall be deposited in the district's capital reserve fund and shall not be included in calculating the amount of revenue which a district is entitled to receive from the property tax levy for the general fund of the district under the "Public School Finance Act of 1994", article 54 of title 22, C.R.S.

(6) When the board of county commissioners determines that a county is no longer being severely impacted by residential growth, the board of county commissioners shall so find and shall, on or before January 1, resolve to end implementation of the assessment and levy procedures required under this section.

(7) Nothing in this section shall be construed to affect tax increment financing as said financing is implemented pursuant to sections 31-25-107 (9) and 31-25-807 (3), C.R.S., nor the distribution of specific ownership taxes pursuant to section 42-3-107 (24), C.R.S.

39-5-133. 2011 modification of statutory definition of "agricultural land" - TABOR election - adjustment of district mill levy. (1) (a) The requirements of paragraph (b) of this subsection (1) shall only apply:

(I) To a district, as defined in section 20 (2) (b) of article X of the state constitution, that has not obtained voter approval to retain and spend revenues in excess of the fiscal year spending and property tax revenue limits imposed on the district by section 20 (7) (b) and (7) (c) of article X of the state constitution sufficient to allow the retention of all additional property tax revenues; and

(II) Where the district has additionally determined, on the basis of the best available information, that implementation of the modification of the definition of "agricultural land" required by House Bill 11-1146, enacted in 2011, will cause a net property tax revenue gain to the district sufficient to cause the district to exceed such limits.

(b) In the case of a district that meets the requirements specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1), the district may place before the voters of the district at any election at which such ballot issue may be placed on the ballot the question of whether the district may retain and spend revenues in excess of the limits imposed on the district by section 20 (7) (b) and (7) (c) of article X of the state constitution sufficient to allow the retention of the net property tax revenue gain to the district resulting from the implementation of the modification of the definition of "agricultural land" required by House Bill 11-1146, enacted in 2011.

(c) If a majority of the voters of the district fail to approve the ballot issue specified in paragraph (b) of this subsection (1), or if no ballot issue has been submitted to the voters, the district shall adjust the number of mills levied by the district to eliminate any net property tax revenue gain to the district resulting from the modification of the definition of "agricultural land" required by House Bill 11-1146, enacted in 2011.

(2) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the provisions of subsection (1) of this section shall not apply to any district, regardless of whether or not it satisfies the requirements of paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section, that has determined, on the basis of the best available information, that implementation of the modification of the definition of "agricultural land" required by House Bill 11-1146, enacted in 2011, will not cause a net property tax revenue gain to the district.

MOBILE HOMES

Editor's note: This part 2 was repealed in 1975 and was subsequently recreated and reenacted in 1977, resulting in the addition, relocation, and elimination of sections as well as subject matter. For amendments to this part 2 prior to 1975, consult the Colorado statutory research explanatory note and the table itemizing the replacement volumes and supplements to the original volume of C.R.S. 1973 beginning on page vii in the front of this volume.

39-5-201. Legislative declaration. (2) Uniform treatment of mobile homes is hereby declared to be an exclusive matter of statewide concern. No home rule city, city, county, or other local government shall impose a license or any other special fees on the ownership or occupancy of mobile homes that is not similarly imposed on conventional homes.

It is the duty of the seller of a mobile home to provide to the buyer a tax certificate and an itemized list of household furnishings, as defined in section 39-3-102 and which are included in the selling price of the mobile home, at the time of sale.

(b) A person who knowingly fails to provide an itemized list of household furnishings as required by this subsection (3) commits a class 2 petty offense and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined two hundred dollars; except that, upon conviction of a second or subsequent such offense, such person commits a class 3 misdemeanor and shall be punished as provided in section 18-1.3-501, C.R.S.

(b) Repealed.

(c) For property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1999:

(I) The assessor shall list and value a mobile home brought into a county from another county in this state after the assessment date for any year as of the assessment date of the following year.

(II) The assessor shall list and value a mobile home brought into a county from outside this state after the assessment date at such proportion of its value for the full calendar year as the number of calendar months remaining in such year bears to twelve; but, if the mobile home is brought into the county from outside this state before the sixteenth day of any calendar month, such month shall be considered as a full calendar month, and, if the mobile home is brought into the county from outside this state on or after the sixteenth day of any calendar month, such month shall be disregarded.

39-5-205. Relocation of a mobile home - collection of taxes. (1) Any person who intends to remove his or her mobile home from a county or from one location in a county to a new location in the same county shall notify the treasurer of this fact, and all property taxes levied or assessed on such mobile home shall thereupon become due and payable if the mobile home is to be removed from the county. Upon the request of the treasurer, the assessor shall certify to such person the valuation for assessment of the mobile home for the current year.

(2) Repealed.

(3) For property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1999:

(a) If a mobile home located in a county on the assessment date is to be removed from the county to another county in this state before the next following assessment date, all property taxes levied or assessed on such mobile home shall, upon the mobile home owner providing notice of such removal to the treasurer pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, become due and payable for the current property tax year without proration.

(b) If a mobile home located in a county on the assessment date is to be removed from this state before the next following assessment date, all property taxes levied or assessed on such mobile home shall, upon the mobile home owner providing notice of such removal to the treasurer pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, become due and payable. The value to be placed on the property by the assessor pursuant to this paragraph (b) shall be such proportion of its value for the full calendar year as the number of calendar months in such year the mobile home was located in the original location bears to twelve; but, if the mobile home is to be removed from its original location before the sixteenth day of any calendar month, such month shall be disregarded, and, if the mobile home is to be removed from its original location on or after the sixteenth day of any calendar month, such month shall be considered as a full calendar month.

(4) If the levy for the current year has not then been fixed and made, the levy for the previous year shall be used by the treasurer to determine the amount of taxes due pursuant to this section. At such time as the levy for the current year has been fixed and made, the amount of any taxes collected on the property in excess of the amount correctly due and payable shall be refunded by the treasurer to the owner of the property forthwith; but, in all cases where the amount of taxes so collected is less than the amount correctly due and payable, the amount uncollected shall be considered an erroneous assessment and shall be reported with other erroneous assessments in the manner prescribed by law.

39-6-101. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) “Mine” means one or more mining claims or acres of other land, including all excavations therein from which ores, metals, or mineral substances of every kind are removed, except drilled wells producing sulfur and oil, gas, and other liquid or gaseous hydrocarbons, and all mining improvements within such excavations, together with all rights and privileges thereunto appertaining.

(2) "Mining claims" means lode, placer, millsite, and tunnelsite claims, whether entered for patent, patented, or unpatented, regardless of size or shape.

(3) "Ore" includes, without limitation, metallic and nonmetallic mineral substances of every kind, except those specifically excluded under section 39-6-104.

(4) "Other land" means any parcel of real property which is not a mining claim.

39-6-103. Listing of mining claims and mines. (1) The assessor shall list all mining claims and mines located within his county on the assessment date, including for each claim the name of the lode, placer, millsite, or tunnelsite, the United States mineral survey number, if any, the name of the mining district in which such claim is located, and the number of acres contained in such claim. If a claim is not patented, the numbers of the book and page at which the location of such claim is recorded in the county records shall be used in place of the United States mineral survey number. If two or more mining claims are included in one patent with one United States survey number, the assessor shall list together such mining claims with the one survey number and the total number of acres contained therein. In listing mining claims, abbreviations of words and figures may be used. If other land is part of such mine, then the numbers of the book and page at which the conveyance deed is recorded on the legal description of such other land shall be used in place of the United States mineral survey number.

(2) Whenever, to the knowledge of the assessor, contiguous mining claims are worked or operated through or by means of the same shafts, tunnels, or other openings, they shall be listed as one unit; and whenever, to the knowledge of the assessor, contiguous placer claims are worked or operated by means of the same ditch or other works, they shall be listed as one unit, including such ditch or other works; and whenever, to the knowledge of the assessor, contiguous other land is used in the same manner as the claims referred to in this subsection (2), it shall also be listed as one unit.

(3) The mining property of a mine shall include mining claims and all other lands and interests therein, whether owned by federal, state, or lesser governmental subdivisions or otherwise and whether owned in fee or held by discovery and location or under easement, lease, license, or other arrangement with the owner thereof, unless otherwise provided for in this article.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

Classification of property for taxation permissible. So long as classification is based upon the nature of property justifying it, there is nothing to forbid legislative classification for the purposes of taxation or to prevent the fixing of valuation of different classes by different methods, provided that, by the method prescribed for a particular class of property, the burden of taxation is uniformly imposed upon that class, is just and equitable, and does not exempt it from bearing its fair proportion of the burden of taxation, as compared with other classes of property. In re House Bill No. 270, 9 Colo. 635, 21 P. 476 (1886); Foster v. Hart Consol. Mining Co., 52 Colo. 459, 122 P. 48 (1912).

39-6-105. Producing mines defined. All mines whose gross proceeds during the preceding calendar year have exceeded the amount of five thousand dollars shall be classified as producing mines, and all others shall be classified as nonproducing mines. Mines shall be classified in the manner provided for in this article regardless of the processing method, the ultimate use, or the consumption of the ores or minerals for which they are primarily worked or operated.

39-6-106. Valuation for assessment of producing mines. (1) Every person owning or operating any mine classified as a producing mine shall, no later than April 15 of each year, prepare, sign under the penalty of perjury in the second degree, and file with the assessor of the county wherein such mine is located a statement showing:

(a) The name of such mine and a list of mining claims and any other lands comprising the mining property of such mine, together with the total number of acres contained in each claim or parcel so listed;

(b) The name of the owner thereof, together with the name of the operator thereof, and the address of each;

(c) The total number of acres contained in such mine and, if such mine is located in more than one county, the total number of acres contained in such mine in each county;

(d) The number of tons of ore extracted therefrom during the calendar year immediately preceding and, if the value of the products derived from the ore is used in determining gross value, the number of tons, pounds, or ounces of products derived from the ore;

(e) The gross value from production of the ore extracted during said calendar year, which means and includes the amount for which ore or the first salable products derived therefrom were or could be sold by the owner or operator of a mine, as determined using actual gross selling prices;

(f) The costs of extracting such ore, excluding the compensation of any officer or agents not actively and continuously engaged in or about the mine;

(g) The costs of treatment, reduction, transportation, and sale of such ore or the first salable products derived therefrom;

(h) The gross proceeds from production of such ore, which means and includes the value of the ore immediately after extraction, which value may be determined by deducting from gross value all costs of treatment, reduction, transportation, and sale of such ore or the first salable products derived therefrom;

(i) The net proceeds from production of such ore, which means and includes the amount determined by deducting from the gross proceeds all costs of extracting such ore.

(1.4) (a) The owner or operator of a producing mine may request permission to state an average figure for the items required by paragraphs (d) to (i) of subsection (1) of this section based on any three-year, five-year, or ten-year period immediately preceding January 1 of the year in which the statement must be filed. The same reporting method shall be used for all annual statements filed in a single year pertaining to a particular mine.

(b) (I) The owner or operator may make an initial request pursuant to this subsection (1.4) by filing the request with the board of county commissioners of each county in which the mine is located at least forty-five days prior to the reporting date specified in the introductory portion to subsection (1) of this section and attaching a copy of the request to the annual statement filed pursuant to subsection (1) of this section with the county assessor of each county in which the mine is located.

(II) The owner or operator may make subsequent changes in the reporting method pursuant to this subsection (1.4) by filing a request for a change in the reporting method with the board of county commissioners and the county assessor of every county in which the mine is located at least forty-five days prior to the reporting date specified in the introductory portion to subsection (1) of this section.

(III) The board of county commissioners of each county which receives a request pursuant to this subsection (1.4) shall approve or deny the request at least thirty days prior to the reporting date specified in the introductory portion to subsection (1) of this section. Failure of a board of county commissioners to approve or deny the request within the thirty days shall be deemed an approval of the request.

(c) Once an owner or operator has made the initial election allowed by this subsection (1.4), the owner or operator shall file all subsequent annual statements pursuant to subsection (1) of this section using the same reporting method. The owner or operator shall not alter the reporting method until the board of county commissioners for every county in which the mine is located authorizes the use of the alternate method.

(d) The fact that authorization to alter the reporting method has not been received from all or any of the boards of county commissioners for the counties in which the mine is located shall not relieve the owner or operator from the obligation to file the annual statement pursuant to subsection (1) of this section with all counties in which the mine is located.

(1.7) As used in subsection (1) of this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) (I) "Costs" means those costs directly attributable to the operation of the producing mine and to the treatment, reduction, transportation, or sale of the ore and includes, but is not limited to, allocation of:

(A) The costs of capital assets, which only include those expenditures listed on the fixed asset records of the mine;

(B) Preproduction development costs amortized over the life of the mine; and

(C) Off-site costs directly attributable to the operation of the producing mine or to the treatment, reduction, transportation, or sale of the ore; however, in no event shall off-site costs include compensation of any officer or agent not actively and continuously engaged in or about the mine.

(II) Allocation of the costs of capital assets pursuant to this paragraph (a) shall be done in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. No change in the allocation method may be made without the prior approval of the county boards of equalization in all counties in which the mine is located.

(b) "Costs" does not include:

(I) Any amounts designated as profit or margin which are attributable to any part of the treatment, reduction, transportation, or sale of the ore; or

(II) Any amounts which have been or could have been deducted previously as part of the valuation of the producing mine pursuant to this section.

(2) On the basis of the information contained in such statement, the assessor shall value such mine for assessment at an amount equal to twenty-five percent of the gross proceeds, but if the net proceeds exceed twenty-five percent of the gross proceeds, then such mine shall be valued for assessment at the amount of such net proceeds.

(3) If any mining claim or other land is owned by the same person operating a producing mine which is contiguous to said claim and if, during the preceding calendar year, ore was actually extracted from said claim or other land or transported through such claim or other land by cut or tunnel or if any phase of the operation of said producing mines was conducted on such claim or other land, then such claim or other land shall be deemed to be a part of such producing mine and assessed therewith. All other claims or other land under the same ownership shall be valued in the same manner as other real property, on an acreage basis, regardless of surface contiguity.

(4) If any mining claim comprising part of the mining property of a producing mine is not patented or entered for patent, then the possessory interest therein shall be the subject of taxation.

(5) Any increase in the valuation of a producing mine shall constitute an addition to taxable real property for purposes of the definition of "local growth" contained in section 20 (2) (g) of article X of the state constitution.

(6) This section shall apply to and affect only the valuation of producing mines pursuant to this article.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

This section is constitutional. Tallon v. Vin-dicator Consol. Gold Mining Co., 59 Colo. 316, 149 P. 108 (1915).

Valuation set by assessor presumed to be right. The power to determine the valuation of the mining property for taxation is lodged in the assessor; and, when he has acted and determined the value, he is presumed to be right. Standard Chem. Co. v. Curtis, 77 Colo. 10, 233 P. 1112 (1925).

Thus, burden of proof is on taxpayer to establish allegation of excessive assessment. Standard Chem. Co. v. Curtis, 77 Colo. 10, 233 P. 1112 (1925).

Ore mined by lessees becomes property of lessees. City & County of Denver v. Sec. Life & Accident Co., 173 Colo. 248, 477 P.2d 369 (1970).

Tax levied by this section levied on posses-sory right. The tax under this section is not laid alone on a producing mine or mining claim, but also may be upon the possessory rights therein. Rummel v. Musgrave, 142 Colo. 249, 350 P.2d 825, appeal dismissed, 364 U.S. 293, 81 S. Ct. 105, 5 L. Ed.2d 83 (1960).

Thus, lessee of federal government may be taxed on his mining rights. Under this section, the possessory and leasehold rights of private citizens in uranium claims on lands of the United States may legally be assessed by the state, though title to the lands on which the claims are located is in the United States and is part of the public lands. Rummel v. Musgrave, 142 Colo. 249, 350 P.2d 825, appeal dismissed, 364 U.S. 293, 81 S. Ct. 105, 5 L. Ed.2d 83 (1960).

Margin allocation cannot be deducted as part of the costs of treatment, reduction, transportation, and sale of ore pursuant to this section. Huddleston v. Grand County Bd. of Equaliz., 913 P.2d 15 (Colo. 1996).

39-6-107. Valuation of improvements - machinery. All machinery and equipment and personal property shall be listed on a personal property schedule which shall be submitted as set forth in section 39-5-107 and valued for assessment by the assessor. Improvements, except mining improvements within a mine excavation, shall be listed separately and valued for assessment by the assessor.

39-6-108. Failure to file statement. If any person owning, operating, or managing any producing mine fails or refuses to prepare and file the statement required in section 39-6-106 or 39-6-113, or both, then the assessor shall list such property and shall value the same for assessment on the basis of the best information available to and obtainable by him.

(1) The assessor has the authority and right at any time to examine the books, accounts, and records of any person owning, managing, or operating a producing mine in order to verify the statement filed by such person, and, if from such examination the assessor finds such statement or any material part thereof to be willfully false or misleading, the assessor shall proceed to value such producing mine for assessment as though no statement had been filed.

(2) Upon the request of the assessor, the owner or operator of a producing mine shall provide to the assessor all documentation supporting the amounts reported on the statement filed by such owner or operator.

(3) The division of property taxation shall set forth guidelines for the implementation of this section.

could not be classified as agricultural land. Hepp v. Boulder County Assessor, 113 P.3d 1268 (Colo. App. 2005).

39-6-112. Valuation of tunnels. (1) A tunnel excavated for the mere purpose of exploration and discovery of mines on the public domain shall be deemed to be real property and shall be listed and valued for assessment by the name thereof unless it becomes a part of a producing mine, in which case it shall be considered a parcel thereof.

A tunnel excavated for the drainage of, or the exploration of, or for giving access to the mines of those excavating such tunnel shall be deemed an appurtenance to such mines. A tunnel excavated for the drainage of, or the operation of, or for giving access to mines of persons other than those excavating such tunnel shall be deemed real property and shall be listed and valued for assessment by the name thereof.

(2) Whenever any such tunnel not appurtenant to or a parcel of a mine is situated partly in one county and partly in another county or counties or in lesser political subdivisions, the valuation thereof shall be apportioned between such counties by allocating the total value thereof between such counties or lesser political subdivisions in the proportion that the length of the center line thereof within each such county or lesser political subdivision bears to the total length thereof.

39-6-113. Mine in more than one county. (1) (a) Whenever a mine is situated partly in one county and partly in another county or counties or in lesser political subdivisions, a copy of the statement provided for in section 39-6-106, together with a copy of a list of all machinery and equipment located within the mine, if the mine is a producing mine, shall be filed with the assessor of each such county. Any such producing mine shall be valued for assessment in accordance with the provisions of section 39-6-106 (2) at an amount agreed upon by the assessors of such counties, and, in the case of any appeal of a protest of such valuation in either or both counties, the county boards of equalization of such counties shall confer and attempt to reach agreement on the valuation.

(b) If the mine is not a producing mine, all machinery and equipment located within the mine shall nevertheless be valued at an amount agreed upon by the assessors of such counties and apportioned between such counties by allocating the total value thereof between such counties or lesser political subdivisions in the proportion that the acreage of all the mining property of the mine, determined as provided for in sections 39-6-103 and 39-6-106, within such county or lesser political subdivision bears to the total acreage thereof as so determined, as if the mine were itself a producing mine.

(2) Whenever any producing mine, worked or operated by means of an integrated mining system and comprised of consolidated mining property, is situated partly in one county and partly in another county or counties or in lesser political subdivisions, the valuation thereof and of all machinery and equipment located within or upon the mine shall be apportioned between such counties or lesser political subdivisions in the proportion that the acreage of all the mining property of the mine, determined as provided for in sections 39-6-103 and 39-6-106, within such county or lesser political subdivision bears to the total acreage thereof as so determined. The assessor of each county shall list and value for assessment the portion of such mine which is situated in such county at the amount determined for such portion by such apportionment, and taxes levied on such valuation for assessment by the board of county commissioners of such county shall be collected by the treasurer of such county as provided by law.

(3) Where a mine is situated partly in one county and partly in another county or counties or in lesser political subdivisions, the owner, operator, or manager thereof shall, no later than April 15 of each year, prepare and file with the assessor of each such county a statement showing the number of acres within each such county contained in the lands comprising the mining property of the mine, determined as provided for in sections 39-6-103 and 39-6-106, but the statement need not be filed if no changes have occurred since such a statement was filed.

(4) (a) Nothing in subsection (3) of this section shall be construed to require the owner, operator, or manager of a mine to file an additional statement if the statement filed pursuant to section 39-6-106 sets forth the number of acres of the mine in each county.

(b) Nothing in subsection (3) of this section shall be construed to relieve the owner, operator, or manager of a mine from any reporting responsibilities imposed under section 39-6-106, including the required contents of the statement filed with the assessor.

39-7-101. Statement of owner or operator. (1) Every operator of, or if there is no operator, every person owning any oil or gas leasehold or lands within this state, either as a single lease or as a unit, which leaseholds or lands are producing or are capable of producing oil or gas on the assessment date of any year, shall, no later than the fifteenth day of April of each year, prepare, sign under the penalty of perjury in the second degree, and file in person or by mail with the assessor of the county wherein such oil and gas leaseholds or lands are located a statement for such lease or unit, on a form prescribed by the administrator, showing:

- (a) The location thereof and the name thereof, if there is a name;
- (b) The name, address, and fractional interest of the operator thereof;
- (c) The number of barrels of oil, or the quantity of gas measured in thousands of cubic feet, sold or transported from the premises during the calendar year immediately preceding, after separately reporting the number of barrels of oil, or the quantity of gas measured in thousands of cubic feet, delivered to the United States government or any agency thereof, the state of Colorado or any agency or political subdivision thereof, or any Indian tribe as royalty during the calendar year immediately preceding;
- (d) The selling price at the wellhead. As used in this article, "selling price at the wellhead" means the net taxable revenues realized by the taxpayer for sale of the oil or gas, whether such sale occurs at the wellhead or after gathering, transportation, manufacturing, and processing of the product. The net taxable revenues shall be equal to the gross lease revenues, minus deductions for gathering, transportation, manufacturing, and processing costs borne by the taxpayer pursuant to guidelines established by the administrator.
- (e) The name, address, and fractional interest of each interest owner taking production in kind and the proportionate share of total unit revenue attributable to each interest owner who is taking production in kind;
- (f) A declaration made under the penalty of perjury in the second degree that includes the following:
 - (I) A statement that the owner or operator has personally examined the statement described in this section and that such statement sets forth, to the best of the owner's or operator's knowledge and belief, the information required by this section; and
 - (II) A statement by the owner or operator as follows:

No representations are made as to the accuracy of the value of any portion of the production from subject property that is taken in kind by any owner other than the undersigned.

(1.5) Any nonoperating interest owner in an oil or gas well may, on or before the fifteenth day of March each year, submit to the operator by certified mail a report of the actual net taxable revenues received at the wellhead and the actual exempt revenues received at the wellhead by such owner for production taken in kind from the property during the calendar year immediately preceding. Operators shall use the information reported pursuant to this subsection (1.5) to determine the selling price at the wellhead. If any nonoperating interest owner fails to provide to the unit operator the information required under this subsection (1.5) by March 15 of each year, such operator shall use the selling price at the wellhead received by such operator for such operator's share of production from such unit in place of such nonreported information, and the amount of tax for which such nonreporting, nonoperating interest owner is liable shall be calculated based on the selling price at the wellhead reported by the operator.

(2) (a) If a statement of an owner or operator is not received or postmarked on or before the fifteenth day of April of each year, the assessor may impose on such owner or operator a late filing penalty in the amount of one hundred dollars for each calendar day the statement is delinquent; except that such late filing penalty shall not exceed three thousand dollars in any calendar year. The assessor may grant an extension of time for filing a statement to any operator or owner. Any extension, and its length, shall be granted solely at the discretion of the assessor.

(b) This subsection (2) is effective January 1, 1997.

(3) (a) The assessor may require the owner or operator to submit written documentation supporting the information provided in the statement. Such documentation shall be supplied within thirty days after either the date of the postmark on the assessor's written request for such documentation or the date that an owner or operator is required to file a statement pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, whichever is later. Any owner or operator who willfully fails or refuses to comply with the assessor's request for written documentation may be assessed a fine of one hundred dollars for each day of such willful failure or refusal. The total amount of all fines that may be assessed by an assessor against an owner or operator in any calendar year shall not exceed three thousand dollars, regardless of the number of leases or units owned or operated by such owner or operator or the number and length of such willful failures or refusals by such owner or operator.

(b) This subsection (3) is effective January 1, 1997.

(4) All statements and documentation filed with the assessor shall be considered private documents and shall be available on a confidential basis only to the assessor, the administrator, the annual study contractor hired pursuant to section 39-1-104, the executive director of the department of revenue, and their employees. Such statements and documentation shall be available on a confidential basis to the board of assessment appeals and the county board of equalization when information in such statements and documentation is pertinent to an appeal or protest.

(5) (a) Fines imposed pursuant to this section shall be fees of the office of the county assessor. Any unpaid fines imposed pursuant to this section shall be certified to the county treasurer by January 1 of each year and shall be included in the delinquent owner's or operator's property tax statement issued pursuant to section 39-10-103.

(b) This subsection (5) is effective January 1, 1997.

ANNOTATION

Selling price for the purposes of this article means the actual amount received by the seller. This amount most closely reflects the market value in the ordinary course of trade and is consistent with the requirement that actual value of real property be determined for tax assessment purposes. Yuma County Bd. of Equaliz. v. Cabot Petroleum, 856 P.2d 844 (Colo. 1993).

Where the selling price cannot be determined within a short period of time, it is incumbent upon owners and operators of oil and gas leaseholds and lands to report in mandatory annual statements any dispute concerning the selling price or the fact that the owner or operator have agreed to delayed payments. Yuma County Bd. of Equaliz. v. Cabot Petroleum, 856 P.2d 844 (Colo. 1993).

Processing costs occurring on oil leasehold site are properly deducted from the sale price of the oil in valuing the unprocessed material at the wellhead under subsection (1)(d) of this section and art. X, § 3 (1)(b), of the state constitution. The legislature, consistent with the constitution, intended "wellhead" to mean the physical location where the extracted material emerges from the ground. The statute defines "selling price at the wellhead" as the "next taxable revenues realized by the taxpayer for sale of the oil or gas, whether such sale occurs at the wellhead or after gathering, transportation, manufacturing, and processing of the product". In determining whether on-site processing costs are properly deductible in arriving at the wellhead value of the unprocessed material, the essential practice and lesson of the industry is that there is no market for the material until the initial steps of processing the unprocessed material have occurred. Here, the selling price of the separated oil was established at the storage tanks. Because gathering, processing, and transportation occurred before the product was valued at the tank battery, those costs are properly deductible in arriving at the value of the "unprocessed material" at the wellhead. Washington County Bd. of Equaliz. v. Petron Dev. Co., 109 P.3d 146 (Colo. 2005).

In disallowing taxpayer's deductions, county's determination that "gathering, processing, and transportation" expenses could not be deducted unless they occurred "away from" or "beyond" the leasehold property surrounding the well would result in non-uniform treatment of similarly situated taxpayers within the same class and is contrary to both subsection (1)(d) of this section and art. X, § 3 (1)(b), of the state constitution. County was required to allow for deduction of processing costs on the leasehold site to comply with the constitutional and statutory provisions. Washington County Bd. of Equaliz. v. Petron Dev. Co., 109 P.3d 146 (Colo. 2005).

Statutory definition of "selling price at the wellhead" required assessor to allow deductions for gathering, transportation, manufacturing, and processing costs incurred between the wellhead and the point of sale of crude oil. Article X, § 3 (1)(b), of the Colorado Constitution requires valuation of an oil leasehold to be based upon the value of unprocessed oil, and removal of water from and injection of chemicals into oil between the wellhead and the point of sale constituted processing even though the oil remained crude oil. Petron Dev. Co. v. Washington County Bd. of Equaliz., 91 P.3d 408 (Colo. App. 2003), aff'd on other grounds, 109 P.3d 146 (Colo. 2005).

Moreover, a definition of "well site" that includes an entire oil or gas leasehold violates the uniformity of taxation requirement. Leaseholds vary in size and number of wells, and the definition would force oil and gas producers with larger leaseholds who are able to gather, transport, manufacture, and process material entirely on their leaseholds to pay higher taxes by preventing them from deducting the costs of those activities. Petron Dev. Co. v. Washington County Bd. of Equaliz., 91 P.3d 408 (Colo. App. 2003), aff'd on other grounds, 109 P.3d 146 (Colo. 2005).

39-7-102. Valuation for assessment. (1) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, on the basis of the information contained in such statement, the assessor shall value such oil and gas leaseholds and lands for assessment, as real property, at an amount equal to eighty-seven and one-half percent of:

(a) The selling price of the oil or gas sold therefrom during the preceding calendar year, after excluding the selling price of all oil or gas delivered to the United States government or any agency thereof, the state of Colorado or any agency thereof, or any political subdivision of the state as royalty during the preceding calendar year;

(b) The selling price of oil or gas sold in the same field area for oil or gas transported from the premises which is not sold during the preceding calendar year, after excluding the selling price of all oil or gas delivered to the United States government or any agency thereof, the state of Colorado or any agency thereof, or any political subdivision of the state as royalty during the preceding calendar year.

(2) In order to promote the initiation or continuation of secondary recovery, tertiary recovery, or recycling projects which conserve and avoid waste of oil and gas, the assessor shall value oil and gas leaseholds and lands employing such projects for assessment as provided in subsection (1) of this section but at an amount equal to seventy-five percent of:

(a) The selling price of the oil or gas sold therefrom during the preceding calendar year, after excluding the selling price of all oil or gas delivered to the United States government or any agency thereof, the state of Colorado or any agency thereof, or any political subdivision of the state as royalty during the preceding calendar year;

(b) The selling price of oil or gas sold in the same field area for oil or gas transported from the premises which is not sold during the preceding calendar year, after excluding the selling price of all oil or gas delivered to the United States government or any agency thereof, the state of Colorado or any agency thereof, or any political subdivision of the state as royalty during the preceding calendar year.

39-7-105. Assessor to examine books, records. The assessor has the authority and right at any time to examine the books, accounts, and records of any person owning or operating such oil and gas leaseholds and lands in order to verify the statement filed by such person, and, if from such examination he finds such statement or any material part thereof to be willfully false and misleading, he shall proceed to value such oil and gas leaseholds or lands for assessment as though no statement had been filed.

(2) Whenever a group of contiguous oil and gas leaseholds or lands operated as a unit is situated partly in one county and partly in another county or lesser political subdivisions, the person making the statement required by the provisions of section 39-7-101 shall assign to each county or lesser political subdivision that portion of the production value from the unit as is assigned by the unit agreement to the oil and gas leaseholds or lands actually situated in each such county or lesser political subdivision.

39-7-109. Valuation of severed nonproducing oil or gas mineral interests. (1) The actual value of severed nonproducing oil or gas or oil and gas mineral interests shall be determined by the income approach capitalizing the annual net rental income for such nonproducing mineral interests at an appropriate market rate. If such severed mineral interests are unleased, the assessor shall use the average per acre annual rental of all such mineral interests under lease in the county or in the area to determine the actual value thereof.

(2) For the purposes of this section, "annual rental" means annual rental payments, or other compensatory payments payable for the right to hold a mineral interest, which payments are fixed and certain in amount and payable periodically over a fixed period calculated on a twelve-month basis. "Annual rental" shall be the representative annual rental for such mineral interests leased within the county or the area, and "annual rental" does not include royalty payments, advanced royalty payments, bonus payments, or minimum royalty payments covering periods when the mineral interests are not in production, even though said payments may be fixed and certain in amount and payable periodically. For the purposes of this subsection (2), "royalty payments", "advanced royalty payments", and "minimum royalty payments" are payments attributable to a portion of the current or future mineral production of a mineral interest, paid for the privilege of producing minerals, and "bonus payments" means compensation paid as consideration for the granting of a mineral lease or other compensatory payments which are payable regardless of the extent of use of the mineral interest and which are fixed and certain in amount and may be payable in one or more periodical increments over a fixed period.

(1) The county board of equalization shall review the valuations for assessment of all taxable property appearing in the assessment roll of the county, directing the assessor to supply any omissions which may come to its attention. ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

Equalization system is not in conflict with due process of law. People ex rel. State Bd. of Equalization v. Hively, 139 Colo. 49, 336 P.2d 721 (1959).

Boards to adjust property values. The constitutional duty imposed upon the state board of equalization is to adjust and equalize the property values among the several counties of the state. Since these duties having been imposed upon these agencies by § 15 of art. X, Colo. Const., the general assembly is powerless to take them away or confer them upon another. People ex rel. State Bd. of Equalization v. Pitcher, 56 Colo. 343, 138 P. 509 (1914), aff'd, 239 U.S. 441, 36 S. Ct. 141, 60 L. Ed. 372 (1915).

Equalization and assessment distinguished.

The process of equalization relates to the raising or lowering of the total valuation placed upon a class or subclass of property in the aggregate. Assessment, on the other hand, constitutes the process of placing a value for tax purposes upon the property of a particular taxpayer. Wenner v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 866 P.2d 172 (Colo. App. 1993).

The broad powers granted by subsection (1) include those incidental powers necessary to effectuate an equalization of any disparities which affect the uniformities of the tax assessed. Where board directed the assessor to revalue properties to correct a disparity, board did not exceed its statutory authority. Wenner v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 866 P.2d 172 (Colo. App. 1993).

Applied in Am. Mobilehome Ass'n v. Dolan, 191 Colo. 433, 553 P.2d 758 (1976).

39-8-103. Notice of change in valuation. The county clerk and recorder shall notify each person affected of any change in the valuation of his property ordered by the board and shall furnish the assessor with a copy of such notice.

39-8-104. Notice of meeting. (1) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, prior to July 1 of each year, the county clerk and recorder shall give notice in at least one issue of a newspaper published in his or her county that beginning on July 1, the county board of equalization will sit in the county's regular public meeting location or other appropriate public meeting place to review the assessment roll of all taxable property located in the county, as prepared by the assessor, and to hear appeals from determinations of the assessor.

(2) (a) Prior to a date established by the county board of equalization, but no later than September 1, the county clerk and recorder in a county that has made an election pursuant to section 39-5-122.7 (1) shall give notice in at least one issue of a newspaper published in his or her county that beginning such date the county board of equalization will sit in the county's regular public meeting location or other appropriate public meeting place to review the assessment roll of all taxable property located in the county, as prepared by the assessor, and to hear appeals from determinations of the assessor.

(b) Prior to September 1, 2002, and prior to each September 1 thereafter, the county clerk and recorder shall give notice in at least one issue of a newspaper published in his or her county of any date or dates between September 1 and October 1 on which the county commissioners, sitting as the county board of equalization, shall hear contests of property tax exemption denials as required by section 39-3-206 (2).

(3) If there is no newspaper, then such notice shall be conspicuously posted in the offices of the county clerk and recorder, the treasurer, and the assessor and in at least two other public places in the county seat.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

Publication of meeting dates for taxpayer's benefit. The directions given the county board of equalization as to the required dates of meetings are for the benefit of the taxpayer, to give him notice, and opportunity to be heard, as it is mandatory upon a taxpayer to make his complaint before the board at the time provided by this section. Tarabino Real Estate Co. v. Sandoval, 115 Colo. 336, 173 P.2d 459 (1946).

When provisions of section to be construed as mandatory. The requirements of this section are to be construed as mandatory only in specific instances where it is clearly shown on behalf of an aggrieved taxpayer, that, on account of non-compliance with these statutory requirements by the county officials charged therewith, the taxpayer has been deprived of an opportunity for a hearing or of some other right important to him. Northcutt v. Burton, 127 Colo. 145, 254 P.2d 1013 (1953); Citizens' Comm. for Fair Prop. Taxation v. Warner, 127 Colo. 121, 254 P.2d 1005 (1953).

Absent grievance, taxpayer cannot complain of lack of notice. An owner, who has no grievance, cannot complain that a proper notice of the meeting of the board for the purpose of equalizing was not given. Citizens' Comm. for Fair Prop. Taxation v. Warner, 127 Colo. 121, 254 P.2d 1005 (1953).

39-8-105. Reports of assessor. (1) At a meeting of the county board of equalization on the second Monday in July, or on the second Monday in September in a county that has made an election pursuant to section 39-5-122.7 (1), the assessor shall report the valuation for assessment of all taxable real property in the county. The assessor shall submit a list of all persons who have appeared before him or her to present objections or protests concerning real property and his or her action in each case.

(2) At a meeting of the board on or before July 15, the assessor shall report the valuation of all taxable personal property in the county and shall note any valuations for assessment of portable or movable equipment which have been apportioned pursuant to the provisions of section 39-5-113. He shall submit a list of all persons in the county who have failed to return any schedules and shall report his action in each case. He shall also submit a list of persons who have appeared before him to present objections or protests and his action in each case.

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

County assessor is under duty to assess all taxable property for taxation, regardless of whether a reappraisal thereof has been completed; although he is not required to await completion of reappraisal before making up his tax roll, he is under obligation nevertheless, in the interest of uniformity, to determine his valuations in conformity with reappraisal standards insofar as this might reasonably be accomplished under the circumstances. Citizens' Comm. for Fair Prop. Taxation v. Warner, 127 Colo. 121, 254 P.2d 1005 (1953).

After report is made, assessor's quasi-judicial functions end. When the county assessor has completed his assessment and submits his assessment roll to the county board of equalization, his quasi-judicial functions and his duties, thereafter to be performed, are purely ministerial. People ex rel. State Bd. of Equaliz. v. Pitcher, 61 Colo. 149, 156 P. 812 (1916).

39-8-106. Petitions for appeal. (1) The county board of equalization shall receive and hear petitions from any person whose objections or protests have been refused or denied by the assessor. A petition shall be in a form approved by the property tax administrator pursuant to section 39-2-109 (1) (d), the contents of which shall include the following:

(a) A statement informing the person of his or her right to appeal, the time and place at which the county board of equalization will hear appeals from determinations of the assessor, and that, by mailing or delivering one copy of the form to the county board of equalization that is received or postmarked on or before July 15 of that year for real property and July 20 of that year for personal property or, if a county has made an election pursuant to section 39-5-122.7 (1), on or before September 15 of that year for both real and personal property, the person will be deemed to have filed his or her petition for hearing with the county board of equalization. The date the form is received by the county board of equalization shall be stamped on the form. All forms shall be presumed to be on time unless the county board of equalization can present evidence to show otherwise.

(b) A requirement that the assessor's office set forth the following information on the face of the form:

(I) A description of the property claimed to be excessively, erroneously, or illegally valued;

(II) The actual value placed upon it by the assessor;

(III) A specific and detailed statement of the grounds delineated in this subparagraph (III), upon which the assessor relied to justify such valuation. The grounds are appropriate consideration of the approaches to appraisal set forth in section 39-1-103 (5) (a) and classification of the property. For agricultural lands, the grounds are: Earning or productive capacity; classification; and capitalization rate.

(IV) The assessor's written statement refusing to change such valuation; and

(V) The actual value placed upon it by the person whose objection and protest has been denied.

(c) Space for the person whose objection and protest has been denied to state the grounds on which he relied and to indicate the manner, if any, in which he disagrees with the assessor's statement of the information described in paragraph (b) of this subsection (1).

(1.5) In addition to any other requirements set forth in subsection (1) of this section, any petition for appeal relating to real property shall contain the actual value of such real property, stated in terms of a specific dollar amount, which is being offered as the correct valuation. Nothing in this subsection (1.5) shall be construed to exempt paid representatives of taxpayers from the requirements of part 7 of article 61 of title 12, C.R.S., if applicable.

(1.7) Any person who objects to the application of the term "integral to an agricultural operation" to their property in accordance with section 39-1-102 (1.6) (a) (I) and (14.4) and whose objections or protests have been denied by the assessor may submit a petition for appeal to the county board of equalization to the same extent as any other protest or objection for which an appeal to the board is provided under law and shall satisfy all requirements for the prosecution of such appeal as provided by law.

(2) Upon receiving a petition in the form described in subsection (1) of this section, the county board of equalization or its authorized agent shall note the filing of the petition, set a time for hearing of said petition, and notify the petitioner by mail of such time for hearing.

(3) If the assessor fails or refuses to comply with the provisions of section 39-5-122, this section, or both, relating to said form, the objecting person shall not be deprived of his right of appeal to the county board of equalization. The objecting person may present his objections and protests in person or by counsel, orally or by letter or other informal writing, on any day during the meeting of the county board of equalization held for the purpose of hearing appeals. The said failure or refusal of the assessor shall not, in any manner, deprive the objecting person of his right to a full, fair, and complete hearing of his objections and protests by the county board of equalization.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Appealing Property Tax Assessments", see 15 Colo. Law. 798 (1986).

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

Evaluation of property presumed correct. The evaluation of property for taxation, as determined by the assessor, is presumed to be right. Stalder v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 147 Colo. 493, 364 P.2d 389 (1961).

Standard of proof required of taxpayer. Clear and convincing evidence is the degree of proof required of a taxpayer to overcome the presumption that an assessment is correct. Majestic Great W. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Reale, 30 Colo. App. 564, 499 P.2d 644 (1972).

It is not necessary to show an assessment is manifestly excessive, fraudulent, or oppressive. Majestic Great W. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Reale, 30 Colo. App. 564, 499 P.2d 644 (1972).

Prerequisites to appeal. The appearance before the assessor under § 39-5-122 with "objection and protest", which are then "refused or denied", is a prerequisite to an appeal to the county board of equalization. Modular Cmty., Inc. v. McKnight, 36 Colo. App. 38, 536 P.2d 1168 (1975), aff'd, 191 Colo. 101, 550 P.2d 866 (1976).

"Petitioner" refers to taxpayer. In this section and § 39-8-108, the term "petitioner" refers to taxpayer. Adams County Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Union P. R. R., 34 Colo. App. 156, 525 P.2d 1202 (1974).

This section and § 39-5-122 afford remedy at law. Section 39-5-122 and this section afford a plain, speedy, and efficient remedy at law. Kortz v. Ellingson, 181 F. Supp. 857 (D. Colo. 1960).

Effect of taxpayer's failure to follow statutory remedy. If an assessment is erroneous, or excessive, the right to relief can be lost through failure to pursue the proper statutory remedy. Citizens' Comm. for Fair Prop. Taxation v. Warner, 127 Colo. 121, 254 P.2d 1005 (1953).

A party who fails to invoke the remedy under this section cannot be heard to complain of errors in the valuation of his property after a sale has been made and the tax deed issued. Barnett v. Jaynes, 26 Colo. 279, 57 P. 703 (1899).

The law has provided a forum — namely, the board of equalization — whose duty it is, at the instance of anyone aggrieved, to correct errors in the assessment roll returned by the assessor. Having failed to avail himself of the plain, speedy, and adequate remedy thus afforded, to correct his assessment upon these grounds, or, at least, present these questions to the board, he cannot resort to proceedings in certiorari for that purpose. People ex rel. Hallett v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 27 Colo. 86, 59 P. 733 (1899).

Taxpayer may seek review at each stage of decision-making process. It is evident from the provisions of this section and § 39-8-108 that the general assembly contemplated that at each stage of the decision-making process, the taxpayer could seek review of an adverse decision: Adams County Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Union P. R. R., 34 Colo. App. 156, 525 P.2d 1202 (1974).

A party may seek review of only the total valuation for assessment and not of the component parts of that total. The statutes speak only of the right to appeal the value or the valuation assessment set by the assessor. Notably absent from the statutes is language that would permit a party to limit the scope of the protest by appealing only a portion or component of the assessed value. Cherne v. Bd. of Equaliz., 885 P.2d 258 (Colo. App. 1994).

Right to protest property valuations is not limited to person who is owner of property on record as of the first day of the tax year, and any person who is an owner of the property for any portion of the assessment period has standing to protest such valuations. Tenney v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 856 P.2d 89 (Colo. App. 1993).

Protest after meeting of board is too late. A protest against an alleged erroneous assessment is too late when made after the board of equalization has held its meetings. Miller v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 92 Colo. 425, 21 P.2d 714, appeal dismissed, 290 U.S. 586, 54 S. Ct. 78, 78 L. Ed. 518 (1933).

Jurisdiction of board of county commissioners is plenary on review. In re Hover Motors, 120 Colo. 511, 212 P.2d 99 (1949).

Judicial review of decision by state board of assessment appeals limited. Neither the county board of commissioners nor the county assessor may seek judicial review of a decision by the state board of assessment appeals. Adams County Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Union P. R. R., 34 Colo. App. 156, 525 P.2d 1202 (1974).

Applied in Mardi, Inc. v. City & County of Denver, 151 Colo. 28, 375 P.2d 682 (1962).

39-8-107. Hearings on appeal. (1) At the hearing upon a petition, the assessor or the assessor's authorized representative shall be present and shall produce information to support the basis and amount of the assessor's valuation of the property. The board shall hear and consider all testimony and examine all exhibits produced or introduced by either the petitioner or the assessor, with no presumption in favor of any pending valuation, and may subpoena witnesses to testify. The costs of producing the petitioner's witnesses shall be paid by the petitioner, and the costs of producing the assessor's witnesses shall be paid by the county. On the basis of the testimony produced and the exhibits introduced, the board shall grant or deny the petition, in whole or in part, and shall notify the petitioner and the assessor in writing. If the board denies the petition, in whole or in part, such written notice shall inform the petitioner of the right to appeal within the thirty-day period following the denial to the district court or the board of assessment appeals pursuant to the provisions of section 39-8-108 (1) or within the thirty-day period following the denial to submit the case to arbitration pursuant to the provisions of section 39-8-108.5. Such notice shall state that, if the appeal is to the board of assessment appeals, the hearing before the board of assessment appeals shall be the last hearing at which testimony, exhibits, or any other type of evidence may be introduced by either party and that, if there is an appeal to the court of appeals pursuant to section 39-8-108 (2), the record from the hearing before the board of assessment appeals and no new evidence shall be the basis for the court's decision. The phone number and address of the board of assessment appeals shall also be included on the notice. The notice shall also state, in general terms, how to pursue arbitration and that, if a taxpayer submits the case to arbitration, the decision reached under such process shall be final and not subject to review. If a referee heard the case, the board shall, at the written request of any taxpayer or any agent of such taxpayer within seven working days after receipt of said request, make available to the taxpayer or agent the referee's findings and recommendations. At the board's election, the board may either mail, fax, or send by electronic transmission such findings and recommendations to the address, phone number, or electronic address supplied by said taxpayer or agent. Upon receipt of such request, the board shall notify the taxpayer or agent of the estimated cost of providing such findings and recommendations, payment of which shall be made prior to providing such findings and recommendations. Upon providing such findings and recommendations, the board may include a bill for the reasonable cost above the estimated cost and up to the statutory maximum which shall be due and payable upon receipt by the taxpayer or agent.

(2) The county board of equalization shall continue its hearings from time to time until all petitions have been heard, but all such hearings shall be concluded and decisions rendered thereon by the close of business on August 5 of that year; except that, in a county that has made an election pursuant to section 39-5-122.7 (1), all such hearings shall be concluded and decisions rendered thereon by the close of business on November 1 of that year. Any decision shall be mailed to the petitioner within five business days of the date on which such decision is rendered.

(3) At the written request of any taxpayer or any agent of such taxpayer and subject to such confidentiality requirements as provided by law, the assessor shall, within three working days after receipt of said request, make available to the taxpayer or agent the data used by the assessor in determining the actual value of any property owned by such taxpayer. At the assessor's election, the assessor may either mail, fax, or send by electronic transmission to the address, phone number, or electronic address supplied by said taxpayer or agent such data. Such data shall include but shall not be limited to the data derived from the declarations filed pursuant to the provisions of article 14 of this title and confidential data, provided that such confidential data shall be presented in such a manner that the source cannot be identified. Upon receipt of such request, the assessor shall notify the taxpayer or agent of the estimated cost of providing such information, payment of which shall be made prior to providing such information. Upon providing such information, the assessor may include a bill for the reasonable cost above the estimated cost and up to the statutory maximum which shall be due and payable upon receipt by the taxpayer or agent.

(4) The assessor may not rely on any confidential information which is not available for review by the taxpayer, unless such confidential data is presented in such a manner that the source cannot be identified.

(5) (a) (I) On and after August 10, 2011, in addition to any other requirements under law, any petitioner appealing either a valuation of rent-producing commercial real property to the board of assessment appeals pursuant to section 39-8-108 (1) or a denial of an abatement of taxes pursuant to section 39-10-114 shall provide to the county board of equalization or to the board of county commissioners of the county in the case of an abatement, and not to the board of assessment appeals, the following information, if applicable:

(A) Actual annual rental income for two full years including the base year for the relevant property tax year;

(B) Tenant reimbursements for two full years including the base year for the relevant property tax year;

(C) Itemized expenses for two full years including the base year for the relevant property tax year; and

(D) Rent roll data, including the name of any tenants, the address, unit, or suite number of the subject property, lease start and end dates, option terms, base rent, square footage leased, and vacant space for two full years including the base year for the relevant property tax year.

(II) The petitioner shall provide the information required by subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a) within ninety days after the appeal has been filed with the board of assessment appeals.

(b) (I) The assessor, the county board of equalization, or the board of county commissioners of the county, as applicable, shall, upon request made by the petitioner, provide to a petitioner who has filed an appeal with the board of assessment appeals not more than ninety days after receipt of the petitioner's request, the following information:

(A) All of the underlying data used by the county in calculating the value of the subject property that is being appealed, including the capitalization rate for such property; and

(B) The names of any commercially available and copyrighted publications used in calculating the value of the subject property.

(II) The party providing the information to the petitioner pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b) shall redact all confidential information contained therein.

(c) If a petitioner fails to provide the information required by subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (5) by the deadline specified in subparagraph (II) of said paragraph (a), the county may move the board of assessment appeals to compel disclosure and to issue appropriate sanctions for noncompliance with such order. The motion may be made directly by the county attorney and shall be accompanied by a certification that the county assessor or the county board of equalization has in good faith conferred or attempted to confer with such petitioner in an effort to obtain the information without action by the board of assessment appeals. If an order compelling disclosure is issued under this paragraph (c) and the petitioner fails to comply with such order, the board of assessment appeals may make such orders in regard to the noncompliance as are just and reasonable under the circumstances, including an order dismissing the action or the entry of a judgment by default against the petitioner. Interest due the taxpayer shall cease to accrue as of the date the order compelling disclosure is issued, and the accrual of interest shall resume as of the date the contested information has been provided by the taxpayer.

(d) In the notice of determination, the county board of equalization shall inform a taxpayer of the taxpayer's obligation to provide the information required by paragraph (a) of this subsection (5).

(e) The county board of equalization and the board of county commissioners receiving any information provided by a petitioner pursuant to subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (5) that is exempt from disclosure under either section 24-72-204 (3) (a) (IV), C.R.S., or another provision of the "Colorado Open Records Act", part 2 of article 72 of title 24, C.R.S., shall keep such information confidential; except that such information may be disclosed to the administrator and the employees of his or her office, the board of assessment appeals, the county board of equalization, the board of county commissioners of the county in which the subject property is located, the office of the county assessor, or a person retained to appraise or provide value consultation in connection with the subject property where such information is pertinent to an appeal.

(f) Nothing in this subsection (5) shall be construed to apply to a public utility whose valuation for property tax purposes is determined by the administrator in accordance with the provisions of article 4 of this title.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Appealing Property Tax Assessments", see 15 Colo. Law. 798 (1986).

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

Board's hearings are quasi-judicial. The board of equalization hearings, as distinguished from an assessor's search for pertinent information, though generally informally conducted, are quasi-judicial. May Stores Shopping Centers, Inc. v. Shoemaker, 151 Colo. 100, 376 P.2d 679 (1962).

Its decisions must be based on proper evidence. Hearings before the board of equalization and decisions must be based on evidence properly before it. May Stores Shopping Centers, Inc. v. Shoemaker, 151 Colo. 100, 376 P.2d 679 (1962).

Proceedings before the board of assessment appeals are de novo in nature and an appeal of a classification decision of the board is thus limited to review of the propriety of the board's classification decision without regard to the prior decision of the county assessor. Johnston v. Park County Bd. of Equaliz., 979 P.2d 578 (Colo. App. 1999).

Records must be kept of proceedings by the board of equalization and decisions must be based upon the evidence properly before the board. May Stores Shopping Centers, Inc. v. Shoemaker, 151 Colo. 100, 376 P.2d 679 (1962).

Section does not require board to issue formal findings of fact or conclusions of law. Carrara Place v. Bd. of Equaliz., 761 P.2d 197 (Colo. 1988).

Secret or informal hearings or meetings with assessor cannot be basis of a board of equalization's actions. May Stores Shopping Centers, Inc. v. Shoemaker, 151 Colo. 100, 376 P.2d 679 (1962).

Subsection (2) requires that the board's decision be mailed only to the taxpayer. While it may be the common and better practice to notify an agent appearing for the taxpayer, the board nevertheless complied with this requirement upon mailing its decision directly to the taxpayer at the taxpayer's address of record. Tri-Havana LLC v. Arapahoe County Bd. of Equaliz., 961 P.2d 604 (Colo. App. 1998).

Timely commencement of action. Assessor and his successors in office were necessary and proper parties to proceedings before the board of equalization and thus were proper parties to the trial de novo in district court, and plaintiffs, by joining the same party-opponents who had been involved in the proceedings before the board, commenced their action in a timely manner. B.C., Limited, et al. v. Krinhop, 815 P.2d 1016 (Colo. App. 1991).

Board's failure to act within time limits prescribed in subsection (2) did not invalidate the board's actions where taxpayers' rights were not abridged. Wenner v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 866 P.2d 172 (Colo. App. 1993).

A board of equalization (BOE) board member may not be called in a proceeding before the board of assessment appeals (BAA) to explain a BOE decision, or how it was reached, in the absence of a clear showing of illegal or unlawful action, misconduct, bias, or bad faith on the part of the decision makers. Gilpin County BOE v. Russell, 941 P.2d 257 (Colo. 1997).

A BOE board member's testimony at a BAA proceeding is barred by the mental process rule. Gilpin County BOE v. Russell, 941 P.2d 257 (Colo. 1997).

Applied in Majestic Great W. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Reale, 30 Colo. App. 564, 499 P.2d 644 (1972).

39-8-108. Decision - review - opportunity to submit case to arbitration. (1) If the county board of equalization grants a petition, in whole or in part, the assessor shall adjust the valuation accordingly; but, if the petition is denied, in whole or in part, the petitioner may appeal the valuation set by the assessor or, if the valuation is adjusted as a result of a decision of the county board of equalization, the adjusted valuation to the board of assessment appeals or to the district court of the county wherein the petitioner's property is located for a trial de novo, or the petitioner may submit the case to arbitration pursuant to the provisions of section 39-8-108.5. Such appeal or submission to arbitration shall be taken no later than thirty days after the date such denial was mailed pursuant to section 39-8-107 (2). Any decision rendered by the county board of equalization shall state that the petitioner has the right to appeal the decision of the county board to the board of assessment appeals or to the district court of the county wherein the petitioner's property is located or to submit the case to arbitration and, to preserve such right, the time by which such appeal or submission to arbitration must be made. Any request by a taxpayer for a hearing before the board of assessment appeals shall be accompanied by a nonrefundable filing fee in an amount specified in section 39-2-125 (1) (h). In addition, any request by a taxpayer for a hearing before the board of assessment appeals shall be stamped with the date on which such request was received by the board. All such requests shall be presumed to be on time unless the board can present evidence to show otherwise.

(2) If the petitioner has appealed to the board of assessment appeals and the decision of the board of assessment appeals is against the petitioner, the petitioner may petition the court of appeals for judicial review according to the Colorado appellate rules and the provisions of section 24-4-106 (11), C.R.S. If the decision of the board is against the respondent, the respondent, upon the recommendation of the board that it either is a matter of statewide concern or has resulted in a significant decrease in the total valuation of the respondent county, may petition the court of appeals for judicial review according to the Colorado appellate rules and the provisions of section 24-4-106 (11), C.R.S. In addition, on and after June 7, 1989, if the decision of the board is against the respondent, the respondent may petition the court of appeals for judicial review of alleged procedural errors or errors of law within thirty days of such decision when the respondent alleges procedural errors or errors of law by the board of assessment appeals. If the board does not recommend its decision to be a matter of statewide concern or to have resulted in a significant decrease in the total valuation of the respondent county, the respondent may petition the court of appeals for judicial review of such questions within thirty days of such decision. Any decision issued by the board of assessment appeals shall inform the petitioner or respondent, as may be appropriate, of the right to petition the court of appeals for judicial review.

(3) If the decision of the county board of equalization has been appealed to the district court, the decision of the court shall be subject to appellate review according to the Colorado appellate rules and the provisions of section 24-4-106 (9), C.R.S.

(4) If the taxpayer submits his case to arbitration pursuant to the provisions of section 39-8-108.5, the decision reached under such process shall be final and not subject to review.

(5) In any appeal authorized by this section or by section 39-5-122, 39-5-122.7, or 39-10-114:

(a) The valuation shall not be adjusted to a value higher than the valuation set by the county board of equalization pursuant to section 39-8-107, except as specifically permitted pursuant to section 39-5-125;

(b) The assessor's valuation of similar property similarly situated shall be credible evidence;

(c) The respondent may not rely on any confidential information which is not available for review by the taxpayer unless such confidential data is presented in such a manner that the source cannot be identified;

(d) Upon request, the respondent shall make available to the taxpayer two working days prior to any appeal hearing data supporting the assessor's valuation. Such request shall be accompanied by data supporting the taxpayer's valuation. Nothing in this paragraph (d) shall be construed to prohibit the introduction at such appeal hearing of any data discovered as a result of the exchange of data required by this paragraph (d).

(e) In using the market approach to determine the value of residential real property, if the assessor has knowledge of the conversion from one residential use to a different residential use, such conversion shall create a rebuttable presumption that the sale of such property is not a comparable sale for purposes of establishing the value of a property having a similar prior residential use.

(6) In any appeal or submission to arbitration authorized by this section, there shall be no presumption in favor of any pending valuation.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Appealing Property Tax Assessments", see 15 Colo. Law. 798 (1986).

"Petitioner" refers to taxpayer. In § 39-8-106 and this section, the term "petitioner" refers to taxpayer. Adams County Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Union P. R. R., 34 Colo. App. 156, 525 P.2d 1202 (1974).

Subsection (2) expressly authorizes a county board of equalization to seek judicial review of procedural errors or errors of law made by the board of assessment appeals. A board of equalization is the "respondent" in proceedings before the board of assessment appeals. SecurityLink from Ameritech, Inc. v. City and County of Denver, 32 P.3d 499 (Colo. App. 2000).

The board of equalization may seek judicial review of a decision of the board of assessment appeals within 45 days of the final order, but only if the board of assessment appeals recommended that the case involved an issue of statewide concern or that the ruling would result in a significant decrease in the total valuation of the count. Absent such a recommendation, the board of equalization was required to seek judicial review within 30 days of the final order. Steamboat Ski & Resort Corp. v. Routt County Bd. of Equaliz., 23 P.3d 1258 (Colo. App. 2001).

Property tax valuation challenge. A taxpayer has the statutory right to challenge a property tax valuation for each tax year under the protest and adjustment procedure and possibly through de novo evidentiary proceedings before the board of assessment appeals. Weingarten v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 876 P.2d 118 (Colo. App. 1994).

Taxpayer may seek review at each stage of decision-making process. It is evident from § 39-8-106 and this section that the general assembly contemplated that at each stage of the decision-making process the taxpayer could seek review of an adverse decision. Adams County Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Union P. R. R., 34 Colo. App. 156, 525 P.2d 1202 (1974).

A party may seek review of only the total valuation for assessment and not of the component parts of that total. The statutes speak only of the right to appeal the value or the valuation assessment set by the assessor. Notably absent from the statutes is language that would permit a party to limit the scope of the protest by appealing only a portion or component of the assessed value. Cherne v. Bd. of Equaliz., 885 P.2d 258 (Colo. App. 1994).

Joinder of indispensable parties. Part of the perfection of an action for judicial review includes the joinder of indispensable parties. Cissell v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 38 Colo. App. 560, 564 P.2d 124 (1977).

Statute specifying judicial review in the district court of the county in which the property is located applies only when, prior to payment of any taxes, the taxpayer seeks an adjustment of taxes assessed against property and is not applicable when the taxpayer has paid taxes on property and proceeds for a tax refund. Gunnison County v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 693 P.2d 400 (Colo. App. 1984).

Subsection (2) limits judicial review to certain specific circumstances. Where the case does not involve a matter of statewide concern or result in a significant decrease in the total assessed valuation of the taxing entity, and the board of assessment appeals' ruling is supported by the evidence, no judicial review is authorized. Denver v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 802 P.2d 1109 (Colo. App. 1990).

1989 amendment to statutory appeal procedures demonstrated intent of general assembly to expand circumstances under which taxing authority may initiate an appeal of an adverse decision of the board of assessment appeals. Farny v. Bd. of Equaliz., 985 P.2d 106 (Colo. App. 1999).

A claim that evidence is legally insufficient to support the board's decision is a claim based on an alleged "error of law" and is appealable by the taxing authority to the court of appeals pursuant to subsection (2). Farny v. Bd. of Equaliz., 985 P.2d 106 (Colo. App. 1999).

A failure by the board to apply the correct legal standards or to abide by the statutory scheme would constitute an error reviewable by the court. Clarke v. Douglas County Bd. of Equaliz., 899 P.2d 240 (Colo. App. 1994), rev'd on other grounds, 921 P.2d 717 (Colo. 1996).

Section does not give state property tax administrator the right to appeal from adverse decisions pertaining to exemption from taxes. Maurer v. Young Life, 751 P.2d 653 (Colo. App. 1987), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 779 P.2d 1317 (Colo. 1989); Maurer v. Loyal Order of Moose Lodge, 779 P.2d 1345 (Colo. 1989).

Taxpayer failed to preserve property-classification issue for review when he did not appeal or cross-appeal from board of assessment appeals' ruling on that issue. Gyurman v. Weld County Bd. of Equaliz., 851 P.2d 307 (Colo. App. 1993).

Thirty-day time limit for filing appeal with the board of assessment appeals begins to run on the date of the mailing of the board of equalization's decision directly to the taxpayer. Tri-Havana LLC v. Arapahoe County Bd. of Equaliz., 961 P.2d 604 (Colo. App. 1998).

Thirty-day time limit for filing appeal with court of appeals in tax assessment cases is applicable only if initial appeal was made directly to district court with no intervening appeal to state board of assessment appeals. Denver v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 748 P.2d 1306 (Colo. App. 1987).

Apart from timely filing requirement, there are no other statutory jurisdictional requirements for taking administrative appeals before the board of assessment appeals. Fleisher-Smyth v. Bd. of Assess. App., 865 P.2d 922 (Colo. App. 1993).

Proceedings before the board of assessment appeals are de novo in nature and an appeal of a classification decision of the board is thus limited to review of the propriety of the board's classification decision without regard to the prior decision of the county assessor. Johnston v. Park County Bd. of Equaliz., 979 P.2d 578 (Colo. App. 1999).

Trial de novo under this section does not mean review but means an entirely independent determination of the facts. Arapahoe P'ship v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 813 P.2d 766 (Colo. App. 1990).

Taxpayers protesting a tax assessment in the trial de novo must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the assessment is incorrect. Arapahoe P'ship v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 813 P.2d 766 (Colo. App. 1990).

A taxpayer must prove by a preponderance of the evidence only that an assessment is incorrect to prevail at a board of assessment appeals proceeding and is not required to establish an appropriate basis for an alternative reduced valuation for the property at issue. Bd. of Assess. Appeals v. Sampson, 105 P.3d 198 (Colo. 2005).

The board of assessment appeals is not bound by any valuation methodology or results from a prior ruling valuing the taxpayer's property. Lawrence v. Bd. of Equaliz., 989 P.2d 232 (Colo. App. 1999).

The board of equalization was a necessary party to de novo proceedings in district court, but dismissal of the action was not the appropriate remedy for nonjoinder of the board; rather the court should join the necessary party or allow plaintiff an opportunity to do so. B.C., Limited, et al. v. Krinhop, 815 P.2d 1016 (Colo. App. 1991).

Dismissal without prejudice of appeal for trial de novo may constitute a final, appealable order if, during the pendency of the appeal, a limitations period has expired and the case may not be refiled because it is time-barred. Wyler/Pebble Creek Ranch v. Colo. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 883 P.2d 597 (Colo. App. 1994).

Trial court's consideration of assessor's reference library, consisting of manuals and directives, was not inconsistent with the conduct of a trial de novo. Amax v. Grand County Bd. of Equaliz., 892 P.2d 409 (Colo. App. 1994), rev'd on other grounds sub nom. Huddleston v. Grand County Bd. of Equaliz., 913 P.2d 15 (Colo. 1996).

Protest and adjustment procedures are separate and independent from abatement and refund procedures. An appeal for a trial de novo under this section is not an "alternate petition" for abatement or refund under § 39-10-114 (1)(a)(I). Wyler/Pebble Creek Ranch v. Colo. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 883 P.2d 597 (Colo. App. 1994).

Applied in BA Leasing Corp. v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 653 P.2d 80 (Colo. App. 1982); Laredo Hous. Apts., Ltd. v. Bd. of Assm't. Appeals, 675 P.2d 23 (Colo. App. 1983); Arapahoe Cty. Bd. of Equaliz. v. Podoll, 935 P.2d 14 (Colo. 1997).

39-8-108.5. Arbitration of property valuations - arbitrators - qualifications - procedures. (1) (a) In order to give taxpayers an alternative to pursuing an appeal of the county board of equalization's decision through either the board of assessment appeals or the district court, an arbitration process shall be established. The board of county commissioners shall develop a list of persons who shall be qualified to act as arbitrators of property valuation disputes. Such list shall be kept in the office of the county clerk and recorder.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (c) of this subsection (1), persons on such list shall be, in addition to any other qualifications deemed necessary by the board, experienced in the area of property taxation, on and after June 1, 1993, be registered, licensed, or certificated pursuant to part 7 of article 61 of title 12, C.R.S., and be any one of the following:

(I) An attorney licensed to practice law in the state;

(II) An appraiser who is a member of the institute of real estate appraisers or its equivalent;

(III) A former county assessor;

(IV) A retired judge;

(V) A licensed real estate broker.

(c) No person shall act as an arbitrator of property valuation disputes in any county during any property tax year in which such person represents or has represented any taxpayer in any matter relating to the protest and appeal of property valuation or to the abatement or refund of property taxes.

(2) (a) Within thirty days of the county board of equalization's decision, any taxpayer who plans to pursue arbitration shall notify the board of his intent. The taxpayer and the county board of equalization shall select an arbitrator from the list prepared pursuant to subsection (1) of this section within forty-five days of the county board of equalization's decision or within thirty days from the date the list of arbitrators is made available in any given year, whichever is later. In the absence of agreement by the taxpayer and the county board of equalization within said specified time period, the district court of the county in which the property is located shall select an arbitrator from said list.

(b) If a taxpayer acts pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), the county board of equalization shall be required to participate in arbitration and to accept the arbitrator selected.

(3) (a) Arbitration hearings shall be at a time and place set by the arbitrator with the mutual consent of the taxpayer and the county board of equalization. The arbitration hearing shall be held within sixty days from the date the arbitrator was selected.

(b) Procedure at arbitration hearings shall be informal, and strict rules of evidence shall not be applied except as necessitated in the opinion of the arbitrator by the requirements of justice. All questions of law and fact shall be determined by the arbitrator.

(b.5) The taxpayer shall produce information to support his contention that the property should be valued differently. The assessor shall produce information to support the basis and amount of his valuation of the property. Both the information of the assessor and the information of the taxpayer shall be considered by the arbitrator in making his decision.

(c) The arbitrator may issue or cause to be issued subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses and for the production of books, records, documents, and other evidence and shall have the power to administer oaths. Subpoenas so issued shall be served and, upon application to the district court by the taxpayer or the county board of equalization or the arbitrator, enforced in the manner provided by law for the service and enforcement of subpoenas in civil actions.

(d) The taxpayer and the county board of equalization shall be entitled to attend, personally or with counsel, and participate in the proceedings. Such participation may include the filing of briefs and affidavits. Upon agreement of both parties, the proceedings may be confidential and closed to the public.

(e) No record of the proceedings is required.

(f) The arbitrator's decision shall be made in accordance with applicable Colorado property tax laws. The arbitrator's decision shall be in writing and signed by the arbitrator.

(g) The arbitrator shall deliver a copy of his decision to the parties personally or by registered mail within ten days of the hearing. Such decision shall be final and not subject to review.

(4) An arbitrator shall be immune from civil liability arising from participation as an arbitrator and for all communications, findings, opinions, and conclusions made in the course of his duties under this section.

(5) (a) An arbitrator's expenses and fees shall not exceed one hundred fifty dollars per case concerning residential real property. For cases concerning any taxable property other than residential real property, an arbitrator's expenses and fees shall be an amount agreed upon by the taxpayer and the county board of equalization.

(b) The arbitrator's fees and expenses, not including counsel fees, incurred in the conduct of the arbitration shall be paid as provided in the decision.

(6) Any decision of the county board of equalization regarding a 1987 property valuation which has been appealed to either the board of assessment appeals or the district court and which has not been heard or adjudicated may be submitted to arbitration pursuant to this section at the request of the taxpayer.

Editor's note: Subsection (2) provided for the repeal of this section, effective July 1, 1989. (See L. 88, p. 1274.)

39-8-109. Effects of board of assessment appeals or district court decision. (1) If upon appeal the appellant is sustained, in whole or in part, then the appellant shall provide a copy of the order or judgment of the board of assessment appeals or district court, as the case may be, to the county assessor. If the order or judgment has been appealed, then the appellant shall present to the county assessor a copy of the original order or judgment of the board of assessment appeals or district court and copies of all further decisions of the board of assessment appeals, district court, court of appeals, and supreme court. Upon presentation to the treasurer by the county assessor of a copy of the order or judgment of the board of assessment appeals or district court, as the case may be, and, if the case has been appealed, copies of all further decisions of the board of assessment appeals, district court, court of appeals, and supreme court, modifying the valuation for assessment of the property, the appellant, identified as the petitioner or plaintiff on the order or judgment of the board of assessment appeals or district court, shall forthwith receive the appropriate refund of taxes and delinquent interest thereon, together with refund interest at the same rate as delinquent interest as specified in section 39-10-104.5. Such refund interest shall only accrue from the date on which payment of taxes and delinquent interest thereon was received by the treasurer. Such refund shall be paid to the appellant even if the appellant is not the current owner of the property. The appellant and the county shall each be responsible for their respective costs in said court or board of assessment appeals, as the case may be.

(2) In the event that the treasurer refunds taxes and interest to the appellant based on a modification of the valuation for assessment of the property pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, the treasurer shall be entitled to reimbursement for the refund of taxes and interest pro rata by all jurisdictions receiving payment thereof and may request reimbursement from the jurisdictions or offset the reimbursements against subsequent payments. The provisions of this subsection (2) shall not apply to a city and county.

ANNOTATION

When refund of taxes sought. When a taxpayer's appeal of the imposition of an increased tax on his property is sustained and the board or court's decision occurs after the challenged property tax is due, §§ 39-1-113 and 39-10-114 apply to the refund of taxes paid under this section. Bd. of Assess. Appeals v. Benbrook, 735 P.2d 860 (Colo. 1987).

When appeal is brought under § 39-8-101 et seq., this section provides that the taxpayer receive a refund together with interest thereon at the rate of 6% per annum. B.A. Leasing Corp. v. State Bd. of Equal., 745 P.2d 254 (Colo. App. 1987), aff'd sub nom. Gates Rubber Co. v. Bd. of Equalization, 770 P.2d 1189 (Colo. 1989).

Whether or not to award costs to a successful appellant remains within the discretionary powers of the board of assessment appeals. Jefferson County Bd. of Equaliz. v. Gerganoff, 241 P.3d 932 (Colo. 2010).

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "A Calendar of Tax Procedure in Colorado", see 6 Dicta 17 (July 1929).

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

Statutory provisions mandatory. Boards of equalization are solely creatures of statute, and, when it is provided that they must meet at a certain time and place and complete the equalization by a certain day, it means exactly what it says; and they lack jurisdiction in acting in violation thereof. Holly Sugar Corp. v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 10 F.2d 506 (8th Cir. 1926).

Public nature of hearings does not mean public may participate in all deliberations. The requirement that the proceedings be held in public is much like that which compels a judge to conduct business in open court. He is not compelled to allow the public to participate in his deliberations. People ex rel. State Bd. of Equaliz. v. Hively, 139 Colo. 49, 336 P.2d 721 (1959).

Board may consider any type of evidence.

In the absence of a statutory mandate, boards of equalization are not required to examine witnesses, or base their action upon any particular kind of evidence, but may proceed in their own way, and upon any information satisfactory to them. Holly Sugar Corp. v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 10 F.2d 506 (D. Colo. 1926).

39-9-103. Duties of state board - enforcement - reappraisal orders. (1) The state board of equalization shall order reappraisals of classes as provided in section 39-1-105.5, make other orders as provided in said section, and perform such other duties as are provided for in said section.

(2) The state board of equalization shall conduct hearings on petitions filed by the administrator for the reappraisal of one or more classes or subclasses of taxable property pursuant to section 39-2-114. The state board of equalization shall also conduct hearings upon complaints filed by the administrator, upon his own motion or upon petition by any tax-levying authority in this state, concerning valuation for assessment of one or more classes or subclasses of taxable property if a reappraisal has not been conducted or ordered pursuant to the provisions of section 39-2-114. Decisions of the state board of equalization shall be subject to judicial review as provided in section 24-4-106, C.R.S.

(3) Said board may compel compliance with its orders by proceedings in the nature of mandamus, by injunction, or by other appropriate civil remedies.

(4) It is the duty of the state board of equalization to examine and review the valuations for assessment of taxes upon the various classes and subclasses of taxable real and personal property located in the several counties of the state as reflected in the abstract of assessment of each county, the decisions of the board of assessment appeals, the recommendations of the administrator, and, effective January 1, 1983, the study conducted by the director of research of the legislative council pursuant to section 39-1-104 (16).

(5) The decisions of the board of assessment appeals which affect the valuation of classes or subclasses of property may be reversed or modified by the state board of equalization, and such action shall be taken only if a written appeal has, within thirty days of the board of assessment appeals' decision, been lodged with the state board of equalization by one of the parties to the proceedings before the board of assessment appeals. Decisions of the state board of equalization shall be subject to judicial review as provided in section 24-4-106, C.R.S.

(6) The state board of equalization shall conduct hearings upon complaints filed by the property tax administrator, upon his own motion or upon petition by any tax-levying authority in this state, concerning alleged dereliction of duty on the part of a county assessor.

(7) The state board of equalization shall review abstracts of assessment and may, by order, change the valuation for assessment of any class or subclass of property which was changed by a county board of equalization.

(8) The state board of equalization may promulgate such rules and regulations as are necessary for the implementation of its duties and responsibilities. Such rules and regulations shall be promulgated pursuant to and be subject to the provisions of section 24-4-103, C.R.S.

(9) Repealed.

(10) (a) It is the function of the state board of equalization and it shall have and exercise the authority, prior to publication but subsequent to review by the advisory committee to the property tax administrator pursuant to section 39-2-131 (1), to review and approve or disapprove, within thirty days after receipt from said advisory committee to the property tax administrator:

(I) Manuals or any part thereof, appraisal procedures, instructions, and guidelines prepared and published by the administrator pursuant to section 39-2-109 (1) (e) and based upon the approaches to appraisal set forth in section 39-1-103 (5) (a) and pursuant to section 39-2-109 (1) (k); and

(II) Forms, notices, and records approved or prescribed pursuant to the authority of the property tax administrator set forth in section 39-2-109 (1) (d).

(b) Any manuals, appraisal procedures, instructions, guidelines, forms, notices, or records which are not approved or disapproved by the state board of equalization within said thirty days shall be automatically approved; except that, if within said thirty days the state board of equalization schedules a hearing on such manuals, appraisal procedures, instructions, guidelines, forms, notices, or records, such automatic approval shall not occur unless the state board of equalization does not approve or disapprove such manuals, appraisal procedures, instructions, guidelines, forms, notices, or records within thirty days after the conclusion of such hearing.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

State board has power of equalization but not assessment. Union P.R.R. v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 35 F.2d 785 (1929), cert. denied, 281 U.S. 734, 50 S. Ct. 249, 74 L. Ed. 1149 (1930); *Bohen v. State board can review the abstract of assessment of a particular county for errors upon recommendation of the property tax administrator when the administrator finds that classes or subclasses of property located in a county have not been correctly valued for assessment as required by law. Writer Corp. v. State Bd. of Equaliz., 771 P.2d 13 (Colo. App. 1988).

Courts are powerless to control right legally exercised. So long as the right to adjust and equalize the valuation of real and personal property is legally exercised, courts are powerless to control the results. MacGinnis v. Denver Land Co., 90 Colo. 72, 6 P.2d 919 (1931).

It would be impractical and impossible to hold individual hearings following the giving of individual notices at the equalization stage of tax proceedings. Even if time would allow it, individual hearings would, nevertheless, defeat the system, the purpose of which is to equalize valuations on a statewide basis. People ex rel. State Bd. of Equaliz. v. Hively, 139 Colo. 49, 336 P.2d 721 (1959).

County assessor obligated to execute board's mandate. A county assessor has no standing to question the validity of the action of the state board of equalization, but he is obligated to carry out the mandate of the board. *People ex rel. 39-9-104. Correction of errors. The state board of equalization shall correct any obvious error appearing in any county abstract of assessment, whether made by the assessor or by the administrator. The state board of equalization shall not change any matter pertaining to the actual value of any class or subclass except as provided in section 39-9-103 (7); except that, in the taxable year following the year of reappraisal ordered by the state board of equalization, such board may change any matter pertaining to the actual value, and such change shall be made by the assessor in the abstract of assessment of such current taxable year.

39-9-105. Certification of valuations for assessment. (1) No later than December 20 of each year, the state board of equalization shall complete its review of the abstracts of assessment of the several counties of the state, and the chair of the state board of equalization shall thereupon certify to the assessor of each county a statement of the changes, if any, ordered by said board in the abstract of his or her county for the current taxable year and for the next succeeding taxable year and shall also return the abstract of assessment for the current taxable year to each county.

39-9-108. Judicial review - interest during review. Decisions of the state board of equalization shall be subject to judicial review, as provided in section 24-4-106, C.R.S. Such review shall include the issues of compliance with applicable law and constitutional provisions governing valuation for assessment for property tax purposes and the validity of any valuation for assessment study conducted pursuant to the provisions of section 39-1-104 (16). Parties adversely affected or aggrieved shall include any taxpayer or assessor or the governing body of any taxing jurisdiction. In any case in which excess state equalization payments are made to school districts within the county during the time such review is pending, interest shall be paid to the state on the amount of such excess. Such interest shall be paid for the period of time from the date of the decision of the state board of equalization to the date of the final determination of all judicial review. Such interest shall be computed at the rate determined by the state bank commissioner pursuant to section 39-21-110.5.

39-10-101. Collection of taxes. (1) Upon receipt of the tax list and warrant from the assessor, the treasurer shall proceed to collect the taxes therein levied, and such tax list and warrant shall be his authority and justification against any illegality in procedure prior to his receiving the same.

(2) (a) (I) If, after the tax list and warrant has been received by the treasurer, the treasurer discovers that any taxable property then located in the treasurer's county has been omitted from the tax list and warrant for the current year or for any prior year and has not been valued for assessment, the treasurer shall forthwith list and value such property for assessment in the same manner as the assessor might have done and shall enter such valuation for assessment on the tax list and warrant and extend the levy. Such entry shall be designated as an additional assessment and shall be valid for all purposes, the same as though performed by the assessor.

(II) Notwithstanding subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a) or section 39-5-125, neither the assessor nor the treasurer shall treat any possessory interest in exempt property as taxable property omitted from the tax list and warrant for any property tax year prior to 2001.

(b) (I) Except as provided in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b), the taxes for any period, together with interest thereon, imposed by this section shall not be assessed, nor shall any lien be filed or distraint warrant issued or suit for collection be instituted or any other action to collect the same be commenced, more than six years after the date on which the tax was or is payable. Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (d) of this subsection (2), interest shall not be charged prior to the date on which additional assessment is made.

(II) Effective January 1, 1996, the taxes for any period, together with interest thereon, imposed by this section shall not be assessed, nor shall any lien be filed or distraint warrant issued or suit for collection be commenced, more than two years after the date on which the tax was or is payable when the failure to collect the tax is due to an error or omission of a governmental entity. The provisions of this subparagraph (II) shall not apply to taxes imposed on oil and gas leaseholds and lands.

(c) In the case of fraudulent action with intent to evade tax, the tax, together with interest thereon, may be assessed, or proceedings for the collection of such taxes may be begun, at any time.

(d) Taxes levied upon additional assessments on mines and on oil and gas leaseholds and lands which had been previously omitted from the tax list and warrant due to the failure of an owner or operator of any mine or of any oil and gas leaseholds and lands to comply with section 39-6-106, 39-6-113, or 39-7-101 shall be subject to the delinquent interest provisions of section 39-10-104.5. Delinquent interest shall be calculated to accrue from the date the taxes were due pursuant to section 39-1-105 and section 39-6-106, 39-6-113, or 39-7-101. This paragraph (d) shall apply to omitted property or production but shall not apply to valuation disputes, protests, or appeals therefrom filed pursuant to section 39-5-122.

(3) If on the tax list and warrant there is any error in the name of a person owing taxes, the treasurer may correct such error and collect the taxes from the person intended.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "A Calendar of Tax Procedure in Colorado", see 6 Dicta 17 (July 1929).

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

Statutory procedures established for collection of real estate taxes are exclusive. Skidmore v. O'Rourke, 152 Colo. 470, 383 P.2d 473 (1963).

They are comprehensive and detailed. This article, outlining the steps to be taken by county treasurers to obtain the amount of taxes levied, is very comprehensive and detailed. Skidmore v. O'Rourke, 152 Colo. 470, 383 P.2d 473 (1963).

Subsection (2)(a) of this section and § 39-

5-125 authorize retroactive assessments of additional property taxes only against "omitted property" and not against "omitted value". Cabot Petroleum Corp. v. Yuma County Bd. of Equaliz., 847 P.2d 152 (Colo. App. 1992), rev'd on other grounds, 856 P.2d 844 (Colo. 1993); In Stitches, Inc. v. Denver County Bd. of County Comm'rs, 62 P.3d 1080 (Colo. App. 2002).

Authority to charge delinquent interest upon additional assessments previously omitted from the tax list and warrant due to the failure of an owner to comply with § 39-6-106 did not create a new duty on taxpayers, but only substituted a new remedy, and therefore the 1992 amendment authorizing such interest was constitutional, and not a law retrospective in its operation. Shell Western E&P, Inc. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs of Dolores County, 923 P.2d 251 (Colo. App. 1995).

Under the doctrine of equitable tolling, county taxpayer cannot assert statute of limitations as a defense when taxpayer fails to file the tax declaration schedules required by statute. Shell Western E&P v. Dolores County Bd. of Comm'rs, 948 P.2d 1002 (Colo. 1997).

Requiring the payment of interest from a time prior to the effective date of this section is not unconstitutional when the tax obligation upon which the interest accrued was assessed after this section's effective date. Shell Western E&P v. Dolores County Bd. of Comm'rs, 948 P.2d 1002 (Colo. 1997).

39-10-103. Tax statement. (1) (a) As soon as practicable after January 1, the treasurer shall, at the treasurer's discretion, mail or send electronic notification to each person whose name appears on the tax list and warrant a statement or true and actual notice of electronic statement availability, as applicable, showing the total amount of taxes payable by such person, which statement shall separately list the amount of taxes levied on real and personal property and shall recite the actual value of the property and the amount of valuation for assessment upon which such taxes were levied. If any of the personal property upon which taxes are to be levied is a mobile home, the tax statement shall contain the following notice: "This property may not be moved without a valid permit or prorated tax receipt and a transportable manufactured home permit from the county treasurer's office. Violators shall be prosecuted." Failure of any person to receive such statement or true and actual notice of an electronic statement, as applicable, shall not preclude collection by the treasurer of the amount of taxes due from and payable by such person. Such statement shall include a notice that, if such person desires a receipt for payment of taxes, the person shall request such receipt. The statement may also state what each mill levy would have been for each taxing district for the prior tax year based upon the current year's valuation for assessment.

(b) On and after January 1, 1988, each taxpayer's statement required by paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) shall also separately list the mill levies and the amount of taxes to be credited to the state, the county, municipalities, school districts, special districts, and other districts within the county which are applicable to his property. This paragraph (b) shall be applicable for statements for 1987 taxes payable in 1988 and for each statement thereafter.

(2) Each person whose name appears on the tax list and warrant shall be informed in writing of the actual school district general fund mill levy and the school district general fund mill levy in absence of funds estimated to be received by school districts pursuant to the "Public School Finance Act of 1994", article 54 of title 22, C.R.S., and the estimated funds to be received for the general funds of districts from the state.

(3) Repealed.

(4) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, a taxpayer may request to receive by electronic transmission the statement required by subsection (1) of this section. The taxpayer shall submit along with the request an electronic address to which the treasurer may send future statements. The treasurer, upon receipt of such request by a taxpayer to receive statements electronically, may send all future statements by electronic transmission to the electronic address supplied by the taxpayer; except that, if a taxpayer subsequently requests to cease the electronic transmission of such statements and requests to receive future statements by mail, the treasurer shall comply with the request. Failure of a taxpayer to receive the electronic statement shall not preclude collection by the treasurer of the amount of taxes due from and payable by the taxpayer.

39-10-104.5. Payment dates - optional payment dates - failure to pay - delinquency.
(1) The provisions of this section, as amended, are effective January 1, 1994.

(2) Except as provided in subsections (6), (7), and (11) of this section, at the option of the taxpayer, property taxes may be paid in full or in two equal installments, the first such installment to be paid on or before the last day of February and the second installment to be paid no later than the fifteenth day of June.

(3) (a) If the first installment is not paid on or before the last day of February, then delinquent interest on the first installment shall accrue at the rate of one percent per month from the first day of March until the date of payment; except that, if payment of the first installment is made after the last day of February but not later than thirty days after the mailing by the treasurer of the tax statement, or true and actual notification of an electronic statement, pursuant to section 39-10-103 (1) (a), no such delinquent interest shall accrue. If the second installment is not paid by the fifteenth day of June, delinquent interest on the second installment shall accrue at the rate of one percent per month from the sixteenth day of June until the date of payment. Interest on the first installment shall continue to accrue at the same time that interest is accruing on the unpaid portion of the second installment. The taxpayer shall continue to have the option of paying delinquent property taxes in two equal installments until one day prior to the sale of the tax lien on such property pursuant to article 11 of this title.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (3), if the full amount of taxes is paid in a single payment on or before the last day of April, then no delinquent interest shall accrue on any portion of the taxes. If the full amount of taxes is paid in a single payment after the last day of April, interest shall be added to the full amount of taxes due in the amount of one percent per month which shall accrue from the first day of May until the date of payment.

(c) Interest shall be calculated on delinquent taxes as provided in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subsection (3) as specified in the following table:

Required Date of Payment	Last Day of February	June 15	April 30
Month Paid	Half Tax Option 1st Installment	Option 2nd Installment	Full Tax Option*
March	1%	_____	_____
April	2%	_____	_____
May	3%	_____	1%
June 1 - 15	4%	_____	2%
June 16 - 30	4%	1%	2%
July	5%	2%	3%
August	6%	3%	4%
September	7%	4%	5%
October	8%	5%	6%
November	9%	6%	7%
December	10%	7%	8%

*Total taxes less than $25.00 must be paid using the Full Tax Option.

(4) (Deleted by amendment, L. 93, p. 303, § 1, effective April 7, 1993.)

(5) In computing the amount of delinquent interest due under this section, portions of months shall be counted as whole months.

(6) There shall be no installment payment of property taxes totaling less than twenty-five dollars, and such taxes shall be paid in full no later than the last day of April. If such taxes are not paid prior to the last day of April, delinquent interest on the amount thereof shall accrue at the rate of one percent per month from the first day of May until the date of payment.

(7) The treasurer shall be authorized to accept funds paid by the seller and accepted by the dealer as a partial payment of taxes which have not yet been levied and which are not yet due but which have been prorated between the buyer and the seller at the time of the sale of a mobile home. A dealer shall remit taxes collected under this subsection (7) to the treasurer within ten days.

(8) Any payment under this section shall be deemed received by the treasurer on the date that the installment or full payment, including any penalties or fees due, is actually received in the treasurer's office, and actual receipt will be presumed as of the date of the United States postal service postmark. Where a payment is received through the mail or a common carrier but has no United States postal service postmark and the payment is actually received in the treasurer's office no later than five days after the due date, the treasurer shall record the date of payment as the due date of the payment. Where the payment is received through the mail or a common carrier but has no United States postal service postmark and the payment is actually received in the treasurer's office six or more days after the due date, the treasurer shall record the date of payment as the date the payment was received. If the date for filing any tax return or remittance falls upon a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday, it shall be deemed to have been timely filed if filed on the next business day.

(9) An additional charge may be added to any delinquent taxes totaling less than fifty dollars including all delinquent interest and other charges. Such charge shall be for the purpose of covering the administrative costs and fees incurred by the county in collecting such delinquencies and shall be determined by the board of county commissioners or such other body as authorized by the city and county of Denver or as authorized by the city council of the city and county of Broomfield. Such charge shall not exceed twenty-five dollars in any case and shall be limited to such amount less than twenty-five dollars as may be necessary to limit the total charges against such property, including taxes, delinquent interest, and the charge authorized by this subsection (9), to no more than fifty dollars. Charges imposed under the authorization of this subsection (9) shall be a lien under section 39-1-107.

(10) The treasurer may refrain from collecting any penalty, delinquent interest, or costs where the amount to be collected is fifty dollars or less. Nothing in this subsection (10) shall be construed as releasing any person from the payment of any tax, assessment, penalty, delinquent interest, or costs or any other moneys which are due and owing and which the treasurer is authorized by law to collect.

(11) Repealed.

39-10-105. Receipt for taxes. (1) Upon request of an individual taxpayer or the taxpayer's agent, the treasurer shall issue and shall mail, if additionally requested, a receipt for each payment of taxes received, which shall state the amount of taxes paid and any delinquent interest thereon, the year or portion thereof for which such taxes apply, the property upon which such taxes are paid, and a notation of any taxes levied thereon for prior years which are unpaid and delinquent. A copy of the statement specified in section 39-10-103, when stamped "paid" by the treasurer, shall suffice for such receipt. The apportionment of the total tax levy may be printed or stamped on the reverse side of each tax receipt issued or may be separately furnished to the taxpayer. The mortgagee or beneficiary of a deed of trust is not required to retain a tax receipt for the property which is the subject of the mortgage or the deed of trust.

(1.5) In lieu of issuing and mailing individual receipts, the treasurer may issue and mail a certified listing of taxes paid and any delinquent interest thereon, the year or portion thereof for which such taxes apply, and sufficient identification of the property upon which such taxes are paid to those taxpayers or their agents for combined tax payments on ten or more assessed parcels.

(2) The treasurer shall retain in the office as part of the records thereof a copy of every receipt issued by the treasurer for taxes paid, which copies shall be recorded or filed in the order of issuance. The original tax receipt, or a copy thereof, or a copy of any entry in the treasurer's records concerning the same shall, when certified by the treasurer or the treasurer's deputy, be received in all places as prima facie evidence of payments of the taxes. For purposes of this section, "copy" means a reproduction of the original by any means, including, but not limited to, a photograph, a microfilm or optical imaging record, a computer disk image, or any other means of record retention chosen by the treasurer.

(3) When request is made of the treasurer for copies of tax receipts, a fee shall be collected for each copy of a receipt issued, as provided in section 30-1-102, C.R.S.

39-10-106. Payment of taxes on fractional interests in lands. (1) Where oil, gas, or other hydrocarbon wells or fields belonging to multiple owners are operated as a unit, the owner of each fractional interest in such units shall be liable for the same proportion of the tax levied against the total unit that his net taxable revenues received therefrom bears to the total net taxable revenues received from such unit. In the event a fractional interest owner who takes production in kind does not provide the information to the operator which is required under section 39-7-101 (1.5), such fractional interest owner's tax liability shall be calculated using the net taxable revenues reported by the operator.

(2) The unit operator shall collect from the owners of the fractional interests and remit to the treasurer of the county in which the unit is located the tax levied against the entire unit. The unit operator may deduct and withhold from royalty payments or any other payments made to any fractional interest owner, either in kind or in money, the estimated amount of the tax to be paid by such fractional interest owner. Any difference between the estimated tax so withheld and the actual tax payable by any owner of a fractional interest may be accounted for by adjustments in royalty or other payments made to such owner subsequent to the time the actual tax is determined. Failure of the unit operator to remit to the treasurer the tax levied against the entire unit shall make the unit operator liable for such tax.

(3) At the request of any unit operator who does not disburse payments to fractional interest owners, the first purchaser shall collect the tax from the fractional interest owners as provided for in this section and transfer such proceeds to the unit operator who shall in turn be responsible for remitting to the treasurer the total tax levied against the entire unit.

(3.5) (a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (3.5), the unit operator shall place in an account in a federally insured bank or savings and loan association located in the state of Colorado which requires two signatures, one of which shall be the signature of the county treasurer of the county in which the unit is located, in order to make a withdrawal, an amount equal to the tax collected from the owners of fractional interests in the unit by the unit operator pursuant to the provisions of this section plus the proportional share of tax levied on the fractional interest in the unit owned by the unit operator. Such account shall be owned by the owners of fractional interests in the unit, but the unit operator shall be responsible for managing such account. The moneys shall be deposited in such account within thirty days from the date the unit operator receives payment for the sale of any oil or gas from such lease.

(b) The treasurer may waive the requirement of placing the tax in such account or fund as required in paragraph (a) of this subsection (3.5) and allow the unit operator to file a statement with the treasurer declaring that a sufficient amount of moneys or other assets is available to ensure the payment of the tax if:

(I) The unit operator has made timely payment of the tax to the treasurer during the previous three property tax years;

(II) The unit operator has been in operation in the county for less than three property tax years and has made timely payment of the tax to the treasurer during such period of time; or

(III) The unit operator has been in operation in the county for less than one property tax year.

(c) Upon the completion of all production of oil and gas from the unit and after all wells within the unit are plugged and abandoned, all moneys remaining in the account after full payment of all ad valorem taxes due on the unit shall be distributed to the owners of fractional interests in the unit based upon each owner's proportional contribution to the moneys remaining in the account. Any interest accruing to the account shall be credited to the account and shall be distributed with such other moneys in the account as specified in this paragraph (c).

(4) (a) Failure of the unit operator or first purchaser to collect the tax as provided in this section shall not preclude the treasurer from utilizing lawful collection and enforcement remedies and procedures against the owner of any fractional interest to collect the tax owed by such owner; but an owner shall not be subject to penalty or interest upon the tax owed unless he fails to remit such tax within twenty days after notification to him by the treasurer of the default of the first purchaser or unit operator.

(b) (I) When the tax has been collected from the owners of fractional interests by the unit operator pursuant to the provisions of this section but the unit operator fails to remit such tax collected, the unit operator shall remain liable for the amount of tax owed. The treasurer shall send a notice by registered mail to the first purchaser of the amount of such delinquent taxes and the name of the unit operator owing such delinquent tax. After receiving such notice, the first purchaser shall withhold payments to the unit operator owing the taxes of any of the proceeds of the sale of any oil and gas from such lease. The first purchaser shall remit such withheld payments to the treasurer until the amount of such taxes and penalties are paid in full, after which the first purchaser may resume such payments to the unit operator for such oil and gas.

(II) If the first purchaser fails to collect the tax after receiving notice from the treasurer pursuant to the provisions of this paragraph (b) or when the tax has been collected by the first purchaser pursuant to the provisions of this section but the first purchaser fails to transfer the tax to the unit operator pursuant to subsection (3) of this section or to the treasurer pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b), the first purchaser shall remain liable for the amount of tax owed. The treasurer may utilize lawful collection and enforcement remedies and procedures against any first purchaser to collect the amount of such taxes and penalties owed by such first purchaser.

(III) The tax liability of the owner of any fractional interest in such unit whose proportionate share of tax was withheld from royalty or working interest payments by the unit operator or the first purchaser but was not remitted by the unit operator or by the first purchaser to the treasurer shall be deemed satisfied to the extent of the amount withheld, and such owner shall not be subject to any collection and enforcement remedies and procedures provided by law for the collection of such delinquent tax for which an amount was withheld from royalty or working interest payments pursuant to the provisions of this section. Any unit operator or first purchaser who has collected the tax from the fractional interest owners pursuant to the provisions of this section but has failed to remit such tax collected commits embezzlement, as defined in sections 18-4-401 and 18-4-403, C.R.S.

(IV) Upon audit, the unit operator shall not be liable for any tax or any penalty interest levied against any amount of production taken in kind from the property for which the fractional interest owner taking production in kind provided inaccurate information regarding net taxable revenues to be used for tax reporting.

(4.5) (a) If the unit operator fails to remit the proportional share of tax levied on the fractional interest in the unit owned by the unit operator, the treasurer shall send a notice by registered mail to the first purchaser of the name of the unit operator owing such tax and the amount the first purchaser shall withhold from any of the unit operator's proceeds of the sale of any oil and gas from such lease. After receiving such notice, the first purchaser shall withhold payments to the unit operator of any of the proceeds of the sale of any oil and gas from such lease. The first purchaser shall remit such withheld payments to the treasurer until the amount of such tax and penalties are paid in full, after which the first purchaser may resume such payments to the unit operator for such oil and gas.

(b) The tax liability of the unit operator whose proportional share of tax levied on the fractional interest in the unit owned by the unit operator was withheld from payments by the first purchaser pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (4.5) but was not remitted by the first purchaser to the treasurer shall be deemed satisfied to the extent of the amount withheld, and such unit operator shall not be subject to any collection and enforcement remedies and procedures provided by law for the collection of such delinquent tax for which an amount was withheld by a first purchaser from oil and gas sale proceeds pursuant to the provisions of this section.

(c) If the first purchaser fails to collect the tax or when the tax has been collected by the first purchaser pursuant to the provisions of this subsection (4.5) but the first purchaser fails to transfer the tax to the treasurer pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (4.5), the first purchaser shall remain liable for the amount of tax owed. The treasurer may utilize lawful collection and enforcement remedies and procedures against any first purchaser to collect the amount of such taxes and penalties owed by such first purchaser.

(5) For the purposes of this section, "unit" means any single oil, gas, or other hydrocarbon well or field which has multiple ownership, or any combination of oil, gas, or other hydrocarbon wells, fields, and properties consolidated into a single operation, whether by a formal agreement or otherwise; "owner" means the holder of any interest or interests in such properties or units, including royalty interest; and "first purchaser" means either the first purchaser to buy oil or gas from a new producing well or the current purchaser of oil or gas from a producing well.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Delinquent Oil and Gas Ad Valorem Taxes: Protecting Property Interests", see 16 Colo. Law. 798 (1987).

The county's sale of fractional interests was improper where the unit operator collected the amount due for taxes from the fractional interest owners, but illegally failed to remit the taxes. The language of this section unambiguously reveals the general assembly's intent to hold unit operators liable in this situation. Roehrs v. County of Morgan, 991 P.2d 322 (Colo. App. 1999).

39-10-107. Apportionment of taxes, delinquent interest - payment. (1) (a) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, all taxes collected by the treasurer shall be apportioned, credited, and distributed to the state, the county, and the several towns, cities, school districts, and special districts within the county on the tenth day of each month for all taxes collected during the immediately preceding month; except that:

(I) If the amount of taxes collected for the month equals less than one hundred dollars for any town, city, school district, or special district, the treasurer may elect to distribute the amount on a quarterly basis to the town, city, school district, or special district; and

(II) If the amount of taxes collected for the month equals less than fifty dollars for any town, city, school district, or special district, the treasurer may elect to distribute the amount on an annual basis to the town, city, school district, or special district.

(b) Any prior years' taxes collected during any given year on oil and gas leaseholds and lands that had previously been omitted from the assessment roll due to underreporting of the selling price or the quantity of oil and gas sold therefrom shall be placed in escrow by the treasurer to be apportioned, credited, and distributed during January of the subsequent year.

(c) Prior to being apportioned, credited, and distributed, all taxes collected by the treasurer shall be reduced by an amount equal to the costs incurred by the treasurer and the assessor; except that such costs shall not include any contingency fee paid to any person for the audit review and collection of such prior years' taxes as such contingency fees are prohibited. Prior to being apportioned, credited, and distributed, all taxes shall be reduced by an amount equal to an entity's pro rata share of any tax refunds granted subsequent to distribution by the treasurer if the amount has not otherwise been returned by the entity; except that this requirement to reduce taxes shall not apply to a city and county. All delinquent interest shall be apportioned, credited, and distributed in the same manner.

(2) The treasurer shall keep one account for all property taxes collected for the state and, no later than the tenth day of each month, shall remit to the state treasurer the total amount of such taxes collected during the month immediately preceding, with a report thereof on forms prescribed and furnished by the state treasurer. No fee shall be charged to the state for collection of its taxes.

(3) Whenever any school district elects, pursuant to law, to have the moneys of such district paid over to the district treasurer, the treasurer of any county wherein such school district is located shall, no later than the tenth day of each month, pay over to the district treasurer all taxes collected for said school district during the month immediately preceding; except that, on and after January 1, 1992, the county treasurer shall make an additional payment to the district treasurer during the months of March, May, and June, which payment shall consist of all taxes collected through the twentieth day of the respective month if the county has a population of at least five thousand persons and which payment shall consist of all taxes collected through the eighteenth day of the respective month if the county has a population of less than five thousand persons. Such additional payment shall be made no later than the twenty-fourth day of said month.

(4) No later than the tenth day of each month, the treasurer shall prepare and submit to the board of county commissioners and to the proper officer of each town, city, school district, and special district within his county a statement showing the amount collected by him for each such entity during the month immediately preceding from each separate levy imposed for such entity. 39-10-110.5. Partial payment of delinquent personal property taxes. (1) Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, the treasurer may accept partial payments for delinquent personal property taxes so long as the owner of the personal property has entered into a written payment plan with the treasurer. The payment plan shall specify the total amount due, including the amount of tax levied and any applicable interest, penalties, or fees; the amount of each payment; and payment due dates. The total amount due under a payment plan shall be paid in full no later than twenty-four months from the date the owner of the personal property enters into a written payment plan with the treasurer.

(2) The treasurer shall keep a copy of the payment plan until the owner of the personal property has paid the total amount identified in the payment plan. Once the owner of the personal property has paid the total amount due, the treasurer shall mark the plan "paid in full".

(3) The treasurer may terminate the payment plan if the owner of the personal property fails to abide by the terms and conditions of the plan.

39-10-111. Distraint, sale of personal property - redemption of mobile home.

(1) (a) At any time after the first day of October, the treasurer shall enforce collection of delinquent taxes on personal property by commencing a court action for collection or employing a collection agency as provided in section 39-10-112 or by distraining, seizing, and selling the property. Whenever a distraint warrant is issued, it shall be served by the sheriff or a commissioned deputy or, at the discretion of the sheriff, by a private server of process hired for the purpose. Any cost incurred as a result of hiring a private server of process shall be paid by the sheriff's office, and the cost shall not exceed the amount specified in section 30-1-104 (1) (a), C.R.S.

(b) When personal property upon which a distraint warrant has been issued or which is subject to such warrant by reason of delinquency has been removed to another county in the state, the treasurer of the county levying the tax may issue a certificate to the treasurer of the county to which the property has been removed, reciting the amount of taxes and delinquent interest unpaid and a description of the property to be distrained.

(c) The treasurer receiving such certificate shall thereupon proceed to distraint, seize, and sell such property in the same manner as if the property were originally taxed in his county and shall remit the net proceeds, after payment of any sheriff's fees and other costs of seizure and sale, to the treasurer who certified the delinquency to him.

(2) Whenever any personal property is distrained and seized, the treasurer or his deputy shall make a list of such property and deliver a copy thereof to the owner of such property or to his agent, and, as to any mobile home, to any lienholder of record, together with a statement of the amount demanded and notice of the time and place fixed for the sale of such property.

(3) No later than one hundred eighty days after the seizure of any personal property pursuant to this section, the treasurer shall publish a notice containing a description of the seized property, the reason for its being offered for sale, and the time and place fixed for the sale in a newspaper published in the county. If there is no such newspaper, the treasurer shall conspicuously post copies of such notice in the county courthouse and in at least two other public places in the county seat.

(4) The time fixed for the sale shall be not more than ten days from the date the notice is first published, but the sale may be adjourned from time to time if there are no bidders or if the treasurer deems such adjournment advisable for any reason, but in no event shall the sale be postponed for more than thirty days from the date the notice is first published.

(5) At the time and place fixed for the sale, the treasurer or deputy treasurer shall proceed to sell such property at public auction, offering it at a minimum price, which shall include the taxes, delinquent interest, and costs of making the seizure and advertising the sale. If the amount bid at the sale is not equal to the fixed minimum price, the treasurer or deputy treasurer may declare the property purchased by the county at the fixed minimum price, and it shall thereafter be sold within one hundred fifty days in such manner as may be determined by the board of county commissioners.

(6) (a) In any county wherein the treasurer has insufficient personnel to conduct said sale, upon demand of the treasurer, the sheriff shall conduct such sale, collect the proceeds thereof, and pay the same over to the treasurer. In such event, the sheriff shall receive such fees as are provided in section 30-1-104, C.R.S.

(b) The treasurer may enter into a contract to employ the services of any professional auctioneer or auction company to conduct such sale, collect the proceeds thereof, and pay the same over to the treasurer, when the treasurer deems such services to be appropriate and to be in the best interests of the public. Such contract shall be awarded by competitive bid, but the treasurer may reject any or all bids or parts of bids. The auctioneer or auction company conducting such sale shall provide the treasurer with an itemized list of all property sold, the amount paid for such property sold, and each purchaser's name and address. The fees of the auctioneer or auction company shall be paid by the treasurer from the proceeds of the sale.

(7) In all cases of sale, the treasurer shall issue a certificate of sale to each purchaser, and such certificate shall be prima facie evidence of the right of the treasurer to make such sale and conclusive evidence of the regularity of the proceedings in conducting and making such sale. Except as provided in subsection (10) of this section with respect to mobile homes, the treasurer's certificate shall transfer to the purchaser all right, title, and interest of the owner in and to the property sold.

(8) Any surplus of the sale proceeds remaining over and above the taxes, delinquent interest, and costs of making the seizure and advertising the sale shall be paid over to the owner and a written account of the sale furnished him.

(9) If, prior to the time fixed for the sale, the amount demanded is paid to the treasurer, the property distrained upon and seized shall be restored to the owner thereof.

(10) A mobile home that is located on leased land or other land not owned by the owner of the mobile home, including, but not limited to, land that was previously owned by the owner of the mobile home and the ownership of which was subsequently acquired by foreclosure, and that is sold under the provisions of this section may be redeemed by the owner thereof within one year after the date of the sale upon payment to the treasurer of the proceeds of the sale, interest on such amount at the rate that is determined pursuant to section 39-12-103 (3), and all taxes due and payable on the mobile home subsequent to the tax sale, except as provided in subsection (12) of this section. A mobile home that is located on land owned by the owner of the mobile home and that is sold under the provisions of this section may be redeemed by the owner thereof within three years after the date of the sale upon payment to the treasurer of the proceeds of the sale, interest on such amount at the rate that is determined pursuant to section 39-12-103 (3), and all taxes due and payable on the mobile home subsequent to the tax sale, except as provided in subsection (12) of this section. The treasurer shall return such moneys to the purchaser or lawful holder of the certificate of sale. Except as provided in subsection (11) of this section on or before thirty days prior to the close of the redemption period, the treasurer shall notify the owner of the mobile home and any lienholder of record in the department of revenue and secretary of state, by personal delivery or by certified or registered mail to his or her last-known address, that a treasurer's certificate of ownership for the mobile home may issue to the purchaser or lawful holder of the certificate of sale at the close of the redemption period unless such payment is made. Upon redemption, the treasurer shall notify the department of revenue that redemption has been made and thereafter release the tax sale lien filed against the mobile home. If the owner has not exercised his or her right of redemption and after the close of the redemption period, the purchaser or lawful holder of the certificate of sale may apply to the treasurer for a treasurer's certificate of ownership for the mobile home. Upon receipt of such application, the treasurer shall issue a treasurer's certificate of ownership to such purchaser or holder, and such certificate of ownership shall transfer to him or her all right, title, and interest in and to the mobile home. Such certificate of ownership shall, upon application, entitle the purchaser or holder thereof to a certificate of title to be issued and filed pursuant to part 1 of article 6 of title 42, C.R.S. Any surplus of the sale proceeds over and above the taxes, delinquent interest, and costs of making the seizure and advertising the sale of a mobile home shall be credited to the county general fund, and a written account of the sale shall be furnished to the owner.

(11) If taxes become delinquent upon the personal property of any public utility, as defined in article 4 of this title, the treasurer of the county in which the taxes are delinquent shall commence a court action for collection or employ a collection agency as provided in section 39-10-112 or distrain and sell any of the personal property of the utility wherever found in the manner that other personal property is to be distrained and sold for the nonpayment of taxes; except that, for taxes imposed pursuant to article 1 of title 32, C.R.S., that equal or exceed one hundred mills in any one year, only the personal property that is the subject of the taxes and located within the special district at the time of assessment of the taxes shall be subject to levy or distraint for the payment of the delinquent taxes.

(12) Where a mobile home has been declared to be purchased by the county at the tax sale and where the actual value of the mobile home as shown on the assessment roll has been determined by the assessor to be less than one thousand dollars, the redemption period for such mobile home shall be sixty days. The assessor's determination of value shall be deemed accurate absent a showing of negligence on the part of the assessor. On or before ten days prior to the close of the redemption period, the treasurer shall notify the owner of the mobile home and any lienholder of record in the department of revenue and secretary of state, by personal delivery or by certified or registered mail to the last-known address, that the mobile home shall be declared condemned and shall be disposed of at the end of the redemption period. The treasurer shall have the authority to so declare a mobile home condemned after the redemption period has terminated. After the mobile home is declared condemned, it may be disposed of as the treasurer deems appropriate.

(13) When a county seizes property that is used in a business, the county shall not continue to operate the business.

County treasurer not indispensable party in proceeding challenging lien priority. In a tax sale, the county treasurer who issued the certificate of sale to purchaser of tax sale was not an indispensable party under C.R.C.P. 19(a) to a proceeding challenging priority of lien of a secured party in the property sold at the tax sale, since complete relief could be and was afforded without the treasurer's presence as a party. *John Deere Indus. 39-10-112. Action to collect unpaid taxes. (1) (a) In order to collect delinquent personal property taxes and any delinquent interest thereon, the treasurer may, at the treasurer's option, sue the owner of the personal property in any court in the treasurer's county having jurisdiction, enter into a contract to employ the services of any collection agency that is duly licensed pursuant to section 12-14-119 or 12-14-120, C.R.S., or distrain, seize, and sell the personal property as provided in section 39-10-111.

(b) Any contract to employ the services of any duly licensed collection agency shall be awarded by competitive bid, but the treasurer may reject any or all bids or parts of bids. The fees of the collection agency shall be paid by the treasurer from the moneys recovered by the collection agency, but in no event shall the fees paid to the collection agency exceed one-third of the amount recovered.

(3) Upon the trial of any court action brought pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, a certificate from the treasurer, reciting the amount of the taxes and any delinquent interest thereon and that the same has not been paid, shall be prima facie evidence that the amount claimed is due and unpaid, and judgment shall be given for the amount thereof, together with all costs, and execution shall issue as in other cases. Whenever the treasurer sues in court, the county attorney shall perform all legal work involved if requested by the treasurer, and the costs of the action shall be paid by the county.

(4) Nothing in this section shall be construed as relieving the treasurer of the duties of the office of county treasurer.

39-10-113. Removal or transfer of personal property - collection of taxes.

(1) (a) If at any time after the lien of general taxes has attached the treasurer believes for any reason that any taxable personal property may be removed from the state of Colorado or may be dissipated or distributed, so that taxes to be levied for the current year may not be collectible, the treasurer may at once proceed to collect the taxes and, if the treasurer deems it necessary, may distrain, seize, and sell the personal property to enforce collection. Upon the treasurer's request, the assessor shall certify to the treasurer the valuation for assessment of the personal property for the current year. If the levy for the current year has not then been fixed and made, the levy for the previous year shall be used to determine the amount of taxes due.

(b) Repealed.

(2) Whenever the assessor notifies the treasurer of the valuation of any taxable personal property, as provided in section 39-5-110 (2), which property the assessor believes might be removed from the county, the treasurer shall proceed to collect the taxes on the property by commencing a court action for collection or employing a collection agency as provided in section 39-10-112 or by distraining, seizing, and selling the personal property as provided in section 39-10-111 if either the treasurer or the assessor deems it necessary. If the levy for the current year has not then been fixed and made, the levy for the previous year shall be used to determine the amount of taxes due.

(3) At such time as the levy for the current year has been fixed and made, the amount of any taxes collected on personal property pursuant to the provisions of subsection (1) of this section in excess of the amount correctly due and payable shall be refunded to the owner of such property forthwith; but in all cases where the amount of taxes so collected is less than the amount correctly due and payable, the amount uncollected shall be considered an erroneous assessment and shall be reported with other erroneous assessments in the manner prescribed by law.

39-10-113.5. Improvements valued and taxed separately - collection of taxes.

(1) Notwithstanding any law to the contrary and except as otherwise provided in this section, if taxes become delinquent upon improvements that have been valued and taxed separately from land, the treasurer of the county in which such taxes are delinquent may proceed to collect such taxes pursuant to the provisions of sections 39-10-111, 39-10-112, and 39-10-113 as if such improvements were personal property. The provisions of this section shall not apply to mobile homes, improvements other than buildings on land that is used solely and exclusively for agricultural purposes, and water rights, together with any dam, ditch, pipeline, canal, flume, reservoir, bypass, conduit, well, pump, or other associated structure or device, as defined in article 92 of title 37, C.R.S., being used to produce water or held to produce or exchange water to support uses of any item of real property specified in section 39-1-102 (14), including water rights used for agricultural purposes.

(2) (a) The provisions of this section shall not apply to any property classified by the assessor for property tax purposes as commercial property unless the treasurer:

(I) Finds that the improvements may be moved, dissipated, or distributed;

(II) Determines that the taxes may be uncollectible;

(III) Sets forth the reasons for such finding and determination in writing and either serves such writing upon the owner of such improvements or, if the owner cannot be located within the state, posts such writing conspicuously upon such improvements.

(b) Upon compliance with the requirements set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), the treasurer may proceed to collect such taxes pursuant to the provisions of subsection (1) of this section.

39-10-114. Abatement - cancellation of taxes. (1) (a) (I) (A) Except as otherwise provided in sub-subparagraphs (D) and (E) of this subparagraph (I), if taxes have been levied erroneously or illegally, whether due to erroneous valuation for assessment, irregularity in levying, clerical error, or overvaluation, the treasurer shall report the amount thereof to the board of county commissioners; which shall proceed to abate such taxes in the manner provided by law. The assessor shall make such report if the assessor discovers that taxes have been levied erroneously or illegally. If such taxes have been collected by the treasurer, the board of county commissioners shall authorize refund of the same in the manner provided by law. Except as provided in sub-subparagraphs (E) and (F) of this subparagraph (I), in no case shall an abatement or refund of taxes be made unless a petition for abatement or refund is filed within two years after January 1 of the year following the year in which the taxes were levied. For purposes of this sub-subparagraph (A), “clerical error” shall include, but shall not be limited to, any clerical error made by a taxpayer in completing personal property schedules pursuant to the provisions of article 5 of this title. Notwithstanding any other law to the contrary, for purposes of this sub-subparagraph (A), “erroneous valuation” shall include, but shall not be limited to: Any reclassification of property from agricultural land to any other classification of property for the property tax year commencing January 1, 1996, if the property in question qualifies for classification as agricultural land as determined pursuant to section 39-1-102 (1.6), as amended by Senate Bill 97-039, enacted at the first regular session of the sixty-first general assembly; and any denial of exemption from taxation for property claimed as agricultural and livestock products for the property tax year commencing January 1, 1996, if the property in question qualifies as agricultural and livestock products as determined pursuant to section 39-1-102 (1.1), as amended by Senate Bill 97-039, enacted at the first regular session of the sixty-first general assembly.

(B) The assessor shall certify the proportional amount of the total amount of abatements and refunds granted pursuant to the provisions of this section to the appropriate taxing entities at the same time that the certification of valuation for assessment is made pursuant to the provisions of section 39-5-128. Any taxing entity may adjust the amount of its tax levy authorized pursuant to the provisions of section 29-1-301, C.R.S., by an additional amount which does not exceed the proportional share of the total amount of abatements and refunds made pursuant to the provisions of this section. After calculating the amount of property tax revenues necessary to satisfy the requirements of the "Public School Finance Act of 1994", article 54 of title 22, C.R.S., any school district shall add an amount equal to the proportional share of the total amount of abatements and refunds granted pursuant to the provisions of this section prior to the setting of the mill levy for such school district. Any additional amount added pursuant to the provisions of this subsection (1) shall not be included in the total amount of revenue levied in said year for the purposes of computing the limit for the succeeding year pursuant to the provisions of section 29-1-301, C.R.S. Where a final determination is made granting an abatement or refund pursuant to the provisions of this section, the abatement or refund granted shall be payable at such time as determined by the board of county commissioners after consultation with affected taxing entities but no later than upon the payment of property taxes for the property tax year in which said final determination was made. For the purposes of this sub-subparagraph (B), a taxing entity's proportional share of the total amount of abatements and refunds granted shall be based upon the amount of tax levied by a taxing entity on such real property in proportion to the total amount of tax levied on such real property by such taxing entities.

(B.5) Notwithstanding the provisions of sub-subparagraph (B) of this subparagraph (I), no school district shall be required to levy additional amounts for abatements and refunds which are the result of any protests or appeals of valuation upon which final orders or judgments rendered by a court of competent jurisdiction have been issued and which reduce the valuation for assessment of the district by more than twenty percent. Any school district which is currently levying for abatements, refunds, or both and which would not be required to levy such amounts if this sub-subparagraph (B.5) had been in effect for the tax year in which the court orders or judgments were issued shall have no further obligation to levy for uncollected amounts.

(C) The change or adjustment of any ratio of valuation for assessment for residential real property pursuant to the provisions of section 39-1-104.2 shall not constitute grounds for abatement of taxes as provided in sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (I).

(D) No abatement or refund of taxes shall be made based upon the ground of overvaluation of property if an objection or protest to such valuation has been made and a notice of determination has been mailed to the taxpayer pursuant to section 39-5-122; except that this prohibition shall not apply to personal property when a notice of determination has been mailed to the taxpayer, an objection or protest is withdrawn or not pursued, and the county assessor has undertaken an audit of such personal property that shows that a reduction in value is warranted.

(E) Notwithstanding the periods of limitation for filing a petition for and determining the amount of an abatement or refund of taxes provided in sub-subparagraphs (A) and (D) of this subparagraph (I), when an audit of prior years' taxes for the period described in section 39-10-101 (2) (b) discloses that taxes are due and owing on personal property or on mines and on oil and gas leaseholds, such taxes shall be subtracted from any overpayment of such taxes determined to be due pursuant to this subparagraph (I) for any years during such period and prior to computing delinquent interest.

(F) Notwithstanding the periods of limitation for filing a petition for and determining the amount of an abatement or refund of taxes provided in sub-subparagraph (A) or (D) of this subparagraph (I), an abatement or refund of taxes may be made to any common interest community for property taxes levied for property tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1985, but prior to January 1, 1996, on property not valued in accordance with section 39-1-103 (10), if a petition for abatement or refund is filed on or before June 1, 1997.

(II) Repealed.

(b) Any taxes illegally or erroneously levied and collected, and delinquent interest thereon, shall be refunded pursuant to this section, together with refund interest at the same rate as that provided for delinquent interest set forth in section 39-10-104.5; except that refund interest shall not be paid if the taxes were erroneously levied and collected as a result of an error made by the taxpayer in completing personal property schedules pursuant to the provisions of article 5 of this title. Said refund interest shall accrue only from the date payment of taxes and delinquent interest thereon was received by the treasurer from the taxpayer; except that refund interest shall accrue from the date a complete abatement petition is filed if the taxes were erroneously levied and collected as a result of an error or omission made by the taxpayer in completing the statements required pursuant to the provisions of article 7 of this title and the county pays the abatement or refund within the time frame set forth in sub-subparagraph (B) of subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1). Refund interest on abatements or refunds made pursuant to sub-subparagraph (F) of subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) shall only accrue on taxes paid for the two latest years of illegal or erroneous assessment.

(c) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, if a county, board of assessment appeals, court of competent jurisdiction, or the property tax administrator determines that a property is exempt from taxation under sections 39-3-106 to 39-3-113 or section 39-3-116, and if the county, board, court, or administrator finds competent evidence that said property became or remained subject to taxation for a period as a result of an error or omission made by the taxpayer, then the county, the board of assessment appeals, court of competent jurisdiction, or the property tax administrator may award refund interest or any other type of interest for not greater than two property tax years. Any interest awarded pursuant to this paragraph (c) shall be at the same rate as provided in section 39-10-104.5.

(2) (a) Any taxes levied on personal property, including but not limited to mobile homes, which are determined to be uncollectible after a period of one year after the date of their becoming delinquent may be cancelled by the board of county commissioners.

(b) When any real property has been stricken off to a county by virtue of a tax sale and there has been no transfer by the county of a certificate of purchase thereon, the taxes on such property may be determined to be uncollectible after a period of six years from the date of becoming delinquent, and they may be cancelled by the board of county commissioners. Such cancellation shall not affect the rights of the county under article 11 of this title to subsequently transfer any tax sale certificate nor its right to receive a tax deed and to exercise its rights thereunder with respect to such property.

(3) The treasurer shall keep a complete record of all taxes abated, refunded, or determined to be uncollectible and cancelled by the board of county commissioners as provided in subsection (2) of this section. The treasurer shall file an annual report with the administrator by August 25 of each year that shall include all taxes abated, refunded, or determined to be uncollectible and cancelled. Such report shall include the name of each owner of taxable property granted such abatement, refund, or cancellation of property taxes, the amount of property taxes abated, refunded, or cancelled, and the date such abatement, refund, or cancellation was granted. The treasurer shall also file an annual report with the department of revenue by August 10 of each year that shall include all taxes on personal property abated or refunded. Such report shall include the name of each owner of taxable personal property granted such abatement or refund of personal property taxes, the schedule number that was the basis for the imposition of the taxes abated or refunded, if applicable, the amount of personal property taxes abated or refunded, and the date such abatement or refund was granted.

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

Subsection (1)(a)(I)(B) is consistent with art. X, § 20 of the state constitution. Bolt v. Arapahoe County Sch. Dist. No. 6, 898 P.2d 525 (Colo. 1995).

Purpose of section. Recognizing the law and appreciating the necessity of prompt payment of the public revenue as an essential prerequisite to efficient government, the general assembly enacted this section. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry., 52 Colo. 609, 125 P. 528 (1912).

Action under this section not forum to attack voidable judgment. A judgment ordering a tax levy for payment of another judgment alleged to have been procured by fraud and collusion is binding upon the taxpayers, unless and until the alleged voidable judgment is set aside in a direct proceeding brought for that purpose. An action under this section to recover taxes paid is not such direct proceeding. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 95 Colo. 435, 37 P.2d 761 (1934).

Since no specific method for judicial review of the board's ruling under this section is provided, the "State Administrative Procedure Act", §§ 24-4-101 et seq., applies and judicial review is proper in the city and county of Denver. Gunnison County v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 693 P.2d 400 (Colo. App. 1984).

Protest and adjustment procedures are separate and independent from abatement and refund procedures. An appeal for a trial de novo under § 39-8-108 is not an "alternate petition" for abatement or refund under subsection (1)(a)(I) of this section. Wyler/Pebble Creek Ranch v. Colo. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 883 P.2d 597 (Colo. App. 1994).

Taxpayer's petition for abatement and refund is not precluded by subsection (1)(a)(I)(D) because it is based upon an erroneous valuation for assessment, which is a legal issue, rather than overvaluation, which is a factual issue. Taxpayer's abatement petition asserts that, as a matter of law, absent unusual conditions that are not at issue, the assessments for 1999 and 2000 must be the same, and the argument requires a legal, rather than a factual, determination. Boulder Country Club v. Boulder County Bd. of Comm'rs, 97 P.3d 119 (Colo. App. 2003).

This section does not contain a provision for abatement or refund of property taxes paid by a taxpayer through self-reporting of personal property it knows does not exist. Boulder County Bd. of Comm'rs v. HealthSouth Corp., 246 P.3d 948 (Colo. 2011).

Refund interest is interest paid to the taxpayer by the county to compensate the taxpayer for having paid erroneously levied taxes; therefore refund interest begins to accrue until the taxpayer pays the tax, and not on the date of a lien sale. Dove Valley Bus. Park Assocs. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs of Arapahoe County, 923 P.2d 242 (Colo. App. 1995), aff'd on other grounds, 945 P.2d 395 (Colo. 1997).

Applied in Lowden v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 101 Colo. 52, 69 P.2d 779 (1937); Laredo Hous. Apts., Ltd. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 628 P.2d 135 (Colo. App. 1980); Laredo Hous. Apts., Ltd. v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 675 P.2d 23 (Colo. App. 1983); Lucchesi v. State, 807 P.2d 1185 (Colo. App. 1990).

II. OBLIGATIONS AND RIGHTS.

This is substantive law, giving a new right; this section has nothing to do directly with the law of procedure. Union P. R. v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 222 F. 651 (8th Cir. 1915), rev'd on other grounds, 247 U.S. 282, 38 S. Ct. 510, 62 L. Ed. 1110 (1918).

This section imposes upon county commissioners duty of refunding taxes which have been paid and are found to be illegal. Singer Sewing Mach. Co. v. Benedict, 229 U.S. 481, 33 S. Ct. 942, 57 L. Ed. 1288 (1913); Union P. R. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 247 U.S. 282, 38 S. Ct. 510, 62 L. Ed. 1110 (1918).

Correlative right upon taxpayer to maintain action for refund. This section confers upon the taxpayer a correlative right to enforce the county commissioners' duty of refunding taxes by an action at law. Singer Sewing Mach. Co. v. Benedict, 229 U.S. 481, 33 S. Ct. 942, 57 L. Ed. 1288 (1913); Union P. R. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 247 U.S. 282, 38 S. Ct. 510, 62 L. Ed. 1110 (1918).

Taxpayer has right to maintain suit at law in state court for recovery of a tax not legally laid, or growing out of an illegal assessment, or the validity of which he has right to question. Baker v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry., 106 F.2d 525 (10th Cir.), cert. denied, 308 U.S. 620, 60 S. Ct. 296, 84 L. Ed. 518 (1939); Northcutt v. Burton, 127 Colo. 145, 254 P.2d 1013 (1953), overruled in

Bd. of Assess. Appeals v. Benbrook, 735 P.2d 860 (Colo. 1987).

Property owner's remedy for levy of excessive tax. In Colorado, the remedy of a property owner for the levy of an excessive tax is to pay under protest and to bring an action against the county to recover the same. Holly Sugar Corp. v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 10 F.2d 506 (D. Colo. 1926).

Tax must be illegal and void for recovery in action at law. An error as to valuation of property for taxation, even if excessive, does not render the tax illegal and void, which is necessary in order to recover in an action at law. S. Broadway Nat'l Bank v. City & County of Denver, 51 F.2d 703 (10th Cir. 1931).

Excessive application of tax. An equity in school lands is a property right notwithstanding it may have no cash value. If the land is of no value, an assessment thereon for tax purposes would be merely excessive and not illegal. Bordner v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 92 Colo. 81, 18 P.2d 323 (1932).

Taxpayer's burden to show illegal assessment. Where one attempts to maintain a proceeding for a tax refund pursuant to this section, he has the burden of showing that the tax was illegally laid, is erroneous in its entirety, and is incapable of adjustment. Weidenhaft v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 131 Colo. 432, 283 P.2d 164 (1955).

When section provides taxpayer relief from overassessment. The provisions of this section provide taxpayer relief from the overassessment of his property in situations where his knowledge of the excessive charge is acquired subsequent to the usual statutory deadlines for protests. Modular Cmty., Inc. v. McKnight, 191 Colo. 101, 550 P.2d 866 (1976).

The term "erroneous valuation for assessment" in this section and "excessive valuation" under the protest adjustment provisions of § 39-5-122 refer to the same process of assessment, and the remedies available to the taxpayer under this section apply to refunds ordered pursuant to § 39-8-109. Bd. of Assess. Appeals v. Benbrook, 735 P.2d 860 (Colo. 1987).

This section and § 39-1-113 provide a remedy for the abatement or refund of taxes that cannot be challenged under § 39-5-122. Valley Country Club v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 778 P.2d 285 (Colo. App. 1989), rev'd on other grounds, 792 P.2d 299 (Colo. 1990).

Section does not provide rights for tax lien purchasers. Hughey v. Jefferson County Bd. of Comm'rs, 921 P.2d 76 (Colo. App. 1996).

The abatement procedure may be used to provide taxpayer relief from the overassessment of his property in situations where his knowledge of excessive charges is acquired subsequent to the usual statutory deadlines for protest. Valley Country Club v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 778 P.2d 285 (Colo. App. 1989), rev'd on other grounds, 792 P.2d 299 (Colo. 1990).

Subject to specified exception, relief under subsection (1)(a)(I)(A) is not available for taxes levied prior to January 1, 1988. Capital Assoc. Intern. v. Arapahoe Com'rs., 802 P.2d 1180 (Colo. App. 1990).

Prior to suit, taxpayer must exhaust administrative remedies. The remedies contained in this section and § 39-1-113 are complete and adequate; thus, prior to commencing a suit on illegal taxation issues, taxpayers are required to exhaust the administrative remedies detailed in these sections. Davison v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 41 Colo. App. 344, 585 P.2d 315 (1978); S. Cafeteria, Inc. v. Propty. Tax Adm'r, 677 P.2d 362 (Colo. App. 1983).

Administrative remedies available under this article cannot be dispensed with. First Nat'l Bank v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 264 U.S. 450, 44 S. Ct. 385, 68 L. Ed. 784 (1924).

Invocation of administrative remedies must be alleged. A complaint is fatally defective where it does not contain the indispensable allegation that administrative remedies have been invoked. Bordner v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 92 Colo. 81, 18 P.2d 323 (1932).

County is liable to one who pays tax imposed without authority of law. An unsatisfied judgment recovered by the taxpayer against the collector is no bar to his action against the county, even though the collector made no return to the county and converted the money to his own use. Spaulding Mfg. Co. v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 63 Colo. 438, 168 P. 34 (1917).

Illegal or erroneous tax. Where one owner of a converted condominium, after pursuing administrative remedies under § 39-5-122, obtained a declaration from district court that the imposition of an increased tax on his converted condominium was illegal, petitioners, as owners of identical condominiums, were entitled to seek relief under the abatement and refund provisions of § 39-1-113 and this section because the tax had been declared illegal. Bd. of Assess. Appeals v. Benbrook, 735 P.2d 860 (Colo. 1987); Am. Airlines v. Bd. of Equaliz., 749 P.2d 986 (Colo. App. 1987), rev'd on other grounds, 773 P.2d 1033 (Colo. 1989), cert. denied, 493 U.S. 851, 110 S. Ct. 151, 107 L. Ed.2d 109 (1989).

There is no need to characterize the tax paid as wholly illegal before the taxpayer may obtain abatement and refund. Bd. of Assess. Appeals v. Benbrook, 735 P.2d 860 (Colo. 1987).

The administrator's determination that 1989 property tax was excessive does not render the tax illegal or otherwise erroneous and did not thereby provide an avenue for taxpayer to obtain an abatement of 1990 taxes because there was no evidence of changed or unusual conditions between 1989 and 1990. Yale Invs., Inc. v. Prop. Tax Adm'r, 897 P.2d 890 (Colo. App. 1995).

Where assessor failed to give timely notice of property valuation, proper remedy is not to invalidate tax but to allow taxpayer to seek abatement of the tax increase pursuant to this section. Bea Kay Real Estate Corp. v. Aragon, 782 P.2d 837 (Colo. App. 1989).

While subsection (1)(a)(I)(D) bars a petition for abatement only in those situations in which the determination of the prior protest "has been mailed to the taxpayer", there was sufficient evidence to show the determination was mailed to an agent of the taxpayer and as such was authorized to receive the notice on behalf of the taxpayer. Yale Invs., Inc. v. Prop. Tax Adm'r, 897 P.2d 890 (Colo. App. 1995).

Refund statute not applicable where property has been assessed improperly because of taxpayer's error in reporting and where taxpayer did not make a timely objection. Coquina Oil v. Larimer Co. Bd. of Equaliz., 742 P.2d 932 (Colo. App. 1987), aff'd, 770 P.2d 1196 (Colo. 1989); Aurora Plaza v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 770 P.2d 1204 (Colo. 1989); Amoco Prod. v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 770 P.2d 1207 (Colo. 1989).

Where error is due at least in part to the taxing authority, a taxpayer can recover a refund under the clerical error provision of this section, after the time to protest under § 39-5-122 has passed. Coquina Oil Corp. v. Bd. of Equaliz., 770 P.2d 1196 (Colo. 1989).

Section does not enlarge right to contest an overvaluation. It expresses an intent merely to restrict the statute of limitations as to abatement claims. 5050 S. Broadway Corp. v. Arapahoe County Bd. of Comm'rs, 815 P.2d 966 (Colo. App. 1991).

Clerical error doesn't encompass the mistakes of an assessor who makes factual errors in property valuations. A challenge to a valuation that involves a claim that comparable properties used were overvalued is not clerical error. 5050 S. Broadway Corp. v. Arapahoe County Bd. of Comm'rs, 815 P.2d 966 (Colo. App. 1991).

Nor taxpayer's error in failing to insure that recorded deed correctly described land conveyed. Citibank v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 826 P.2d 871 (Colo. 1992).

Taxpayer may seek an abatement and refund under this section even though taxpayer initially protested valuation of the property under § 39-5-122, because the taxpayer did not base its petition for abatement on the ground of overvaluation but on the arbitrator's clerical error. Landmark Petroleum v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 870 P.2d 610 (Colo. App. 1993).

When arbitrator made a clerical error in an award and award does not reflect the valuation intended by the arbitrator, a taxpayer may file for an abatement and refund. Arbitrator attempted to remedy the error within a reasonable time by reporting the error within two days of entering the award. Landmark Petroleum v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 870 P.2d 610 (Colo. App. 1993).

Taxpayer sufficiently demonstrated an injury to a legally protected right when he sought relief for an alleged overvaluation of property. Utah Motel Assocs. v. Denver County Bd. of Comm'rs, 844 P.2d 1295 (Colo. App. 1992).

Abatement is not the only remedy for overvaluation of property when property has filed a timely protest to assessor's valuation and appealed. Tenney v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 856 P.2d 89 (Colo. App. 1993).

Challenges based on overvaluation. Although taxpayers challenged the amount of taxes assessed as excessive, this was not an "overvaluation" as the term is used in this statute because, due to the taxpayers' wrongful inaction, the assessor's BIA valuations are presumed to be valid. Therefore, for purposes of this statute, the assessor's valuation cannot be considered an overvaluation, and this section may not be asserted by a taxpayer to avoid the provisions of § 39-5-118 and the protest procedure under § 39-5-122. Prop. Tax Adm'r v. Prod. Geophysical, 860 P.2d 514 (Colo. 1993).

Application of abatement procedure to personal property taxes. The protest procedure set forth in § 39-5-122, as opposed to the abatement procedure set forth in this section, is the exclusive method for challenging personal property BIA evaluations. Prop. Tax Adm'r v. Prod. Geophysical, 860 P.2d 514 (Colo. 1993); Spectra Pub. v. Prop. Tax Adm'r, 860 P.2d 520 (Colo. 1993).

Taxpayer did not lack standing to file for abatement even though he was the purchaser of the property on which the taxes were due and did not himself pay the taxes. Utah Motel Assocs. v. Denver County Bd. of Comm'rs, 844 P.2d 1295 (Colo. App. 1992).

The four-year time limitation for bringing suit under § 20 of article X of the Colorado Constitution (TABOR) does not affect the two-year time limitation set forth in this section. Prop. Tax Adjustment Specialists, Inc. v. Mesa County Bd. of Comm'rs, 956 P.2d 1277 (Colo. App. 1998).

In calculating the two-year limitation for filing a personal property tax abatement petition pursuant to subsection (1)(a)(I)(A), the day from which the two-year period runs is excluded and the last day is included. If the last day is a holiday, the period is extended one day. Golden Aluminum v. Weld County Comm'rs, 867 P.2d 190 (Colo. App. 1993).

Two-year limitation period may not be applied to park and recreation district that was required to pay taxes due from the previous owner of land but did not receive various notices required by statute. S. Suburban Park and Recreation Dist. v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 894 P.2d 771 (Colo. App. 1994).

Refunds and abatements for tax years before 1990 are time barred, unless a petition was filed prior to January 2, 1992. Woodmoor Imp. v. Prop. Tax Adm'r, 895 P.2d 1087 (Colo. App. 1994).

No violation of the prohibition against retrospective laws existed in court's application of two-year statute of repose, rather than prior six-year statute, to homeowners' association's petition for abatement and refund. Woodmoor Imp. v. Prop. Tax Adm'r, 895 P.2d 1087 (Colo. App. 1994).

It is appropriate for court to give deference to contemporaneous construction of statute by the agency charged with its administration. The property tax administrator had issued a memorandum to county tax assessors to the same effect as the court's holding. Bd. of Assess. Appeals v. Country Club, 792 P.2d 299 (Colo. 1990); Utah Motel Associates v. Denver County Bd. of Comm'rs, 844 P.2d 1295 (Colo. App. 1992).

Statutes governing abatement and refund procedure do not address whether multiple abatement-refund petitions are permissible regarding same property for same tax year, but second abatement-refund action differing from first only in that taxpayer sought a further valuation reduction is barred under principles of res judicata or claim preclusion. Red Junction, LLC v. Mesa County Bd. of County Comm'rs, 174 P.3d 841 (Colo. App. 2007).

III. EQUITY JURISDICTION.

Remedy afforded by this section is suit at law and is available in the federal courts the same as in state courts. Union P. R. R. v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 222 F. 651 (8th Cir. 1915), rev'd on other grounds, 247 U.S. 282, 38 S. Ct. 510, 62 L. Ed. 1110 (1918).

This section affords an adequate remedy at law in case of an illegal or erroneous levy. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 69 Colo. 212, 193 P. 555 (1920); Union Nat'l Bank v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 75 Colo. 298, 225 P. 851 (1924).

Equity will not entertain jurisdiction unless there exists some recognized equitable ground for the granting of relief. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 69 Colo. 212, 193 P. 555 (1920).

Exceptional circumstances required. Upon a full consideration of public interest, of judicial pronouncement in general upon the subject involved, and of this section, which affords a complete remedy in a proper case, it is rarely possible, and then under most exceptional and unusual circumstances, that a cause of action to restrain the collection of taxes can be stated of which equity will or ought to take cognizance. Grater v. Logan High Sch. Dist., 64 Colo. 600, 173 P. 714 (1918).

Injunctive interference in collection of public revenues opposed. Public interest, judicial announcement, and statutory enactment are opposed to injunctive interference in the collection of the public revenues. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry., 52 Colo. 609, 125 P. 528 (1912); Tallon v. Vindicator Consol. Gold Mining Co., 59 Colo. 316, 149 P. 108 (1915); Nile Irrigation Dist. v. English, 60 Colo. 406, 153 P. 760 (1915); Kendrick v. A. Y. & Minnie Mining & Milling Co., 63 Colo. 214, 164 P. 1161 (1917).

Tax must be prima facie void before equity will interfere. It is a prerequisite, before a court of equity will interfere to restrain the collection of taxes, as a general rule, though there may be some exceptions, that the tax must be prima facie void. Tallon v. Vindicator Consol. Gold Mining Co., 59 Colo. 316, 149 P. 108 (1915).

Principles of equity did not prohibit application of two-year statute of repose where homeowners' association failed to allege that assessor concealed facts or otherwise prevented it from filing a timely petition, was aware of its status as a nonprofit association, received yearly tax assessments, and failed to file a petition for abatement until eight months after due date. Woodmoor Imp. v. Prop. Tax Adm'r, 895 P.2d 1087 (Colo. App. 1994).

39-10-114.5. Decision - review - judicial review. (1) If the board of county commissioners, pursuant to section 39-10-114 (1), or the property tax administrator, pursuant to section 39-2-116, denies the petition for refund or abatement of taxes in whole or in part, the petitioner may appeal to the board of assessment appeals pursuant to the provisions of section 39-2-125 within thirty days of the entry of any such decision.

(2) If the petitioner has appealed to the board of assessment appeals and the decision of the board of assessment appeals is against the petitioner, the petitioner may petition the court of appeals for judicial review according to the Colorado appellate rules and the provisions of section 24-4-106 (11), C.R.S. If the decision of the board is against the respondent, the respondent, upon the recommendation of the board that it either is a matter of statewide concern or has resulted in a significant decrease in the total valuation for assessment of the county wherein the property is located, may petition the court of appeals for judicial review according to the Colorado appellate rules and the provisions of section 24-4-106 (11), C.R.S. In addition, if the decision of the board is against the respondent, the respondent may petition the court of appeals for judicial review of alleged procedural errors or errors of law when the respondent alleges procedural errors or errors of law by the board of assessment appeals. If the board does not recommend its decision to be a matter of statewide concern or to have resulted in a significant decrease in the total valuation for assessment of the county in which the property is located, the respondent may petition the court of appeals for judicial review of such questions.

ANNOTATION

The 30-day time period begins on the date notice was mailed to the taxpayer's last known address when nondelivery of notice attributable to taxpayer's own failure to provide a current address. Ward v. Douglas County Bd. of Comm'rs, 886 P.2d 310 (Colo. App. 1994).

Taxpayer fully exhausted the available administrative remedies, giving the state board of assessment appeals (BAA) jurisdiction to consider the appeal, even though taxpayer did not attend the county hearing or present evidence, where taxpayer timely filed a petition for refund or abatement of real property taxes with the county and received notice of a hearing; after the mandatory hearing, received notice of the county's denial of the petition and was informed that it had the right to appeal the board's decision to the BAA; and taxpayer then filed a timely petition with the BAA. Isbill Assocs., Inc. v. Jefferson County Bd. of County Comm'rs, 894 P.2d 52 (Colo. App. 1995).

Under the abatement and refund scheme, only taxpayers are authorized to appeal actions of the property tax administrator to the board of assessment appeals, and then only to the extent the petition has been denied. By approving taxpayer's petition "conditionally" or otherwise and submitting it to the property tax administrator for further action, the board of county commissioners' procedural rights as a party ended under the statutory scheme governing abatement and refund proceedings. Huerfano County Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Atlantic Richfield Co., 976 P.2d 893 (Colo. App. 1999).

The abatement and refund procedure under this section is a separate and independent procedural system than the protest and adjustment procedure and is governed by a different statute. Huerfano County Bd. of County

Comm'rs v. Atlantic Richfield Co., 976 P.2d 893 (Colo. App. 1999).

Court of appeals' review is limited to the propriety of the board of assessment appeals' determinations, not those of the assessor. Home Depot USA, Inc. v. Pueblo County Bd. of Comm'rs, 50 P.3d 916 (Colo. App. 2002).

Applied in Prop. Tax Adjustment Specialists, Inc. v. Mesa County Bd. of Comm'rs, 956 P.2d 1277 (Colo. App. 1998).

39-10-115. Certificate of taxes due. (1) Upon request, the treasurer shall certify in writing the full amount of taxes due upon any parcel of real property or mobile home in his or her county, and all outstanding sales for unpaid taxes as shown by the records of his or her office or the records of the department of revenue, with the amount required for redemption of such sales, if the same still are redeemable. The treasurer shall include on such certificate of taxes due an itemized list of the mill levies and amount of taxes and assessments imposed by each taxing jurisdiction and a statement that information regarding special taxing districts and the boundaries of such districts may be on file or deposit with the board of county commissioners, the county clerk and recorder, or the county assessor. A fee shall be collected for each such certificate issued by him or her, as provided in section 30-1-102, C.R.S.

(2) When signed by the treasurer, such certificate, showing payment of all taxes due and the redemption of all outstanding tax sales, shall be conclusive evidence for all purposes and against all persons that the parcel of real property or mobile home therein described was, at the time, free and clear of all taxes due and from all tax sales except tax sales whereon the time for redemption had already expired and the purchaser had received a deed.

(3) Any loss resulting to any person from an error in a tax certificate issued by the treasurer shall be paid by the county represented by the treasurer issuing such certificate.

(4) No person other than the treasurer or an authorized agent of the treasurer shall issue any property tax certificate.

39-10-116. Civil penalty for checks not paid upon presentment. The treasurer shall assess a penalty up to the amount authorized in section 13-21-109 (1) (b), C.R.S., against any person who issues a check to the treasurer in payment of taxes, interest, fees, or other charges collectible by the treasurer that is not paid upon its presentment. The penalty provided in this section shall be assessed in addition to any other penalties or interest provided by law.

39-11-101. Notice to delinquent owner. The treasurer shall make a list of all lands and town lots the tax liens on which are subject to sale, describing such land and town lots as the same are described on the tax roll. Except as otherwise provided in section 39-2-117 (1) (a), no later than September 1 of each year, the treasurer shall send a notice by mail, at the person's last-known address, to each person by whom taxes for the previous year are known to be due and unpaid. The notice shall indicate the amount of the person's delinquency and state that if the amount of the delinquency is not paid by the date specified in the notice, which shall not be less than fifteen days from the date of mailing of the notice, the treasurer will advertise and sell a tax lien on the person's property on the date specified in the notice at public auction for the delinquent taxes, interest, and applicable fees. ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For note, "Tax Deeds in Colorado", see 18 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 393 (1946).

Substantial departure from section as to land description voids sale. Where the assessment roll upon which the tax sale was based described the tract in question as containing 160 acres, the notice of tax sale, as published, described the tract as 36 acres, and the notice posted by the treasurer described it as 60 acres, there was a substantial departure from this section which is fatal to the validity of the sale. Callbreath v. Hapney, 24 Colo. App. 202, 132 P. 1143 (1913) (decided under former law).

39-11-102. Treasurer to publish and post notice. (1) The treasurer shall cause the notice described in subsection (2) of this section to be published in the newspaper selected pursuant to section 39-11-105, the first publication being at least four weeks before the date of sale, and shall post a written or printed notice in a conspicuous place in the office of the treasurer for not less than four weeks before the date of sale. If there is no newspaper published in the county, a like notice shall be given by posting one written or printed notice for the above length of time on or near the outer door of the treasurer's office. When publication is made in a weekly newspaper, the notice shall be published in three successive weekly issues. When publication is made in a daily newspaper, the notice shall be published only three times, once each week, on the same day of the week.

(2) The notice of sale at public auction shall contain:

- (a) A description of the lands and town lots on which the tax liens are subject to sale;
- (b) The date, time, and place of the tax lien sale, including the electronic address if the public auction is conducted by means of the internet or other electronic medium;
- (c) The location of computer workstations that are available to the public and information about how to obtain instructions on accessing the public auction and submitting bids if the public auction is conducted by means of the internet or other electronic medium; and
- (d) If the public auction is conducted by means of the internet or other electronic medium, a statement that the bidding rules for the public auction will be posted on the internet or other electronic medium used to conduct the public auction at least two weeks before the date of sale.

Annotator's note. The following annotations include a case decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

Purpose of this section is to give the fullest publicity to the notice of tax sale and list of delinquent taxes. Pelton v. Muntzing, 24 Colo. App. 1, 131 P. 281 (1913).

Treasurer to see that notice stays posted.

This section contemplates a single act of posting a notice by the treasurer in a certain place within a prescribed time and imposes on him the further duty to see that it remains so posted until the day of sale. Pelton v. Muntzing, 24 Colo. App. 1, 131 P. 281 (1913).

39-11-103. Treasurer to make affidavit of posting. The treasurer shall also make, or cause to be made, an affidavit showing the posting of such list and notice, all of which affidavits shall be deposited by the treasurer with the county clerk and recorder to be filed and entered by the county clerk and recorder in the reception book or other permanent record of said office and there carefully preserved.

Annotator's note. The following annotations include a case decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

Legislative intent to create record. This section manifests a legislative intent that affidavits should become a permanent, enduring record of the fact of publication of the tax list. Herr v. Graden, 22 Colo. App. 511, 127 P. 319 (1912), rev'd on other grounds, 59 Colo. 372, 148 P. 863 (1915).

Purpose for requiring deposit of affidavits is to furnish proof. The sole purpose for requiring the deposit of affidavits with the county clerk is to preserve and furnish proof that the requisite notices of the sales of property for delinquent taxes were given in the manner required by law, when that question becomes material. Bertha Gold Mining & Milling Co. v. Burr, 31 Colo. 264, 73 P. 36 (1903); Johnson v. Cork, 106 Colo. 72, 102 P.2d 471 (1940).

The evident purpose of this section is to make the affidavit exclusive evidence of a compliance with the section with reference to notice by publication. This is in accordance with the fundamental rule that where proof by written evidence is required, oral evidence will not be received, unless in case of loss or destruction of the writing. Rustin v. Merchants' & Miners' Tunnel Co., 23 Colo. 351, 47 P. 300 (1896).

Affidavits are not required to be filed at any particular time, nor does the failure to file them before the issuance of a tax deed render such deed invalid. Bertha Gold Mining & Milling Co. v. Burr, 31 Colo. 264, 73 P. 36 (1903); Sternberger v. Moffat, 44 Colo. 520, 99 P. 560 (1908).

They must show substantial compliance with requirements. It is evident that the affidavit must be sufficiently certain and specific to reasonably show that, in fact, the requirements of this article relative to the contents of the notice have been substantially complied with, and that the notice posted referred to some particular sale. Am. Bond & Inv. Co. v. Hopkins, 46 Colo. 460, 104 P. 1040 (1909).

Absence of affidavit is prima facie proof that proper notice was not given. Proof that affidavits are not on file with the county clerk would prima facie establish the tax deed invalid, not, however, upon the ground that they had not been filed, but because their absence would be prima facie proof that the requisite notices of sale had not been given. Bertha Gold Mining & Milling Co. v. Burr, 31 Colo. 264, 73 P. 36 (1903); Am. Bond & Inv. Co. v. Hopkins, 46 Colo. 460, 104 P. 1040 (1909).

Applied in Norris v. Kelsey, 23 Colo. App. 555, 130 P. 1088 (1913); Colpitts v. Fastenau, 117 Colo. 594, 192 P.2d 524 (1948).

39-11-104. Publisher's affidavit - form. (1) Every publisher or printer who publishes such list and notice, immediately after the last publication thereof, shall transmit to the treasurer of the proper county an affidavit of such publication made by such publisher, printer, or some other person to whom the fact of publication is known, and no publisher or printer shall be paid for such publication if he fails to transmit such affidavit within fourteen days after the last publication.

(2) Such affidavit shall be substantially in the following form:

"I,, publisher (or printer) of the, a newspaper, printed and published in the county of and state of Colorado, do hereby certify that the foregoing notice and list were published in said newspaper, once in each week, for successive weeks, the last of which publications was made prior to the day of, A.D. 20..., and that copies of each number of said paper in which said notice and list were published were delivered by carriers or transmitted by mail to each of the subscribers of said paper, according to the accustomed mode of business in this office.

ANNOTATION

- I. General Consideration.
- II. Form and Sufficiency of Affidavit.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Law reviews. For note, "Analysis of Basic Statutes on Legal Publications", see 19 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 380 (1947).

Annotator's note. The following annotations include a case decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

Purpose of affidavit requirement. The purpose of this section, requiring the affidavit and its careful preservation by the county clerk is to make it exclusive evidence of the fact and manner of the publication. Except, perhaps, in case of its destruction, no other kind of proof can be substituted for it. Paine v. Palmborg, 20 Colo. App. 432, 79 P. 330 (1905); Herr v. Graden, 33 Colo. 527, 81 P. 242 (1905); Sternberger v. Moffat, 44 Colo. 520, 99 P. 560 (1908).

Proper affidavit is prerequisite to valid tax deed. An affidavit of publication of notice of sale made in conformity with this section and filed in the proper office is a prerequisite to a valid tax deed. Charlton v. Kelly, 24 Colo. 273, 50 P. 1042 (1897); Concord Corp. v. Huff, 144 Colo. 72, 355 P.2d 73 (1960).

Affidavit of publisher's foreman competent proof of publication. The foreman for the publisher of the paper in which the tax sale notice is published would know whether the notice and list had been published. His affidavit, therefore, is competent proof to establish the publication of the tax sale notice. Herr v. Graden, 59 Colo. 372, 148 P. 863 (1915).

Applied in Bertha Gold Mining & Milling Co. v. Burr, 31 Colo. 264, 73 P. 36 (1903); Gilbreath v. Doe, 24 Colo. App. 205, 132 P. 1146 (1913).

II. FORM AND SUFFICIENCY OF AFFIDAVIT.

The prescribed form includes all allegations deemed necessary. When the prescribed form is used, it includes all allegations which the general assembly deemed necessary for the purpose. Herr v. Graden, 22 Colo. App. 511, 127 P. 319 (1912), rev'd on other grounds, 59 Colo. 372, 148 P. 863 (1915).

The statutory form of affidavit need not be literally followed, but there can be no excuse for disregarding its substantial requisites. Morris v. St. Louis Nat'l Bank, 17 Colo. 231, 29 P. 802 (1892).

Affidavit failing to show publication of time and place of sale is insufficient. An affidavit of publication of notice of a tax sale which states that the list of lands for sale was published for four successive weeks in a weekly newspaper, but which fails to show that the notice of the time and place of sale was published, is insufficient to support a tax sale. Paine v. Palmborg, 20 Colo. App. 432, 79 P. 330 (1905).

Affidavit failing to show required number of publications is insufficient. An affidavit of publication of notice of a tax sale which states that the notice was published in a daily paper on September 6, and that the last publication was made prior to October 1, is insufficient, as it shows only one publication, while § 39-11-102 requires the publication to be made once a week for four consecutive weeks. Paine v. Palmborg, 20 Colo. App. 432, 79 P. 330 (1905).

Affidavit failing to show proper delivery of papers is insufficient. Unless the affidavit of publication of notice of a tax sale shows that copies of each number of the paper in which the notice was published were delivered or transmitted to each subscriber of the paper according to the accustomed mode of business of the office, it is insufficient, and a sale based thereon is invalid. Rustin v. Merchants' & Miners' Tunnel Co., 23 Colo. 351, 47 P. 300 (1896); Lambert v. Shumway, 36 Colo. 350, 85 P. 89 (1906).

39-11-105. Selection of newspaper publishing notice. It is the duty of the board of county commissioners of each county to select a newspaper of general circulation published or having general circulation in said county, in which the treasurer shall publish the delinquent tax list of his county, and for such service the board shall allow payment not exceeding the rate as provided by law.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For comment on Blue River Co. v. Rizzuto appearing below, see 30 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 234 (1958).

Annotator's note. The following annotations include a case decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

This section is mandatory, not directory. Blue River Co. v. Rizzuto, 135 Colo. 472, 312 P.2d 1023 (1957).

Selection of newspaper for publication is jurisdictional. The selection or designation of a newspaper for the publication of delinquent tax lists is jurisdictional. Blue River Co. v. Rizzuto, 135 Colo. 472, 312 P.2d 1023 (1957).

Selection of official county newspaper is sufficient compliance. Publishing the delinquent tax lists in a newspaper which had been duly selected by the county commissioners as the official county newspaper, without specific reference to publication of delinquent tax lists, is a sufficient compliance with this section.

Linville v. Russell, 168 Colo. 459, 452 P.2d 18 (1969).

Absent a selection, the proceedings and sale are void. Blue River Co. v. Rizzuto, 135 Colo. 472, 312 P.2d 1023 (1957).

County may change selection of newspaper before publication. A county may rescind the selection of a newspaper to publish notice of tax sale and delinquent tax list, but not after publication has been made. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Wood, 80 Colo. 279, 250 P. 860 (1926).

County is not required to ask for bids for publication of notices of tax sale and delinquent tax list. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Wood, 80 Colo. 279, 250 P. 860 (1926).

Expense of publication must be paid by county. The expense of the publication of the notice of tax sale and delinquent tax list must be paid by the county. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Wood, 80 Colo. 279, 250 P. 860 (1926).

39-11-106. Advertising and auction fees. (1) To the amount of delinquent taxes there shall be added a fee to cover the cost of advertising, as provided in section 30-1-102, C.R.S. If the public auction is conducted by means of the internet or other electronic medium, the treasurer may add a fee to cover the cost of conducting the public auction.

(2) The treasurer of each county shall deliver his list of all lots or tracts of land for which tax liens are to be advertised for sale to the publisher or printer at least ten days before the date of the first publication.

39-11-107. Erroneous assessments - abatement. It is the duty of the treasurer of each county, before making sale of tax liens on any lots or land for unpaid taxes, to carefully examine and compare the delinquent list with the assessment roll and block books in his office, and to omit from such sale the tax liens on all lots and lands doubly or erroneously assessed, insofar as he is able to ascertain the same, and to make an itemized report to the board of county commissioners of his county showing such double or erroneous assessment. The board of county commissioners, on receipt of such itemized report, by resolution to be entered in its proceedings, shall abate the taxes levied upon such double or erroneous assessments.

39-11-108. Manner of conducting public auction - definitions. (1) On the day designated in the notice of sale, the treasurer shall commence the public auction of the tax liens on those lands and town lots on which the taxes, interest, and fees have not been paid and shall continue the same from day to day, Saturdays and Sundays excepted, until the tax liens on each parcel are sold. Where two or more lots or tracts of land are valued and assessed as one parcel, the treasurer shall sell a single tax lien on such land or tract. The public auction shall be held at the treasurer's office or at another location in the county designated by the treasurer, and all lands and town lots offered at the public auction on the same date of sale shall be offered for public auction at the same location; except that the public auction may be conducted by means of the internet or other electronic medium.

(2) A public auction conducted by means of the internet or other electronic medium to sell lands and town lots under this article shall allow members of the public to submit bids by computer and permit the treasurer to accept bids for as long as the treasurer deems necessary. The county and its employees acting in their official capacity in preparing, conducting, and executing a sale of lands and town lots under this article are not liable for the failure of a device that prevents a person from participating in a sale under this article. As used in this subsection (2), "device" includes, but is not limited to, computer hardware, a computer network, a computer software application, and an internet web site.

(3) If there is no bid for any tax lien offered, the offering of such tax lien shall remain open until all the tax liens are offered for sale and the sale is ended or until the treasurer is satisfied that no more sales can be effected, whereupon it is the treasurer's duty to strike off to the county, city, town, or city and county the tax liens on those lands and town lots remaining unsold, for the amount of such taxes, delinquent interest, and fees thereon. When the treasurer strikes off a tax lien on any tract of land or town lot, the treasurer shall issue to the county, city, town, or city and county a certificate of purchase. No taxes levied against any lands for which a county has purchased a tax lien under the provisions of this section shall be payable until the same have been derived by the county from the sale of a tax lien on such lands or from the redemption of such lands.

ANNOTATION

- II. Sale in Entirety or Parcels.
- III. Purchase by County.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Law reviews. For comment, "The Effect of Certified Realty Corp. v. Smith on Mortgage Foreclosure in Colorado", see 52 U. Colo. L. Rev. 301 (1981).

Annotator's note. The following annotations include a case decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

Purpose of section. The purpose of this section is to give a reasonable opportunity to all desiring to bid, and to make sure that there are no bidders present before striking any property off to the county. Bennett v. Shotwell, 118 Colo. 206, 194 P.2d 335 (1948).

Section requires strict compliance. This section authorizing the sale of property for taxes must be strictly complied with or the proceedings will be void. Charlton v. Toomey, 7 Colo. App. 304, 43 P. 454 (1896), rev'd on other grounds, 24 Colo. 278, 50 P. 1042 (1897).

Void tax deed cannot be supported by evidence aliunde. A tax deed, void on its face because of its showing a fatal irregularity in the conduct of the sale, cannot be supported or validated by evidence aliunde that the sale was conducted in conformity with this section. Page v. Gillett, 47 Colo. 289, 107 P. 290 (1910).

Proof of damages is unnecessary where statute governing sale is violated. Once it is shown that a positive mandate or statute has been ignored in connection with a tax sale, the grantor under a tax deed flowing therefrom will not be heard to say that his adversary must go further and prove the damages he has suffered as a result of the violation of the statute. Newcomb v. Henderson, 22 Colo. App. 167, 122 P. 1125 (1912).

Formal rereading of notice of sale at reoffering not required. The requirement of this section is only that the treasurer shall reoffer the property the next day. It does not require the formal rereading of the notice of sale or legal description of the property. Bennett v. Shotwell, 118 Colo. 206, 194 P.2d 335 (1948).

Failure to show first offering date not invalidation of deed. A tax deed is not invalid because of its failure to disclose the day upon which the land involved was first offered for sale for delinquent taxes. Ford v. Genereux, 104 Colo. 17, 87 P.2d 749 (1939).

Applied in City & County of Denver v. Keeler, 48 Colo. 54, 108 P. 998 (1910); Sherman v. Greeley Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 66 Colo. 288, 181 P. 975 (1919).

II. SALE IN ENTIRETY OR PARCELS.

Object of separate valuation, assessment, and sale is to create a lien upon each tract for its own assessment and levy. It is manifest that this is not done if the sale is en masse for a gross sum. Page v. Gillett, 47 Colo. 289, 107 P. 290 (1910).

The only land which the treasurer may sell jointly is such as the assessor can jointly value and assess, namely, adjoining parcels, returned by the same person. Page v. Gillett, 47 Colo. 289, 107 P. 290 (1910); Gilbreath v. Doe, 24 Colo. App. 205, 132 P. 1146 (1913).

Sale in parcels of body of land assessed as a whole is violation of this section and one contesting the sale is not required to prove that he has sustained damage by this violation of the statute. Newcomb v. Henderson, 22 Colo. App. 167, 122 P. 1125 (1912).

Sale en masse for taxes of noncontiguous lands for a gross sum is void; and a tax deed which, upon its face, shows that the sale was made in this manner is void. Page v. Gillett, 47 Colo. 289, 107 P. 290 (1910).

A tax deed is not objectionable because it conveys several noncontiguous tracts of land. Barnett v. Jaynes, 26 Colo. 279, 57 P. 703 (1899).

III. PURCHASE BY COUNTY.

County becomes purchaser only in default of outside bid. Before land may be legally bid in by the county, it must, after being first offered, be continually offered from day to day until the sale is concluded, and the county can only become a purchaser of the entire tract in default of an outside bid, after the same has been offered each day. Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Howell, 23 Colo. App. 265, 129 P. 245 (1913).

Certificate of purchase must be dated as of sale date. The certificate of purchase issued to the county for land struck off to it at the tax sale must be dated as of the day of the sale. Dalander v. Karr, 21 Colo. App. 170, 121 P. 136 (1912).

Tax deed cannot issue while certificate of purchase outstanding. A tax deed cannot issue on property so long as an outstanding tax certificate of purchase is still held by the county and a deed issued in such circumstances will be held invalid. Cowen v. Driscoll Constr. Co., 97 Colo. 74, 47 P.2d 390 (1935).

Taxes are not paid by striking off the land to the county. Hecox v. Teller County, 198 F. 634 (8th Cir. 1912), appeal dismissed, 234 U.S. 766, 34 S. Ct. 675, 58 L. Ed. 1582 (1914).

Unnecessary for county to pay taxes until property sold. It is not necessary for the county, after the purchase of a tax sale certificate, to pay any taxes that may have become due subsequent to the issuance of said tax sale certificate, until the county has sold the property which it has acquired by virtue of the treasurer's deed. Rock v. Fastenau, 122 Colo. 41, 219 P.2d 781 (1950).

39-11-109. Time of public auction. The public auction of tax liens on lands upon which taxes remain delinquent shall commence on or before the second Monday in December of each year.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

Tax deed void if based on sale held later than time designated. A tax deed based on a sale held later than the time designated in this section where there is no explanation for the delay is void. Kingore v. Wallace, 85 Colo. 381, 276 P. 332 (1929); Ireland v. Gunnison Mt. Coal & Coke Co., 87 Colo. 193, 286 P. 280 (1930); Hochmuth v. Norton, 90 Colo. 453, 9 P.2d 1060

(1932); Sierra Mining Co. v. Lucero, 118 Colo. 180, 194 P.2d 302 (1948).

A deed that is otherwise void may be reformed in some circumstances. Where the tax sale was lawfully conducted, the deed was duly recorded, and the deed contained only a technical defect, equity permits the reformation of the deed based on extrinsic evidence on the validity of the underlying tax sale. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Timroth, 87 P.3d 102 (Colo. 2004).

39-11-110. When public auction can be held. If, from any cause, the tax lien on real property cannot be duly advertised and offered for sale at public auction on or before the second Monday of December, it is the duty of the treasurer to hold the public auction on any subsequent day in which it can be held, allowing time for the publication of notice as provided in section 39-11-102.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

Intent of section to save late tax sales. This section is intended to save from invalidity a tax sale made after the second Monday in December where it is impossible to commence the sale on that day. City & County of Denver v. Bach, 92 Colo. 594, 22 P.2d 1114 (1933).

If a deed shows reason for delayed sale, it is not void. Where a tax deed shows on its face that the sale was held on a day subsequent to that designated by § 39-11-109, without a recital of any cause for the delay such as would authorize a sale on the subsequent day, the deed shows its falsity; but the deed is not void where it contains a recital of sufficient cause for the delay. Richardson v. Halbekann, 97 Colo. 175, 48 P.2d 1014 (1935).

A deed that does not recite the cause for the delay may be reformed through the use of extrinsic evidence in some circumstances. Where the tax sale was lawfully conducted, the deed was duly recorded, and the deed contained only a technical defect, equity permits the reformation of the deed based on extrinsic evidence on the validity of the underlying tax sale. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Timroth, 87 P.3d 102 (Colo. 2004).

39-11-111. Method of payment. When the treasurer sells any tax lien on any lands or lots for delinquent taxes, the treasurer may accept payment of the purchase price in the form of cash, negotiable paper, or electronic funds transfer, subject to the treasurer's bidding rules.

ANNOTATION

Part payment with bonds and warrants. A purchaser at a tax sale of lands included within an irrigation district may pay in part with bonds and warrants of the district under the provisions of § 37-41-109. Tew v. Phillips, 73 Colo. 408, 216 P. 525 (1923) (decided under former law).

39-11-112. Erroneous name or assessment in wrong county - effect. (1) When tax liens on any lands or town lots are offered for sale for any delinquent taxes, it shall not be necessary to sell the same as the property of any person. No sale of any tax lien on any land or town lots for delinquent taxes shall be considered invalid because charged on the roll in any other name than that of the rightful owner, or charged as unknown; but the tax lien and such land or lots in other respects shall be sufficiently described on the tax roll to identify the same, and the taxes for such land or lots shall be due and unpaid at the time of such sale.

(2) When any land lying in one county is erroneously taxed and a tax lien on such land is sold for delinquent taxes in another county, the county so erroneously taxing and selling a tax lien on such land for delinquent taxes shall be liable to the owner of such land for any expense or damage caused to such owner by such erroneous sale.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. The following annotations include a case decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

Description must enable purchaser to know what is for sale. The assessment is made with a view to a possible sale, and the property should, therefore, be so described as to enable the owner to know what land is charged with the tax, and also to enable a possible purchaser to know what land is offered for sale. Hence the description should be sufficient in itself to identify the land or, if reference to a map on record is required, that should be indicated in the assessment. Stough v. Reeves, 42 Colo. 432, 95 P. 958 (1908).

Description by block number without a map is insufficient. The description of a parcel of land, in connection with tax sales, as a portion of an entire larger tract simply by number and block, without any reference to a map, is not sufficient prima facie evidence to identify the portion assessed. Stough v. Reeves, 42 Colo. 432, 95 P. 958 (1908).

39-11-113. Abbreviations, letters, and figures may be used. In all advertisements for the sale of tax liens on real property for delinquent taxes and in entries required to be made by the assessor, county clerk and recorder, treasurer, or other officers in lists, books, rolls, certificates, receipts, deeds, or notices, letters, figures, and abbreviations may be used to denote townships, ranges, sections, parts of sections, lots, blocks, dates and amounts of taxes, delinquent interest, and costs.

39-11-114. Record of sales of tax liens on real estate and mobile homes. (1) The treasurer shall make a correct record of all sales of tax liens on real estate for delinquent taxes in a well-bound book or other permanent record to be kept by the treasurer for that purpose. Said book shall contain:

- (a) The date of sale;
- (b) The description of each tract of land or town lot for which a tax lien is sold;

- (c) The name of the owner thereof, if known;
- (d) The name of the purchaser;
- (e) The total amount of taxes, delinquent interest, and costs at time of sale;
- (f) Columns for amount of subsequent taxes paid by the purchaser and the date of payment;
- (g) To whom assigned and the date of assignment;
- (h) The name of person redeeming and date of redemption;
- (i) The total amount paid for redemption;
- (j) The name of person to whom conveyed and date of deed.

(2) The treasurer shall also note in the tax list, opposite the description of the property for which a tax lien is sold, the fact and date of such sale.

(3) (a) Upon recordation of the tax sale, the treasurer shall also make a separate list of all mobile homes for which tax liens are sold at the sale and file such list with the department of revenue. Such list shall include the mobile home's identification number, year and make, parcel number, and all pertinent tax sale information. For maintaining this recorded tax sale information on mobile homes, the executive director of the department of revenue may impose a fee of five dollars which shall become part of the mobile home tax sale redemption cost.

(b) Notwithstanding the amount specified for the fee in this section, the executive director of the department of revenue by rule or as otherwise provided by law may reduce the amount of the fee if necessary pursuant to section 24-75-402 (3), C.R.S., to reduce the uncommitted reserves of the fund to which all or any portion of the fee is credited. After the uncommitted reserves of the fund are sufficiently reduced, the executive director by rule or as otherwise provided by law may increase the amount of the fee as provided in section 24-75-402 (4), C.R.S.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. The following annotations include a case decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

Record is best evidence of facts contained in it. The tax sale record, being one required by law to be kept by the treasurer, is not only competent, but the best evidence of the facts required to be stated therein, including the date of sale. Knowles v. Martin, 20 Colo. 393, 38 P. 467 (1894); Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Lanning, 49 Colo. 458, 113 P. 491 (1911); Mulqueen v. Lanning, 53 Colo. 146, 124 P. 577 (1912).

39-11-115. To whom tax lien shall be sold. (1) When the taxes levied for the preceding year or years on any lands remain unpaid, the tax liens on such lands offered at public auction at the times provided by law shall be sold to the persons who pay therefor the taxes, delinquent interest, and fees then due thereon or who further pay the largest amount in excess of said taxes, delinquent interest, and fees. The excess amount shall be credited to the county general fund. Each tax lien shall be sold for an entire piece of property. The taxes, delinquent interest, and fees shall draw interest at the rates fixed by law, and, when the tax liens on any lands are bid in by the county, city, town, or city and county, the amount for which they are bid in shall draw interest at the same rates. Real property for which a tax lien is sold may be redeemed in the manner provided by law.

(2) In order that the public auction may be conducted in an efficient and equitable manner, the treasurer is hereby granted broad powers to set bidding rules governing the public auction. Such powers shall include, but need not be limited to, the following:

(a) Recognition of buyers in numerical sequence, in rotation, or in the order in which bids are made;

(b) Determining the order in which tax liens are sold, without regard to the order in which they appear in the published notice of sale;

(c) Setting minimum bid increases; and

(d) Setting a minimum total of taxes, delinquent interest, and costs below which competitive bids will not be accepted.

(3) The treasurer may combine and sell as a unit parcels which are contiguous or are contained within one subdivision.

(4) The treasurer shall announce bidding rules at the beginning of the public auction, and the rules announced shall apply to all bidders throughout the public auction. If the public auction is conducted by means of the internet or other electronic medium, the treasurer shall cause the internet bidding rules to be posted on the medium for at least two weeks before the date of sale. The internet bidding rules posted shall apply to all bidders throughout the public auction.

L. 87: Entire section amended, p. 1422, § 1, effective May 8. L. 92: (1) and (2)(d) amended, p. 2231, § 21, effective April 9. L. 2005: (1), IP(2), and (4) amended, p. 1237, § 9, effective June 3.

39-11-116. Procedure when purchaser fails to pay. If a person bidding fails to pay the amount due, the treasurer may again offer the tax lien on such land for sale if the public auction has not closed, and, if it has closed, the treasurer may again advertise it specially in the same manner as in the original advertisement and for not less than one week, after which the treasurer may again offer and sell the tax liens on such lands or lots as provided in section 39-11-115; or at the treasurer's option, the treasurer may recover the amount bid by civil action brought in the name of the county in any court of competent jurisdiction. In a public auction conducted by means of the internet or other electronic medium, if a person bidding fails to pay the amount due, the treasurer may offer the tax lien, without additional advertisement, to another bidder, whether or not the public auction has closed; or at the treasurer's option, the treasurer may recover the amount bid by civil action brought in the name of the county in any court of competent jurisdiction. The treasurer may prohibit a person who fails to pay the amount due from bidding on sales under this article for up to five years.

39-11-117. Certificate of purchase. The treasurer shall prepare, sign, and retain for safekeeping or deliver to the purchaser of a tax lien on any real property sold for the payment of delinquent taxes a certificate of purchase describing the property on which the taxes and fees were paid by the purchaser, as the same was described in the record of sales, and also stating the rate of interest and the total amount of all taxes, delinquent interest, and fees on each tract or lot for which the tax lien was sold, as described in the record of sales, and that payment thereof has been made, with columns for subsequent taxes. For each certificate so delivered, the purchaser shall pay a fee to the treasurer as provided in section 30-1-102, C.R.S.

County treasurer is entitled to fee for issuing certificate of purchase. Sherman v. Greeley Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 66 Colo. 288, 181 P. 975 (1919).

Fee becomes property of collecting officer. A fee which is provided for a specified public service presumably becomes the property of the officer authorized to collect it, subject to the power of the proper public authority to limit the amount retainable by the officer to a certain sum. Moffat Tunnel Imp. Dist. v. McGuire, 103 Colo. 539, 87 P.2d 753 (1939).

39-11-118. Certificate of purchase assignable. Such certificate of purchase shall be assignable by endorsement, and an assignment thereof, when entered upon the record of sales in the offices of the county clerk and recorder and the treasurer, shall vest in the assignee or his legal representative all the right and title of the original purchaser.

Annotator's note. The following annotations include a case decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

Assignee becomes lawful holder of certificate even if assignment not recorded. The assignee of a certificate of purchase, who in good faith and for a valuable consideration purchases the interest of his assignor and receives from him the certificate bearing his indorsement, with the intent of transferring to the assignee the right and title represented thereby, would become the lawful holder of the certificate of sale, even though the assignment was not recorded as provided in this section. White Cap Mining Co. v. Resurrection Mining Co., 115 Colo. 396, 174 P.2d 727 (1946).

Assignment of certificate carries rights of original purchaser. The assignment of a tax sale certificate carries with it and vests in the assignee all the rights of the original purchaser. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Whelen, 28 Colo. 435, 65 P. 38 (1901).

39-11-119. Subsequent payment by holder. Any person desiring to pay any subsequent taxes on any lands or town lots for which such person holds the tax certificates shall produce such certificates to the treasurer, or, if certificates are retained by the treasurer, the person shall be notified by the treasurer of the amount due. Upon receipt of payment, the treasurer shall record the amount of the subsequent tax and the date of payment on the permanent record. The treasurer may receive a fee for such services, as provided in section 30-1-102 (1) (j), C.R.S.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. The following annotations include a case decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

Payment of subsequent taxes is permissive, not mandatory. This section provides for the payment of subsequent taxes by the holder of a tax certificate, and it clearly appears that the right to pay subsequent taxes is permissive, not mandatory. Bennett v. Shotwell, 118 Colo. 206, 194 P.2d 335 (1948).

Payment of subsequent taxes on land in irrigation district. One holding a tax purchase certificate for lands in an irrigation district is entitled to pay subsequent taxes with interest coupons of the district maturing in a year for which the tax is levied. Orchard Mesa Farms Co. v. Canon, 61 Colo. 347, 157 P. 192 (1916).

39-11-120. Presentation of certificates for deed. (1) At any time after the expiration of the term of three years from the date of the sale of any tax lien on any land, or interest therein or improvements thereon, for delinquent taxes, on demand of the purchaser or lawful holder of the certificate of such tax lien, other than the county wherein such property is situated, and on presentation of such certificate of purchase or properly authenticated order of the board of county commissioners, where the certificate has been lost or wrongfully withheld from the owner, and upon proof of compliance with section 39-11-128, the treasurer shall make out a deed for each such lot, parcel, interest, or improvement for which a tax lien was sold and which remains unredeemed and deliver the same to such purchaser or lawful holder of such certificate or order.

(2) The treasurer shall be entitled to a fee for each such deed made and acknowledged by him and a fee for the acknowledgment thereof, as provided in section 30-1-102, C.R.S.

(3) Whenever any certificate given by the treasurer for a tax lien on any land, interest, or improvement sold for delinquent taxes is lost or wrongfully withheld from the rightful owner thereof and such land, interest, or improvement has not been redeemed, the board of county commissioners may receive evidence of such loss or wrongful detention and, upon satisfactory proof of such fact, may cause a certificate of such proof and finding, properly attested by the county clerk and recorder under the seal of the county, to be delivered to such rightful claimant, and a record thereof shall be duly made by the county clerk and recorder in the recorded proceedings of such board.

(4) Whenever any tax lien on any lot or parcel of land, interest therein, or improvement thereon is bid in by or for the county, city, town, or city and county at any tax sale, and a certificate of purchase is made to such county, city, town, or city and county therefor, the treasurer of such county, city, town, or city and county may sell, assign, and deliver any such certificate to any person who desires to purchase the same upon payment to the treasurer of the amount for which said tax lien was bid in by the county, city, town, or city and county with interest and costs accrued thereon from the date of sale, together with a fee for making such assignment, as provided in section 30-1-102, C.R.S., and the taxes assessed thereon since the date of such sale or, in case of a county, city, town, or city and county, for such sum as the board of county commissioners or other board authorized to perform the duties of a board of county commissioners at any regular or special meeting may decide and authorize by order duly entered in the recorded proceedings of such board. Whenever any tax lien on any lot or parcel of land, interest therein, or improvement thereon is bid in by or for a city, town, or city and county, as the case may be, such city, town, or city and county shall be entitled to a deed, as provided for purchasers at tax sales.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Law reviews. For article, "Property Law", see 32 Dicta 420 (1955). For article, "Delinquent Oil and Gas Ad Valorem Taxes: Protecting Property Interests", see 16 Colo. Law. 798 (1987).

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

Purchaser has right to demand deed any time after three years from sale. Pelton v. Muntzing, 24 Colo. App. 1, 131 P. 281 (1913).

Purchaser may set process in motion before expiration of time. A purchaser at a tax sale may set into motion the machinery to obtain a deed before the end of the 3-year period of redemption although the tax deed may not properly be issued until the expiration of the time fixed. Knutson v. Dickson, 105 Colo. 42, 94 P.2d 691 (1939).

Subsequently assessed taxes must be paid prior to issuance of deed. One who purchases a tax purchase certificate is not entitled to a deed until he has paid all taxes subsequently assessed upon the lands. Schneider v. Hurt, 25 Colo. App. 335, 138 P. 422 (1914), aff'd, 61 Colo. 104, 156 P. 600 (1916); Henrie v. Greenlees, 71 Colo. 528, 208 P. 468 (1922).

Single tender for more than one certificate permitted. A single tender to the county by the purchaser is sufficient, even though the transaction covers several certificates, on several parcels of land, issued pursuant to sales in different years. Lackey v. Killey, 80 Colo. 408, 252 P. 351 (1927).

Tax deed may convey more than one tract of land, whether they are contiguous or noncontiguous. Johnson v. Cork, 106 Colo. 72, 102 P.2d 471 (1940).

Recordation of assignment is unnecessary to deed's validity. Recording the assignment of a tax sale certificate is not a necessary prerequisite to the validity of the deed issued thereon. White Cap Mining Co. v. Resurrection Mining Co., 115 Colo. 396, 174 P.2d 727 (1946).

Tax lien extinguished by issuance of deed from subsequent sale. A tax lien held by virtue of a certificate issued as result of sale is extinguished by the issuance of a tax deed by the county on a subsequent sale. Benedict v. Coriolanus Corp., 30 Colo. App. 306, 491 P.2d 985 (1971).

Issuance of subsequent corrective tax deed authorized. The county treasurer has authority to issue a second tax deed, for the purpose of correcting a former defective deed, at any time before redemption, and, if he refuses to do so, mandamus will lie to compel him. Duggan v. McCullough, 27 Colo. 43, 59 P. 743 (1899).

Speculation in tax certificates allowed. One has the right to speculate in tax certificates if one complies with the law concerning their purchase and assignment. Lackey v. Killey, 80 Colo. 408, 252 P. 351 (1927).

Interplay of this section and § 39-11-122. Subsection (4) authorizes the county treasurer to sell any tax certificate for full value without requiring any action by the county commissioners. Only if the amount to be received is less than such full amount does an order by the commissioners become necessary, in which case § 39-11-122 applies. RTV, L.L.C. v. Grandote Int'l Ltd., 937 P.2d 768 (Colo. App. 1996).

Applied in Bottom v. Young, 52 Colo. 533, 125 P. 500 (1912); Vandermeulen v. Burwell, 22 Colo. App. 486, 125 P. 131 (1912); Fishel v. City & County of Denver, 105 Colo. 120, 95 P.2d 1 (1939); Swofford v. Colo. Nat'l Bank, 628 P.2d 184 (Colo. App. 1981).

II. ASSIGNMENT BY THE COUNTY.

This section does not contemplate the issuance of a deed to the county. Hecox v. Teller County, 198 F. 634 (8th Cir. 1912); Bennett v. Shotwell, 118 Colo. 206, 194 P.2d 335 (1948).

There is no limitation on time within which assignment may be made, provided that the assignment of the certificate by the treasurer and board of county commissioners is after the expiration of three years from the date of the certificate. Lovelace v. Tabor Mines & Mills Co., 29 Colo. 62, 66 P. 892 (1901).

Board cannot make actual assignment. While this section confers upon the board of county commissioners the authority to determine the sum at which the certificate may be sold, it does not further extend the authority of the board but leaves the duty of making the assignment in the hands of the county treasurer. Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Neikirk, 23 Colo. App. 392, 128 P. 468 (1913).

Board has no power to prefer customers. In fixing a sum less than the face value at which tax certificates may be assigned, the board of county commissioners has no power to prefer purchasers. Radetsky v. Palmer, 70 Colo. 146, 199 P. 490 (1921).

Power of board of county commissioners is limited to fixing of price at which each certificate shall be sold and it neither extends to a bulk sale for a lump sum nor to the selection of a particular purchaser. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Utah-Colorado Land & Livestock Co., 101 Colo. 372, 73 P.2d 987 (1937).

Owner of land sold for taxes not entitled to notice of assignment. The rights of an owner of land sold for taxes cannot be affected by mandamus to compel assignment of the certificate of purchase by the county, and there is no reason for giving him notice of such an assignment. Lackey v. Killey, 80 Colo. 408, 252 P. 351 (1927).

39-11-121. Municipalities, prior sales validated. All sales of such certificates made by any treasurer or ex officio treasurer of any city, town, or city and county, antecedent to or without the passage of any ordinance prescribing the terms of such sales, are hereby approved, affirmed, ratified, and validated as of their respective dates.

39-11-122. Transfer of certificates by counties. Any county in this state having in its possession or under its control certificates of purchase resulting from the sale of a tax lien on land for the nonpayment of general taxes may assign, sell, or transfer such certificates in such manner, at such times, and on such terms as may be determined by resolution of the board of county commissioners of such county. Thereafter such county shall execute and deliver such instruments as may be necessary fully to convey all of the right, title, and interest of the county in or to such certificates; but no sale of any certificate of purchase issued upon any real estate upon which taxes in excess of ten thousand dollars are then due shall be valid unless and until the sale of said certificate and the terms of said sale are approved by the administrator after notice of said proposed sale and the terms thereof have been published in at least one issue of a newspaper published regularly in the county where said real estate is located, or if no newspaper is published in said county, then by posting notice of said proposed sale and the terms thereof at the county courthouse and two other public places in said county.

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

Constitutionality. This section does not violate the provisions of § 24 of art. V, Colo. Const., relating to amendments to laws by reference to title only. District Landowners Trust v. Adams County, 104 Colo. 146, 89 P.2d 251 (1939).

Purpose of section. To make the authority of the board of county commissioners more definite and certain, and to clarify their position with reference to tax sale certificates, the general assembly enacted this section. Bennett v. Shotwell, 118 Colo. 206, 194 P.2d 335 (1948).

Object of sale is to collect revenue. While the purpose of the law in divesting the estate of a landowner, upon sale for delinquent taxes, is to coerce the negligent and unwilling citizen to obey the law by payment of his taxes, the sole object of the state in making the sale is to collect its revenue. Knutson v. Dickson, 105 Colo. 42, 94 P.2d 691 (1939).

Recordation of assignment unnecessary. It is not necessary that the assignment of the certificates of purchase be entered upon the records of sale in the office of the county clerk in order to vest complete title thereto in the assignee. White Cap Mining Co. v. Resurrection Mining Co., 115 Colo. 396, 174 P.2d 727 (1946).

No inconsistency or repugnancy exists between this section and § 39-11-120, pertaining to the disposition of certificates held by the county when taxes thereon are tendered in full; therefore, there is no repeal by either direction or implication. Knutson v. Dickson, 105 Colo. 42, 94 P.2d 691 (1939); RTV, L.L.C. v. Grandote Int'l Ltd., 937 P.2d 768 (Colo. App. 1996).

Interplay of this section and § 39-11-120. Section 39-11-120 (4) authorizes the county treasurer to sell any tax certificate for full value without requiring any action by the county commissioners. Only if the amount to be received is less than such full amount does an order by the commissioners become necessary, in which case this section applies. RTV, L.L.C. v. Grandote Int'l Ltd., 937 P.2d 768 (Colo. App. 1996).

Board may name individual purchaser. Under this section, a resolution of a board of county commissioners authorizing the sale of a certificate to a named individual, and not to the first person offering to pay the amount fixed by the board, is valid. White Cap Mining Co. v. Resurrection Mining Co., 115 Colo. 396, 174 P.2d 727 (1946).

The board has the power to fix the price at which individual tax sale certificates of purchase held by the county may be assigned by the treasurer. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Utah-Colorado Land & Livestock Co., 101 Colo. 372, 73 P.2d 987 (1937).

Applied in McMillan v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 113 Colo. 387, 157 P.2d 146 (1945).

39-11-123. Transfer of certificates - irrigation or drainage district taxes. Any county in this state having in its possession or under its control certificates of purchase resulting from the sale of a tax lien on land for the nonpayment of irrigation or drainage district taxes or assessments, by agreement with the board of directors of the district involved, may assign, sell, or transfer such certificates as provided in section 39-11-122.

39-11-125. Disposal of certificates by districts. 39-11-128. Condition precedent to deed - notice. (1) Before any purchaser, or assignee of such purchaser, of a tax lien on any land, town or city lot, or mining claim sold for taxes or special assessments due either to the state or any county or incorporated town or city within the same at any sale of tax liens for delinquent taxes levied or assessments authorized by law is entitled to a deed for the land, lot, or claim so purchased, he shall make request upon the treasurer, who shall then comply with the following:

(a) The treasurer shall serve or cause to be served, by personal service or by either registered or certified mail, a notice of such purchase on every person in actual possession or occupancy of such land, lot, or claim, and also on the person in whose name the same was taxed or specially assessed if, upon diligent inquiry, such person can be found in the county or if his residence outside the county is known, and upon all persons having an interest or title of record in or to the same if, upon diligent inquiry, the residence of such persons can be determined, not more than five months nor less than three months before the time of issuance of such deed. In such notice the treasurer shall state when the applicant or his assignor purchased the tax lien on such land, lot, or claim, in whose name such property was taxed, the description of the land, lot, or claim for which a tax lien was purchased, for what year taxed or specially assessed, and when the time of redemption will expire or when the tax deed shall be issued.

(b) In all cases or instances where the valuation for assessment of the property is five hundred dollars or more, the treasurer shall publish such notice, three times, at intervals of one week, in some daily, weekly, or semiweekly newspaper published in such county, not more than five months nor less than three months before the time at which the tax deed may issue, and he shall send by registered or certified mail a copy of such notice to each person not found to be served whose address is known or can be determined upon diligent inquiry. If no such newspaper is published in the county, then said notice shall be published in the newspaper that is published in Colorado nearest the county seat of the county in which such land, lot, or claim is situated. The purchaser or assignee, at the time of making such request for notification on the treasurer, shall pay to the treasurer a fee, as provided in section 30-1-102, C.R.S. The treasurer shall make and carefully preserve among the files of his office a record of all things done in compliance with this section and shall certify to the same.

(2) When request is made for a tax deed to lands situated wholly within the exterior boundary lines of an irrigation district, the holder of tax sale certificates of purchase to such lands may include in one request or demand for a tax deed all contiguous tracts for which he holds such certificates of purchase. When all of such lands for which a tax deed is so requested or demanded are unoccupied and no taxes have been paid thereon, or upon any parcel of such lands embraced in such request or demand, for five consecutive years prior to the making of such request or demand, the only notice which the treasurer shall be required to give of the fact that a request or demand for tax deed has been made upon him shall be a notice of publication as provided in this section, in which as many tracts or parcels of land shall be described as are embraced in any one demand or request for deed.

Espinosa appearing below, see 25 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 101 (1952). For article, "Delinquent Oil and Gas Ad Valorem Taxes: Protecting Property Interests", see 16 Colo. Law. 798 (1987).

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

The evident purpose of this section and § 39-5-104 is to forbid the issuance of a deed where the property is of substantial value, without giving notice to those interested, and particularly to one having the right of redemption. Bogue v. Miles, 107 Colo. 320, 111 P.2d 1055 (1941); Swofford v. Colo. Nat'l Bank, 628 P.2d 184 (Colo. App. 1981).

The requirements of this section are jurisdictional. Sheesley v. Voorhees, 24 Colo. App. 428, 134 P. 1008 (1913); Brown v. Davis, 103 Colo. 110, 83 P.2d 326 (1938); Siler v. Inv. Sec. Co., 125 Colo. 438, 244 P.2d 877 (1952); Concord Corp. v. Huff, 144 Colo. 72, 355 P.2d 73 (1960); Turkey Creek, LLC v. Rosania, 953 P.2d 1306 (Colo. App. 1998).

There must be full compliance with statutory requirements relating to notice of application for issuance of a treasurer's deed, and, if a noncompliance with any such statutory direction is shown, the treasurer's deed will be adjudged invalid. Siler v. Inv. Sec. Co., 125 Colo. 438, 244 P.2d 877 (1952); Concord Corp. v. Huff, 144 Colo. 72, 355 P.2d 73 (1960).

Tax deed is invalid absent full compliance of statutory requirements relating to the issuance of the deed. Siddoway v. Ainge, 34 Colo. App. 210, 526 P.2d 669 (1974), aff'd, 189 Colo. 173, 538 P.2d 110 (1975).

Satisfaction of requirements question of fact. The determination of whether each requirement of this section relating to issuance of tax deeds by county treasurers has been sufficiently satisfied is a question for the trier of fact. Siddoway v. Ainge, 189 Colo. 173, 538 P.2d 110 (1975); Turkey Creek, LLC v. Rosania, 953 P.2d 1306 (Colo. App. 1998).

Deed, although proper, is not evidence of acts necessary. Even though the deed be conceded to be fair on its face so as to make it prima facie evidence of facts occurring before or at the time of the sale, it constitutes no evidence of the acts which the cash purchaser is required to perform, or the treasurer for him, after the sale and before a deed can be lawfully executed. Sheesley v. Voorhees, 24 Colo. App. 428, 134 P. 1008 (1913).

Written request for unsigned tax deed immaterial. It is immaterial that a written request for a tax deed is unsigned where demand for the deed was actually made on the treasurer. Sanderford v. Walker Inv. Co., 84 Colo. 203, 269 P. 14 (1928).

Treasurer may issue a correction deed. Where there was some mistake of the county treasurer which made a former deed irregular or defective, a correction deed should be issued. White Cap Mining Co. v. Resurrection Mining Co., 115 Colo. 396, 174 P.2d 727 (1946).

Applied in Johnson v. Cork, 106 Colo. 72, 102 P.2d 471 (1940); Lake Canal Reservoir Co. v. Beeche, 227 P.3d 882 (Colo. 2010).

II. NOTICE.

A. In General.

No tax deed may be issued until notice is given. Notice to all persons having an interest or title of record to land sold for taxes is a prerequisite to the issuance of a tax deed therefor. French v. Golston, 105 Colo. 578, 100 P.2d 581 (1940).

Parties claiming tax title must prove notice. It is incumbent upon the parties claiming title under a tax deed to prove either that the statutory notice was given or that the assessed valuation rendered it unnecessary to give such notice before the deed would be admissible in evidence. Jackson v. Larson, 24 Colo. App. 548, 136 P. 81 (1913).

Title void. Under this section, proof of notice is necessary, and the notice must state the truth, failing in which, the deed will be void. Young v. Rohan, 77 Colo. 70, 234 P. 694 (1925); Staples v. Todd, 108 Colo. 386, 117 P.2d 1005 (1941); Tewell v. Galbraith, 119 Colo. 412, 205 P.2d 229 (1949).

Tax deed not void for issuance after date in notice. A tax deed is not void for the reason that it is executed and issued after the date fixed by the notice for issuance of the treasurer's deed. Mitchell v. Espinosa, 125 Colo. 267, 243 P.2d 412 (1952).

For when notice is false and defective, see Bottom v. Young, 52 Colo. 533, 125 P. 500 (1912); Flader v. Campbell, 120 Colo. 66, 207 P.2d 1188 (1949).

Where party contesting issuance of tax deed had actual notice and the opportunity to redeem the tax certificates prior to the tax deeds being issued and did not avail himself of such opportunity, such party has not demonstrated any injury to his right to notice under this section. Turkey Creek, LLC v. Rosania, 953 P.2d 1306 (Colo. App. 1998).

Despite alleged defects and the failure to follow strictly the publication requirements, party contesting the issuance of tax deeds lacks standing to contest the validity of the tax deeds under either paragraph (a) or (b) of subsection (1). Turkey Creek, LLC v. Rosania, 953 P.2d 1306 (Colo. App. 1998).

B. Service.

Treasurer's duty to serve notice. This section makes it the duty of the treasurer to serve the notice or cause it to be served. Richardson v. Halbekann, 97 Colo. 175, 48 P.2d 1014 (1935).

This section contemplates that service is complete when the county treasurer registers and deposits in the United States mails the statutory notice directed to the proper postoffice address of the party to be notified. Ford v. Genereux, 104 Colo. 17, 87 P.2d 749 (1939).

Publication required only when actual notice not possible. The evident intent of the general assembly was to require publication only in the event that actual notice cannot be given to the owner and to persons having an interest of record in the land. Henrie v. Greenlees, 71 Colo. 528, 208 P. 468 (1922).

Notice by publication was sufficient where the record interest holder's correct address was not available in the county records. Schmidt v. Langel, 874 P.2d 447 (Colo. App. 1993).

Service on general partner imputes notice to the limited partners. Because the general partner had authority to act for the limited partnership and received appropriate notice of the sale and application for deed, the general partner's notice and knowledge are imputed to each limited partner. BMS P'ship v. Winter Park Devil's Thumb Inv. Co., 910 P.2d 61 (Colo. App. 1995), aff'd on other grounds, 926 P.2d 1253 (Colo. 1996).

Limited partner not entitled to notice of time for issuance of tax deed because limited partner does not own an interest in real property owned by the limited partnership. Winter Park Devil's Thumb Inv. Co. v. BMS P'ship, 926 P.2d 1253 (Colo. 1996).

A tenant occupying the premises must be served with notice, and service on the record owner, without service on the tenant in possession, is not a compliance with subsection (1)(a). Brown v. Davis, 103 Colo. 110, 83 P.2d 326 (1938); Taylor v. Lutin, 106 Colo. 170, 102 P.2d 484 (1940).

"Persons having an interest or title of record". "Persons having an interest or title of record", referred to in subsection (1)(a), is equivalent to "record owners", and that language is held to exclude even holders of known but unrecorded contracts of sale. Godfrít v. Judd, 116 Colo. 489, 182 P.2d 907 (1947).

Failure to serve notice to record owner invalidates deed. Where a diligent inquiry of the records of the clerk and recorder of the county by the treasurer or by the purchaser under a treasurer's deed would have disclosed that a bank had an interest of record in the property and, since the bank was entitled to be served with notice by the treasurer under this section, where the bank did not receive such notice, the treasurer's deed was invalid. Swofford v. Colo. Nat'l Bank, 628 P.2d 184 (Colo. App. 1981).

The original beneficiaries of a note and deed of trust secured by real property, who subsequently transferred the note and deed to a bank as security for indebtedness by an agreement purporting to assign all right, title, and interest in the deed, did not retain an interest in the real property sufficient to warrant notice of pending issuance of a treasurer's deed. Columbus Invs. v. Lewis, 48 P.3d 1222 (Colo. 2002).

Section does not contemplate service on wife. The requirement of subsection (1)(a) that the county treasurer shall serve "notice of such purchase" on every person in actual possession of the land does not necessitate service on a wife living with her husband and occupying the premises involved. Ford v. Genereux, 104 Colo. 17, 87 P.2d 749 (1939).

This section directs the treasurer to make diligent inquiry to learn the address of the record owner and serve notice upon him at that address if it can be learned. Bald Eagle Mining & Ref. Co. v. Brunton, 165 Colo. 28, 437 P.2d 59 (1968).

This section imposes a duty of diligent inquiry upon the county treasurer. Siddoway v. Ainge, 34 Colo. App. 210, 526 P.2d 669 (1974), aff'd, 189 Colo. 173, 538 P.2d 110 (1975).

Treasurer held to have not acted with diligence in failing to determine address of record owners prior to issuing a tax deed. Parkinson v. Burley, 667 P.2d 780 (Colo. App. 1983).

Deed is void absent diligent inquiry. Where, upon application to a county treasurer for issuance of a treasurer's deed, no "diligent inquiry", required by subsection (1)(a), is made by that official to ascertain the address of the person in whose name the property sold for taxes was taxed, and such "diligent inquiry" would have disclosed the correct address of the owner, and where no notice of application for the tax deed was served upon or received by the owner because of the failure of the official to make "diligent inquiry", and where no statute of limitations is involved, the treasurer's deed will be voided upon the complaint of the owner who thus was deprived of notice concerning the application for issuance of the treasurer's deed. Siler v. Inv. Sec. Co., 125 Colo. 438, 244 P.2d 877 (1952); Witte myer v. Cole, 689 P.2d 720 (Colo. App. 1984).

Diligent inquiry not extended to matters unrelated to subject property. The requirement of diligent inquiry by the treasurer to determine the proper address of record owner of property subject to tax sale does not extend to a search of the treasurer's files for miscellaneous correspondence between the treasurer and owner in matters unrelated to the subject property. Siddoway v. Ainge, 34 Colo. App. 210, 526 P.2d 669 (1974), aff'd, 189 Colo. 173, 538 P.2d 110 (1975).

Treasurer need not check records of secretary of state to be diligent. To constitute diligent inquiry upon the part of the county treasurer, he was not obliged to go to the records in the office of the secretary of state to ascertain the address of the corporation in whose name the property was taxed or its officers. White Cap Mining Co. v. Resurrection Mining Co., 115 Colo. 396, 174 P.2d 727 (1946).

Failure of record owner to report change of address irrelevant. Failure of the record owner to advise the county assessor's office regarding his change of address is not relevant in determining whether county treasurer complied with his duty under this statute to make a diligent inquiry. Siddoway v. Ainge, 34 Colo. App. 210, 526 P.2d 669 (1974), aff'd, 189 Colo. 173, 538 P.2d 110 (1975).

Treasurer cannot be required to search for current address. The county treasurer cannot be held to a standard requiring him to be familiar with the current addresses of delinquent property tax payers, or to search his correspondence files to ascertain such current addresses, especially where the treasurer was not put on notice that the address in his records was incorrect. Siddoway v. Ainge, 189 Colo. 173, 538 P.2d 110 (1975).

Treasurer cannot blindly rely on assessor's rolls for correct address. Blind reliance on erroneous assessor's rolls, when the correct address was easily available to the treasurer, does not satisfy the diligence requirements of subsection (1)(a), nor does it permit forfeiture of property when the owner of the property does not receive notice of the impending forfeiture because of the lack of diligent inquiry on the part of the treasurer. Bald Eagle Mining & Ref. Co. v. Brunton, 165 Colo. 28, 437 P.2d 59 (1968).

"Diligent inquiry" requires the county treasurer to inquire into information available within county records, but the county treasurer need not inquire into every possible source for the record interest holder's correct address. As a matter of law, the treasurer exercised due diligence by reexamining the county records for an alternative address when the original notice was returned. Schmidt v. Langel, 874 P.2d 447 (Colo. App. 1993).

For nonrecord owners who are not in possession, see DeCola v. Bochatey, 161 Colo. 95, 420 P.2d 395 (1966); Ponzio v. Arapahoe Inv. Enter., 161 Colo. 102, 420 P.2d 398 (1966).

39-11-129. Tax deed - issuance, execution, requirements. The words "issue", "issued", "execute", and "executed" when used in this article in connection with a treasurer's deed mean the signing of such a deed by the treasurer, and the delay in the acknowledgment of such a deed or the delivery thereof shall not in any way affect the validity of such deed. If the notice required in section 39-11-128 for a deed is prepared subsequent to three years after the date of sale of a tax lien for delinquent taxes, it shall not be necessary to make any statement in such notice concerning the time of expiration of the period of redemption. The treasurer may sign such treasurer's deed at any time after the time specified therefor in such notice if no redemption has then been made, if the signing of such deed is within five months from the service of said notice as required in section 39-11-128.

39-11-130. Fees included in redemption money. In case the treasurer is compelled to serve or to publish such notices in a newspaper, then before any person who may have a right to redeem such land or lot from such tax sale is permitted to redeem, he shall pay the officer or person who by law is authorized to receive such redemption money the entire amount paid by the applicant for a tax deed for such notices, for abstract and search fees, and for the cost of publishing such notices for the use of the person compelled to pay such charges. If the property therein described is redeemed before the expiration of the period of redemption named in such notice, the purchaser or his assigns shall recover, in addition to his interest and costs, the cost of such publication and the abstract and search fee.

39-11-131. Notice of application for deed. Any number of tracts or parcels of land not exceeding twenty-five, whether contiguous or noncontiguous, or whether claimed or held under one or more titles or ownerships, or whether included in an irrigation district or not so included, and although tax liens for such tracts or parcels of land were separately sold at the tax sale or covered by more than one tax sale certificate, may be included and described in one notice of application for tax deed provided for in section 39-11-128. Such tracts or parcels, not exceeding twenty-five in number, may also be included and described in a single request for tax deed if such notice and the service thereof and such request are in conformity with section 39-11-128 in other respects. The name of the person in whose name the land for which a tax lien was sold was taxed or specially assessed for the year for which the tax lien was sold shall be prominently displayed in said notice at or near the beginning thereof and near or with a reference to the number of the tax sale certificate and the description of the land involved, sufficient to enable identification of the land with the name of the person assessed if all certificates so sought to be included in a single notice or request are held by but one person, or jointly held by more than one person.

39-11-133. Suit to quiet title. Suit to quiet title or to try title may be maintained by the grantee or his successors for all or any one or more of the parcels or tracts acquired under tax deed issued pursuant to said notices and requests, and it shall not be a defense or ground of objection to such action that there is a misjoinder of parties or causes of action; but if a defense to such action or a counterclaim is interposed by a claimant to one or more of said parcels, less than all, then the action shall be tried as between the plaintiff and such claimant, separately from the suit as to other parties and other parcels.

39-11-134. Defects in tax deed, effect. Invalidities or defects in or concerning one or more tax deeds, titles, or certificates, or in proceedings relating thereto, shall have no effect on other deeds, titles, or certificates, and redemption from one or more sales shall be without effect as to other sales, titles, or certificates; and, in case of redemption from one or more sales, the treasurer shall compute and collect a fair proportion, as nearly as may be, of the costs, fees, and charges required by law to be paid on redemption from tax sales.

39-11-135. Form of tax deed. Deeds executed by the treasurer under the provisions of this article shall be substantially in the following form:

Know all men by these presents, that, whereas, the following described real property, viz: (description of property taxed), situated in the county of, and state of Colorado, was subject to taxation for the year (or years) A.D. 20....;

And, whereas, the taxes assessed upon said property for the year (or years) aforesaid remained due and unpaid at the date of the sale hereinafter named; and, whereas, the treasurer of the said county did, on the day of, A.D. 20...., by virtue of the authority vested in him by law, at the sale begun and publicly held on the day of, A.D. 20...., expose to public sale at the office of the treasurer, in the county aforesaid, in substantial conformity with the requirements of the statute in such case made and provided, the tax lien on the real property above described for the payment of the taxes, delinquent interest, and costs then due and remaining unpaid on said property;

And, whereas, at the time and place aforesaid, of the county of and of bid on the tax lien on all of the above described property the sum of dollars and cents, being the whole amount of taxes, delinquent interest, and costs then due and remaining unpaid upon said property for that year, and the said having offered in his said bid to pay the sum of dollars and cents in excess of said taxes, delinquent interest, and costs, and the said bid being the largest amount which any person offered to pay in excess of the said taxes, delinquent interest, and costs so due upon said property for that year (or those years), and payment of the said sum having been made by him to the said treasurer, the said tax lien on such property was stricken off to him at that price;

And, whereas, the said did, on the day of, A.D. 20...., duly assign the certificate of the sale of the tax lien on the property as aforesaid, and all his rights, title, and interest in said property, to of the county of, and of

And, whereas, at the sale so held as aforesaid by the treasurer, no bids were offered or made by any person or persons for the tax lien on said property, and no person or persons having offered to pay the said taxes, delinquent interest, and costs upon the said property for that year, and the treasurer having become satisfied that no sale of the tax lien on said property could be had, therefore the said tax lien on said property was, by the then treasurer of the said county, stricken off to the said county, and a certificate of sale was duly issued therefor to the said county in accordance with the statute in such case made and provided;

And, whereas, the said county, acting by and through its treasurer, and in conformity with the order of the board of county commissioners of the said county, duly entered of record on the day of, A.D. 20.... (the said day being one of the days of a regular session of the board of county commissioners of said county), did duly assign the certificate of sale of the tax lien on said property, so issued as aforesaid to said county, and all its rights, title, and interest in said property held by virtue of said sale;

And, whereas, the said (or) has paid subsequent taxes on said property to the amount of dollars and cents;

And, whereas, more than three years have elapsed since the date of the said sale, and the said property has not been redeemed therefrom as provided by law;

And, whereas, the said property was valued for assessment for that year at the amount of

And, whereas, all the provisions of the statutes prescribing prerequisites to obtaining tax deeds have been fully complied with, and are now of record, and filed in the office of the treasurer of said county;

Now, therefore, I,, treasurer of the county aforesaid, for and in consideration of the sum to the treasurer paid as aforesaid, and by virtue of the statute in such case made and provided, have granted, bargained, and sold, and by these presents do grant, bargain, and sell the above and foregoing described real estate unto the said (or), his heirs and assigns, forever, subject to all the rights of redemption by minors, or incompetent persons, as provided by law.

In witness whereof, I,, treasurer as aforesaid, by virtue of the authority aforesaid, have hereunto set my hand and seal this day of, A.D. 20....

ANNOTATION

- IV. Deed Conveying Several Tracts.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Law reviews. For note, "Tax Deeds in Colorado", see 18 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 393 (1946).

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

General assembly has the authority to prescribe a tax deed's form and requisites. Sayre v. Sage, 47 Colo. 559, 108 P. 160 (1910); Minter v. King, 27 Colo. App. 233, 148 P. 275 (1915).

Treasurer must comply with statutory provisions. A treasurer, in executing deeds, acts under a naked statutory power, and he must comply substantially with the applicable statutory provisions. The form of a treasurer's deed is a special one, and it will not be assumed that the general assembly intended to modify it in any way by subsequent statute, unless the intention to do so clearly appears. Colpitts v. Fastenau, 117 Colo. 594, 192 P.2d 524 (1948).

Treasurer's affidavit prerequisite to valid tax deed. An affidavit of the treasurer, in substantial compliance with § 39-11-103, is a prerequisite to a valid tax deed. Norris v. Kelsey, 23 Colo. App. 555, 130 P. 1088 (1913).

Tax deed must be according to form. In order to give color of title, the instrument of conveyance must at least be good in point of form, profess to convey the title, and be properly and duly executed. Dussart v. Abdo Mercantile Co., 57 Colo. 423, 140 P. 806 (1914).

The form of a deed prescribed for cash purchasers should be substantially followed as far as its terms are applicable to the county as a bidder, and it should be varied only so far as may be necessary to show the truth of the transaction in substance. Dyke v. Whyte, 17 Colo. 296, 29 P. 128 (1892).

Controlling date as to when deed becomes effective is the date of delivery. Sanderford v. Walker Inv. Co., 84 Colo. 203, 269 P. 14 (1928).

Applied in United States Sec. & Bond Co. v. Wolfe, 27 Colo. 218, 60 P. 637 (1900); Carnahan v. Sieber Cattle Co., 34 Colo. 257, 82 P. 592 (1905); Bryant v. Miller, 48 Colo. 192, 109 P. 959 (1910); Knoch v. County of Mesa, 159 Colo. 241, 411 P.2d 1 (1966).

II. NECESSARY RECITALS IN DEED.

No title acquired to improvements unless described in tax deed. Where tax deeds do not describe improvements or the land to which they are incident, the holders of the deeds acquire no title to such improvements. Smith v. Highland Mary Mining, Milling & Power Co., 82 Colo. 288, 259 P. 1025 (1927).

Deed containing proper recitals is prima facie evidence as to legal prerequisites. Richardson v. Halbekann, 97 Colo. 175, 48 P.2d 1014 (1935); Walter v. Harrison, 101 Colo. 14, 70 P.2d 335 (1937); White Cap Mining Co. v. Resurrection Mining Co., 115 Colo. 396, 174 P.2d 727 (1946); Grusing v. Parke, 120 Colo. 555, 212 P.2d 102 (1949).

The recitals in a tax deed must generally be taken as true in the absence of evidence to the contrary. Shaw v. Pioneer State Bank, 81 Colo. 528, 256 P. 636 (1927).

Statutory tax deed fair on face. A tax deed in statutory form, containing no affirmative recitals which state that the prerequisites to obtaining it have been complied with, is fair and not void on its face. North Am. Realty Co. v. Brady, 77 Colo. 56, 234 P. 1054 (1925).

Recitals in correcting deed prevail over former recitals. Positive affirmative recitals in a correcting tax deed must prevail over former recitals in an invalid first deed. Shaw v. Pioneer State Bank, 81 Colo. 528, 256 P. 636 (1927).

III. DEFECTS VOIDING DEED ON ITS FACE.

Deed showing that sale was in violation of a positive statute is void. Gomer v. Chaffee, 6 Colo. 314 (1882); Knowles v. Martin, 20 Colo. 393, 38 P. 467 (1894).

Deed showing incorrect location of sale is void. A deed which shows upon its face that the sale was held at a place other than that designated by statute is void. Crisman v. Johnson, 23 Colo. 264, 47 P. 296, 58 Am. St. R. 224 (1896).

Deed failing to state amount of subsequent taxes paid by assignee. A tax deed based upon a sale to the county and a subsequent assignment of the certificate, which fails to state the amount of taxes assessed on the land subsequent to the date of the certificate and which fails to state the amount of subsequent taxes paid by the assignee is void upon its face. Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Neikirk, 23 Colo. App. 392, 128 P. 468 (1897); Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Gibson, 23 Colo. App. 399, 128 P. 472 (1913).

Failure to recite date of transfer of county tax certificate renders deed void. The failure of a tax deed based upon a tax certificate originally issued to the county under § 39-11-108 and assigned by the county to the grantee in the tax deed to recite the date and manner of the transfer of the certificate renders the deed void on its face. Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Neikirk, 23 Colo. App. 392, 128 P. 468 (1913).

Deed failing to show name of officer assigning certificate void. A deed showing a sale to the county and an assignment of the certificate of purchase by the county, "by its proper officers", but not showing by name or official title what officer made the assignment, is void upon its face. Poage v. E. H. Rollins & Sons, 24 Colo. App. 537, 135 P. 990 (1913); Emerson v. Valdez, 24 Colo. App. 458, 135 P. 137 (1913).

Deed showing county as purchaser on first day of sale void. A deed which shows that the land was sold to the county on the first day of the sale is void on its face. Dussart v. Abdo Mercantile Co., 57 Colo. 423, 140 P. 806 (1914).

Tax deed showing a wrong date is void on its face. Hamer v. Glenn Inv. Co., 75 Colo. 423, 226 P. 299 (1924).

Evidence aliunde not admissible to contradict recitals of deed void on its face. Evidence aliunde, for the purpose of showing that all preliminary steps up to the time of the tax sale were valid in all respects, was not admissible to contradict and vary the positive recitals of the tax deeds which make them void on their face, although, in a suit to reform such tax deeds so as to speak the truth, it might have been admitted and become sufficient with other evidence to authorize a court of equity to decree the reformation.

Emerson v. Valdez, 24 Colo. App. 458, 135 P. 137 (1913); Poage v. E. H. Rollins & Sons, 24 Colo. App. 537, 135 P. 990 (1913).

If extraneous evidence is necessary to show illegality, deed is not void on its face. North Am. Realty Co. v. Brady, 77 Colo. 56, 234 P. 1054 (1925).

Tax deed void on its face cannot set statute of limitations in motion. Jackson v. Larson, 24 Colo. App. 548, 136 P. 81 (1913).

IV. DEED CONVEYING SEVERAL TRACTS.

Tax deed is not objectionable because it conveys several contiguous tracts of land. Barnett v. Jaynes, 26 Colo. 279, 57 P. 703 (1899).

Where a tax deed conveys title to several tracts of land, and the deeds show that they were advertized separately and that the purchasers bid for them separately, this is sufficient to show that they were sold separately. Waddingham v. Dickson, 17 Colo. 223, 29 P. 177 (1892); Barnett v. Jaynes, 26 Colo. 279, 57 P. 703 (1899).

Selling noncontiguous tracts en masse for gross sum voids deed. A tax deed is void on its face, where it shows that noncontiguous tracts of land were sold en masse for a gross sum. Norris v. Kelsey, 23 Colo. App. 555, 130 P. 1088 (1913).

39-11-136. Treasurer to execute deed - effect. (1) The deed shall be signed by the treasurer in his official capacity and when so signed shall vest in the purchaser all the right, title, interest, and estate of the former owner in and to the land conveyed and also all right, title, interest, and claim of the state and county thereto. Such deed may be acknowledged in the same manner as other deeds to real estate and, if so acknowledged and recorded in the proper county, shall be prima facie evidence of the following facts:

(a) That the real property conveyed was subject to taxation for the year or years stated in the deed;

(b) That the taxes were not paid at any time before the sale;

(c) That the real property conveyed had not been redeemed from the sale at the date of the deed;

(d) That the property had been listed and assessed at the time and in the manner required by law;

(e) That the taxes were levied according to law;

(f) That the tax lien on said property was advertised for sale in the manner and for the length of time required by law;

(g) That the tax lien on said property was sold for delinquent taxes as stated in the deed;

(h) That the grantee named in the deed was the purchaser, or the heir at law, or the assignee of such purchaser;

(i) That the sale was conducted in the manner required by law;

(j) That the deed was properly signed, acknowledged, and delivered by the treasurer.

(2) All the right, title, interest, and estate conveyed by any such deed executed before August 1, 1964, by the treasurer shall be deemed to have vested in the purchaser at the time such deed was signed by the treasurer in his official capacity.

(3) Execution of a deed pursuant to this section shall not affect the existence of any public or private roads, rights-of-way, conservation easements, other easements, or equitable servitudes that run with land and have both benefits and burdens, all as claimed or existing prior to the execution of such deed.

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

Valid tax deed extinguishes all previous encumbrances. Sherman v. Greeley Bldg. & Loan Ass'n, 66 Colo. 288, 181 P. 975 (1919); Sanderford v. Walker Inv. Co., 84 Colo. 203, 269 P. 14 (1928); Benedict v. Coriolanus Corp., 30 Colo. App. 306, 491 P.2d 985 (1971).

Title by adverse possession vanishes when treasurer issues deed for unpaid taxes. Linville v. Russell, 168 Colo. 459, 452 P.2d 18 (1969).

Unless claim of adverse possession asserted prior to issuance of treasurer's deed. Where claims to ownership of real property based upon adverse possession are asserted in a judicial proceeding to quiet title prior to the issuance of the treasurer's deed and payment of taxes has been tendered, the policy considerations compelling application of the absolute rule that title by adverse possession vanishes upon issuance of a treasurer's deed do not apply. First Nat'l Bank v. Fitzpatrick, 624 P.2d 927 (Colo. App. 1981).

Omission of inked scroll around word "seal" of no import. Where there appears next to the county treasurer's signature, the printed word "seal", encircled by a printed scroll, the omission of an inked scroll on the deed has no legal import. Linville v. Russell, 168 Colo. 459, 452 P.2d 18 (1969).

Tax deed cannot pass title to previously severed mineral rights. A tax deed does not pass title to oil and mineral rights which have previously been severed from the surface and on which no proper assessment has been made. Mitchell v. Espinosa, 125 Colo. 267, 243 P.2d 412 (1952).

Purchaser with general tax deed entitled to maintain action. A purchaser of lands at a tax sale, having obtained the treasurer's deed, may maintain a bill against one holding a certificate of the sale of the same premises for the nonpayment of a special tax, which was invalidated by the sale for the general tax. City & County of Denver v. Keller, 48 Colo. 54, 108 P. 998 (1910).

Showing of substantial compliance required. A party asserting a claim to lands under tax proceedings must show at least substantial compliance with this article. McPherrin v. Paul, 21 Colo. App. 154, 120 P. 1051 (1912).

Defects in tax deed must be alleged in pleadings. Defects in a tax deed good on its face cannot be shown in the trial unless they have been pointed out in the pleadings; but it is not necessary that this be done in any particular manner or exclusively by the party relying on the defects. It is sufficient if it clearly appears from the pleadings that certain defects are relied upon and an issue is made as to their existence. Scott v. Watkins, 61 Colo. 244, 157 P. 3 (1916).

Sale without proper notice invalid although deed executed and recorded. Among other prerequisites to a valid sale of land for taxes is the giving of notice thereof, and, when it is shown that such notice has not been given in substantial conformity with this article, the sale will be adjudged invalid notwithstanding a tax deed in proper form may have been duly executed and recorded. Morris v. St. Louis Nat'l Bank, 17 Colo. 231, 29 P. 802 (1892); Paine v. Palmberg, 20 Colo. App. 432, 79 P. 330 (1905).

Claimant under invalid tax deed may assert right of reimbursement. One claiming title under an invalid tax deed may assert the right to reimbursement for taxes paid as against the holder of the regular title from the government, but a subsequent valid tax deed cuts off the right. Young v. Rohan, 77 Colo. 70, 234 P. 694 (1925).

Only when a deed issues does a tax lien purchaser acquire all right, title, interest, and estate of the former owner in the land conveyed. Hughey v. Jefferson County Bd. of Comm'rs, 921 P.2d 76 (Colo. App. 1996).

Applied in United States Sec. & Bond Co. v. Wolfe, 27 Colo. 218, 60 P. 637 (1900); Lovelace v. Tabor Mines & Mills Co., 29 Colo. 62, 66 P. 892 (1901); Richard v. Beggs, 31 Colo. 186, 72 P. 1077 (1903); Imperial Sec. Co. v. Morris, 57 Colo. 194, 141 P. 1160 (1914); Hamer v. Glenn Inv. Co., 75 Colo. 423, 226 P. 299 (1924); Pyles v. Portland Gold Mining Co., 76 Colo. 598, 233 P. 618 (1925); City & County of Denver v. Bach, 92 Colo. 594, 22 P.2d 1114 (1933).

II. DEED AS PRIMA FACIE EVIDENCE.

Deed prima facie evidence of facts occurring before or at time of sale. The things of which the tax deed is made prima facie evidence relate to facts which occurred before or at the time of the sale and not to acts which the cash purchaser is required to perform subsequent to the sale and as a further condition precedent to his right to a deed. Carnahan v. Sieber Cattle Co., 34 Colo. 257, 82 P. 592 (1905); Sternberger v. Moffat, 44 Colo. 520, 99 P. 560 (1908); Pelton v. Muntzing, 24 Colo. App. 1, 131 P. 281 (1913).

Tax deed is evidence only of matters declared so by this section. The party relying upon a tax deed as evidence must still show the assessed value of the land, that the notice required by § 39-11-131 was given, whether the land was vacant or occupied, and, if occupied, that notice was given to the occupant as well as to all other persons specified in the statute. Mitchell v. Trowbridge, 47 Colo. 6, 105 P. 878 (1909).

Deed prima facie evidence of title conveyed. It is apparent that it was the intention of the general assembly to provide that, when a duly executed and recorded tax deed shows that the statutory requirements for the assessment and collection of taxes have been substantially complied with, the deed shall be prima facie evidence of title to the property, thereby conveyed in favor of the purchaser, his heirs, and assigns, as against the former owner. Dyke v. Whyte, 17 Colo. 296, 29 P. 128 (1892); Bennett v. Shotwell, 118 Colo. 206, 194 P.2d 335 (1948); Rock v. Fastenau, 122 Colo. 41, 219 P.2d 781 (1950); Bald Eagle Mining & Ref. Co. v. Brunton, 165 Colo. 28, 437 P.2d 59 (1968).

Evidence that property subject to taxation. A tax deed is prima facie evidence, as provided in subsection (1)(a), that the property described therein was subject to taxation, and the introduction into evidence of a tax deed establishes a prima facie title in the grantee. Mitchell v. City of Denver, 33 Colo. 37, 78 P. 686 (1904).

Deed not prima facie evidence that subsequent taxes paid. The form of the deed prescribed by § 39-11-135 contains a recital that subsequent taxes were paid. Subsection (1) of this section does not make the deed prima facie evidence of that fact, but clearly the statutory recital must be given that effect. Richardson v. Halbekann, 97 Colo. 175, 48 P.2d 1014 (1935).

Unexecuted deed not evidence of anything. A tax deed not executed as required by this section is not prima facie evidence of anything. Eaches v. Johnston, 46 Colo. 457, 104 P. 940 (1909).

Officials' inability to remember procedure followed insufficient to overcome recitals. Evidence that officials are unable to remember the precise procedure they followed is insufficient to overcome the effect of their own recitals in the affidavits and the deed itself. Bald Eagle Mining & Ref. Co. v. Brunton, 165 Colo. 28, 437 P.2d 59 (1968).

Executing and recording of deeds as provided by this section. Morris v. St. Louis Nat'l Bank, 17 Colo. 231, 29 P. 802 (1892).

III. BURDEN OF PROVING TAX DEED INVALID.

Presumption of regularity rebuttable. The treasurer's deed is prima facie evidence of the regularity of the proceedings, but the presumption of regularity raised is a rebuttable one; when evidence is presented which shows that the proceedings did not follow the statutory requirements, the deed must be set aside. Bald Eagle Mining & Ref. Co. v. Brunton, 165 Colo. 28, 437 P.2d 59 (1968); Arabasz v. Schwartzberg, 943 P.2d 463 (Colo. App. 1996).

Claimant under title must prove preliminary steps to sale. A party claiming under a tax title has the burden of proving the preliminary steps leading up to the sale. Scott v. Watkins, 61 Colo. 244, 157 P. 3 (1916).

Burden of overthrowing deed upon adverse claimant. The burden of overthrowing a tax deed, regular in form, is upon the party claiming adversely thereto. Waddingham v. Dickson, 17 Colo. 223, 29 P. 177 (1892); Knight v. Boring, 38 Colo. 153, 87 P. 1078 (1906); Grusing v. Parke, 120 Colo. 555, 212 P.2d 102 (1949).

39-11-137. Validation of acknowledgments of tax deeds. Any tax deed executed by a treasurer pursuant to section 39-11-135, if acknowledged in conformity with the provisions of section 38-35-101, C.R.S., shall be considered for all purposes as having been properly acknowledged, and such acknowledgment shall carry with it the presumptions provided for by section 38-35-101, C.R.S.

39-11-138. When successor of treasurer shall act. If any treasurer dies, resigns, or is removed from office or his term of office expires after selling any tax liens on any real estate for delinquent taxes and before executing a certificate or deed for the same, his successor in office shall execute such certificate or deed in the same manner that the treasurer making such sale might have done.

39-11-139. Posting list of tax sale certificates and tax deeds. No later than the fifteenth day of January of each year, each county treasurer shall deliver to the county clerk and recorder of the county treasurer's county a list showing all tax certificates theretofore issued and held in the name of the county and a list of all property the title to which has been acquired by the county through issuance of a tax deed. A copy of such lists shall be posted in a conspicuous place in the courthouse for not less than thirty days.

39-11-140. Tax deed recorded - entry. When any tax deed is filed for record, the county clerk and recorder shall also enter the name of the grantee in the proper column of his record of land for which a tax lien was sold for delinquent taxes.

39-11-141. Action to determine validity of certificates. Whenever any county or city and county in this state holds tax sale certificates which are believed by the board of county commissioners to be void for irregularity in the assessment of property or sale of a tax lien on property or otherwise, the board of county commissioners of the county or city and county may institute an action in the district court of the county, under the provisions of article 51 of title 13, C.R.S., to have the matter determined as to whether said certificates are void. Such actions shall be brought in the name of the board of county commissioners. Any number of such certificates may be included in one action, and the fee owners of record of the tax liens on the lands on account of the sale of which the certificates were issued shall be made defendants in the action. If any defendant is a nonresident of the state or cannot be found, service of summons may be had upon such defendant in accordance with the provisions of rule 4 of the Colorado rules of civil procedure. If the court, by its decree, finds and determines that any such certificate is void, then the tax lien on the real estate on account of the sale of which such certificate was issued shall be resold for taxes at the next succeeding sale for delinquent taxes; and if the irregularity on account of which such certificate was held void is in the assessment of the property, then the board of county commissioners shall direct the assessor to reassess the same, and, if the delinquent taxes are not thereafter duly paid pursuant to such reassessment, the tax lien on such property shall likewise be sold at the next delinquent tax sale following such reassessment. No appeal shall lie from the final decree of the court in cases brought under this section. No costs of the action shall be assessed against any defendant who files a disclaimer or fails to appear in the action.

39-11-142. Disposition of certificates held by counties. (1) In all cases where a tax lien on real estate has been struck off to the county at tax sales and the county has held the certificate of sale for three years or more, the board of county commissioners may apply for and receive a tax deed in like manner as is provided by law in the case of delinquent tax sale certificates held by individuals. The board of county commissioners, whenever the county becomes entitled to a tax deed, may cause the treasurer to issue, serve, and publish notices, pursuant to law, of application for such tax deed in like manner as in the case of individual certificate holders.

(2) In cases where the county has held the tax certificate for five years or more and such real estate is not located within the limits of any incorporated town or city within the said county, the county may include in one request or demand any or all separate parcels of real estate for which it holds tax sale certificates for sales in any one year, and the board of county commissioners may apply for and receive tax deeds therefor. In cases where the county has held the tax certificate for eight years and in the opinion of the board of county commissioners such real estate is not used, operated, or maintained wholly or in part in the interest or for the benefit of the public, said board shall apply for and receive a tax deed therefor.

(3) Upon making application in the case of tax certificates held by the counties for five years or more, the treasurer shall not be required to give the notice that a request or demand for tax deed has been made upon him provided for in section 39-11-128. The treasurer, in lieu of such notice, at least sixty days before the day said tax deed issues, shall give notice by registered or certified mail, addressed to the last-known residence of the person in whose name the real estate is assessed for the years during which said taxes have not been paid, that a tax deed has been applied for on the particular described property and that said tax deed will issue on a day certain. The treasurer shall also post in a public place in the county courthouse, at least sixty days before said deed issues, a notice stating that a deed will be issued to the county on the real estate described in said notice. Said notice shall contain the name of the person to whom the property is assessed together with the date said tax deed will issue.

(4) In all cases, the owner of the property shall have the right of redemption of the property as provided by law.

(5) Any tax deed, when issued to the county, shall be duly recorded, but no fee shall be required to be paid therefor. Thereafter, the board of county commissioners shall list such property for sale and post such list in the county courthouse and, out of the county general fund, may make such essential repairs thereon and pay such premiums for fire insurance as are necessary for the protection and preservation of any improvements on such property. The board of county commissioners, after a county has acquired such tax deed, in its discretion, may institute and prosecute suits to quiet the title to any such real estate so acquired under such tax deeds.

(6) (a) In all cases where a tax lien on real property has been struck off to the county at a tax sale and the county has held the certificate of sale for thirty years or more without obtaining a tax deed as provided in this section, then such certificate may be declared void and of no effect.

(b) It is the duty of the treasurer at least once each year to prepare and present, at any regular or special meeting of the board of county commissioners, a list of all tax liens on all real property struck off to the county and all certificates of sale relating thereto, which certificates have been held by the county for thirty years or more without obtaining a deed or being otherwise disposed of under this article.

(c) Upon being presented with such list, the board of county commissioners shall determine that the tax liens were struck off to the county, that such certificates of sale relating thereto have been held by the county for thirty years or more, and that no tax deed has been obtained or applied for as provided in this section. Upon making such determination, the board of county commissioners may declare that such certificates are void, and an order to that effect shall be duly entered in the recorded proceedings of the board, which order shall direct the treasurer to cancel such certificates of sale.

(d) Upon receipt of an order of the board of county commissioners declaring that any certificates of sale are void, the treasurer shall record said order in his records and shall cancel all such certificates specified in said order.

(e) Any action concerning a determination and declaration by a board of county commissioners made pursuant to this subsection (6) shall be commenced within one year after the date of the board's order, or said action shall be forever barred.

39-11-143. Appraisal - county may retain, lease, or sell - definitions. (1) Whenever real property is conveyed by a treasurer to the county by tax deed under section 39-11-142, the assessor shall annually value the same in the manner prescribed by law for taxable property and shall notify the board of county commissioners of such valuation.

(2) The board of county commissioners has the power to retain for public projects, rent, lease, or sell such real property as provided in this section.

(2.5) If the board of county commissioners retains such real property for a present or future public project, as defined in section 30-20-301 (2), C.R.S., it shall pass a resolution describing the project for which the property is retained. The board of county commissioners may rent or lease any lot or parcel retained for a present or future public project in accordance with subsection (3) of this section. For purposes of this section, using property to generate revenue for the county is not a public project.

(3) The board of county commissioners may lease such real property to an affiliated entity, but no lease shall be for a period exceeding five years. For purposes of this subsection (3), "affiliated entity" means a nonprofit entity with which the county enters into a contract for the delivery of goods or services to the county or to third parties on behalf of the county.

(4) (a) Any such real property that is not retained or leased in accordance with subsection (2.5) or (3) of this section shall be sold at public sale by the board of county commissioners within one year after the property is conveyed to the county; except that the board of county commissioners may reject any bid that is less than the value of the property as determined by the assessor. Prior to offering such property for sale, the board of county commissioners shall obtain from the assessor a certificate as to the current actual value and the valuation for assessment of the same. A notice of such sale shall be posted in a public place in the county courthouse at least thirty days before the date of sale, and such notice of sale shall also be advertised in two issues of a newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the property is situated, said newspaper notices to appear one week apart and within the thirty days as above provided. Such notice shall reserve the right upon the part of the board of county commissioners to reject any bid that is less than the value determined by the assessor. Said notice shall be substantially in the following form:

“NOTICE

Public notice is hereby given that the following real property acquired by the County of, Colorado, by tax deed, to wit:

will, according to law, be offered at public sale at the county courthouse,, Colorado, on the day of, 20...., at the hour of to the highest and best bidder. The board of county commissioners reserves the right to reject any bid that is less than the current actual value fixed by the county assessor.

County Clerk and Recorder.”

(a.5) The notice of sale posted pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) shall contain a statement substantially in the following form: "If this property is at least fifty years old, it may be eligible for inclusion in the state register of historic properties or designation as a landmark. Such property may be eligible for certain rehabilitation grants and incentives.

(b) Such real property shall be sold at public sale for the highest and best bid for any lots or parcels, as determined in the discretion of the board of county commissioners; except that the board of county commissioners may reject any bid that is less than the value of the property as determined by the assessor. Such real property may be sold in such lots or parcels and upon such terms of payment as the board of county commissioners deems acceptable, but no deed shall be issued until the purchaser has made payment in full. Upon written application of any person, the board of county commissioners shall offer for sale the property requested by such person to be sold; except that no parcel shall be divided for the purpose of such requested sale unless the board of county commissioners specifically permits such division. The board of county commissioners may, prior to the sale of any lot or parcel, reserve or grant streets, alleys, or roads or utilities or other easements, public or private, under such terms and conditions as it may deem advisable.

(5) Such deeds shall be issued by a commissioner to convey, duly appointed by the board of county commissioners, which commissioner shall act upon the direction of the board of county commissioners, but such deed shall be issued without covenants of warranty.

(6) The foregoing provisions of this section shall not apply to any city and county having a population of more than three hundred thousand. Sales and leases by such city and county shall be made in compliance with the applicable provisions of its charter or ordinances. All sales and leases made before August 1, 1964, by such city and county of any real estate acquired by it under tax deeds, whether made or authorized by the board of county commissioners, the mayor of said city and county, or in purported compliance with its charter or ordinances, are deemed valid, and such sales and leases are hereby confirmed. All actions or proceedings to set aside or question the validity of such sales or leases made before August 1, 1964, by such city and county shall be brought within six months from said date and not thereafter. This subsection (6) shall not reinstate any such action or proceeding barred by law before August 1, 1964.

39-11-144. County lands, prior sales validated. All sales of such real estate made by the board of county commissioners of any county shall be deemed valid, and such sales are hereby confirmed if such sales were made at either public or private sale, whether made by deed issued by the treasurer upon direction of the board of county commissioners or by deed issued by a duly appointed commissioner to convey upon direction of the board of county commissioners.

All net proceeds from the sale, lease, or other disposition of such real estate so conveyed to the county by the treasurer shall be paid to the treasurer of such county, and the treasurer shall distribute said proceeds to the various taxing jurisdictions in which such real estate is situated in the same proportion that the ad valorem taxes levied by each taxing jurisdiction in the preceding calendar year bears to the total of all ad valorem taxes levied on such real estate in the preceding calendar year.

39-11-146. Lien of special assessment not affected. Nothing in sections 39-11-143 to 39-11-145 shall be construed to affect in any manner or degree whatsoever the lien of any special assessment to which such real estate and the conveyance thereof by the treasurer is subject under law.

A complete report of all payments made to and accepted by the treasurer under sections 39-11-142, 39-11-143, and 39-11-145 shall be made by him, a copy of which shall be sent to the board of county commissioners of his county, to the administrator, and to the controller at the end of each month.

(1) No lien upon real property created by a tax certificate or a certificate of purchase issued by a treasurer on account of any delinquent property taxes or any special assessment of any kind or nature shall remain a lien thereon for a period longer than fifteen years after the original issuance thereof, except as provided in subsection (3) of this section. This section shall not apply to any tax certificate or certificate of purchase issued to and held by the county, city, city and county, or district levying such tax or special assessment; except that, in the event of an assignment of such tax certificate or certificate of purchase so issued to and held by such county, city, city and county, or district, the lien of such tax certificate or certificate of purchase shall cease fifteen years after the date of its issuance subject only to the provisions of subsection (3) of this section.

(2) No treasurer's deed shall issue on any tax sale evidenced by tax certificate or certificate of purchase where such tax certificate or certificate of purchase has ceased to be a lien pursuant to the provisions of this section and application for such treasurer's deed is not pending at the time of the expiration of the limitation period provided for in this section.

(3) In the event of an assignment of a tax certificate or certificate of purchase held by a county, city, city and county, or district levying such tax wherein such certificate is fifteen years old at the time of assignment or will become fifteen years old within one year from the date of such assignment, the assignee thereof shall be entitled to a tax deed in the manner provided by law if such assignee or other legal holder of such certificate institutes proceedings to procure a tax deed by making a demand upon the treasurer for same, as provided by law, within one year from the date of such assignment by the county, city, city and county, or district levying such tax.

(4) Whenever a lien created by a tax certificate has expired by reason of the provisions of this section, the treasurer shall immediately issue a certificate of cancellation describing the real estate included in the certificate of purchase or tax certificate and giving the date of cancellation, and he shall also make proper entries in the book of sales in his office as follows: "Cancelled by provision of section 39-11-148, C.R.S.", with the date of such entry. He shall also present every such certificate of cancellation to the county clerk and recorder who shall enter the same in the record of land for which a tax lien was sold for delinquent taxes and endorse the date of entry on the certificate of cancellation and file the same, and such certificate and the record thereof shall be prima facie evidence of the cancellation of the certificate of purchase or tax certificate and of the release of the lien of such certificate on the lands therein described. Failure to record such certificate of cancellation shall not extend the lien created by the certificate of purchase or tax certificate. The treasurer and county clerk and recorder shall not be entitled to any fees for the issuing of such certificate of cancellation nor for the entries in their books made under the provisions of this subsection (4).

(5) Whenever a lien created pursuant to a tax certificate becomes unenforceable pursuant to section 31-25-1119, C.R.S., the treasurer shall immediately issue a certificate of cancellation describing the real estate included in the certificate of purchase or tax certificate indicating thereon the date of cancellation and shall make the appropriate entries in the book of sales in his office, as follows: "Cancelled by provision of sections 31-25-1119 and 39-11-148, C.R.S.", with the date of such entry. He shall present every such certificate of cancellation to the county clerk and recorder who shall enter the same in the record of land for which a tax lien was sold for delinquent taxes and endorse the date of entry on the said certificate of cancellation and file the same, and such certificate and the record thereof shall be prima facie evidence of the cancellation of the certificate of purchase or tax certificate and of the release of the lien of such certificate on the lands therein described. Failure to record such certificate of cancellation shall not extend the lien created by the certificate of purchase or tax certificate. The treasurer and county clerk and recorder shall not be entitled to any fees for the issuing and recording of such certificate of cancellation nor for the entries in their books made under the provisions of this subsection (5).

39-11-149. Sales en masse valid. If two or more noncontiguous lots, tracts of land, or mining claims or portions thereof have not been separately valued and assessed or, having been separately valued and assessed, whether having a common ownership or not, have had tax liens thereof sold en masse for a gross sum for the nonpayment of taxes and charges thereon, then, after seven years from the date of any such sale, such assessment and sale and any tax sale certificate issued thereon shall be deemed valid and legal and shall be so considered in all actions, suits, or proceedings in which is involved the validity of any such assessment, sale, tax sale certificate, or treasurer's deed issued thereon. There is excepted from this section any such action, suit, or proceeding pending on August 1, 1964, wherein any party thereto has or may assert the invalidity of any such assessment, sale, tax sale certificate, or treasurer's deed. Nothing in this section shall be construed to alter, amend, or repeal section 39-11-148.

39-11-150. Sales of tax liens on severed mineral interests. Sales of tax liens for delinquent taxes due on severed mineral interests shall take place at the same place and time and under the same circumstances as in this article, but, where the surface estate ownership is coterminous with the severed mineral interest, the owner of the surface estate shall have the right of first refusal to purchase the tax lien on the severed mineral interest, and the surface owner shall be allowed to pay all delinquent taxes due and owing for the severed mineral interest in lieu of the proceeds that would be collected from a tax sale of a tax lien on the severed mineral interest. The treasurer shall notify the surface owner, by mail, at his last-known address, of his right of refusal at least ten days prior to the sale of a tax lien on the severed mineral interest. The surface owner shall have until two days prior to the sale to exercise the right of first refusal. If the surface owner does not exercise his right of first refusal, the tax lien on such severed mineral interest shall be sold. No action for the recovery of a severed mineral interest for which a tax deed was issued under the provisions of this article shall lie unless brought within the same time period as that limiting actions for the recovery of land pursuant to section 39-12-101.

(1) (a) No property for which a tax lien is sold for delinquent taxes under this article shall be conveyed to an elected or appointed county official, to a county employee, or to a member of the immediate family of any such person or to the agent of any such county official or employee, if the tax lien on such property is sold during the time the official or employee holds office or is employed.

39-12-101. Limitation of actions for recovery of land. No action for the recovery of land for which a tax deed was issued under the provisions of article 11 of this title for delinquent taxes shall lie unless the same is brought within five years after the execution and delivery of the deed therefor by the treasurer, any laws to the contrary notwithstanding; except that, when any owner of such land, for which a tax deed has been issued, at the time of the execution and delivery of the deed by the treasurer is under legal disability, it shall be lawful for him to bring a suit or action for the recovery of the land within the period during which he has the right to make redemption of such land from the tax sale upon which the deed is based. When a recovery of any of such land is effected in any suit, action, or proceeding, the value of all improvements made in good faith on such lands, and all sums paid for the tax lien on said land and for improvements, and all costs incident to the issuance and recording of the treasurer’s deed, and all taxes and assessments paid thereon after the sale of the tax lien thereof, including the redemption value of all tax sale certificates redeemed, held, or surrendered for redemption by the grantee in such treasurer’s deed or his heirs or assigns, shall be ascertained by the court or jury trying the action for recovery and shall be paid, together with interest thereon at the rate of twelve percent per annum, by the person recovering said land to the persons entitled thereto, and the payment of such sum shall be a condition precedent to the entry of judgment or decree in such suit, action, or proceeding. All such treasurer’s deeds executed by the treasurer purporting to convey lands and improvements thereon for all purposes shall be deemed to be color of title from and after the time the same is recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder for the county in which said lands are located. Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

Section is for the purpose of protecting claimants under tax deeds, and to that end it is provided that an action by the owner shall be barred if not brought within five years after the sale thereof. Wood v. McCombe, 37 Colo. 174, 86 P. 319, aff'd, 208 U.S. 226, 28 S. Ct. 263, 52 L. Ed. 464 (1906); Cripple Creek Trading & Mining Co. v. Stewart, 100 Colo. 271, 67 P.2d 1032 (1937).

Purpose of section was to give landowner time to redeem land. This section was passed for the purpose of affording any landowner an ample opportunity of redeeming his lands sold for nonpayment of taxes. Fastenau v. Asher, 124 Colo. 161, 235 P.2d 587 (1951).

Section is to be liberally construed. Fastenau v. Asher, 124 Colo. 161, 235 P.2d 587 (1951).

Statutes of limitation provide sufficient protection for purchasers under tax deeds. The statutes of limitation, appearing in §§ 38-41-111, 39-12-102, and this section, provide sufficient protection for the purchasers of property under tax deeds without further limitations being imposed by the courts. Until the applicable periods of limitation have expired, tax deeds, even though valid on their face, are subject to attack for irregularities in the proceedings. Bald Eagle Mining & Ref. Co. v. Brunton, 165 Colo. 28, 437 P.2d 59 (1968).

Tax deed must be in substantial compliance with statutory form prescribed at the time of the tax sale, and a tax deed in statutory form is fair and not void on its face. Aspen-Western Corp. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 650 P.2d 1326 (Colo. App. 1982).

"Recovery", "recovering", and "obtain possession" defined. The terms "recovery", "recovering", and "obtain possession", as used in this section, mean not merely the regaining of possession which has been once lost, or the obtaining of possession not theretofore had, but also the retention of possession already had and which has not been disturbed. Central Realty Co. v. Frost, 76 Colo. 413, 232 P. 1111 (1925).

Section is no defense in an action to quiet title. Scott v. Watkins, 61 Colo. 244, 157 P. 3 (1916).

It applies only to actions for recovery of possession. By its plain language, this section seems not to have been intended as a defense when the removal of cloud from title alone is involved, but instead it is meant to apply as a defense only to actions for the recovery of possession and the ouster from the land of someone in possession. Morris v. St. Louis Nat'l Bank, 17 Colo. 231, 29 P. 802 (1892).

Action to set aside voidable tax deed. An action brought by the owner of the fee to set aside a tax deed that is not absolutely void, but voidable, is an action for the recovery of land sold for taxes; therefore, this section is applicable. Phillips v. City & County of Denver, 115 Colo. 532, 175 P.2d 805 (1946).

Unless action to quiet title in essence one for possession. Where an action is brought to the quiet title against the holder of a tax deed in possession over five years and the holder relies on the limitations of this section, this defense is good, since the action is in reality one for possession of land and not to quiet title. Vogt v. Hansen, 123 Colo. 105, 225 P.2d 1040 (1950).

Section inapplicable where premises not sold for taxes. This section does not have any application if the subject matter of the controversy is not sold for taxes, meaning if the rights of the parties are not dependent upon the validity of the tax deed but upon whether it embraces the premises involved. Denver Trackage & Imp. Co. v. Colo. & S. Ry., 58 Colo. 313, 145 P. 707 (1914).

It has no application to the purchaser at a tax sale. It applies solely to the owner of the property, whose title is sought to be divested by the tax proceedings. Sullivan v. Collins, 20 Colo. 528, 39 P. 334 (1895).

Section inapplicable unless holder of treasurer's deed in possession. The five-year statute of limitations in this section may not be relied upon as a defense unless the holder of the treasurer's deed is in actual possession of the property at the time the action is commenced. Welsh v. Levy, 612 P.2d 80 (Colo. 1980); Aspen-Western Corp. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 661 P.2d 1175 (Colo. App. 1982).

To qualify for the protection afforded by this five-year statute of limitations in a quiet title action, the holder of a tax deed must demonstrate actual possession of the property at the time the action is commenced. Aspen-Western Corp. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 650 P.2d 1326 (Colo. App. 1982).

Action for recovery barred unless filed within five years. This section bars an action for the recovery of land sold for taxes unless such action is filed within five years from the delivery of the treasurer's deed. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Blanning, 29 Colo. App. 61, 479 P.2d 404 (1970).

All questions with reference to tax proceedings generally barred. The design of this section is, generally, to bar all questions with reference to the tax proceedings, except such as go to the power and jurisdiction of the taxing officers, or the fraud and misconduct of the parties, unless an action is brought within the time limited. Crisman v. Johnson, 23 Colo. 264, 47 P. 296 (1896).

Grantee need not wait five years before bringing action. A party whose rights are affected by a tax deed may bring an action within five years to have it set aside, but this limitation does not require the grantee in a tax deed, or those claiming under him, to wait that period before bringing an action to quiet title based upon the deed. Held v. Houser, 53 Colo. 363, 127 P. 139 (1912).

Tax deed without effect until recorded. A tax deed is without effect to set in motion the statute of limitations until it is recorded. Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Lumelius, 23 Colo. App. 51, 127 P. 452 (1912).

Statute of limitations not set into motion by void deed. A tax deed void on its face does not set in motion the five-year limitation under this section. Miller v. Weldon, 26 Colo. App. 108, 140 P. 930 (1914); Jones v. Empire Ranch & Cattle Co., 25 Colo. App. 382, 138 P. 62 (1914); Buckland v. Fiedler, 25 Colo. App. 565, 140 P. 472 (1914); Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Weldon, 26 Colo. App. 111, 141 P. 138 (1914); Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Brownson, 26 Colo. App. 228, 142 P. 421 (1914); North Am. Realty Co. v. Brady, 77 Colo. 56, 234 P. 1054 (1925); Hochmuth v. Norton, 90 Colo. 453, 9 P.2d 1060 (1932); Knoch v. County of Mesa, 159 Colo. 241, 411 P.2d 1 (1960); Lake Canal Reservoir Co. v. Beethe, 227 P.3d 882 (Colo. 2010).

Because deficiencies in deed did not call into question the authority or jurisdiction to issue the deed, the flaws rendered the deed voidable, but not void; therefore, the exception to the statute of limitations for void deeds does not apply. Void tax deeds are deeds that are issued without authority or jurisdiction. Voidable tax deeds are issued with authority but authority is exercised in an improper manner. A deed is void and therefore not subject to the statute of limitations when the taxing entity lacked the authority or jurisdiction to issue it. Lake Canal Reservoir Co. v. Beethe, 227 P.3d 882 (Colo. 2010).

Deed not reciting notice given of purchaser's application. A tax deed does not set in motion the five-year statute of limitations where there is no recitation of the notice given of the tax purchaser's intention to apply for his deed. Sheesley v. Voorhees, 24 Colo. App. 428, 134 P. 1008 (1913).

Section bars action if the tax deed is fair on its face. Wood v. McCombe, 37 Colo. 174, 86 P. 319, aff'd, 208 U.S. 226, 28 S. Ct. 263, 52 L. Ed. 464 (1906); North Am. Realty Co. v. Brady, 77 Colo. 56, 234 P. 1054 (1925).

Applied in Knowles v. Martin, 20 Colo. 393, 38 P. 467 (1894); Charlton v. Kelly, 24 Colo. 273, 50 P. 1042 (1897); Pueblo Realty Co. v. Tate, 32 Colo. 67, 75 P. 402 (1904); Knight v. Boring, 38 Colo. 153, 87 P. 1078 (1906); Pollen v. Magna Charter Mining & Milling Co., 40 Colo. 89, 90 P. 639 (1907); Whitehead v. Callahan, 44 Colo. 396, 99 P. 57 (1908); Halbouer v. Cuenin, 45 Colo. 507, 101 P. 763 (1909); Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Lanning, 49 Colo. 458, 113 P. 491 (1911); Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Saul, 22 Colo. App. 605, 127 P. 123 (1912); Empire Ranch & Cattle Co. v. Howell, 23 Colo. App. 265, 129 P. 245 (1913); Gibson v. Interior Realty & Inv. Co., 70 Colo. 5, 201 P. 680 (1921); Langley v. Young, 72 Colo. 466, 211 P. 640 (1922); Bennett v. Rohan, 73 Colo. 551, 216 P. 1052 (1923); Fuschino v. Lutin, 124 Colo. 42, 234 P.2d 906 (1951).

II. CONDITIONS PRECEDENT TO RECOVERY.

Owner must pay tax title claimant amount for which lands sold. This section provides that, as a prerequisite to a recovery of lands by the owner against one claiming under an invalid tax deed, the owner must pay the tax title claimant the amount for which the lands were sold. Delta Land & Orchard Co. v. Zaninetti, 64 Colo. 268, 170 P. 964 (1918).

The owner must pay taxes paid by purchaser, with interest. In an action brought to quiet title to certain lands clouded by a void tax deed, the taxes upon which it is based being legal, the owner, as a condition precedent to an absolute decree in his favor, must pay to the defendant the taxes paid by him subsequent to the sale, with interest, in accordance with this section and also the amount for which the property was sold at the tax sale with interest and penalties in accordance with § 39-12-103. Buchanan v. Griswold, 37 Colo. 18, 86 P. 1041 (1906); Central Realty Co. v. Frost, 76 Colo. 413, 232 P. 1111 (1925).

Taxes need not be paid in action for trespass. This section refers only to land sold for taxes. Where an action is not to recover land but for trespass on land, the claim for reimbursement for taxes paid can only be a claim for mitigation of damages. Smith v. Highland Mary Mining, Milling & Power Co., 82 Colo. 288, 259 P. 1025 (1927).

Recovery of taxes under invalid deed allowed only when record discloses property taxed. He who pays a tax and gets a deed which is invalid can recover only when the record discloses upon what property the tax was paid and it appears that reimbursement will discharge the tax. Cripple Creek Trading & Mining Co. v. Stewart, 100 Colo. 271, 67 P.2d 1032 (1937).

Purchaser to be reimbursed for improvements. That a vendee who remains in possession for a long period of time and who makes improvements and pays taxes necessarily acquires equitable rights is recognized in this section, which provides that the vendee is entitled to reimbursement for expenditures of this nature. White v. Widger, 144 Colo. 566, 358 P.2d 592 (1960).

No interest prior to judgment. The value of improvements made by the defendant, allowed to him under this section, does not bear interest prior to judgment. Hapney v. Dunn, 26 Colo. App. 412, 142 P. 423 (1914).

39-12-102. Action to recover mining property. No action shall be maintained for the recovery of mining or placer claims unless such action is brought within a period of two years from the commencement of actual possession obtained under tax deed.

ANNOTATION

Statutes of limitations provide sufficient protection for purchasers under tax deeds. The statutes of limitations, appearing in §§ 38-41-111, 39-12-101, and this section, provide sufficient protection for the purchasers of property under tax deeds without further limitations being imposed by the courts. Until the applicable periods of limitation have expired, tax deeds, even though valid on their face, are subject to attack for irregularities in the proceedings. Bald Eagle Mining & Ref. Co. v. Brunton, 165 Colo. 28, 437 P.2d 59 (1968).

Applied in White Cap Mining Co. v. Resurrection Mining Co., 115 Colo. 396, 174 P.2d 727 (1946) (decided under former law).

39-12-103. Redemption made - interest. (1) Real property for which a tax lien was sold under the provisions of article 11 of this title as a result of delinquent taxes may be redeemed by the owner thereof or his agent, assignee, or attorney, or by any person having a legal or equitable claim therein, or by a holder of a tax sale certificate; except that such holder may redeem such real property from any sale of a tax lien thereof made subsequent to the time of the issuance of the tax sale certificate upon which he is relying, and the amount paid for the redemption of the subsequent certificate of purchase shall be endorsed as subsequent taxes paid on the certificate upon which he is relying.

(2) An undivided interest may be redeemed upon payment of a ratable share of the sum required to redeem the whole even though a tax lien for the whole has been sold. In case a tax lien on any tract of land sold for delinquent taxes under the provisions of article 11 of this title belongs to two or more separate and distinct parties in severalty, the treasurer, when satisfied of the fact and upon application of any one of the parties or his agent, assignee, or attorney and upon payment of the proper proportional amount, shall issue a certificate of redemption for such party's interest in said land.

(3) The redemption may be made at any time before the execution of a treasurer's deed to the purchaser or his heirs or assigns upon payment to the treasurer, to be held by him subject to the order of the purchaser, of the amount of taxes, delinquent interest, and costs for which the tax lien on the property was sold, with redemption interest thereon from the date of sale at the rate which is determined as provided in this subsection (3), together with the amount of all taxes accruing on such real property after the sale, paid by the purchaser and endorsed on his certificate of purchase, with redemption interest at the rate which is determined as provided in this subsection (3) on such taxes so endorsed on the certificate of purchase. Any payment under this section shall be deemed received by the treasurer on the date that it is actually received in the treasurer's office. The annual rate of redemption interest shall be nine percentage points above the discount rate, which discount rate shall be the rate of interest a commercial bank pays to the federal reserve bank of Kansas City using a government bond or other eligible paper as security, and shall be rounded to the nearest full percent. The commissioner of banking shall establish the annual rate of redemption interest based upon the computation specified immediately above. Such annual rate of redemption interest shall be so established as of September 1, 1981, to become effective October 1, 1981. Thereafter, on September 1 of each year, the annual rate of redemption interest shall be established in the same manner, to become effective on October 1 of the same year.

(4) If subsequent taxes are paid before the time when they would become delinquent, interest shall be computed only from the time of their delinquency. Such taxes shall bear interest at the annual rate set forth in subsection (3) of this section, and no more, from the time when the purchaser becomes entitled to a deed up to the time of issuance of such deed.

(5) All statutory fees paid by the purchaser in connection with such certificate shall bear the same rate of interest as the original amount for which the tax lien on the property was sold, the same to be prorated among the several tracts described in said certificates.

(6) In computing the amount of interest due, portions of months shall be counted as whole months.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Delinquent Oil and Gas Ad Valorem Taxes: Protecting Property Interests", see 16 Colo. Law. 798 (1987).

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

The policy underlying the right of redemption is the general policy of the law that no man shall forfeit his estate because of his inability to meet engagements on the day prescribed by law for their payment. Because the law favors redemption, redemption statutes are construed liberally to afford property owners ample opportunity to redeem. Dove Valley Bus. Park v. County Comm'rs, 945 P.2d 395 (Colo. 1997).

In Colorado, delinquent taxpayers have no constitutional right to redemption. Instead, redemption is a statutory privilege created by the general assembly, which may be exercised only as provided by statute. Dove Valley Bus. Park v. County Comm'rs, 945 P.2d 395 (Colo. 1997).

Section is to be liberally construed in favor of the redemptioner. Bean v. Westwood, 101 Colo. 288, 73 P.2d 386 (1937).

Attempted redemption by person having no interest in the property is ineffectual and may be set aside by the holder of a valid certificate of purchase obtained at a tax sale. Saunders v. Bankston, 31 Colo. App. 551, 506 P.2d 1253 (1972).

One having lease and option to purchase may redeem. One having a lease and an option to purchase land, having exercised his option and received a deed from the reputed owner, thereby acquires an equitable claim to the property under which he has the right to redeem it from a tax sale. Bean v. Westwood, 101 Colo. 288, 73 P.2d 386 (1937).

Assignee with security interest in property entitled to redeem. An assignee of a note, which note carries with it a security interest in real property, has a right to redeem and has an interest in the property. Swofford v. Colo. Nat'l Bank, 628 P.2d 184 (Colo. App. 1981).

One with a lien interest in land may redeem from tax sale. Miller v. First Nat'l Bank, 164 Colo. 449, 435 P.2d 899 (1968).

Lienor's acquisition of title cannot cut off other lienor. Equity will not permit one lienor to acquire a tax title while cutting off other lienor but will treat his purchase of the tax title as a payment of the taxes by a redemption, thereby giving him a preferred lien to the extent paid out to redeem. Miller v. First Nat'l Bank, 164 Colo. 449, 435 P.2d 899 (1968).

Amount payable on redemption not purchase price, but amount of tax involved. Where, at a tax sale, a certificate of purchase is issued to the county which thereafter is sold for a price fixed by a resolution of the board of county commissioners, the amount payable on redemption is not the sum paid by the purchaser as established by the board but the amount of the tax involved, which sums may be very different. Tarabino Real Estate Co. v. Dunlavy, 105 Colo. 523, 99 P.2d 926 (1940).

Redemption interest is a statutorily determined penalty exacted from the taxpayer for the privilege of redemption. Dove Valley Bus. Park v. County Comm'rs, 945 P.2d 395 (Colo. 1997).

The plain language of subsection (3), which explicitly warns a taxpayer that redemption interest will accrue based on the amount of taxes paid by the purchaser, did not provide the taxpayers with any basis to conclude that if they failed to pay their property taxes in a timely manner, and later redeemed their property, that the redemption interest on the amount paid by the purchaser would not apply to them. Dove Valley Bus. Park v. County Comm'rs, 945 P.2d 395 (Colo. 1997).

Colorado scheme does not guarantee pre-deprivation relief; however, due process requirements were met since the taxpayers received their "full refund" - the over assessed tax plus refund interest - even though redemption interest, which due process does not extend to, was not refunded. Dove Valley Bus. Park v. County Comm'rs, 945 P.2d 395 (Colo. 1997).

County was not unjustly enriched by the payment of redemption interest calculated on the basis of an assessment determined to be excessive at a date after the county conducted the tax lien sale. Dove Valley Bus. Park v. County Comm'rs, 945 P.2d 395 (Colo. 1997).

County treasurer acts in a quasi-judicial capacity in matters concerning redemption of property from tax sales. Johnson v. Dunkel, 132 Colo. 383, 288 P.2d 343 (1955).

Treasurer receives redemption money as agent of purchaser. Subsection (3) provides that the redemption money may be paid to the treasurer, but that officer holds it subject to the order of the purchaser; therefore, he receives it not as the agent of the state or county but as the agent of the purchaser. Statton v. People ex rel. Burr, 18 Colo. App. 85, 70 P. 157 (1902).

No mandamus to release land except upon payment of entire sale amount. Where land covered by a deed on trust is sold for taxes, part of which were assessed against the land and part of which were assessed as the personal tax of the owner, in a proper proceeding, the beneficiary of the trust deed is entitled to a release as to his interest in the land from the tax sale by payment only of the amount properly chargeable against the land, but mandamus will not lie against the county treasurer to compel him to release the land from the tax sale except upon payment of the entire amount for which it was sold, with interest and penalties. The proper remedy would be a proceeding in equity against the holder of the certificate of purchase. Statton v. People ex rel. Burr, 18 Colo. App. 85, 70 P. 157 (1902).

Action to set aside voidable tax deed not within section. In an action to set aside a voidable tax deed, interest on taxes paid on the land by the holder on the deed is not computed according to this section, but according to § 39-12-101. Phillips v. City & County of Denver, 115 Colo. 532, 175 P.2d 805 (1946).

Owner of severed mineral rights underlying property may not redeem. Although both common law and the deed in question gave the owner of severed mineral interests the right to use a reasonable amount of the surface estate for mineral development, such right was not a "legal or equitable claim" within the meaning of subsection (1). To hold otherwise would allow the mineral owner to augment his ownership, which is not a right recognized as part of the redemption process. Notch Mountain Corp. v. Elliott, 898 P.2d 550 (Colo. 1995).

The right to bring an equitable action cannot be considered synonymous with an equitable claim in the property. Notch Mountain Corp. v. Elliott, 898 P.2d 550 (Colo. 1995).

Redemption does not transfer title to the redemptioner, but rather prevents a transfer of title by tax deed. Notch Mountain Corp. v. Elliott, 898 P.2d 550 (Colo. 1995).

Title to a severed mineral interest is not conveyed under a tax deed issued for delinquent taxes levied against the surface estate. Notch Mountain Corp. v. Elliott, 898 P.2d 550 (Colo. 1995).

Limited partner does not have a right to redeem real property owned by the limited partnership because limited partner has no legal or equitable interest in the real property. Winter Park Devil's Thumb Inv. Co. v. BMS P'ship, 926 P.2d 1253 (Colo. 1996).

Right of redemption distinguished from right of co-owner to pay delinquent taxes. Unlike the right of an interest holder to redeem, the right granted to certain co-owners to pay delinquent taxes under § 38-41-110 does not result in issuance of a redemption certificate or acquisition of an interest in the delinquent co-owner's estate. Rather, the paying co-owner is granted the right to foreclose the lien for unpaid taxes. Notch Mountain Corp. v. Elliott, 898 P.2d 550 (Colo. 1995).

Applied in Harrison v. City & County of Denver, 102 Colo. 98, 76 P.2d 1110 (1938); French v. Golston, 105 Colo. 578, 100 P.2d 581 (1940); Eshe v. Clough, 116 Colo. 266, 179 P.2d 979 (1947); Boyle v. Culp, 159 Colo. 423, 412 P.2d 543 (1966).

39-12-104. Redemption of real property of person under disability. (1) When the owner of real property for which a tax deed was issued under the provisions of article 11 of this title as a result of delinquent taxes is under legal disability at the time of execution and delivery of a tax deed therefor, such person shall have the right to make redemption of such property at any time within nine years from the date of the recording of such tax deed. In the event that the disability of such person is removed or ceases within such nine-year period, such redemption must be asserted and take place within a period of not more than two years after the removal or cessation of such legal disability. All redemptions under this section shall take place within nine years of the recording of the tax deed, irrespective of the time that such disability was removed or ceased.

(2) In order to make such redemption, such owner, or some person in his behalf, shall pay to the treasurer the sum for which the tax lien on such real property was sold, and the cost of the tax deed and the recording of the same, with interest thereon from the date of such sale at the rate of fifteen percent per annum, and all other taxes, costs, and charges which remain unpaid on such real property at the time of making such redemption, levied or accrued thereon subsequent to the assessment date of the taxes for which the tax lien was sold, and all other taxes levied subsequent to the date of such sale, which have been paid by the person to whom the tax lien on said real property was sold, or by any other person claiming under him, with interest thereon at the rate of fifteen percent per annum from the date of such payment, insofar as such payments can be ascertained from the books and records in the office of such treasurer. If the person to whom the tax lien on such real property was sold, or any other person claiming under him, has made improvements, the person redeeming said real property shall pay the then present value of such improvements. The improvements shall be appraised by three disinterested persons appointed by the board of county commissioners. For all the money so paid, the treasurer shall give a certificate of redemption to the persons making such payment. From the time of making the redemption, the deed given upon the same shall be void as against such owner. In the event a redemption is not made within the periods of time provided for in this section, all rights of redemption shall cease and be forever barred as to all persons.

(1) Upon application of any party to redeem any real property for which a tax lien was sold or a tax deed was issued under the provisions of article 11 of this title, and being satisfied that such party has a right to redeem the same, and upon the payment of the proper amount, the treasurer shall issue to such party a certificate of redemption, describing the tract redeemed as in the certificate of sale and giving the date of redemption, the amount paid, and by whom redeemed and shall make the proper entries in the book of sales in the treasurer's office.

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

Section is applicable to property sold for special municipal improvement taxes. House v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 89 Colo. 196, 300 P. 998 (1931).

County treasurer is not entitled to a commission on money paid into his hands for the redemption of land sold to individuals for delinquent taxes nor to any fee for entering on his books an assignment of a certificate of purchase. Mitchell v. Wheeler, 20 Colo. App. 159, 77 P. 361 (1904).

39-12-110. Payment when certificate lost. If there is a loss or wrongful detention of such certificate and the land therein described has been redeemed, the owner thereof may exhibit to the treasurer evidence of such loss or detention, and, upon his making the same to appear satisfactory to the treasurer and upon his executing a bond with sufficient surety that he will refund such redemption money, with twenty-five percent per annum interest thereon, if any person thereafter shows his right thereto, the treasurer shall pay such redemption money to the person so executing such bond.

39-12-111. Land wrongfully sold - repayment. (1) When, by mistake or error of the treasurer, county clerk and recorder, or assessor or from double assessment, a tax lien has been sold on land upon which no tax was due at the time, the county shall reimburse the purchaser in the amount paid by him in connection with the purchase of the tax lien on such land, together with interest from the date of purchase at the rate which is determined as provided in this section. Reimbursement shall be made from the various funds to which the tax was originally distributed; except that interest shall be paid from the county general fund. The treasurer, county clerk and recorder, or assessor, as the case may be, and his sureties on his official bond shall be liable to the county for such amounts reimbursed as a result of sales made only through willful misconduct.

(2) (a) The annual rate of interest shall be two percentage points above the discount rate, which discount rate shall be the rate of interest a commercial bank pays to the federal reserve bank of Kansas City using a government bond or other eligible paper as security, and shall be rounded to the nearest full percent.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection (2), the rate of interest shall be no lower than eight percent per annum compounded annually.

(3) The commissioner of banking shall establish the annual rate of interest based upon the computation specified in subsection (2) of this section. Such annual rate of interest shall be so established as of September 1, 1981, to become effective October 1, 1981. Thereafter, on September 1 of each year, the annual rate of interest shall be established in the same manner, to become effective on October 1 of the same year.

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.

"Assessor" defined. The word "assessor" in subsection (1) means the assessing power. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Floaten, 66 Colo. 540, 181 P. 122 (1919).

Nothing in this article limits its intentment to general taxes; the word "tax" may include a special improvement tax as well as a general tax. House v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 89 Colo. 196, 300 P. 998 (1931).

Purchaser at tax sale buys at his peril in absence of special statute. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Lavington, 91 Colo. 252, 14 P.2d 493 (1932).

Counties liable where property not subject to taxation. Counties are not liable for void sales except where the property was not subject to taxation, or, by reason of a double assessment, no tax was due. Elder v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 33 Colo. 475, 81 P. 244 (1905).

Where property erroneously sold for special municipal improvement tax. Where the property of a railway company is erroneously sold for a special municipal improvement tax, the county is held liable for a return of the purchase price, notwithstanding the fact that the money received has been turned over to the municipal corporation. House v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 89 Colo. 196, 300 P. 998 (1931).

Assignee of purchaser may sue county. The assignment of a tax sale certificate carries with it and vests in the assignee all the rights of the original purchaser. Where the original purchaser had a right of action against the county to recover the purchase money, the same right vests in the assignee without a specific assignment of the right of action. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Whelen, 28 Colo. 435, 65 P. 38 (1901).

Applied in Larimer County v. Nat'l State Bank, 11 Colo. 564, 19 P. 537 (1888); Richardson v. City of Denver, 17 Colo. 398, 30 P. 333 (1892); Bd. of Comm'rs v. Yingling, 14 Colo. App. 449, 60 P. 582 (1900).

39-12-112. Allowance for erroneous assessments. The state treasurer shall allow each treasurer to take credit for the amount of state tax that may have been refunded to the taxpayer as double or erroneous assessments or refunded to the purchaser of a tax lien on real estate which lien was erroneously sold.

39-12-113. Redemption of proportionate interest. (1) Any person who has or claims an interest in or a lien upon all or any part of any undivided or divided estate or interest in any piece or parcel of land or lot for which a tax lien was sold pursuant to article 11 of this title may redeem such undivided or divided estate or interest by paying to the treasurer his proportionate part of the amount required to redeem the whole. In such case the treasurer shall issue to such party a certificate of redemption for his interest in such land or lot, as provided by law.

(2) In the event that the treasurer cannot definitely ascertain the amount required to redeem the portion sought to be redeemed, he shall request the assessor to determine the valuation for assessment on such portion sought to be redeemed as of the original assessment date for the tax upon which the sale of the tax lien was based. Such assessor shall furnish such valuation for assessment to the treasurer forthwith. The treasurer shall thereupon ascertain such proportionate redemption amount as that amount which bears the same proportion to the amount required to redeem the entire piece or parcel of land or lot for which a tax lien was sold as such valuation for assessment so furnished bears to the original valuation for assessment of the entire piece or parcel of land or lot for which a tax lien was sold.

ANNOTATION

Annotator’s note. The following annotations include cases decided under this section as it existed prior to its 1964 repeal and reenactment.
Tenant in common may pay tax upon share of land. A tenant in common of lands may, under subsection (1), pay the tax upon his share thereof, though the tax is assessed upon the whole estate, and he may redeem his interest from a previous tax sale of the whole. Hallett v. Alexander, 50 Colo. 37, 114 P. 490 (1911).
A tenant need not discharge tax upon cotenant’s interest. A tenant in common is under no necessity to discharge the tax upon the interest of his cotenant and will not be allowed a lien thereon for such payment made without the request of the cotenant. Hallett v. Alexander, 50 Colo. 37, 114 P. 490 (1911).

Section inapplicable to undivided interest separately assessed and sold. This section has no applicability where an undivided interest has been separately listed, assessed, and sold; to effectuate a redemption thereof, the owner of the undivided interest is obliged to pay the entire redemption money upon that interest. Garbanati v. Patterson, 37 Colo. 230, 85 P. 845 (1906).

39-13-101. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly declares that, in enacting laws relating to the general property tax, it has provided that certain property in each county of the state shall be appraised and the actual value thereof determined by the assessor and that one of the several factors to be considered by him in determining the actual value of any property shall be “comparison with other properties of known or recognized value”.
(2) It further declares that such comparison may be best effected if there is available to the assessor a continuing record of the consideration paid or to be paid by purchasers of real property evidenced, prior to recording, on the document conveying title to such property and recorded in the office of the county clerk and recorder in the several counties of the state in the manner provided by law and that this article is enacted to provide a means of developing such continuing record and making such record available for use primarily by assessors.

39-13-102. Documentary fee imposed - amount - to whom payable. (1) There is imposed and shall be paid, by every person offering for recording in the office of the county clerk and recorder any deed or instrument in writing wherein or whereby title to real property situated in this state is granted or conveyed, a fee, referred to in this article as "documentary fee", measured by the consideration paid or to be paid for such grant or conveyance, which documentary fee shall be in addition to any other fee fixed by law for the recording of such deed or instrument in writing.

(2) The amount of documentary fee payable in each case shall be as follows:

(a) When there is no consideration or when the total consideration paid by the purchaser, inclusive of the amount of any lien or encumbrance against the real property granted or conveyed and all charges and expenses required to be paid for the making of such grant or conveyance is five hundred dollars or less, no documentary fee shall be payable.

(b) When the total consideration paid by the purchaser, inclusive of the amount of any lien or encumbrance against the real property granted or conveyed and all charges and expenses required to be paid for the making of such grant or conveyance exceeds five hundred dollars, the documentary fee payable shall be computed at the rate of one cent for each one hundred dollars, or major fraction thereof, of such consideration.

(3) All documentary fees shall be payable to and collected by the county clerk and recorder.

(4) In those cases in which real property located in two or more counties is granted or conveyed in a single transaction, each county clerk and recorder shall collect a portion of the total documentary fee referred to in subsection (2) of this section in the same ratio that the consideration fairly attributable to the part of such property located in his county bears to the total consideration. The allocation of the total consideration between counties is to be made by the person offering such deed or instrument in writing for recording.

(5) (a) In determining the amount of consideration paid for the grant or conveyance of residential real property, inclusive of liens, charges, and expenses, the total amount of the sales price to the purchaser shall be deemed to be paid for the grant or conveyance of real property unless evidence of the separate consideration paid for personal property is submitted as shown on the contract of sale or the closing or settlement documents on the grant or conveyance or unless evidence of such separate consideration is shown on the declaration filed pursuant to the provisions of section 39-14-102.

(b) In determining the amount of consideration paid for the grant or conveyance of commercial or industrial real property, inclusive of liens, charges, and expenses, the total amount of the sales price to the purchaser shall be deemed to be paid for the grant or conveyance of real property unless evidence of the separate consideration paid for personal property is submitted as shown on the purchaser's use tax return as filed with the department of revenue or unless evidence of such separate consideration is shown on the declaration filed pursuant to the provisions of section 39-14-102.

(c) Any such evidence submitted under paragraph (a) or (b) of this subsection (5) shall not be recorded or filed by the county clerk and recorder and shall not be subject to public inspection but shall be sent to the county assessor. Such evidence shall be used by the assessor as required by section 39-13-107 but shall be kept confidential and shall not be subject to public inspection.

39-20-102. Civil action to enforce lien. In any case where there has been a refusal or neglect to pay any tax due the state of Colorado and a statement or notice has been filed which, under law, creates a lien upon any real property for such tax, the executive director of the department of revenue may cause a civil action to be filed in the district court of the county in which is situated any real property which is subject to said lien to enforce the lien of the state of Colorado for such tax upon the real property situated in that county or in any other county in the state which may be subject to such lien or to subject any real property or any right, title, or interest in real property to the payment of such tax. The court shall adjudicate all matters involved in such action and may decree a sale of the real property and distribute the proceeds of such sale according to the findings of the court in respect to the interest of the parties and of the state of Colorado. The proceedings in such action and the manner of sale, the period for and manner of redemption from such sale, and the execution of a deed of conveyance shall be in accordance with the law and practice relating to foreclosures of mortgages upon real property. In any such action, the court may appoint a receiver of the real property involved in such action if equity so requires.

39-20-103. When holder of prior lien may file action. (1) A person having a lien upon or any interest in any real estate referred to in section 39-20-102 under or by virtue of any instrument that has been duly filed of record, in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county where the real estate is located, prior to the filing of the statement or notice that created a lien upon such real property for taxes or any person purchasing such real estate at a sale to satisfy such prior lien or interest may make written request to the executive director of the department of revenue to file a civil action as provided in section 39-20-102. If no civil action has been commenced as provided in section 39-20-102 within two months after receipt by the executive director of the written request, the person or purchaser may file a civil action in the district court of any county where any such real property is situated asking for a final determination of all claims of the state of Colorado to and all liens of the state of Colorado upon the real estate in question. Service of the process in such action upon the state of Colorado shall be made upon the executive director of the department of revenue or upon one of his or her deputies. Permission is given for the state of Colorado to be so sued. The court shall in such civil action adjudicate the matters involved therein in the same manner as in the case of civil actions filed under section 39-20-102.

(2) Except for liens with priority pursuant to section 39-22-604, a lien for taxes due the state of Colorado may be divested by a foreclosure pursuant to article 38 of title 38, C.R.S., in the same manner as other lienors with liens upon the property being foreclosed. The state of Colorado shall have the same redemption rights as other lienors in such a foreclosure. A person foreclosing a deed of trust or other lien with priority over a lien for taxes due the state of Colorado in a foreclosure under article 38 of title 38, C.R.S., shall not be required to make a written request or to commence a civil action pursuant to subsection (1) of this section.

39-20-104. Certificate of discharge subject to lien. If any property, real or personal, under the law, is subject to a lien for the payment of any tax due the state of Colorado, the executive director of the department of revenue may issue a certificate of discharge of any part of the property subject to the lien if he finds that the fair market value of that part of such property remaining subject to the lien is at least double the amount of the liability remaining unsatisfied in respect to such tax and the amount of all prior liens upon such property.

39-20-105. Certificate of discharge to part of property. If any property, real or personal, under the law, is subject to a lien for the payment of any tax due the state of Colorado, the executive director of the department of revenue may issue a certificate of discharge of any part of the property subject to the lien if there is paid over to the executive director, in part satisfaction of the liability in respect to such tax, an amount determined by the executive director, which shall not be less than the value, as determined by him, of the interest of the state of Colorado in the part to be so discharged.

ANNOTATION

Section 39-21-107 applicable where use taxes assessed, no return filed. It is the intent of the general assembly that § 39-21-107, rather than § 39-26-210, should be the controlling statute of limitations where use taxes are assessed but no return is filed. Dye Constr. Co. v. Dolan, 41 Colo. App. 293, 589 P.2d 497 (1978).

Inapplicable to violations of liquor code. The prohibition against fraud found in § 39-21-118 does not apply to violations of the liquor code. People v. Luciano, 662 P.2d 480 (Colo. 1983).

The general assembly intended the controlled substances tax to be subject to the provisions of this article, and, since taxpayer failed to pursue administrative remedies set forth therein, the court was without jurisdiction to hear taxpayer's complaint. Huff v. Tipton, 810 P.2d 236 (Colo. App. 1991).

39-21-103. Hearings. (1) As soon as practicable after any tax return or the return showing the value of oil and gas is filed pursuant to articles 22 to 29 of this title, article 60 of title 34, or article 3 of title 42, C.R.S., the executive director shall examine it and shall determine the correct amount of tax. If the tax found due is greater than the amount theretofore assessed or paid, a notice of deficiency shall be mailed to the taxpayer by first-class mail as set forth in section 39-21-105.5.

(2) The taxpayer may request a hearing on the proposed tax by application to the executive director within thirty days of the mailing of a notice of deficiency.

(3) The request for hearing shall set forth the taxpayer's reasons for and the amount of the requested changes in the deficiency.

(3.5) If the executive director determines that a request for a hearing related to the tax set forth in part 1 of article 22 of this title is a frivolous submission and rejects the request pursuant to section 39-21-104.5, the taxpayer shall not be entitled to a hearing before the executive director and the provisions of section 39-21-104.5 shall apply.

(4) The executive director of the department of revenue shall notify the taxpayer in writing of the time and place for such hearing thirty days prior thereto. In all cases where the disputed deficiency involves gift taxes or exceeds two hundred dollars and does not involve sales and use taxes, the hearing shall be held in Denver, Colorado. If the disputed deficiency does not involve gift taxes, is two hundred dollars or less, or involves sales and use taxes regardless of the amount, the hearing may be held, at the election of the taxpayer, in the district office of the department nearest to the place where the taxpayer resides or has his principal place of business within Colorado. If the taxpayer does not reside or have a place of business in Colorado, the hearing shall be held in the city and county of Denver.

(4.5) If the taxpayer and the executive director agree that the disposition of the taxpayer's requested changes requires the resolution of a question of law arising under the United States or Colorado constitutions, the executive director shall memorialize the agreement and send the taxpayer a notice of the agreement by first-class mail as set forth in section 39-21-105.5. If a notice is sent pursuant to this subsection (4.5), a taxpayer may elect to waive a hearing pursuant to this section and appeal the notice of deficiency directly to the district court pursuant to section 39-21-105 within thirty days after the mailing of the notice.

(5) After a hearing under this section, the taxpayer shall not be entitled to a second hearing before the executive director of the department of revenue on the matters set forth in his previous request for hearing.

(6) (a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (6), the hearing shall be held before the executive director of the department of revenue.

(b) In cases where the disputed deficiency is more than two hundred dollars and involves an income tax, the hearing may be held before such qualified person within the department specifically authorized by the executive director to act on the executive director's behalf to hear such dispute. In cases where the disputed deficiency is two hundred dollars or less or involves a sales, use, or gift tax, the hearing may be held before such person within the department as the executive director shall designate.

(c) The executive director or the executive director's delegate is authorized to administer oaths and take testimony. At the hearing, the taxpayer may assert any facts, make any arguments, and file any briefs and affidavits the taxpayer believes pertinent to the case.

(7) In lieu of the request for hearing within the time provided by this section, the taxpayer may, at his election, file a written brief and such other written materials or documents as he deems appropriate and request that the executive director of the department of revenue reconsider the deficiency without a hearing. The executive director shall reconsider the deficiency in the same manner as if the written material submitted had been presented at a hearing pursuant to this section. The submission of written material shall be considered for all purposes the same as a request for and submission of the material at a hearing.

(8) (a) Based on the evidence presented at the hearing or filed in support of the taxpayer's contentions or after the expiration of thirty days from the mailing of the notice of deficiency, if no request for hearing or brief has been filed by the taxpayer, the executive director of the department of revenue shall make a final determination within the time specified in paragraph (b) of this subsection (8) and shall send the taxpayer a notice of final determination accompanied by notice and demand for payment by first-class mail as set forth in section 39-21-105.5.

(b) The executive director shall make a final determination within sixty days of the hearing. Such deadline may be extended:

(I) By up to an additional sixty days by mutual agreement between the executive director and the taxpayer; or

(II) By the executive director in the executive director's discretion if the final determination raises issues that require additional information or time to analyze in order to make the determination. The executive director may authorize successive extensions of a deadline to make a particular determination; however, no individual extension authorized pursuant to this subparagraph (II) shall exceed sixty days. Prior to authorizing each extension of a deadline pursuant to this subparagraph (II), the executive director shall mail a written notice of the extension and the specific reasons therefor to the taxpayer.

(c) The executive director may modify the tax, penalty, and interest questioned at the hearing and may approve a refund; except that no additional tax shall be assessed for less than one dollar. Unless an appeal is taken as provided in section 39-21-105, the tax, together with interest thereon and penalties, if any, shall be paid within thirty days after mailing of the notice and demand for payment by the executive director.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Taxation", which discusses Tenth Circuit decisions dealing with the fifth amendment privilege in tax proceedings, see 61 Den. L.J. 384 (1984).

Annotator's note. Notes from People ex rel. Dunbar v. Maytag, 129 Colo. 316, 270 P.2d 782 (1954), decided under former § 39-25-115, which dealt with objections to the amount of gift tax, are included in the annotations to this section.

Director of revenue is vested with the full authority to determine tax liability, subject to the right of appeal to the district court, and the further right of review pursuant to the provisions of § 39-21-105. Ray v. State, 123 Colo. 144, 226 P.2d 804 (1950).

Decision of director final against state. After the tax liability determined hereby is paid under protest, the decision of the director of revenue is apparently final against the state, for § 39-21-105 makes available only the remedy to be pursued in the event the taxpayer is dissatisfied with the director's decision. California Co. v. State, 141 Colo. 288, 348 P.2d 382 (1959), appeal dismissed, 364 U.S. 285, 81 S. Ct. 37, 5 L. Ed.2d 37, reh'g denied, 364 U.S. 897, 81 S. Ct. 219, 5 L. Ed.2d 191 (1960).

Section sets forth a statutory procedure available to a donor if he is dissatisfied with the assessment or the gift tax determined by the commissioner (now executive director). People ex rel. Dunbar v. Maytag, 129 Colo. 316, 270 P.2d 782 (1954).

Section affords the taxpayer a plain, speedy, and adequate remedy and a full opportunity to be heard as to the quantum of the tax and the alleged irregularities leading up to the fixation of tax liability. Liebhardt v. Dept. of Rev., 123 Colo. 369, 229 P.2d 655 (1951).

Taxpayer's sole remedy under this section. If the donor is dissatisfied with the commissioner's (now executive director's) determination of the gift tax, his sole and only remedy is under the provisions of this section. People ex rel. Dunbar v. Maytag, 129 Colo. 316, 270 P.2d 782 (1954).

Section provides a clear opportunity to be heard without condition. Reed v. Dolan, 195 Colo. 193, 577 P.2d 284 (1978).

Section is applicable only where there has been assessment and tax determination by the inheritance tax commissioner (now executive director), and the objections therein provided are limited to questions of erroneous valuation, appraisal, or objections or petitions in a court of competent jurisdiction within three months after the gift tax has been determined. People ex rel. Dunbar v. Maytag, 129 Colo. 316, 270 P.2d 782 (1954).

No "return" filed without information with respect to income on form. Where a Colorado income tax form contains no information with respect to income, the taxpayer has not filed a "return" within the meaning of subsection (1) and he is not within the class of persons protected by this section who are entitled to a determination of tax due after a return has been filed. People v. Vickers, 199 Colo. 305, 608 P.2d 808 (1980).

Failure to exhaust statutory remedies constitutes waiver. The failure to interpose objections in the manner and at the time prescribed by law, and to exhaust the statutory remedies afforded the taxpayer, constitutes a waiver of such objections. Liebhardt v. Dept. of Rev., 123 Colo. 369, 229 P.2d 655 (1951).

The taxpayer's failure to pursue the proper administrative courses available to him as possible remedies bars him from later attacking the final determination and notice of tax deficiency. Manka v. Martin, 614 P.2d 875 (Colo. 1980), cert. denied, 450 U.S. 913, 101 S. Ct. 1354, 67 L. Ed.2d 338 (1981).

The general assembly intended the controlled substances tax to be subject to the provisions of this article, and, since taxpayer failed to pursue administrative remedies set forth therein, the court was without jurisdiction to hear taxpayer's complaint. Huff v. Tipton, 810 P.2d 236 (Colo. App. 1991).

Where partnership is assessed for use tax and incurs liability owing to its failure to protest liability, taxpayer who is general partner of a limited partnership is jointly and severally liable therefor. AF Prop. v. Dept. of Rev., 852 P.2d 1267 (Colo. App. 1992).

When issue of material fact existed as to whether general partnership had been assessed with a use tax, trial court erred in entering motion for summary judgment in favor of individual partner on grounds that partner could not be held jointly and severally liable for deficiency owed by partnership. AF Prop. v. Dept. of Rev., 852 P.2d 1267 (Colo. App. 1992).

Applied in People v. Vesely, 41 Colo. App. 325, 587 P.2d 802 (1978); Montgomery Ward & Co. v. State, Dept. of Rev., 628 P.2d 85 (1981); Montgomery Ward & Co. v. Dept. of Rev., 675 P.2d 318 (Colo. App. 1983).

39-21-104. Rejection of claims. (1) Upon rejection, in whole or in part, of a claim for refund filed by a taxpayer, with respect to any tax set forth in section 39-21-103 (1), the executive director of the department of revenue shall send a notice of rejection to the taxpayer in writing by first-class mail as set forth in section 39-21-105.5; and, within thirty days from the mailing thereof, the taxpayer may request a hearing or file a brief with the executive director, except where the claim is for refund of a deficiency in taxes assessed after hearing or determination on written brief had under the provisions of section 39-21-103. Thereafter, both the taxpayer and the executive director shall proceed as provided in section 39-21-103 with respect to the hearing or determination on written brief. Upon reaching a decision upon the claim for refund after hearing had thereon or consideration of the written brief, the executive director shall send to the taxpayer, by first-class mail as set forth in section 39-21-105.5, notice of final determination of claim for refund, stating therein the grounds for allowance or rejection in whole or in part.

(2) If the executive director determines that a request for a hearing related to the tax set forth in part 1 of article 22 of this title is a frivolous submission and rejects the request pursuant to section 39-21-104.5, the taxpayer shall not be entitled to a hearing before the executive director and the provisions of section 39-21-104.5 shall apply.

Editor's note: Amendments to this section by House Bill 77-1164 and Senate Bill 77-100 were harmonized.

39-21-104.5. Frivolous submissions. (1) As used in this part 1, unless the context otherwise requires, "frivolous submission" means a request for a hearing related to the tax set forth in part 1 of article 22 of this title made pursuant to section 39-21-103 or 39-21-104 that is based on a position that was previously rejected in a published opinion by a Colorado or federal court.

(2) If the executive director determines that a request for a hearing made pursuant to section 39-21-103 or 39-21-104 is a frivolous submission, the executive director may reject the request. If the executive director does not reject the request, the provisions of section 39-21-103 or 39-21-104 shall apply.

(3) If the executive director rejects a taxpayer's request for a hearing:

(a) The executive director shall notify the taxpayer in writing within a reasonable time after receiving the taxpayer's request that the taxpayer's request has been rejected; and

(b) The executive director shall make a final determination within a reasonable time after receiving the taxpayer's request for a hearing and shall send the taxpayer a notice of final determination accompanied by a notice and demand for payment by first-class mail as set forth in section 39-21-105.5.

(4) A taxpayer may appeal the final determination of the executive director in accordance with the provisions of section 39-21-105.

(5) Unless an appeal is taken as provided in section 39-21-105, the tax, together with interest thereon and penalties, if any, shall be paid within thirty days after mailing of the notice and demand for payment by the executive director.

Source: L. 2003: Entire section added, p. 662, § 3, effective March 20.

39-21-105. Appeals. (1) The taxpayer may appeal the final determination of the executive director issued pursuant to section 39-21-103, 39-21-104, or 39-21-104.5 within thirty days after the mailing of such determination.

(2) (a) Venue shall be in the district court of the county wherein the taxpayer resides or has his principal place of business. If the taxpayer has neither a residence nor a principal place of business within the state, venue shall be in the district court in and for the city and county of Denver.

(b) Jurisdiction to hear and determine appeals is conferred upon the district courts of this state. Trial may be had or any order made in term or in vacation. The district court shall try the case de novo, reviewing all questions of law and fact, such review being conducted in accordance with the Colorado rules of civil procedure. The taxpayer shall present his case in the same manner as the plaintiff in other civil actions and the normal rules of evidence shall apply. The taxpayer shall have the burden of proof with respect to the issues raised in the notice of appeal except as to the issue of whether the taxpayer has been guilty of fraud with intent to evade tax. The burden of proof shall be upon the executive director of the department of revenue or his delegate to show that a petitioner is liable as a transferee of property of a taxpayer but not to show that the taxpayer was liable for the tax. The district court may affirm, modify, or reverse the determination of the executive director and may enter judgment on its findings.

(3) Appeal to the district court shall be taken by filing, with the clerk of the district court of the proper county, a copy of the notice of final determination received by the taxpayer, together with a written notice stating that the taxpayer appeals to the district court and alleging the pertinent facts upon which such appeal is grounded.

(4) (a) Within fifteen days after filing the notice of appeal, the taxpayer shall file with the district court a surety bond in twice the amount of the taxes, interest, and other charges stated in the final determination by the executive director which are contested on appeal. The taxpayer may, at his option, satisfy the surety bond requirement by a savings account or deposit in or a certificate of deposit issued by a state or national bank or by a state or federal savings and loan association, in accordance with the provisions of section 11-35-101 (1), C.R.S., equal to twice the amount of the taxes, interest, and other charges stated in the final determination by the executive director.

(b) The taxpayer may, at his option, deposit the disputed amount with the executive director of the department of revenue in lieu of posting a surety bond. If such amount is so deposited, no further interest shall accrue on the deficiency contested during the pendency of the action. At the conclusion of the action, after appeal to the supreme court or the court of appeals or after the time for such appeal has expired, the funds deposited shall be, at the direction of the court, either retained by the executive director and applied against the deficiency or returned in whole or in part to the taxpayer with interest at the rate imposed under section 39-21-110.5. No claim for refund of amounts deposited with the executive director of the department of revenue need be made by the taxpayer in order for such amounts to be repaid in accordance with the direction of the court.

(5) Upon filing of the notice of appeal, the executive director of the department of revenue shall be deemed to be a party to such appeal; and the clerk of the district court shall docket the cause as a civil action. The appellant shall cause summons to be issued and cause the same to be served upon the executive director, in accordance with the manner provided by law in civil cases. Notice of the date of trial shall be mailed to the taxpayer and to the executive director, at least twenty days prior thereto.

(6) The final decision made in such appeal shall be entered as a judgment, as in other civil cases, against the taxpayer or against the executive director as the case may be.

(7) The decision of the district court shall be reviewable by the supreme court or the court of appeals as is otherwise provided by law.

ANNOTATION

Required bond constitutional. The mandatory bond requirement of subsection (4) does not violate the taxpayer's constitutional right to due process. Callow v. Dept. of Rev., 197 Colo. 513, 594 P.2d 1051 (1979).

Director of revenue is vested with the full authority to determine tax liability, subject to the right of appeal to the district court, and the further right of review pursuant to the provisions of this section. Ray v. State, 123 Colo. 144, 226 P.2d 804 (1950).

Decision of director final against state. Since the tax provisions create the administrative machinery for determining tax liability, and since the only available remedy is that provided for the taxpayer, the decision of the director is final against the state, and the director's waiver of penalty and penalty interest is binding on the department. Dye Constr. Co. v. Dolan, 41 Colo. App. 293, 589 P.2d 497 (1978).

Failure to appeal within 30 days precludes judicial review. Where the taxpayer, when served with the notice of determination and assessment and demand for payment, declines to avail himself of his statutory administrative remedies, in that he fails to request a hearing before the director, offer additional evidence concerning his tax liability, post the statutory bond, or appeal to the district court from the determination of the director, the director's decision becomes final 30 days after notice thereof is mailed to the taxpayer, and it thereupon becomes no longer subject to judicial review. Liebhart v. Dept. of Rev., 123 Colo. 369, 229 P.2d 655 (1951).

Mailing notice to the taxpayer's attorneys does not start the 30-day period, and an appeal is timely when commenced within 30 days of mailing notice to the taxpayer pursuant to § 39-21-104. Adolph Coors Co. v. Charnes, 690 P.2d 893 (Colo. App. 1984).

Subsection (2)(b) requires the trial court to try the case de novo, reviewing all questions of law and fact, such review being conducted in accordance with the Colorado rules of civil procedure. M & J Leasing v. Dir. of Dept. of Rev., 796 P.2d 28 (Colo. App. 1990).

Courts may not dispense with the bond requirement when reviewing questions of law pursuant to subsection (2)(b). For both questions of law and fact, the bond is to obtain security for the payment of taxes. Overstreet v. Dept. of Rev., 178 P.3d 1259 (Colo. App. 2007).

Trial court's reliance on facts stipulated at administrative hearing was erroneous. M & J Leasing v. Dir. of Dept. of Rev., 796 P.2d 28 (Colo. App. 1990).

Statutes requiring appeal bonds are ordinarily a valid exercise of legislative power, since they do not restrict or deny the "right" of appeal but merely regulate the manner of exercising it. Reed v. Dolan, 195 Colo. 193, 577 P.2d 284 (1978); Callow v. Dept. of Rev., 197 Colo. 513, 594 P.2d 1051 (1979).

No conflict is found between this section and § 24-4-106 (5) where none plainly appears. Dept. of Rev. v. District Court, 193 Colo. 553, 568 P.2d 1157 (1977).

This section does not expressly prohibit the entry of a stay as authorized by § 24-4-106 (5). Dept. of Rev. v. District Court, 193 Colo. 553, 568 P.2d 1157 (1977).

Trial court had jurisdiction as a matter of law to waive bond requirement for indigent taxpayer and proceed to adjudicate merits of appeal concerning use tax deficiency where undisputed evidence in affidavit form was proffered to the trial court reciting tax payer's inability to post bond or make deposit required by statute. AF Prop. v. Dept. of Rev., 852 P.2d 1267 (Colo. App. 1992).

Subsection (4) does not authorize a taxpayer to toll the statutory period for obtaining a surety bond by filing a motion to waive the surety bond requirement and then filing a motion to reconsider. Overstreet v. Dept. of Rev., 178 P.3d 1259 (Colo. App. 2007).

Where partnership is assessed for use taxes and incurs liability owing to its failure to protest liability, taxpayer, as general partner of a limited partnership, is jointly and severally liable therefor. AF Prop. v. Dept. of Rev., 852 P.2d 1267 (Colo. App. 1992).

When issue of material fact existed as to whether general partnership had been assessed with a use tax, trial court erred in entering motion for summary judgment in favor of individual partner on grounds that partner could not be held jointly and severally liable for deficiency owed by partnership. AF Prop. v. Dept. of Rev., 852 P.2d 1267 (Colo. App. 1992).

Applied in B.P.O.E. Lodge No. 804 v. Dept. of Rev., 41 Colo. App. 88, 582 P.2d 1068 (1978); Dye Constr. Co. v. Dolan, 41 Colo. App. 293, 589 P.2d 497 (1978); Kraftco Corp. v. 39-21-105.5. Notice - first-class mail. Any notice required to be given to any taxpayer or the agent or personal representative of the estate of any taxpayer shall be sufficient if mailed, postpaid by first-class mail to the last-known address of the taxpayer or the agent or personal representative of the estate of the taxpayer. The first-class mailing of any notice under the provisions of this article and articles 22 to 29 of this title creates a presumption that such notice was received by the taxpayer or agent or personal representative of the estate of the taxpayer if the department maintains a record of the notice and maintains a certification that the notice was deposited in the United States mail by an employee of the department. Evidence of the record of the notice mailed to the last-known address of the taxpayer or agent or personal representative of the estate of the taxpayer as shown by the records of the department and a certification of mailing by first-class mail by a department employee is prima facie proof that the notice was received by the taxpayer or agent or personal representative of the estate of the taxpayer.

39-21-106. Compromise. (1) The executive director or his or her delegate may compromise any civil or criminal case arising under any tax or the charge on oil and gas production imposed by articles 22 to 29 of this title, article 60 of title 34, or article 3 of title 42, C.R.S., prior to reference to the department of law for prosecution or defense; and the attorney general or his or her delegate shall, upon the written direction of the executive director, compromise any such case after reference to the department of law for prosecution or defense.

(2) Whenever a compromise of two thousand five hundred dollars or more is made by the executive director or his delegate in any case, there shall be placed on file in the office of the executive director or his delegate the opinion of the director with his reasons therefor, which may include financial inability of the taxpayer to pay a greater amount, with a statement of:

- (a) The amount of tax assessed;
 - (b) The amount of interest, additional amount, addition to the tax, or assessable penalty imposed by law on the person against whom the tax is assessed; and
 - (c) The amount paid in accordance with the terms of the compromise.
- (3) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (2) of this section, no such opinion shall be required with respect to the compromise of any civil case in which the unpaid amount of tax assessed, including any interest, additional amount, addition to the tax, or assessable penalty, is less than two thousand five hundred dollars.

39-21-107. Limitations. (1) Except as provided in this section and unless such time is extended by waiver, the amount of any tax or of any charge on oil and gas production imposed pursuant to articles 24 to 29 of this title or article 3 of title 42, C.R.S., and the penalty and interest applicable thereto, shall be assessed within three years after the return was filed, whether or not such return was filed on or after the date prescribed, and no assessment shall be made or credit taken and no notice of lien shall be filed, nor distraint warrant issued, nor suit for collection instituted, nor any other action to collect the same commenced after the expiration of such period; except that a written proposed adjustment of the tax liability by the department issued prior to the expiration of such period shall extend the limitation of this subsection (1) for one year after a final determination or assessment is made. No lien shall continue after the three-year period provided for in this subsection (1), except for taxes assessed before the expiration of such period, notice of lien with respect to which has been filed prior to the expiration of such period, and except for taxes on which written notice of any proposed adjustment of the tax liability has been sent to the taxpayer during such three-year period, in which case the lien shall continue for one year only after the expiration of such period or after the issuance of a final determination or assessment based on the proposed adjustment issued prior to the expiration of the three-year period. This subsection (1) shall not apply to income tax or to any tax imposed under article 23.5 of this title.

(2) In the case of an income tax imposed by article 22 of this title, unless such time is extended by waiver and except as provided in section 39-22-601 (6) (e), the assessment of any tax, penalties, and interest shall be made within one year after the expiration of the time provided for assessing a deficiency in federal income tax or changing the reported federal taxable income of a partnership, limited liability company, or fiduciary, including any extensions of such period by agreement between the taxpayer and the federal taxing authorities; except that a written proposed adjustment of the tax liability by the department shall extend the limitation of this subsection (2) for one year after a final determination or assessment is made and except that, if the taxpayer has been audited by the department for the year in question and the issues raised in the audit have been settled by agreement for payment or payment of deficiencies arising therefrom, then any additional assessment shall be limited to deficiencies arising as a result of adjustments made by the commissioner of internal revenue in the final determination of federal taxable income. An assessment of income taxes having been made according to law shall be good and valid and collection thereof may be enforced at any time within six years from the date of said assessment.

(3) For purposes of this section, a tax return filed before the last day prescribed by law or by regulation promulgated pursuant to law for the filing thereof shall be considered as filed on such last day.

(4) In the case of failure to file a return or the filing of a false or fraudulent return with intent to evade tax, the tax may be assessed and collected at any time.

(5) Where, before the expiration of the time prescribed in this section for the assessment of tax, both the executive director of the department of revenue or his delegate and the taxpayer have consented in writing to an assessment after such time, the tax may be assessed at any time prior to the expiration of the period agreed upon. The period so agreed upon may be extended by subsequent agreements in writing made before the expiration of the period previously agreed upon.

(6) Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit any right accrued or revive any liability barred by any statute enacted on or before July 1, 1965.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Taxation", see 32 Dicta 418 (1955).

Section applicable where use taxes assessed, no return filed. It is the intent of the general assembly that this section, rather than § 39-26-210, should be the controlling statute of limitations where use taxes are assessed but no return is filed. Dye Constr. Co. v. Dolan, 41 Colo. App. 293, 589 P.2d 497 (1978).

Previously barred liabilities not revived. The general assembly intended to provide that liabilities which had already been barred by other statutory provisions on the date when this section became effective were not revived by subsection (6). Dye Constr. Co. v. Dolan, 41 Colo. App. 293, 589 P.2d 497 (1978).

Applied in CF&I Steel Corp. v. Charnes, 637 P.2d 324 (Colo. 1981); Kraftco Corp. v. Charnes, 636 P.2d 1300 (Colo. App. 1981).

39-21-108. Refunds. (1) (a) In the case of income tax imposed by article 22 of this title, the taxpayer must file any claim for refund or credit for any year not later than the period provided for filing a claim for refund of federal income tax plus one year. However, any extensions of the period by agreement between the taxpayer and the federal taxing authorities shall extend the period established in this section by the same amount of time. The department shall not pay any refund for which the claim is filed later than the period provided for the payment of a refund of federal income tax plus one year. However, no refund or credit of income tax shall be made to any taxpayer who fails to file a return pursuant to section 39-22-601 within four years from the date the return was required to be filed. Except in the case of failure to file a return or the filing of a false or fraudulent return with intent to evade tax and otherwise notwithstanding any provision of law, the statute of limitations relating to claims for refund or credit for any year shall not expire prior to the expiration of the time within which a deficiency for such year could be assessed. In the case of the charge on oil and gas production imposed by article 60 of title 34, C.R.S., and the passenger-mile tax imposed by article 3 of title 42, C.R.S., or the severance tax imposed by article 29 of this title, the taxpayer shall file any claim for refund or credit for any period not later than three years after the date of payment. Claims for refund of other taxes covered by this article shall be made within the time limits expressly provided for the specific taxes involved. Except as provided in section 39-21-105, no suit for refund may be commenced. This subsection (1) shall not apply to sales and use taxes.

(b) Repealed.

(2) If the executive director discovers from the examination of a return within the time periods provided for the filing of refunds, or upon claim duly filed by the taxpayer, or upon final judgment of a court that the tax, penalty, or interest paid by any taxpayer is in excess of the amount due or has been illegally or erroneously collected, then the executive director shall issue in favor of the taxpayer his voucher to the controller for the refund of such illegally collected tax, penalty, or interest, regardless of whether or not such sum was paid under protest, together with interest provided in section 39-21-110. Upon receipt of such voucher properly executed and endorsed, the controller shall issue his warrant for the payment to the taxpayer out of the reserve provided therefor; but the controller shall keep in his files a duplicate of said voucher and also a statement which shall set forth the reason why such refund has been ordered.

(3) (a) (I) (A) Whenever it is established that any taxpayer has, for any period open under the statutes, overpaid a tax covered by articles 22 and 26 to 29 of this title, article 60 of title 34, C.R.S., and article 3 of title 42, C.R.S., and that: There is an unpaid balance of tax and interest accrued, according to the records of the executive director, owing by such taxpayer for any other period; there is an amount required to be repaid to the unemployment compensation fund pursuant to section 8-81-101 (4), C.R.S., the amount of which has been determined to be owing as a result of a final agency determination or judicial decision or that has been reduced to judgment by the division of unemployment insurance in the department of labor and employment; there is any unpaid child support debt as set forth in section 14-14-104, C.R.S., or child support arrearages that are the subject of enforcement services provided pursuant to section 26-13-106, C.R.S., as certified by the department of human services; there are any unpaid obligations owing to the state as set forth in section 26-2-133, C.R.S., for overpayment of public assistance or medical assistance benefits, the amount of which has been determined to be owing as a result of final agency determination or judicial decision or that has been reduced to judgment, as certified by the department of human services; there is any unpaid loan or other obligation due to a state-supported institution of higher education as set forth in section 23-5-115, C.R.S., the amount of which has been determined to be owing as a result of a final agency determination or judicial decision or that has been reduced to judgment, as certified by the appropriate institution; there is any unpaid loan due to the student loan division of the department of higher education as set forth in section 23-3.1-104 (1) (p), C.R.S., the amount of which has been determined to be owing as a result of a final agency determination or judicial decision or that has been reduced to judgment, as certified by the division; there is any unpaid loan due to the collegeinvest division of the department of higher education as set forth in section 23-3.1-206, C.R.S., the amount of which has been determined to be owing as a result of a final agency determination or judicial decision or that has been reduced to judgment; there is any outstanding judicial fine, fee, cost, or surcharge as set forth in section 16-11-101.8, C.R.S., or judicial restitution as set forth in section 16-18.5-106.8, C.R.S., the amount of which has been determined to be owing as a result of a final judicial department determination or certified by the judicial department as a judgment owed the state or a victim; there is any unpaid debt owing to the state or any agency thereof by such taxpayer, and that is found to be owing as a result of a final agency determination or the amount of which has been reduced to judgment and as certified by the controller; or the taxpayer is a qualified individual identified pursuant to section 39-22-120 (10) or 39-22-2003 (9), so much of the overpayment of tax plus interest allowable thereon as does not exceed the amount of such unpaid balance or unpaid debt must be credited first to the unpaid balance of tax and interest accrued and then to the unpaid debt, and any excess of the overpayment must be refunded. If the taxpayer elects to designate his or her refund as a credit against a subsequent year's tax liability, the amount allowed to be so credited must be reduced first by the unpaid balance of tax and interest accrued and then by the unpaid debt. If the taxpayer filed a joint return, the executive director shall notify the taxpayer's spouse that the portion of the overpayment that is generated by the spouse's income will be refunded upon receipt of a request detailing said amount. As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires, "agency" includes state-supported institutions of higher education.

(B) With respect to debts for any unpaid loan or other obligation due to a state-supported institution of higher education as set forth in section 23-5-115, C.R.S., or any unpaid loan due to the student loan division of the department of higher education as set forth in section 23-3.1-104 (1) (p), C.R.S., or any unpaid loan due to the collegeinvest division of the department of higher education as set forth in section 23-3.1-206, C.R.S., a debtor must be afforded his or her due process rights prior to a final agency determination.

(II) Any moneys withheld for payment of an unemployment compensation benefit debt pursuant to this subsection (3) shall be deposited with the state treasurer and credited to the unemployment compensation fund. For persons required to repay benefit overpayments in accordance with section 8-81-101 (4) (a), C.R.S., the executive director of the department of revenue shall provide to said division the taxpayers' names and associated amounts deposited with the state treasurer.

(III) Any moneys withheld for payment of a child support debt or child support arrearages pursuant to this subsection (3) shall be deposited in the family support registry created pursuant to section 26-13-114, C.R.S., for disbursement by the department of human services. For all names and amounts certified by the department of human services pursuant to section 26-13-111, C.R.S., the executive director of the department of revenue shall provide to the department of human services the taxpayers' names and associated amounts deposited with the state treasurer and any other identifying information as required by the department of human services.

(IV) Any moneys withheld for payment of an institution of higher education debt pursuant to this subsection (3) shall be deposited with the state treasurer for disbursement by the state treasurer to the appropriate institution. For each person whose name and amount is certified by the appropriate institution pursuant to section 23-5-115, C.R.S., the executive director of the department of revenue shall provide to the appropriate institution the name, address, and social security number or federal employer identification number, whichever is applicable, of the taxpayer whose refund is being offset, the amount of the offset, and any other identifying information as required by the institution.

(V) Any moneys withheld for payment of an unpaid debt owing to the state pursuant to this subsection (3) shall be deposited with the state treasurer for disbursement by the controller. For each person whose name and amount is certified by the controller pursuant to section 24-30-202.4, C.R.S., the executive director of the department of revenue shall provide to the controller the name, address, and social security number or federal employer identification number, whichever is applicable, of the taxpayer whose refund is being offset, the amount of the offset, and any other identifying information as required by the controller.

(VI) Any moneys withheld for payment of a student loan division debt pursuant to this subsection (3) shall be deposited with the state treasurer for disbursement by the state treasurer to the division. For each person whose name and amount is certified by the division pursuant to section 23-3.1-104 (1) (p), C.R.S., the executive director of the department of revenue shall provide to the division the name, address, and social security number or federal employer identification number, whichever is applicable, of the taxpayer whose refund is being offset, the amount of the offset, and any other identifying information as required by the division.

(VII) Any moneys withheld for payment of obligations owed the department of human services for overpayment of public assistance benefits pursuant to this subsection (3) shall be deposited with the state treasurer for disbursement by the department of human services. For all names and associated amounts certified by the department of human services pursuant to section 26-2-133, C.R.S., the executive director of the department of revenue shall provide to the department of human services the names of taxpayers and the associated amounts deposited with the state treasurer and any other identifying information as required by the department of human services.

(VIII) Any moneys withheld for payment of an obligation certified by the judicial department pursuant to section 16-11-101.8 or 16-18.5-106.8, C.R.S., shall be transferred to the judicial department. At the time of the offset, the executive director shall notify the taxpayer of the offset and shall provide to the judicial department the name, address, and social security number or federal employer identification number, whichever is applicable, of the taxpayer whose refund is being offset, the amount of the offset, and any other identifying information as required by the judicial department.

(b) In the event there are debts for overpayments of unemployment insurance pursuant to section 8-81-101 (4), C.R.S., debts for unpaid child support, as set forth in section 26-13-111, C.R.S., debts for overpayment of public assistance or medical assistance benefits, as set forth in section 26-2-133, C.R.S., debts for any unpaid loan or other obligation due to a state-supported institution of higher education, as set forth in section 23-5-115, C.R.S., debts for any unpaid loan due to the student loan division of the department of higher education, as set forth in section 23-3.1-104 (1) (p), C.R.S., any amounts owed for judicial fines, fees, costs, or surcharges, as set forth in section 16-11-101.8, C.R.S., any amounts owed for judicial restitution, as set forth in section 16-18.5-106.8, C.R.S., and other unpaid debts owing to the state or any agency thereof, as set forth in this subsection (3), then credit to the unpaid debts shall be prorated on the basis of the ratio of the amount of each such unpaid debt as compared to the total amount of unpaid debts.

(4) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (1) of this section, in the case of the severance tax imposed by article 29 of this title, when an increase in the value of any product is subject to the approval or affected by the actions of any agency of the United States, or the state of Colorado, or any court, the increased value shall be subject to this tax. In the event that the increase in value is disapproved or reduced as the direct or indirect result of the actions of any agency of the United States, the state of Colorado, or any court, either in whole or in part, then the amount of tax which has been paid on the disapproved or reduced part of the value shall be considered excess tax. Within one year following the final determination of value, any person who has paid any such excess tax may apply for a refund, and the executive director, upon proper finding, shall have the authority and duty to refund the amount of excess tax paid. Any refund may, at the discretion of the executive director, be made in the form of a credit against future tax payments.

(5) (a) On and after October 1, 2002, any warrant representing a refund of income tax imposed by article 22 of this title or a grant for property taxes, rent, or heat or fuel expenses assistance allowed by article 31 of this title that is not presented for payment within six months from its date of issuance shall be void. On and after October 1, 2002, upon the cancellation of a warrant in accordance with the standard operating procedures of the department or the state controller, the department shall forward to the state treasurer the name of the taxpayer as it appears on the warrant, the taxpayer identification number, the taxpayer's last known address, the amount of the cancelled warrant, and an amount of money equal to the amount specified in the warrant so that the state treasurer may make the refund pursuant to the provisions of the "Unclaimed Property Act", article 13 of title 38, C.R.S.

(b) The department may reclaim from the unclaimed property fund and credit to the appropriate state revenue fund any amount forwarded by the department to the state treasurer pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (5) that was based on a warrant representing an erroneous refund or grant. If the state treasurer issued an erroneous refund or grant to the person named on the warrant, the treasurer shall provide proof of that payment to the department and the department may assess that amount pursuant to section 39-21-103 (1).

(6) Repealed.

(7) (a) On and after October 1, 2010, any warrant representing a refund issued by the department, excluding refunds addressed by subsection (5) of this section, that is not presented for payment within six months from its date of issuance shall be void. On and after October 1, 2010, upon the cancellation of a warrant in accordance with the standard operating procedures of the department or the state controller, the department shall forward to the state treasurer the name of the taxpayer as it appears on the warrant, the taxpayer identification number, the taxpayer's last-known address, the amount of the canceled warrant, and an amount of money equal to the amount specified in the warrant so that the state treasurer may make the refund pursuant to the provisions of the "Unclaimed Property Act", article 13 of title 38, C.R.S.

(b) The department may reclaim from the unclaimed property fund and credit to the appropriate state revenue fund any amount forwarded by the department to the state treasurer pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (7) that was based on a warrant representing an erroneous refund or grant. If the state treasurer issued an erroneous refund or grant to the person named on the warrant, the treasurer shall provide proof of that payment to the department, and the department may assess that amount pursuant to section 39-21-103 (1).

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Taxation", which discusses Tenth Circuit decisions dealing with interception of tax refunds for reimbursement of state child support, see 63 Den. U. L. Rev. 455 (1986).

Trial court erred in allowing state department of revenue to determine the form of the remedy for collecting an unconstitutional tax. It is the obligation of the trial court, after declaring the collected tax unconstitutional, to provide it with a remedy. Buckley Powder Co. v. State, 924 P.2d 1133 (Colo. App. 1996), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 945 P.2d 841 (Colo. 1997).

Issue of whether the state's offset of tax refunds against debts to the state was illegal did not involve statutory interpretation. Initially, it would have required resolution of the factual issue of whether the debts had been reduced to judgment pursuant to subsection (3)(a)(I). This factual determination is within the ambit of the administrator in the hearing. Kendal v. Cason, 791 P.2d 1227 (Colo. App. 1990).

Subsection (2) provides for a refund of all taxes overpaid by military retirees as a result of § 39-22-104 (4)(g) (now repealed) which was found to be unconstitutional. Kuhn v. State Dept. of Rev., 817 P.2d 101 (Colo. 1991).

Subsection (1)(a) effectively creates a four-year statute of repose. When read in combination with the applicable federal statute, the result is that no taxpayer may seek a refund of taxes in Colorado that were paid more than four years prior to the filing of a claim for a refund. Kuhn v. State Dept. of Rev., 897 P.2d 792 (Colo. 1995).

"Discovery rule" inapplicable. Unlike the usual type of statutory limitation period, which begins to run when the plaintiff knows or should have known of both the injury and its cause, subsection (1)(a) bars a claim after the specified period regardless of the date on which the claimant discovers the error or omission that gave rise to the claim. Kuhn v. State Dept. of Rev., 897 P.2d 792 (Colo. 1995).

39-21-109. Interest on underpayment, nonpayment, or extensions of time for payment of tax. (1) If any amount of tax or any charge on oil and gas production imposed pursuant to articles 22 to 29 of this title, article 60 of title 34, or article 3 of title 42, C.R.S., is not paid on or before the last date prescribed for payment, interest on such amount at the rate imposed under section 39-21-110.5, except as provided in subsection (1.5) of this section, shall be paid for the period from such last date to the date paid. The last date prescribed for payment shall be determined without regard to any extension of time for payment and shall be determined without regard to any notice and demand for payment issued, by reason of jeopardy, prior to the last date otherwise prescribed for such payment. In the case of a tax in which the last date for payment is not otherwise prescribed, the last date for payment shall be deemed to be the date the liability for the tax arises, and in no event shall it be later than the date notice and demand for the tax is made by the executive director of the department of revenue or his delegate.

(1.5) If payment of or an agreement to pay the amount of any tax described in subsection (1) of this section is made within thirty days of notice of underpayment, nonpayment, or extension of time, the executive director shall waive the imposition of the three points in excess of the prime rate described in section 39-21-110.5 (2) on such amount unless the executive director determines that there has been a willful neglect or failure to pay such tax.

(2) Interest prescribed under this section shall be paid upon notice and demand and shall be assessed, collected, and paid in the same manner as the tax to which it is applicable.

(3) If any portion of a tax is satisfied by credit of an overpayment, then no interest shall be imposed under this section on the portion of the tax so satisfied for any period during which, if the credit had not been made, interest would have been allowed with respect to such overpayment.

(4) Interest prescribed under this section on any tax may be assessed and collected at any time during the period within which the tax to which such interest relates may be assessed and collected.

(5) This section shall not apply to any failure to pay estimated Colorado income tax.

Revocation of permission to remit sales tax on a cash receipt basis is not a notice of deficiency, and assessment of tax does not on its own create a tax liability. Montgomery Ward & Co. v. Dept. of Rev., 675 P.2d 318 (Colo. App. 1983).

A determination that sales tax on credit sales should be remitted on a "sales" or accrual basis, rather than on a cash receipt basis, is not a notice of deficiency creating liability under this section. Montgomery Ward & Co. v. Dept. of Rev., 675 P.2d 318 (Colo. App. 1983).

39-21-110. Interest on overpayments. (1) Interest shall be allowed and paid upon any overpayment in respect to any tax or any charge on oil and gas production imposed pursuant to articles 22 to 29 of this title, article 60 of title 34, or article 3 of title 42, C.R.S., at the rate imposed under section 39-21-110.5. Such interest shall be allowed and paid as follows:

(a) In the case of a credit, from the date of the overpayment to the due date of the amount against which the credit is taken;

(b) In the case of a refund, from the date of the overpayment to a date, to be determined by the executive director of the department of revenue or his delegate, preceding the date of the refund by not more than thirty days, whether or not such refund is accepted by the taxpayer after tender of such refund to the taxpayer. The acceptance of such refund shall be without prejudice to any right of the taxpayer to claim any additional overpayment and interest thereon.

(1.5) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section to the contrary, a payment not made incident to a bona fide and orderly discharge of an actual liability or a liability reasonably assumed to be imposed by law is not an overpayment for the purposes of this section only, and interest is not payable on the payment. For purposes of this subsection (1.5), the following burdens of proof shall apply:

(a) If a taxpayer's total payments are less than or equal to twice the amount of the actual tax liability, then the department shall bear the burden of proving, by a preponderance of the evidence, that such payments were not made incident to a bona fide and orderly discharge of an actual liability or a liability reasonably assumed to be imposed by law; and

(b) If a taxpayer's total payments are more than twice the amount of the actual tax liability, then the taxpayer shall bear the burden of proving, by a preponderance of the evidence, that such payments were made incident to a bona fide and orderly discharge of an actual liability or a liability reasonably assumed to be imposed by law.

(2) Any portion of any tax or of a charge on oil and gas production imposed pursuant to articles 22 to 29 of this title, article 60 of title 34, or article 3 of title 42, C.R.S., or any interest, assessable penalty, additional amount, or addition to a tax or charge which has been erroneously refunded shall bear interest at the rate imposed under section 39-21-110.5 from the date of the payment of the refund.

(3) If any overpayment of any tax or of a charge on oil and gas production imposed pursuant to articles 22 to 29 of this title, article 60 of title 34, or article 3 of title 42, C.R.S., is refunded within ninety days after the last date prescribed for filing the return of such tax or charge, determined without regard to any extension of time for filing the return, no interest shall be allowed under subsection (1) of this section on such overpayment.

(4) If the amount of any income tax is reduced by reason of a carry-back of a net operating loss, such reduction in tax shall not affect the computation of interest under this section for the period ending with the last day of the taxable year in which the net operating loss arises. If any overpayment of income tax results from a carry-back of a net operating loss, such overpayment shall be deemed not to have been made prior to the close of the taxable year in which such net operating loss arises.

39-21-110.5. Rate of interest to be fixed. (1) When interest is required or permitted to be charged under any provision of articles 20 to 29 of this title in connection with interest on underpayment, nonpayment, extension of time for payment, or overpayment, or when interest is required to be paid pursuant to section 8-20.5-104, C.R.S., in connection with an application for reimbursement from the petroleum storage tank fund, such interest shall be computed at the annual rate which has been established pursuant to this section.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (4) of this section, the annual rate of interest shall be the prime rate, as reported by the "Wall Street Journal", plus three points, rounded to the nearest full percent. In the event that more than one rate is so reported, the highest rate shall be utilized.

(3) The commissioner of banking shall establish an adjusted annual rate of interest based upon the computation specified in subsections (2) and (4) of this section and rounded to the nearest full percent. The adjusted annual rate of interest shall be so established by the commissioner of banking as of July 2, 1990, to become effective January 1, 1991. Thereafter, on July 1, or the next succeeding business day, of each year, the adjusted annual rate of interest shall be established in the same manner, to become effective on January 1 of the next succeeding year.

(4) For refunds issued on or after January 1, 2004, the annual rate of interest applicable to sections 39-21-110 and 39-22-622 shall be as follows:

(a) If the amount of the refund is less than five thousand dollars or if the amount of the refund is equal to or greater than five thousand dollars but less than ten percent of the taxpayer's net tax liability for the period for which the tax is paid, the annual rate of interest shall be the prime rate, as reported by the "Wall Street Journal", plus three points, rounded to the nearest full percent. In the event that more than one rate is so reported, the highest rate shall be utilized.

(b) (I) If the amount of the refund is equal to or greater than five thousand dollars and the amount of the refund is equal to or greater than ten percent of the taxpayer's net tax liability for the period for which the tax is paid, the annual rate of interest shall be the prime rate, as reported by the "Wall Street Journal", rounded to the nearest full percent, except as provided in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b). In the event that more than one rate is reported, the highest rate shall be utilized.

(II) For any refund subject to the provisions of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b), if the taxpayer demonstrates that the overpayment of tax necessitating such refund was due to good cause as determined by the executive director, the annual rate of interest shall be the prime rate, as reported by the "Wall Street Journal", plus three points, rounded to the nearest full percent. In the event that more than one rate is so reported, the highest rate shall be utilized.

39-21-111. Jeopardy assessment and demands. (1) If the executive director of the department of revenue finds that collection of the tax will be jeopardized by delay, in his discretion, he may declare the taxable period immediately terminated, determine the tax, and issue notice and demand for payment thereof; and, having done so, the tax shall be due and payable forthwith, and the executive director may proceed immediately to collect such tax as provided in section 39-21-114.

(2) In any other case wherein it appears that the revenue is in jeopardy, the executive director of the department of revenue may immediately issue demand for payment; and, regardless of the provisions of sections 39-21-103 and 39-21-105, the tax shall be due and payable forthwith and, in his discretion, the executive director may proceed immediately to collect said tax as provided in section 39-21-114.

(3) Collection under either subsection (1) or (2) of this section may be stayed if the taxpayer gives such security for payment as shall be satisfactory to the executive director.

ANNOTATION

Section not unconstitutionally vague. The words "jeopardized" and "jeopardy", in subsections (1) and (2), respectively, are not unconstitutionally vague. Kraftco Corp. v. Charnes, 636 P.2d 1300 (Colo. App. 1981).

Subsection (2) can reasonably be interpreted to apply in those situations in which a notice of deficiency has been issued. Flores v. Dept. of Rev., 802 P.2d 1175 (Colo. App. 1990).

Where a jeopardy assessment has been made without a notice of deficiency and a distrainment warrant and seizure have been pursued under § 39-21-114, the taxpayer has no right to an administrative hearing under § 39-21-103, but the taxpayer may sue the executive director of the department in district court under § 39-21-114 (6) or proceed under § 24-4-106. Flores v. Dept. of Rev., 802 P.2d 1175 (Colo. App. 1990).

39-21-112. Duties and powers of executive director. (1) It is the duty of the executive director to administer the provisions of this article, and he or she has the power to adopt, amend, or rescind such rules not inconsistent with the provisions of this article, articles 22 to 29 of this title, and article 3 of title 42, C.R.S., and, subject to other provisions of law relating to the promulgation of rules, to appoint, pursuant to section 13 of article XII of the state constitution, such persons, to make such expenditures, to require such reports, to make such investigations, and to take such other action as he or she deems necessary or suitable to that end. The executive director shall determine his or her own organization and methods of procedure in accordance with the provisions of this article. For the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of any return or for the purpose of making an estimate of the tax due from any taxpayer, the executive director has the power to examine or cause to be examined by any employee, agent, or representative designated by him or her for that purpose any books, papers, records, or memoranda bearing upon the matters required to be included in the return. In the exercise of rule-making authority as to article 29 of this title, as granted by the general assembly pursuant to this subsection (1), the executive director, in interpreting section 39-29-107.5 (1) (c), shall not have authority to reduce the amount of any approved contributions not previously credited by applying the amount of any additional percentage previously allowed pursuant to said section. In the exercise of rule-making authority as to article 29 of this title, as granted by the general assembly pursuant to this subsection (1), the executive director may not readopt any rule, or portion thereof, disapproved on or after July 1, 1982, by the general assembly pursuant to section 24-4-103 (8) (d), C.R.S., without the approval of the general assembly.

(2) If any taxpayer refuses voluntarily to furnish any of the foregoing information when requested by the executive director of the department of revenue or his employee, agent, or representative, the executive director, by subpoena issued under his hand, may require the attendance of the taxpayer and the production by him of any of the foregoing information in his possession and may administer an oath to him and take his testimony. If the taxpayer fails or refuses to respond to said subpoena and give testimony, the executive director may apply to any judge of the district court of the state of Colorado for an attachment against such taxpayer as for contempt, and said judge may cause arrest of such person, and upon hearing, said judge has, for the purpose of enforcing obedience to the requirements of said subpoena, power to make such order as, in his discretion, he deems consistent with the law for punishment of contempts.

(3) If the executive director of the department of revenue is unable to secure from the taxpayer information relating to the correctness of the taxpayer's return or the amount of the income of the taxpayer, the executive director may apply to any judge of the district court of the state of Colorado for the issuance of subpoenas to such other persons as the executive director believes may have knowledge in the premises, and, upon making a showing satisfactory to the court that the taxpayer cannot be found, or evades service of subpoena, or fails or refuses to produce his records or give testimony, or is unable to furnish such records or testimony, the judge has power, after service of summons upon the persons named in the petition of the executive director, after written notice mailed to the taxpayer to his last-known address as set forth in the records of the department of revenue, and after hearing, to cause the issuance of subpoenas under the seal of the court to the persons sought to be so summoned requiring any of them to appear before said executive director and give testimony relating to said taxpayer's return or income. In case any of said persons so served with subpoena fail to respond thereto, the judge may proceed against such persons as in cases of contempt.

(3.5) (a) If any retailer that does not collect Colorado sales tax refuses voluntarily to furnish any of the information specified in subsection (1) of this section when requested by the executive director of the department of revenue or his or her employee, agent, or representative, the executive director, by subpoena issued under the executive director's hand, may require the attendance of the retailer and the production by him or her of any of the foregoing information in the retailer's possession and may administer an oath to him or her and take his or her testimony. If the retailer fails or refuses to respond to said subpoena and give testimony, the executive director may apply to any judge of the district court of the state of Colorado to enforce such subpoena by any appropriate order, including, if appropriate, an attachment against the retailer as for contempt, and upon hearing, said judge has, for the purpose of enforcing obedience to the requirements of said subpoena, power to make such order as, in his or her discretion, he or she deems consistent with the law for punishment of contempts.

(b) For purposes of this subsection (3.5), "retailer" shall have the same meaning as set forth in section 39-26-102 (8).

(c) (I) Each retailer that does not collect Colorado sales tax shall notify Colorado purchasers that sales or use tax is due on certain purchases made from the retailer and that the state of Colorado requires the purchaser to file a sales or use tax return.

(II) Failure to provide the notice required in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c) shall subject the retailer to a penalty of five dollars for each such failure, unless the retailer shows reasonable cause for such failure.

(d) (I) (A) Each retailer that does not collect Colorado sales tax shall send notification to all Colorado purchasers by January 31 of each year showing such information as the Colorado department of revenue shall require by rule and the total amount paid by the purchaser for Colorado purchases made from the retailer in the previous calendar year. Such notification shall include, if available, the dates of purchases, the amounts of each purchase, and the category of the purchase, including, if known by the retailer, whether the purchase is exempt or not exempt from taxation. The notification shall state that the state of Colorado requires a sales or use tax return to be filed and sales or use tax paid on certain Colorado purchases made by the purchaser from the retailer.

(B) The notification specified in sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (I) shall be sent separately to all Colorado purchasers by first-class mail and shall not be included with any other shipments. The notification shall include the words "Important Tax Document Enclosed" on the exterior of the mailing. The notification shall include the name of the retailer.

(II) (A) Each retailer that does not collect Colorado sales tax shall file an annual statement for each purchaser to the department of revenue on such forms as are provided or approved by the department showing the total amount paid for Colorado purchases of such purchasers during the preceding calendar year or any portion thereof, and such annual statement shall be filed on or before March 1 of each year.

(B) The executive director of the department of revenue may require any retailer that does not collect Colorado sales tax that makes total Colorado sales of more than one hundred thousand dollars in a year to file the annual statement described in sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (II) by magnetic media or another machine-readable form for that year.

(III) (A) Failure to send the notification required in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (d) shall subject the retailer to a penalty of ten dollars for each such failure, unless the retailer shows reasonable cause for such failure.

(B) Failure to file the annual statement required in sub-subparagraph (A) of subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (d) shall subject the retailer to a penalty of ten dollars for each purchaser that should have been included in such annual statement, unless the retailer shows reasonable cause for such failure.

(4) Regulations adopted, amended, or rescinded by the executive director of the department of revenue shall be effective in the manner and at the time prescribed by the executive director, subject to the provisions of article 4 of title 24, C.R.S.

(5) Subject to the provisions of this article and the state personnel system regulations, the executive director of the department of revenue is authorized to appoint and prescribe the duties and powers of such officers, accountants, experts, and other persons as may be necessary in the performance of his duty. He may delegate to any such person so appointed such power as he deems reasonable and proper for the effective administration of this article and shall bond, in a sufficient amount, any person handling money under this article.

(6) Members of the department of revenue shall each give bond to the state of Colorado in the sum of five thousand dollars conditioned upon the faithful performance of their duties under the provisions of this article.

(7) (a) Any officer or employee of the department shall be dismissed from office or discharged from employment if, while performing functions related to any revenue law of the state of Colorado, he:

(I) Extorts or willfully oppresses any person through use of his actual or apparent authority;

(II) Knowingly demands other or greater sums than are authorized by law or receives any fee, compensation, or reward, except as prescribed by law, for the performance of any duty;

(III) With intent to defeat the application of any provision of this title, makes opportunity for any person to defraud the state of Colorado by intentionally failing to perform any of the duties of his office or employment;

(IV) Conspires or colludes with any other person to defraud the state of Colorado;

(V) Knowingly makes opportunity for any person to defraud the state of Colorado;

(VI) Commits or omits to do any act with the intent to enable any other person to defraud the state of Colorado;

(VII) Makes or signs any fraudulent entry in any book or makes or signs any fraudulent certificate, return, or statement;

(VIII) Fails to report in writing to the executive director of the department of revenue or his designee any knowledge or information he has concerning a violation of any revenue law by any person or a fraud committed by any person against the state of Colorado under any revenue law; or

(IX) Demands, accepts, or attempts to collect, directly or indirectly, as payment, gift, or otherwise any sum of money or other thing of value for the compromise, adjustment, or settlement of any charge or complaint for any violation or alleged violation of law, except as otherwise expressly authorized by law.

(b) Any officer or employee who violates any of the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (7) is guilty of a class 6 felony and shall be punished as provided in section 18-1.3-401, C.R.S. The court may in its discretion award out of any fine imposed an amount, not in excess of one-half thereof, for the use of the informer, if any, in any such case who shall be ascertained by the judgment of the court. The court also shall render judgment against the said officer or employee for the amount of damages sustained in favor of the party injured.

(8) The executive director is authorized to waive, for good cause shown, any penalty or interest assessed on any tax administered under the provisions of this article, and interest imposed in excess of the rate imposed under section 39-21-110.5 shall be deemed a penalty.

(9) The executive director shall have such other powers, duties, and functions as are prescribed for heads of principal departments in the "Administrative Organization Act of 1968", article 1 of title 24, C.R.S.

39-21-113. Reports and returns - repeal. (1) (a) It is the duty of every person, firm, or corporation liable to the state of Colorado for any tax or any charge on oil and gas production imposed pursuant to articles 23.5 to 29 of this title or article 3 of title 42, C.R.S., to keep and preserve for a period of three years such books, accounts, and records as may be necessary to determine the amount of liability.

(b) It is the duty of every person, firm, or corporation liable to the state of Colorado for any tax imposed on income or gifts or a report in connection therewith to keep and preserve for a period of four years following the due date of the return or the payment of said tax such books, accounts, and records as may be necessary to determine the amount of such tax liability.

(c) All such books, accounts, and records shall be open for examination at any time by the executive director of the department of revenue or his duly authorized agents.

The officials charged with the custody of such documents, reports, investigations, and returns shall not be required to produce any of them or evidence of anything contained in them in any action or proceeding in any court, except on behalf of the executive director in an action or proceeding under the provisions of any such taxing statutes to which the department is a party or on behalf of any party to any action or proceeding under the provisions of such taxing statutes when the report of facts shown thereby is directly involved in such action or proceeding, in either of which events the court may require the production of, and may admit in evidence, so much of said reports or of the facts shown thereby as are pertinent to the action or proceeding and no more.

(b) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit the delivery to a person or his or her duly authorized representative of a copy of any return or report filed in connection with his or her tax. Such copies may be certified by the executive director of the department of revenue or the head of any group, division, or subordinate department, as appointed by the executive director in accordance with article 35 of title 24, C.R.S., and when so certified shall be evidence equally with and in like manner as the originals and may be received by the courts of this state as evidence of the contents of the originals.

(c) It is unlawful for any members of the department of revenue and any deputy, agent, clerk, or other officer or employee engaged in any administration which is governed by this article to engage in the business or profession of tax accounting or to accept employment, with or without consideration, from any person, firm, or corporation for the purpose, directly or indirectly, of preparing tax returns or reports required by the laws of the state of Colorado, by any other state, or by the United States government or to accept any employment for the purpose of advising, preparing material or data, or the auditing of books or records to be used in an effort to defeat or cancel any tax or part thereof that has been assessed by the state of Colorado, any other state, or by the United States government.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Taxation", which discusses a Tenth Circuit decision dealing with the good faith failure to file returns, see 65 Den. U. L. Rev. 641 (1988).

Subsection (4)(a) is applicable in proceedings other than those under income tax provisions. People v. Vesely, 41 Colo. App. 325, 587 P.2d 802 (1978).

Party seeking income tax return bears burden of showing compelling need. If a grand jury issues a subpoena duces tecum and the trial court orders compliance after an evidentiary hearing, then the director of the department of revenue must produce the tax returns in question, but in all cases the party seeking the income tax return bears the burden of showing a compelling need for it. Absent a compelling need, the subpoena duces tecum should be quashed. Losavio v. Robb, 195 Colo. 533, 579 P.2d 1152 (1978); Alcon v. Spicer, 113 P.3d 735 (Colo. 2005).

Confidentiality factor in deciding reasonableness of subpoena duces tecum. Although the policy of confidentiality set forth in this section does not amount to a testimonial privilege, it should carry great weight in deciding whether a subpoena duces tecum is unreasonable or oppressive. Losavio v. Robb, 195 Colo. 533, 579 P.2d 1152 (1978).

39-21-114. Methods of enforcing collection. (1) The executive director of the department of revenue may issue a warrant executed either with his manual signature or with his facsimile signature in accordance with the "Uniform Facsimile Signature of Public Officials Act", article 55 of title 11, C.R.S., directed to any employee, agent, or representative of the department, sometimes in this section referred to collectively as "agent", commanding him to distrain, seize, and sell the personal property of the taxpayer, except such personal property as is exempted from execution and sale by any statute of this state, for the payment of the tax due, together with any penalties and interest accrued thereon and the cost of execution:

(a) When any deficiency in tax is not paid within thirty days from the mailing of notice and final determination therefor and no appeal from such deficiency has been docketed with any district court of this state within said period; or

(b) When any other amount of tax, penalty, or interest is not paid within ten days from the mailing of demand for payment thereof; or

(c) Immediately upon making of a jeopardy assessment or of the issuance of a demand for payment, as provided in section 39-21-111.

(2) (a) The agent charged with the collection shall make or cause to be made an account of the goods or effects distrained, a copy of which, signed by the agent making such distraint, shall be left with the owner or possessor, or at his usual place of abode with some member of his family over the age of eighteen years, or at his usual place of business with his stenographer, bookkeeper, or chief clerk, or, if the taxpayer is a corporation, shall be left with any officer, manager, general agent, or agent for process, with a note of the sum demanded and the time and place of sale; and shall forthwith cause to be published a notice of the time and place of sale, together with a description of the property to be sold, in some newspaper of general circulation within the county wherein distraint is made or, in lieu thereof and in the discretion of the executive director of the department of revenue, the agent shall cause such notice to be publicly posted at the courthouse of the county wherein such distraint is made, copies thereof to be posted in at least two other public places within said county. The time fixed for the sale shall not be less than ten days nor more than sixty days from the date of such notification to the owner or possessor of the property and the publication or posting of such notices. Said sale may be adjourned from time to time by said agent if he deems it advisable but not for a time to exceed in all ninety days from the date first fixed for the sale. When any personal property is advertised for sale under distraint as aforesaid, the agent making the seizure shall proceed to sell such property at public auction, offering the same at not less than a fair minimum price, including the expenses of making the seizure and of advertising the sale, and, if the amount bid for the property at the sale is not equal to the fair minimum price so fixed, the agent conducting the sale may declare the same to be purchased by him for the state. The property so purchased may be sold by the agent under such regulations as may be prescribed by the executive director. In any case of distraint for the payment of taxes, the goods, chattels, or effects so distrained shall be restored to the owner or possessor if, prior to the sale, the amount due is paid together with the fees and other charges or may be redeemed by any person holding a chattel paper or other evidence of right of possession.

(b) In all cases of sale, the agent making the sale shall issue a certificate of sale to each purchaser, and such certificate shall be prima facie evidence of the right of the agent to make such sale and conclusive evidence of the regularity of his proceedings in making the sale and shall transfer to the purchaser all right, title, and interest of such delinquent in and to the property sold; and, where such property consists of certificates of stock in the possession of the agent, the certificate of sale shall be notice, when received, to any corporation, company, or association of said transfer, and said certificate of such sale shall be authority for such corporation, company, or association to record the transfer on its books and records; and, where the subject of sale is securities or other evidences of debt in the possession of the agent, the certificate of sale shall be good and valid evidence of title in the person holding the same, as against any other person. Any surplus remaining above the taxes, penalties, interest, costs, and expenses of making the seizure and of advertising the sale shall be returned to the owner or such other person having a legal right thereto, and, on demand, the executive director of the department of revenue shall render an account in writing of the sale.

(3) The agent of the executive director of the department of revenue to whom a warrant has been issued may file with the clerk of any district court within this state a copy of said warrant, and thereupon the clerk shall enter in the judgment docket, in appropriate columns, the name of the taxpayer mentioned in the warrant, the amount of the tax, or a portion thereof, together with interest and penalties for which the warrant is issued, and the date upon which such copy is filed and shall issue and deliver a transcript of such judgment to the agent without cost. Said transcript so issued and delivered may be filed with the clerk and recorder of any county, and, from the time of such filing, such judgment shall become a lien upon all the real property of the judgment debtor in such county owned by him at the time or which he may afterwards acquire until said lien expires. The lien shall continue for six years from the entry of the judgment unless the judgment is previously satisfied, all in the same manner as is provided by statute for making a judgment of a court of record a lien on real property. The judgment so entered shall have the same force and effect as other judgments of a court of record, and execution upon the real and personal property of the judgment debtor and redemption thereof may be had as provided by law with respect to other judgments. The executive director and his agent may cause execution to be had thereon by the proper sheriff or other officer, and such sheriff or other officer shall be entitled to the same fees for his services to be collected in the same manner as in the case of other executions.

(4) Any employee, agent, or representative of the executive director of the department of revenue to whom warrant has been issued may file a notice of lien in such form as the executive director may prescribe with the person in possession of any personal property or rights to property belonging to the taxpayer, and the filing of such notice of lien shall operate as a lien upon such personal property or rights to property from the date of such filing. Any costs incurred by the person in possession of such property or rights to property by reason of compliance with said notice of lien shall be paid by the executive director and recovered by him out of any proceeds of sale of the property subject thereto. The executive director may release said lien as to any part or all of the property or rights to property covered by any such lien upon such terms as he may deem proper.

(5) Nothing in this section shall be construed to abrogate or diminish the rights of bona fide purchasers, lienors, or pledgees for value and without notice.

(6) The executive director of the department of revenue may be made a party defendant in an action at law or a suit in equity by any person aggrieved by the unlawful seizure or sale of his personal property, but only the state of Colorado shall be responsible for any final money judgment secured against said executive director; and said judgment, so secured, shall be paid or satisfied out of the tax refund provided by section 39-21-108 (2) upon presentation by the judgment creditor to the executive director of two certified copies of said final judgment.

(7) If any person, firm, or corporation liable for the payment of any tax covered by this article has repeatedly failed, neglected, or refused to pay the same within the time specified for such payment and the department has been required to issue distraint warrants to enforce the collection of any taxes due from such taxpayer, the executive director of the department of revenue is authorized to assess and collect the amount of such taxes due, together with all interest and penalties thereon provided by law, and also the following additional penalties for recurring distraint warrants:

(a) Three, four, or five consecutive distraint warrants issued: Fifteen percent of the delinquent taxes, interest, and penalties due or the sum of twenty-five dollars, whichever amount is greater;

(b) Six or more consecutive distraint warrants issued: Thirty percent of the delinquent taxes, interest, and penalties due or the sum of fifty dollars, whichever amount is greater.

(8) (a) In order to facilitate and expedite the collection of taxes more than six months overdue from a taxpayer who is not a resident of nor domiciled in the state of Colorado, the executive director may enter into a contract with a debt collection agency or an attorney for the collection of the taxes due from such taxpayer together with any penalties and interest accrued thereon.

(b) For purposes of paragraph (a) of this subsection (8), the executive director may contract with a debt collection agency or an attorney doing business in the state of Colorado or in any other state; except that, prior to entering into such contract with a debt collection agency, the executive director shall require that the debt collection agency file a bond in the amount of one hundred thousand dollars, which bond shall run to the state of Colorado for the purpose of guaranteeing compliance with the terms of the contract. Such bond shall be executed by the debt collection agency as principal and by a corporation, which is licensed to transact the business of fidelity and surety insurance, as surety.

(b.5) In order to facilitate and expedite the collection of taxes more than twelve months overdue from a taxpayer who is a resident of and domiciled in the state of Colorado, the executive director may enter into contracts with two or more debt collection agencies or attorneys for the collection of the taxes due from such taxpayer, together with any penalties and interest accrued thereon pursuant to the procurement provisions of article 103 of title 24, C.R.S. For the purposes of this paragraph (b.5), the executive director may contract with debt collection agencies or attorneys doing business in the state of Colorado or in any other state; except that, prior to entering into such a contract with a debt collection agency, the executive director shall require that the debt collection agency file a bond in the amount of no less than one hundred thousand dollars and no more than five hundred thousand dollars, which bond shall run to the state of Colorado for the purpose of guaranteeing compliance with the terms of the contract. Such bond shall be executed by a debt collection agency as principal and by a corporation, which is licensed to transact the business of fidelity and surety insurance, as surety.

(c) (I) Each contract entered into with a debt collection agency or an attorney shall specify that fees for services rendered shall be based on the total amount of delinquent taxes, including accrued penalties and interest, that is actually collected; however, under no circumstance shall the fees for services rendered exceed twenty percent of the total amount of delinquent taxes, including accrued penalties and interest, that is actually collected. Any fees for services rendered shall be collected by the agency or attorney in addition to the total amount of delinquent taxes, including accrued penalties and interest, actually collected. Such fees for services rendered shall be shown to the taxpayer as a separate and distinct item, and, when added, such fees for services rendered shall be a debt from the taxpayer to the agent or attorney until paid and shall be recoverable at law in the same manner as other debts.

(II) If the department enters into a contract with a debt collection agency or an attorney to collect delinquent taxes, including accrued penalties and interest, and any fees for services rendered as specified in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c) and the contract specifies that the department is required to collect the fees for services rendered if the taxpayer chooses to pay the total amount owed directly to the department, the department shall become the agent for the agency or attorney and collect the agency's or attorney's fees for services rendered on behalf of the agency or attorney.

(III) If a taxpayer makes a payment toward the total amount a debt collection agency or attorney is attempting to collect, including delinquent taxes, accrued penalties and interest, and any fees for services rendered as specified in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c), such payment shall be allocated among delinquent taxes, accrued penalties and interest, and fees for services rendered according to the rules or procedures of the department and the contract between the department and the agency or attorney. The taxpayer may not designate the allocation of the payment.

(IV) No costs except court costs shall be reimbursed unless authorized in such contract. If a debt collection agency or an attorney files a civil suit to collect delinquent taxes, including accrued penalties and interest, suit shall be brought in the name of the executive director of the department of revenue of the state of Colorado. When suit is brought by an agency or attorney, court costs are reimbursable by the department to the agency or attorney, but fees for services of legal representation incurred by such agency or attorney on behalf of the department for the purpose of such suit shall not be reimbursable.

(d) A debt collection agency or an attorney shall, pursuant to contract, remit the total amount of delinquent taxes, including accrued penalties and interest, collected, less allowable reimbursable costs, to the executive director within thirty days from the date the moneys are collected from the taxpayer.

(e) The executive director may prescribe forms to be used in implementing this subsection (8).

(9) The executive director, under such terms and conditions as he deems advisable, may enter into a reciprocal agreement with an agency of another state for the collection of delinquent taxes owed by individuals who are nonresidents of the state of Colorado. Under such an agreement, the agency would agree to collect delinquent taxes owed to the state of Colorado by taxpayers who are residing or domiciled in that state. In return, the executive director would undertake the collection of taxes of the same or similar type owed to the other state by taxpayers residing or domiciled in the state of Colorado.

(10) (a) The executive director is authorized to enter into an agreement with the controller for the purpose of collecting delinquent state taxes through the vendor offset program established pursuant to section 24-30-202.4 (3.5) (a), C.R.S.

(b) Each agreement entered into with the controller shall specify that fees for services rendered shall be based on the total amount of delinquent taxes, including accrued penalties and interest, that is actually collected through the vendor offset program established pursuant to section 24-30-202.4 (3.5) (a), C.R.S.

(c) The controller shall, pursuant to agreement, remit the total amount actually offset from a vendor's account pursuant to section 24-30-202.4 (3.5) (a), less fees for services rendered and allowable costs, to the executive director within thirty days after the date the moneys are offset from the vendor's account.

Judgment upon distraint warrant without service of process constitutional. A judgment entered upon a warrant of distraint as provided in subsection (3) without service of process upon the taxpayer is not invalid and void and does not deprive the taxpayer of his property without due process of law. Liebhardt v. Dept. of Rev., 123 Colo. 369, 229 P.2d 655 (1951).

Lien for state income tax which predates federal tax lien has priority under federal law. Eggleston v. Colo., 636 F. Supp. 1312 (D. Colo. 1986).

Taxpayer may proceed under subsection (6) or § 24-4-106, where a jeopardy assessment has been made without a notice of deficiency and a distraint warrant and seizure have been pursued under this section. Flores

v. Dept. of Rev., 802 P.2d 1175 (Colo. App. 1990).

State tax lien was not extinguished by merger when the state bought property at the tax sale to avoid sale for an inadequate price. Such action by the state supported inference that it intended to preserve its lien on the property. U.S. v. State of Colo., 872 F.2d 338 (10th Cir. 1989).

In order to enforce liens for sales taxes, the department of revenue may activate its liens by recording the notice of delinquency pursuant to § 39-26-118 or by the more immediate means of distraint in accordance with this section. ITT Diversified Credit Corp. v. Couch, 669 P.2d 1355 (Colo. 1983).

Notice by publication held inadequate to advise secured lienholder of tax sale; lienholder was entitled to receive notice of tax sale by mail or personal service. Fact that secured lienholder might have taken steps to safeguard its interest by requiring owner to file a bond is irrelevant to the issue of whether notice was adequate. Omnibank Iliff, N.A. v. Tipton, 843 P.2d 71 (Colo. App. 1992).

Where secured lienholder had known and conflicting claim, trial court erred in ruling that owner of property seized by the department of revenue for nonpayment of tax and sold at tax sale was, as a matter of law, entitled to surplus proceeds from the tax sale. Omnibank Iliff, N.A. v. Tipton, 843 P.2d 71 (Colo. App. 1992).

39-21-115. Reciprocity with other states for collection of taxes provided. (1) Any state of the United States or any political subdivision thereof has the right to sue in the courts of the state of Colorado to recover any lawfully imposed taxes which may be owing it, whether or not the taxes have been reduced to judgment, when the like right is accorded to the state of Colorado and its political subdivisions by that state through statutory authority or granted as a matter of comity. The appropriate officials of such other states are authorized to bring action in the courts of this state for the collection of such taxes. The certificate of the secretary of state of such other state that such officials have the authority to collect the taxes to be collected by such action shall be the conclusive proof of authority.

(2) The attorney general or an appropriate official of any political subdivision of the state of Colorado may bring suit in the courts of other states to collect taxes legally due this state or any political subdivision thereof.

(3) "Taxes" as used in this section includes:

(a) Any tax assessments lawfully made, whether they are based upon a return or other disclosure of the taxpayer, or upon the information and belief of the taxing authority, or otherwise;

(b) Any penalties lawfully imposed pursuant to a taxing statute; and

(c) Interest charges lawfully added to the tax liability which constitutes the subject of the action.

39-21-116. Closing agreements. (1) For the purpose of facilitating the settlement and distribution of estates, trusts, receiverships, or other fiduciary relationships, corporations, limited liability companies, and partnerships in the process of dissolution or which have been dissolved, the executive director of the department of revenue may agree with the fiduciary or surviving directors or limited liability company members or partnership members upon the amount of taxes due from the decedent, or from the decedent's estate, the trust, receivership, or other fiduciary relationship or corporation or limited liability company or partnership, for any of his or its taxable periods, under the provisions of the taxes covered by this article; and, except upon a showing of fraud, malfeasance, or misrepresentation of a material fact, payment in accordance with such agreement shall be full satisfaction of the taxes for the taxable periods to which the agreement relates. In addition, the executive director or any person authorized in writing by him may agree to enter into an agreement with any person, or the person or estate for whom he acts, relating to the liability of such person in respect of any tax within the provisions of this article for any prior taxable period. Any such agreement shall be final and conclusive; and, except upon a showing of fraud, malfeasance, or misrepresentation of a material fact, the case shall not be reopened as to matters agreed upon or the agreement modified by any officer, employee, or agent of this state; and, in any suit, action, or proceeding, such agreement, or any determination, assessment, collection, payment, abatement, refund, or credit made in accordance therewith, shall not be annulled, modified, set aside, or disregarded.

(2) Except as provided in subsection (4) of this section, any personal representative of a decedent or of the estate of a decedent, or any trustee, receiver, or other person acting in a fiduciary capacity, or any director or officer of a corporation or any member of a partnership or limited liability company in the process of dissolution or which has been dissolved who distributes the estate or fund in his control without having first paid any taxes covered by this article due from such decedent, decedent's estate, trust estate, fund, corporation, partnership, or limited liability company shall be personally liable to the extent of the property so distributed for any unpaid taxes of the decedent, decedent's estate, trust estate, receivership, corporation, partnership, or limited liability company covered by this article which may be assessed within the time limited by section 39-21-107.

(3) The distributee of a decedent's estate or of a trust estate or fund, the stockholder of any dissolved corporation, or the member of any dissolved partnership or limited liability company who receives any of the property of such decedent's estate, trust estate, fund, corporation, partnership, or limited liability company shall be liable, to the extent of the property so received, for any unpaid income tax of the decedent, decedent's estate, trust estate, fund, corporation, partnership, or limited liability company covered by this article which may be assessed within the time limited by section 39-21-107. Notice to such distributee, stockholder, partnership member, or limited liability company member shall be given in the same manner and within the time limit which would have been applicable had there been no distribution.

(4) (a) In case a tax covered by this article is due from a decedent, or from his estate, or from a corporation, limited liability company, or partnership, in order for personal liability under subsection (2) of this section to remain in effect, determination of the tax due shall be made and notice and demand therefor shall issue within eighteen months after written request for such determination, filed after the filing of the decedent's final return or filed after the filing of the return of the decedent's estate with respect to which such request is applicable, by any personal representative of such decedent or by the corporation, limited liability company, or partnership, filed after the filing of its return; but a request under this provision shall not extend the period of limitation otherwise applicable.

(b) This subsection (4) shall not apply in the case of a corporation, limited liability company, or partnership unless:

(I) Such request notifies the executive director of the department of revenue that the corporation, limited liability company, or partnership contemplates dissolution at or before the expiration of such eighteen-month period;

(II) The dissolution is begun in good faith before the expiration of such eighteen-month period; and

(III) The dissolution is completed.

(c) Upon the expiration of said eighteen-month period, without determination being made and notice and demand being issued, the personal representative of the decedent, the directors and officers of the corporation, or the members of the limited liability company or partnership no longer will be liable under the provisions of subsection (2) of this section.

PART 2

TAX AMNESTY PROGRAM

Editor's note: This part 2 was repealed in 1987 and was subsequently recreated and reenacted in 2003, resulting in the addition, relocation, and elimination of sections as well as subject matter. For amendments to this part 2 prior to 1987, consult the Colorado statutory research explanatory note and the table itemizing the replacement volumes and supplements to the original volume of C.R.S. 1973 beginning on page vii in the front of this volume.

39-21-201. Program established. (1) Notwithstanding any other provision of this title, title 29, title 32, or title 42, C.R.S., the executive director shall conduct a tax amnesty program for any taxpayer liable for the payment of any of the taxes specified in subsection (2) of this section for which a return was required to be filed before December 31, 2010, including returns for which the department has granted an extension beyond said date. The taxpayer amnesty program shall be conducted from October 1, 2011, through November 15, 2011, and shall not extend to any other period.

(2) A taxpayer eligible to participate in the tax amnesty program shall include any taxpayer liable for payment of income taxes imposed pursuant to article 22 of this title, sales and use taxes imposed pursuant to article 26 of this title, gasoline and special fuel taxes imposed pursuant to part 1 of article 27 of this title, cigarette taxes imposed pursuant to article 28 of this title, taxes on tobacco products imposed pursuant to article 28.5 of this title, severance taxes imposed pursuant to article 29 of this title, county or municipal sales taxes collected by the executive director pursuant to article 2 of title 29, C.R.S., local marketing and promotion taxes collected by the department pursuant to section 29-25-112, C.R.S., county lodging taxes collected by the department pursuant to section 30-11-107.5, C.R.S., county rental taxes collected by the department pursuant to section 30-11-107.7, C.R.S., local improvement district sales taxes collected by the department pursuant to section 30-20-604.5, C.R.S., regional transportation district sales and use taxes imposed pursuant to article 9 of title 32, C.R.S., Denver metropolitan scientific and cultural facilities district sales and use taxes imposed pursuant to article 13 of title 32, C.R.S., metropolitan football stadium district sales and use taxes imposed pursuant to article 15 of title 32, C.R.S., and regional transportation authority sales and use taxes collected by the department pursuant to section 43-4-605 (1) (j), C.R.S.

(3) (a) Subject to the provisions of subsection (4) of this section, the tax amnesty program shall permit any taxpayer liable for payment of any taxes specified in subsection (2) of this section to report the amount of the taxes for which the taxpayer is liable and to pay the full amount of such taxes, including one-half of any interest due, as computed without the reduction pursuant to section 39-21-109 (1.5), on or before November 15, 2011, without the imposition of any fine or other civil or criminal penalty otherwise provided by law.

(b) Subject to the provisions of subsection (4) of this section, the tax amnesty program shall permit any taxpayer liable for payment of any taxes specified in subsection (2) of this section to report the amount of the taxes for which the taxpayer is liable and to sign an agreement to pay that shall be printed on the tax amnesty application form and deliver the application and signed agreement to pay to the department on or before November 15, 2011, without the imposition of any fine or other civil or criminal penalty otherwise provided by law. If the taxpayer fails to pay the full amount of taxes owed and all interest for which the taxpayer is liable pursuant to the terms of the tax amnesty agreement to pay, the waiver provision of this paragraph (b) is void.

(c) Payment of taxes pursuant to this article shall constitute a waiver of any right to file a claim for refund or an amended return for refund, or seek an administrative review, administrative hearing, or district court appeal pursuant to sections 39-21-103, 39-21-104, and 39-21-105.

(d) If a taxpayer fails to pay the full amount of the tax liability by November 15, 2011, or fails to sign and file the agreement to pay on the tax amnesty application by November 15, 2011, and remain in compliance with the agreement to pay, or commits willful fraud in filing pursuant to the terms of the tax amnesty program, the taxpayer shall be subject to civil or criminal penalty, or both.

(4) (a) A taxpayer liable for the payment of any taxes specified in subsection (2) of this section shall not be permitted to satisfy such liability through the tax amnesty program if a notice of deficiency for the liability has been mailed to the taxpayer before October 1, 2011.

(b) A taxpayer who is under investigation or being prosecuted for criminal or fraudulent activity as of October 1, 2011, for crimes related to any taxes collected by the department is not eligible to participate in the tax amnesty program, regardless of whether the taxes owed for which the taxpayer seeks amnesty are the taxes on which the investigation or prosecution is based.

(5) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 24-19.5-103, C.R.S., the department is authorized, at the discretion of the executive director, to accept department approved credit card payment for all payments due pursuant to this article and assess the taxpayer an amount equivalent to any service fee charged by the credit card company to the department. Such amount shall be collected by the department and used by the department for the purpose of paying such credit card fees.

(6) The executive director shall promulgate emergency rules necessary for the administration of this article in accordance with article 4 of title 24, C.R.S.

(6.5) The department may contract with one or more independent contractors to administer any part of the tax amnesty program on behalf of the department.

(7) The department shall conduct an advertising and publicity campaign concerning the tax amnesty program that shall include sufficient notice to potential participants that all information obtained pursuant to this article may be disclosed to the federal internal revenue service.

(8) The requirements of the Colorado "Procurement Code", articles 101 to 112 of title 24, C.R.S., shall not apply to services and products procured by the department pursuant to this section. The department shall award contracts for services and products in good faith and in a manner that encourages, to the extent practicable, competitive proposals. Offerors and potential offerors shall not have a right to protest, recover bid preparation costs, or pursue any other remedy provided by Colorado law for services and products procured by the department for purposes of this article.

39-21-202. Tax amnesty cash fund - creation - uses - repeal. (1) There is hereby created in the state treasury the tax amnesty cash fund, referred to in this section as the “fund”. Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, any payment received by the department prior to January 1, 2012, for income tax or sales and use tax from a taxpayer that is made in accordance with section 39-21-201 that would otherwise be required to be deposited in the general fund shall instead be deposited in the fund.

(2) (a) The moneys in the fund shall be subject to appropriation by the general assembly to the department for the direct and indirect costs associated with the administration of this part 2 and for the preparation of the first two tax profile and expenditure reports required pursuant to part 3 of this article. Any moneys in the fund not expended for such purposes may be invested by the state treasurer as provided by law. All interest and income derived from the investment and deposit of moneys in the fund shall be credited to the fund. Any unexpended and unencumbered moneys remaining in the fund at the end of any fiscal year shall remain in the fund and shall not be transferred to the general fund or any other fund.

(b) The state treasurer shall transfer the balance of the fund as of December 31, 2011, minus one million dollars, as follows:

(I) One hundred seventy-five thousand dollars shall be transferred to the general fund. If such transfer occurs, it is the intent of the general assembly that such amount be included in a supplemental appropriation to the department of health care policy and financing for the fiscal year commencing on July 1, 2011, for allocation to the commission on family medicine residency training programs.

(II) Any moneys remaining after the transfer set forth in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b) shall be transferred to the state education fund created in section 17 (4) of article IX of the state constitution.

(c) On June 30, 2012, the state treasurer shall transfer an amount equal to the moneys expended from the general fund by the department for the administration of section 39-21-201 to the general fund.

(d) Notwithstanding any provision of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) to the contrary, the state treasurer shall transfer the unexpended and unencumbered moneys in the fund as of June 30, 2015, to the general fund.

(3) This section is repealed, effective January 1, 2016.

PART 3

TAX PROFILE AND EXPENDITURE REPORT

39-21-301. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) The general assembly uses both direct expenditure of government funds and special or selective tax relief, which is known as a tax expenditure, to further various public policy goals;

(b) A tax expenditure differs from a direct spending program because a direct spending program continues only if funds are appropriated for each budget period, while the continuation of a tax expenditure generally does not require any legislative action;

(c) In addition, a direct spending program is generally detailed on the expenditure side of the budget, but a tax expenditure is simply included on the revenue side of the budget without itemization;

(d) A tax expenditure should receive a periodic and comprehensive review as to its total cost and effectiveness in achieving its objectives;

(e) It is important that state government be accountable and transparent in such a way that the general public can understand the value of tax expenditures given by the state; and

(f) In the past, the department of revenue has published a Colorado tax profile study, which included a substantial amount of useful information about state and local taxes.

(2) In enacting this part 3, it is the intent of the general assembly to create a means for providing the general assembly and the public with this vital tax-related information in a biennial tax profile and tax expenditure report.

39-21-302. Definitions. As used in this part 3, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Colorado tax profile study 2001" means the "Colorado Tax Profile Study 2001 and Statistics of Income" prepared in May 2004 by the office of research and analysis in the department for the individual income tax returns tax year 2000 and the corporate income tax returns filed in fiscal year 2002.

(2) "Tax expenditure" means a tax provision that provides a gross or taxable income definition, deduction, exemption, credit, or rate for certain persons, types of income, transactions, or property that results in reduced tax revenue.

(3) "Tax profile and expenditure report" or "report" means the biennial report that the department is required to prepare pursuant to section 39-21-303 (1).

Source: L. 2011: Entire part added, (SB 11-184), ch. 290, p. 1348, § 3, effective June 3.

39-21-303. Tax profile and expenditure report. (1) On or before January 1, 2013, and January 1 of every odd-numbered year thereafter, the department shall prepare a tax profile and expenditure report for the state that includes the information set forth in subsection (2) of this section.

(2) (a) A tax profile and expenditure report must include the following information for each tax expenditure for any tax levied and collected by the state that is administered by the department:

(I) A citation of the statutory or other legal authority for the tax expenditure;

(II) The year that the tax expenditure was enacted;

(III) A description of the tax expenditure;

(IV) An estimate of the tax expenditure's effect on revenue for the most recently completed tax or calendar year, as appropriate, for which such information is available;

(V) The estimate required pursuant to subparagraph (IV) of this paragraph (a) for the tax expenditure that was included in each of the three prior tax profile and expenditure reports, if available; and

(VI) For a tax expenditure that is subject to the requirement set forth in section 39-21-304, a statement of the intended purpose of the tax expenditure.

(b) For the state income tax only, the tax profile and expenditure report must include the effect of the tax expenditure by income class. The provisions of this paragraph (b) shall only apply to the extent that the department is capable of accessing the necessary information from its data system.

(c) The tax profile and expenditure report must include the sum of all estimates required pursuant to subparagraphs (IV) and (V) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) for each tax.

(d) (I) To the extent not otherwise included in the tax profile and expenditure report pursuant to this subsection (2), the report must also include any information that was included in the Colorado tax profile study 2001 for any taxes covered by such study, which includes but is not limited to information related to:

(A) State and local tax collections;

(B) Revenues, taxes, incidence, and equity;

(C) The distribution of state and local taxes among households; and

(D) Colorado statistics of income.

(II) The information required pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (d) shall be for the most recent tax year for which such information is available.

(3) (a) The department shall provide a copy of the report to all members of the general assembly in accordance with section 24-1-136 (9), C.R.S.

(b) No later than February 1, 2013, and February 1 of every odd-numbered year thereafter, the executive director, or his or her designee, shall present the tax profile and expenditure report to the finance committees of the house of representatives and the senate, or any successor committees.

(c) The department shall make the tax profile and expenditure report available for public inspection and shall publish the report on the department web site.

(4) The reporting requirement set forth in this section is exempt from the provisions of section 24-1-136 (11), C.R.S., and the biennial reporting requirement shall remain in effect until changed by the general assembly acting by bill.

(5) To the extent that the tax profile and expenditure report must include the distribution of tax burden by income class pursuant to paragraphs (b) and (d) of subsection (2) of this section, the department shall use at least as many income classes as the Colorado statistics of income in the Colorado tax profile study 2001, and the highest income class shall be at least as high as in such Colorado statistics of income.

(6) (a) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, beginning with the report required to be prepared on or before January 1, 2017, and every odd-numbered year thereafter, the department may elect not to prepare a report if:

(I) The department does not receive an appropriation for the direct and indirect costs associated with the preparation of the report; and

(II) On or before April 1 of the year prior to the deadline for the report, the department notifies the finance committees of the house of representatives and the senate, or any successor committees, that the department is not going to prepare the report.

(b) If the department does not prepare a report pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (6) for a given year, the requirements set forth in subsection (3) of this section related to the report shall not apply.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "2006 Immigration Legislation in Colorado", see 35 Colo. Law. 79 (October 2006).

The tax exemption provisions of subsection (4) do not create a contract protected by the contract clause of the constitution. Spradling v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 870 P.2d 521 (Colo. App. 1993).

State income tax may be levied on the sale of cocaine by drug supplier since state law provides that income derived from any source is taxable. Eggleston v. Colo., 636 F. Supp. 1312 (D. Colo. 1986), rev'd on other grounds, 873 F.2d 242 (10th Cir. 1989) (decided under former law).

Subsection (4)(g) regarding military retirement benefits (now repealed) held unconstitutional because it discriminated between taxpayers based on the source of their income. Nonmilitary retirees under age 55 were allowed a twenty-thousand-dollar tax exemption on retirement benefits, while military retirees of the same age were only allowed a two-thousand-dollar exemption, violating 4 U.S.C. sec. 111 (1988) and case law. Taxpayers who overpaid based upon this unconstitutional provision were entitled to a refund as provided in § 39-22-1201. Kuhn v. State Dept. of Rev., 817 P.2d 101 (Colo. 1991).

(1) With respect to all taxable years commencing on or after January 1, 1987, the amount of taxes on federal taxable income accrued to another state, the District of Columbia, or a territory or possession of the United States, on income derived by a resident individual, estate, or trust from sources in another state, the District of Columbia, or a territory or possession of the United States, shall be allowed as a credit against the tax computed under provisions of this article.

(2) The amount of credit taken under this section shall be subject to each of the following limitations:

(a) The amount of the credit for taxes on the federal taxable income taxed by another state, the District of Columbia, or a territory or possession of the United States shall not exceed the same proportion of the tax against which such credit is taken which the taxpayer's federal taxable income from the sources within such state, the District of Columbia, or a territory or possession of the United States bears to his entire federal taxable income for the same period;

(4) The credits provided for in this section, irrespective of the method of accounting employed by the taxpayer in keeping his books, shall be taken in the year in which the taxes of another state, the District of Columbia, or a territory or possession of the United States accrue, subject to the conditions prescribed in subsection (3) of this section.

(5) The credits provided by this section shall be allowed only if the taxpayer furnishes to the executive director all information necessary for the verification and computation of such credits as the executive director, by regulation, may prescribe.

39-22-109. Income of a nonresident individual for purposes of Colorado income tax. (1) In the case of a nonresident individual, the tax imposed by section 39-22-104 shall be apportioned in the ratio of Colorado nonresident federal adjusted gross income to total federal adjusted gross income, both modified as provided in section 39-22-104.

(2) (a) Colorado nonresident federal adjusted gross income means that part of the individual's federal adjusted gross income as determined pursuant to section 62 of the internal revenue code derived from sources within Colorado. Federal adjusted gross income of an individual shall be considered derived from sources within Colorado when such income is attributable to:

- (I) The ownership of any interest in real or tangible personal property in Colorado;
 - (II) A business, trade, profession, or occupation carried on in Colorado;
 - (III) His distributive share of partnership or limited liability company income, gain, loss, and deduction determined under section 39-22-203;
 - (IV) His share of estate or trust income, gain, loss, and deduction determined under section 39-22-404;
 - (V) Income from intangible personal property, including annuities, dividends, interest, and gains from the disposition of intangible personal property to the extent that such income is from property employed in a business, trade, profession, or occupation carried on in Colorado. A nonresident, other than a dealer holding property primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of his trade or business, shall not be deemed to carry on a business, trade, profession, or occupation in Colorado solely by reason of the purchase and sale of property for his own account.
 - (VI) His share of subchapter S corporation income, gain, loss, credit, and deduction allocable or apportionable to Colorado.
- (b) Compensation paid by the United States for service in the armed forces of the United States performed by an individual not domiciled in Colorado shall not constitute income derived from sources within Colorado.
- (3) (a) If the federal taxable income of a husband or wife, or both, both of whom are nonresidents, is determined on separate federal returns, their Colorado taxable incomes shall be separately determined.
- (b) If the federal taxable income of a husband and wife, both of whom are nonresidents, is determined on a joint federal return, their tax shall be determined on their joint Colorado nonresident federal taxable income.
- (c) Repealed.
- (4) In any case, where the nature of income earned by a nonresident individual is such as to render the computations described in subsections (1) to (3) of this section impracticable and where the books of account and records of the taxpayer do not clearly reflect the income subject to tax by this article, apportionment shall be made in accordance with section 39-22-303.5.

39-22-120. Legislative declaration - state sales tax refund - offset against state income tax. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) Section 20 of article X of the state constitution, which was approved by the registered electors of this state in 1992, limits the annual growth of state fiscal year spending;

(b) During the 1997-98 fiscal year, state revenues from sources not excluded from state fiscal year spending exceeded the limitation on state fiscal year spending;

(c) When revenues exceed the state fiscal year spending limitation for any given fiscal year, section 20 (7) (d) of article X of the state constitution requires that the excess revenues be refunded in the next fiscal year unless voters approve a revenue change allowing the state to keep the revenues;

(d) In addition, section 20 (1) of article X of the state constitution states that refunds need not be proportional when prior payments are impractical to identify or return and authorizes the use of any reasonable method for refunding excess revenues;

(e) The state is required to refund during the 1998-99 fiscal year all revenues in excess of the state fiscal year spending limitation for the 1997-98 fiscal year; except that, if at the 1998 general election voters statewide approve House Bill 98-1256, enacted at the second regular session of the sixty-first general assembly, the state is required to refund only that portion of the state excess revenues for the 1997-98 fiscal year that the voters have not authorized the state to retain;

(f) It is within the legislative prerogative of the general assembly to enact legislation to implement the refund of state excess revenues for the 1997-98 fiscal year in compliance with section 20 of article X of the state constitution;

(g) It is a reasonable and necessary exercise of the legislative prerogative to determine that, due to the impossibility of identifying or returning prior payments, it is not feasible to make proportional refunds of state excess revenues;

(h) It is also a reasonable and necessary exercise of the legislative prerogative to determine what constitutes a reasonable method of refunding state excess revenues after consideration of the best information available at the time regarding: The amount and source of excess revenues to be refunded; the qualifications for and number of eligible recipients; the amount of refund each recipient should receive; the necessary procedures to claim and make refunds; and the related administrative expenses;

(i) It is the considered judgment of the general assembly that:

(I) The state excess revenues for the 1997-98 fiscal year are derived from a wide variety of state taxes and fees ranging from state sales tax to severance and transportation taxes to health service fees to court fines to permit and license fees and to higher education fees and should, therefore, be returned to as large a group of Colorado residents as is identifiable and economically feasible;

(II) It is not feasible to make proportional refunds of state excess revenues for the 1997-98 fiscal year due to the impossibility of identifying or returning prior payments;

(III) It is reasonable and fair to refund state excess revenues for the 1997-98 fiscal year to a large group of individuals as a refund of state sales tax revenues since more Coloradans pay state sales tax than any other state tax;

(IV) The state collected over one billion four hundred fourteen million dollars in state sales tax revenues during the 1997-98 fiscal year from which the refund of state excess revenues may be made;

(V) Refunding state excess revenues for the 1997-98 fiscal year through the state income tax system in the manner set forth in this section is a reasonable method for refunding such excess revenues; and

(VI) The most cost-effective and expeditious method of refunding state excess revenues for the 1997-98 fiscal year is through the state income tax system but that a refund offset against state income tax liability is merely a mechanism for refunding said state excess revenues to a broad spectrum of persons.

(2) (a) As used in this section, "qualified individual" means:

(I) A natural person who is domiciled in this state for the entire taxable year commencing on January 1, 1998, and ending December 31, 1998, and who is required to file a Colorado individual income tax return for that tax year pursuant to section 39-22-601 (1) (a) or who files a Colorado individual income tax return to claim a refund of Colorado income tax withheld from wages for that tax year; or

(II) Any natural person who is domiciled in this state for the entire taxable year commencing on January 1, 1998, and ending December 31, 1998, and who is at least eighteen years of age as of December 31, 1997; or

(III) A natural person who died during the taxable year commencing on January 1, 1998, and ending December 31, 1998, who was domiciled in this state from January 1, 1998, until the date of death, and whose estate or spouse is required to file a Colorado individual income tax return for that tax year pursuant to section 39-22-601 (1) (a) or whose estate or spouse files a Colorado income tax return to claim a refund of Colorado income tax withheld from wages for that tax year; or

(IV) A natural person who died during the taxable year commencing on January 1, 1998, and ending December 31, 1998, who was domiciled in this state from January 1, 1998, until the date of death, and who was at least eighteen years of age as of December 31, 1997.

(b) "Qualified individual" does not include:

(I) Any natural person who was convicted of a felony and who served a sentence of incarceration in a correctional facility operated by or under contract with the department of corrections or in a county or municipal jail awaiting transfer to the department of corrections pursuant to section 16-11-308, C.R.S., or in both such facility and jail for a total of one hundred eighty days or more during the 1997-98 fiscal year, regardless of whether such person meets the qualifications set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2);

(II) Any natural person who is convicted of a misdemeanor or is adjudicated for an offense that would constitute a misdemeanor if committed by an adult and who is incarcerated in a county or municipal jail for a total of one hundred eighty days or more during the 1997-98 fiscal year, regardless of whether such person meets the qualifications set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2);

(III) Any person under eighteen years of age who is adjudicated for an offense that would constitute a felony if committed by an adult and who was committed to the department of human services for a total of one hundred eighty days or more during the 1997-98 fiscal year, regardless of whether such person meets the qualifications set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2).

(3) With respect to the taxable year commencing on January 1, 1998, and ending December 31, 1998, there shall be allowed to each qualified individual a state sales tax refund in an amount specified in subsection (4) of this section with respect to the income taxes imposed by this article.

(II) If the qualified individual's federal adjusted gross income for the 1998 tax year is greater than twenty thousand dollars but not more than fifty thousand dollars, the refund shall be in the amount of one hundred ninety-five dollars, unless, at the 1998 general election, voters statewide approve House Bill 98-1256, enacted at the second regular session of the sixty-first general assembly, in which case the refund shall be in the amount of one hundred twenty-six dollars;

(b) For two qualified individuals filing a joint return for the 1998 tax year:

(I) If the qualified individuals' aggregate federal adjusted gross income for the 1998 tax year is less than or equal to twenty thousand dollars, the refund shall be in the amount of two hundred eighty-four dollars, unless, at the 1998 general election, voters statewide approve House Bill 98-1256, enacted at the second regular session of the sixty-first general assembly, in which case the refund shall be in the amount of one hundred eighty-four dollars;

(II) If the qualified individuals' aggregate federal adjusted gross income for the 1998 tax year is greater than twenty thousand dollars but not more than fifty thousand dollars, the refund shall be in the amount of three hundred ninety dollars, unless, at the 1998 general election, voters statewide approve House Bill 98-1256, enacted at the second regular session of the sixty-first general assembly, in which case the refund shall be in the amount of two hundred fifty-two dollars;

(IV) If the qualified individuals' aggregate federal adjusted gross income for the 1998 tax year is greater than ninety-five thousand dollars, the refund shall be in the amount of seven hundred sixty-eight dollars, unless, at the 1998 general election, voters statewide approve House Bill 98-1256, enacted at the second regular session of the sixty-first general assembly, in which case the refund shall be in the amount of four hundred ninety-six dollars.

(5) (a) (I) Except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a), any refund allowed pursuant to this section shall be claimed by a qualified individual as defined in subparagraph (I) or (III) of paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section by filing a 1998 income tax return with the department of revenue no later than April 15, 1999.

(II) Any refund allowed pursuant to this section shall be claimed by a qualified individual as defined in subparagraph (I) or (III) of paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section who is granted an extension of time to file a 1998 income tax return by filing a 1998 income tax return with the department of revenue no later than October 15, 1999. Such qualified individual shall not be required to pay all or any portion of the qualified individual's net tax liability due prior to October 15, 1999, in order to be granted an extension of time to file said tax return; except that, pursuant to section 39-22-621, such qualified individual may be subject to a late payment penalty and interest on any net income tax liability not paid by April 15, 1999.

(III) The department of revenue shall not allow said refund claimed on any 1998 income tax return not filed in compliance with the provisions of this article. In no event shall the refund claimed by a qualified individual as defined in subparagraph (I) or (III) of paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section on any 1998 income tax return be:

(A) Disallowed if said return is filed on or before October 15, 1999; and

(b) Any refund allowed pursuant to this section shall be claimed by a qualified individual as defined in subparagraph (II) or (IV) of paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section by filing a 1998 income tax return with the department of revenue no later than April 15, 1999. (c) (I) Notwithstanding any provision of paragraph (b) of this subsection (5) to the contrary, a qualified individual as defined in subparagraph (II) or (IV) of paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section who claims a property tax assistance grant pursuant to section 39-31-101 or a heat or fuel expenses assistance grant pursuant to section 39-31-104 may claim a refund authorized by this section on the assistance grant application form described in section 39-31-102 (2). Claiming a refund on such assistance grant application form shall be in lieu of claiming the refund on an income tax return pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (5). Any refund claimed pursuant to this paragraph (c) shall be claimed on or before April 15, 1999.

(II) The department of revenue shall not allow a refund authorized by this section that is claimed on an assistance grant application form if:

(B) The qualified individual has claimed the refund authorized by this section on an income tax form filed in accordance with paragraph (b) of this subsection (5) for the tax year for which the refund is allowed.

(5.5) (a) The department of revenue shall make a state sales tax refund of excess revenues for the 1996-97 fiscal year to any qualified individual, as defined in paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section as said section existed for purposes of refunding excess revenues for the 1996-97 fiscal year and prior to the amendments to said section contained in House Bill 98S-1003, enacted at the second extraordinary session of the sixty-first general assembly, who, pursuant to a rule of the department of revenue, was not allowed such state sales tax refund because of the failure to pay all or any portion of such qualified individual's net tax liability due prior to a certain date.

(b) The department of revenue shall notify each qualified individual described in paragraph (a) of this subsection (5.5) of the allowance of such refund and make payment of such refunds to such qualified individuals no later than September 30, 1999.

(c) The amount of any state sales tax refund made pursuant to this subsection (5.5) that is outstanding for more than six months after the date such refund was issued to the taxpayer by the department of revenue shall be added to and refunded with the state excess revenues pursuant to section 24-77-103.8, C.R.S.

(6) If the refund allowed under this section exceeds the income taxes otherwise due on the claimant's income, the amount of the refund not used as an offset against income taxes may not be carried forward as an offset against subsequent years' income tax liability and shall be refunded to the claimant.

(9) The executive director shall not print individual income tax forms for the 1998 taxable year until the results of the 1998 general election are known so that forms will

The department of revenue shall transfer the amount of any refund owed to said qualified individual to the department of corrections. (1) For the income tax year commencing on or after January 1, 1999, but prior to January 1, 2000, any taxpayer who makes a monetary or in-kind contribution to promote child care in the state shall be allowed a credit against the income tax imposed by this article in an amount equal to twenty-five percent of the total value of the contribution except as otherwise provided in subsection (5) of this section.

(1.5) For income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2000, any taxpayer who makes a monetary contribution to promote child care in the state shall be allowed a credit against the income tax imposed by this article in an amount equal to fifty percent of the total value of the contribution except as otherwise provided in subsections (5) and (6.7) of this section.

(6.7) (a) If the revenue estimate prepared by the staff of the legislative council in December 2010 and December 2011 indicates that the amount of the total general fund revenues for that particular fiscal year will not be sufficient to grow the total state general fund appropriations by six percent over such appropriations for the previous fiscal year, then the credit authorized in this section shall not be allowed for any income tax year commencing during the calendar year following the year in which the estimate is prepared; except that any taxpayer who would have been eligible to claim a credit pursuant to this section in the income tax year in which the credit is not allowed shall be allowed to claim the credit earned in such income tax year in the next income tax year in which the estimate indicates that the amount of the total general fund revenues will be sufficient to grow the total state general fund appropriations by six percent over such appropriations for the previous fiscal year.

39-22-123. Earned income tax credit - refund of state excess revenues for fiscal years commencing on or after July 1, 1998.

(1) (a) Repealed.

(b) Subject to the provisions of subsection (4) of this section, for any income tax year commencing on or after January 1, 2000, if, based on the financial report prepared by the controller in accordance with section 24-77-106.5, C.R.S., the controller certifies that the amount of state revenues for the state fiscal year ending in that income tax year exceeds the limitation on state fiscal year spending imposed by section 20 (7) (a) of article X of the state constitution and the voters statewide either have not authorized the state to retain and spend all of the excess state revenues or have authorized the state to retain and spend only a portion of the excess state revenues for that fiscal year, a resident individual or part-year resident individual who claims an earned income tax credit on the individual's federal tax return shall be allowed an earned income tax credit against the taxes due on the individual's income under this article. The amount of the credit shall be an amount equal to ten percent of the amount of the federal credit claimed on the resident individual's federal tax return or, in the case of a part-year resident individual, such amount as shall reflect ten percent of the federal earned income credit earned while a resident of Colorado.

(2) If the credit allowed under subsection (1) of this section exceeds the income taxes due on the resident individual's income, the amount of the credit not used to offset income taxes shall not be carried forward as tax credits against the resident individual's subsequent years' income tax liability and shall be refunded to the individual.

(3) Any earned income tax credit allowed for any given taxable year pursuant to this section shall be published in rules promulgated by the executive director of the department of revenue in accordance with article 4 of title 24, C.R.S., and shall be included in income tax forms for that taxable year.

(3.5) Any earned income tax credit allowed to any person pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall not be considered as income or resources for the purpose of determining eligibility or for the payment of public assistance benefits and medical assistance benefits authorized under state law or for payments made under any other publicly funded programs.

(4) (a) If, based on the financial report prepared by the controller in accordance with section 24-77-106.5, C.R.S., the controller certifies that the amount of state revenues for the state fiscal year commencing on July 1, 1998, exceeds the limitation on state fiscal year spending imposed by section 20 (7) (a) of article X of the state constitution for that fiscal year by less than fifty million dollars, then the credit authorized by subsection (1) of this section shall not be allowed for the income tax year commencing on January 1, 1999.

(b) If, based on the financial report prepared by the controller in accordance with section 24-77-106.5, C.R.S., the controller certifies that the amount of state revenues for any state fiscal year commencing on or after July 1, 1999, exceeds the limitation on state fiscal year spending imposed by section 20 (7) (a) of article X of the state constitution for that fiscal year by less than fifty million dollars, as adjusted pursuant to paragraph (c) of this subsection (4), then the credit authorized by subsection (1) of this section shall not be allowed for the income tax year in which said state fiscal year ended.

(c) (I) No later than October 1 of any given calendar year commencing on or after January 1, 2000, the executive director of the department of revenue shall annually adjust the dollar amount specified in paragraph (b) of this subsection (4) to reflect the rate of growth of Colorado personal income for the calendar year immediately preceding the calendar year in which such adjustment is made. For purposes of this subparagraph (I), "the rate of growth of Colorado personal income" means the percentage change between the most recent published annual estimate of total personal income for Colorado, as defined and officially reported by the bureau of economic analysis in the United States department of commerce for the calendar year immediately preceding the calendar year in which the adjustment is made and the most recent published annual estimate of total personal income for Colorado, as defined and officially reported by the bureau of economic analysis in the United States department of commerce for the calendar year prior to the calendar year immediately preceding the calendar year in which the adjustment is made.

(II) Upon calculating the adjustment of said dollar amount in accordance with subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c), the executive director shall notify in writing the executive committee of the legislative council created pursuant to section 2-3-301 (1), C.R.S., of the adjusted dollar amount and the basis for the adjustment. Such written notification shall be given within five working days after such calculation is completed, but such written notification shall be given no later than October 1 of the calendar year.

(III) It is the function of the executive committee to review and approve or disapprove such adjustment of said dollar amount within twenty days after receipt of such written notification from the executive director. Any adjustment that is not approved or disapproved by the executive committee within said twenty days shall be automatically approved; except that, if within said twenty days the executive committee schedules a hearing on such adjustment, such automatic approval shall not occur unless the executive committee does not approve or disapprove such adjustment after the conclusion of such hearing. Any hearing conducted by the executive committee pursuant to this subparagraph (III) shall be concluded no later than twenty-five days after receipt of such written notification from the executive director.

(IV) (A) If the executive committee disapproves any adjustment of said dollar amount calculated by the executive director pursuant to this paragraph (c), the executive committee shall specify such adjusted dollar amount to be utilized by the executive director. Any adjusted dollar amount specified by the executive committee pursuant to this sub-subparagraph (A) shall be calculated in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph (c).

(B) For the purpose of determining whether the credit authorized by subsection (1) of this section is to be allowed for any given income tax year, the executive director shall not utilize any adjusted dollar amount that has not been approved pursuant to subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (c) or otherwise specified pursuant to sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (IV).

(V) If one or more ballot questions are submitted to the voters at a statewide election to be held in November of any calendar year commencing on or after January 1, 1999, that seek authorization for the state to retain and spend all or any portion of the amount of excess state revenues for the state fiscal year ending during said calendar year, the executive director shall not determine whether the credit authorized by subsection (1) of this section shall be allowed and shall not promulgate rules containing said credit until the impact of the results of said election on the amount of the excess state revenues to be refunded is ascertained.

(5) The general assembly finds and declares that an earned income tax credit is a reasonable method of refunding a portion of the state excess revenues required to be refunded in accordance with section 20 (7) (d) of article X of the state constitution.

(V) Fifty percent or more of the members of the board of directors of one affiliated C corporation are members of the board of directors or are corporate officers of another affiliated C corporation.

(VI) Twenty-five percent or more of the twenty highest-ranking officers of an affiliated C corporation are members of the board of directors or are corporate officers of another affiliated C corporation.

(b) The net income of the affiliated C corporations which are to be included in a combined report shall be determined pursuant to the rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to section 1502 of the internal revenue code, as modified by section 39-22-304.

(c) If an affiliated C corporation is included in a combined report, section 39-22-303.5 or 39-22-303.7 shall be applied with the following modifications:

(I) Intercompany transactions among the affiliated C corporations shall be excluded from the numerator and denominator of the apportionment calculation set forth in section 39-22-303.5; and

(II) The numerator of the apportionment calculation set forth in section 39-22-303.5 shall be, to the extent applicable, the sum of the sales of those affiliated C corporations doing business in Colorado.

(d) The executive director shall not require returns to be made on a consolidated basis, but an affiliated group of C corporations may elect to file a consolidated return as otherwise provided in this article.

(e) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2008, p. 955, § 7, effective January 1, 2009.)

(12) (a) As used in subsections (10) and (11) of this section, the term “affiliated group” means one or more chains of includable C corporations connected through stock ownership with a common parent C corporation which is an includable C corporation if:

(I) Stock possessing more than fifty percent of the voting power of all classes of stock and more than fifty percent of each class of the nonvoting stock of each of the includable C corporations, except the common parent C corporation, is owned directly by one or more of the other includable C corporations; and

(II) The common parent C corporation owns directly stock possessing more than fifty percent of the voting power of all classes of stock and more than fifty percent of each class of the nonvoting stock of at least one of the other includable C corporations.

(b) As used in this subsection (12), the term “stock” does not include nonvoting stock which is limited and preferred as to dividends, employer securities, within the meaning of section 409(1) of the internal revenue code, while such securities are held under a tax credit employee stock ownership plan, or qualifying employer securities, within the meaning of section 4975(e)(8) of the internal revenue code, while such securities are held under an employee stock ownership plan which meets the requirements of section 4975(e)(7) of the internal revenue code.

(c) As used in this subsection (12), the term “includable C corporations” means any C corporation which has more than twenty percent of the C corporation’s property and payroll as determined by factoring pursuant to section 24-60-1301, C.R.S., assigned to locations inside the United States.

(13) The executive director shall, within existing appropriations to the department of revenue, promulgate rules and regulations to apply and administer the provisions of this section. Such rules and regulations shall be available for public review and comment not later than July 1, 1990.

ANNOTATION

Two-factor formula constitutional. The two-factor formula, consisting of sales and property factors in the computation of income tax for a foreign corporation is not intrinsically arbitrary, and, thus, is constitutional. GMC v. State, 181 Colo. 360, 509 P.2d 1260 (1973).

Difference of nine-tenths percent too small to be unconstitutional. A difference of nine-tenths percent between the computation of a railroad and that of the director of revenue concerning the allocation of apportionable income to Colorado is too small to constitute an unlawful burden upon interstate commerce, a violation of due process, or a violation of equal protection. Union P.R.R. v. Heckers, 181 Colo. 374, 509 P.2d 1255, appeal dismissed, 414 U.S. 806, 94 S. Ct. 74, 38 L. Ed.2d 42 (1973).

General assembly decides which taxation formula economically sound. It is not the trial court's function, nor that of the supreme court, to decide which formula for the taxation of a foreign corporation is the most economically sound, as this is a policy decision for the general assembly. GMC v. State, 181 Colo. 360, 509 P.2d 1260 (1973).

Presumption that percentage allocation for foreign corporation fair. Where a statutory formula for the taxation of a foreign corporation is not intrinsically invalid, there is a strong presumption that the percentage allocation is fair. GMC v. State, 181 Colo. 360, 509 P.2d 1260 (1973).

Regulation may not modify or contravene existing statute. A regulation must further the will of the general assembly and may not modify or contravene an existing statute. Miller Int'l, Inc. v. State Dept. of Rev., 646 P.2d 341 (Colo. 1982).

Else it is invalid. A method of allocation of income which is established by regulation, but which is inconsistent with this section, is invalid. Miller Int'l, Inc., v. State Dept. of Rev., 646 P.2d 341 (Colo. 1982).

Fairness is not equated with absolute precision. GMC v. State, 181 Colo. 360, 509 P.2d 1260 (1973).

Heavy burden lies on party challenging constitutional validity of tax apportionment formula. GMC v. State, 181 Colo. 360, 509 P.2d 1260 (1973).

He must show by "clear and convincing evidence" that the use of the particular formula results in extraterritorial values being taxed. GMC v. State, 181 Colo. 360, 509 P.2d 1260 (1973).

Allocation method valid if calculates income "reasonably attributed" to state transactions. The method of allocation of unitary income between states is valid if it is fairly calculated to assign to a state that portion of the net income "reasonably attributable" to the business transacted in that state. Union P.R.R. v. Heckers, 181 Colo. 374, 509 P.2d 1255, appeal dismissed, 414 U.S. 806, 94 S. Ct. 74, 38 L. Ed.2d 42 (1973).

Direct deduction of ad valorem taxes from net income is not required. Union P.R.R. v. Heckers, 181 Colo. 374, 509 P.2d 1255, appeal dismissed, 414 U.S. 806, 94 S. Ct. 74, 38 L. Ed.2d 42 (1973).

Director may change method of allocation. The fact that a corporation uniformly has been permitted to allocate Colorado and out-of-state income does not mean that the director may not change the method of allocation. Coors Porcelain Co. v. State, 183 Colo. 325, 517 P.2d 838 (1973), cert. denied, 419 U.S. 874, 95 S. Ct. 136, 42 L. Ed.2d 113 (1974).

Department may allocate income among corporations owned by same interests. The department of revenue may distribute or allocate the income of corporations owned or controlled by the same interests if it concludes that is the most effective method of taxing all the income that Colorado can constitutionally tax. Joslin Dry Goods Co. v. Dolan, 615 P.2d 16 (Colo. 1980); Hewlett-Packard Co. v. State Dept. of Rev., 749 P.2d 400 (Colo. 1988).

Recognized test for a unitary business is "whether or not the operation of the portion of the business within the state is dependent upon or contributory to the operation of the business outside the state". Joslin Dry Goods Co. v. Dolan, 615 P.2d 16 (Colo. 1980).

The income of foreign subsidiaries of a unitary business, even though such income is not federal taxable income, should be included in determining the net income base for a corporation. Hewlett-Packard Co. v. State Dept. of Rev., 749 P.2d 400 (Colo. 1988).

Section authorizes department to require combined reports. It is this section's provision for the distribution and allocation of income and deductions which authorizes the department to require combined reports. Joslin Dry Goods Co. v. Dolan, 615 P.2d 16 (Colo. 1980).

A combined-consolidated filing is permissible. An affiliated group that is required to file a combined return may also elect to file a consolidated return. This type of return was clearly allowed under the published statutes and the related department regulations. Cendant Corp. & Subs. v. Dept. of Rev., 226 P.3d 1102 (Colo. App. 2009).

39-22-303.5. Single-factor apportionment of business income - allocation of non-business income - rules - definitions. (1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Business income" means the net income of the taxpayer arising from the transactions and activity in the regular course of a taxpayer's trade or business and includes income from tangible and intangible property if the acquisition, management, and disposition of the property constitute integral parts of the taxpayer's regular trade or business operations. For purposes of administration of this section, the income of the taxpayer is business income unless clearly classifiable as nonbusiness income.

(b) "Commercial domicile" means the principal place from which the trade or business of the taxpayer is directed or managed.

(c) "Nonbusiness income" means all income other than business income.

(d) "Sales" means all gross receipts of the taxpayer not allocated under subsection (5) of this section and not otherwise excluded from the calculation of net income; except that, for the sale of intangible property, "sales" means the gain from the sale and not the gross receipts.

(e) "State" means any state of the United States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, any territory or possession of the United States, and any foreign country or political subdivision thereof.

(f) "Taxpayer" means a C corporation or any nonresident individual, nonresident partner, or S corporation that is permitted or required pursuant to another provision of law to apportion and allocate revenue pursuant to this section.

(2) (a) For income tax years commencing prior to January 1, 2009, a taxpayer shall apportion and allocate income pursuant to section 24-60-1301, C.R.S., or apportion income pursuant to section 39-22-303, as those sections existed immediately prior to January 1, 2009.

(b) For income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2009, a taxpayer shall apportion and allocate the taxpayer's entire net income as provided in this section.

(3) (a) If a taxpayer has no income from business activity outside of Colorado, the taxpayer's entire net income shall be allocated to Colorado.

(b) A taxpayer having income from business activity that is taxable both within and without Colorado shall apportion and allocate the taxpayer's net income as provided in this section.

(c) For purposes of apportionment and allocation of income under this section, a taxpayer is taxable in another state if:

(I) In that state, the taxpayer is subject to a net income tax, a franchise tax measured by net income, a franchise tax for the privilege of doing business, a corporate stock tax, or any similar tax; or

(II) That state has jurisdiction to subject the taxpayer to a net income tax regardless of whether, in fact, the state subjects the taxpayer to such tax.

(4) (a) A taxpayer's business income shall be apportioned to Colorado by multiplying such business income by a fraction, the numerator of which is the total sales of the taxpayer in Colorado during the tax period and the denominator of which is the total sales of the taxpayer everywhere during the tax period.

(b) Sales of tangible personal property, including gross receipts from leases and other uses of tangible personal property, are in Colorado if:

(I) The property is delivered or shipped to a purchaser in Colorado regardless of the f.o.b. point or other conditions of the sale; or

(II) The property is shipped from an office, store, warehouse, factory, or other place of storage in Colorado and the taxpayer is not taxable in the state to which the property is shipped.

(c) Sales, other than sales of tangible personal property, are in Colorado as follows:

(I) Revenue from services rendered in Colorado;

(II) Rents and royalties from real property located in Colorado;

(III) Gross proceeds from the sale of real property located in Colorado;

(IV) Interest and dividend income to the extent included in taxable income, if the taxpayer's commercial domicile is in Colorado;

(V) Gain from the sale of intangible property if the taxpayer's commercial domicile is in Colorado;

(VI) Patent and copyright royalties, if and to the extent that:

(A) The patent or copyright is utilized by the payer in Colorado; or

(B) The patent or copyright is utilized by the payer in a state in which the taxpayer is not taxable and the taxpayer's commercial domicile is in Colorado; and

(VII) Revenue from the performance of purely personal services, if the income-producing activity is performed in Colorado.

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection (4), in apportioning the income of a taxpayer engaged in the business of publishing magazines or periodicals either through print or electronic media, sales related to advertising in magazines or periodicals shall be part of the taxpayer's total sales in Colorado only to the extent that such magazines or periodicals are delivered within Colorado. The determination of the extent to which magazines or periodicals are delivered within Colorado shall be based upon the ratio that the delivery of magazines or periodicals by such taxpayer or tax-reporting entity in Colorado bears to the total delivery of magazines and periodicals by such taxpayer or tax-reporting entity.

(e) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no foreign source income that is included in taxable income shall be included as sales of the taxpayer in Colorado for purposes of apportioning business income pursuant to this subsection (4).

(f) For purposes of subparagraph (VI) of paragraph (c) of this subsection (4) and paragraph (g) of subsection (5) of this section:

(I) A patent is utilized in a state to the extent that it is employed in production, fabrication, manufacturing, or other processing in the state or to the extent that a patented product is produced in the state. If the basis of the receipts from the patent royalties cannot be reasonably assigned to states or if the accounting procedures do not reflect the states of utilization, the patent is utilized in the state in which the taxpayer's commercial domicile is located.

(II) A copyright is utilized in a state to the extent that printing or other publication originates in the state. If the basis of receipts from copyright royalties cannot be reasonably assigned to states or if the accounting procedures do not reflect the states of utilization, the copyright is utilized in the state in which the taxpayer's commercial domicile is located.

(5) A taxpayer's rents and royalties from real or tangible personal property, capital gains, interest, dividends, patent or copyright royalties, or other income, to the extent that they constitute nonbusiness income, shall be allocated as follows:

(a) Net rents and royalties from real property located in Colorado shall be allocated to Colorado;

(b) (I) Net rents and royalties from tangible personal property shall be allocated to Colorado:

(A) If and to the extent that the property is utilized in Colorado; or

(B) In their entirety if the taxpayer's commercial domicile is in Colorado and the taxpayer is not organized under the laws of, or taxable in, the state in which the property is utilized.

(II) For purposes of this paragraph (b), the extent of utilization of tangible personal property in Colorado shall be determined by multiplying the rents and royalties by a fraction, the numerator of which is the number of days of physical location of the property in Colorado during the rental or royalty period in the taxable year and the denominator of which is the number of days of physical location of the property everywhere during all rental or royalty periods in the taxable year. If the physical location of the property during the rental or royalty period is unknown or unascertainable by the taxpayer, tangible personal property shall be utilized in the state in which the property was located at the time the rental or royalty payer obtained possession.

(c) Capital gains and losses from sales of real property located in Colorado shall be allocated to Colorado;

(d) Capital gains and losses from sales of tangible personal property shall be allocated to Colorado if:

(I) The property had a situs in Colorado at the time of the sale; or

(II) The taxpayer's commercial domicile is in Colorado and the taxpayer is not taxable in the state in which the property had a situs;

(e) Capital gains and losses from sales of intangible property shall be allocated to Colorado if the taxpayer's commercial domicile is in Colorado;

(f) Interest and dividends shall be allocated to Colorado if the taxpayer's commercial domicile is in Colorado;

(g) Patent and copyright royalties shall be allocated to Colorado if and to the extent that:

(I) The patent or copyright is utilized by the payer in Colorado; or

(II) The patent or copyright is utilized by the payer in a state in which the taxpayer is not taxable and the taxpayer's commercial domicile is in Colorado; and

(h) Nonbusiness income that is not otherwise allocated pursuant to this subsection (5) shall be allocated pursuant to subsection (7) of this section.

(6) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, for each taxable year commencing on or after January 1, 2009, a taxpayer may elect to treat all income as business income. This election shall be made in accordance with rules adopted by the department of revenue and shall be made by the extended due date of the tax return. Once made, the election shall be irrevocable for such tax year.

(7) (a) In the case of certain industries where unusual factual situations produce inequitable results under the apportionment and allocation provisions of this section, the executive director shall promulgate rules for determining the apportionment and allocation factors for each such industry, but such rules shall be applied uniformly.

(b) If the apportionment and allocation provisions of this section do not fairly represent the extent of the taxpayer's activities in Colorado, the taxpayer may petition for, or the executive director may require, with respect to all or any part of the taxpayer's business activities, if reasonable:

(I) Separate accounting;

(II) The inclusion of one or more additional factors that will fairly represent the taxpayer's business activity in Colorado; or

(III) The employment of any other method to effectuate an equitable apportionment or allocation of the taxpayer's income, fairly calculated to determine the net income derived from or attributable to sources in Colorado.

(c) If the executive director requires the taxpayer to change its present method of reporting, the executive director shall notify the taxpayer in writing of the reason for the required change. The notice shall be made by first-class mail as set forth in section 39-21-105.5 and shall be sufficiently particular to give the taxpayer adequate information as to the reasons for the change so that the taxpayer may frame an answer for and defend its present method of reporting if it decides to appeal.

(d) The department of revenue, from time to time, shall publish all rulings of general public interest with respect to any application of the provisions of this subsection (7).

(e) If requested by the director of research of the legislative council, the executive director shall require taxpayers to provide additional information related to apportionment and allocation of income to support an income tax return for the purpose of providing such information to legislative council staff to improve the accuracy of fiscal notes and reports to the legislature. The executive director shall aggregate such additional information so as to preserve the confidentiality of the taxpayer's information and comply with section 39-21-113.

(8) A bank, savings and loan, credit union, or other taxpayer making or purchasing loans whose only business activity within Colorado is the ownership of property acquired through the process of foreclosure, or was obtained through a procedure exercised in lieu of the entity exercising its right to foreclose, which property is later disposed of within twenty-four months after obtaining ownership, shall directly allocate net income for such property during such time and any gains or losses realized from the sale of such foreclosed property to the state where the property is located. Such limited activities shall not render a bank, savings and loan, credit union, or other entity subject to the other allocation and apportionment provisions of this section.

(9) The executive director shall promulgate rules in accordance with article 4 of title 24, C.R.S., to apply and administer the provisions of this section. Any rules that the executive director promulgated in order to apply and administer section 39-22-303 or 24-60-1301, C.R.S., that may be used to apply and administer the provisions of this section, including provisions to apply and administer the sales factor for special industries, which are set forth in 1 CCR 201-2, shall continue to be in effect unless inconsistent with the provisions of this section or specifically withdrawn by the executive director.

(10) On or before January 1, 2014, the director of the office of economic development shall prepare a report describing the economic impacts related to apportionment and allocation of taxable income pursuant to this section and deliver the report to the finance committees of the senate and house of representatives, or any successor committees.

39-22-303.7. Sourcing of sales of mutual fund service corporations - definitions.

(1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Administration services" includes, but is not limited to, clerical, fund, or shareholder accounting and participant record keeping, transfer agency, bookkeeping, data processing, custodial, internal auditing, legal, and tax services performed for a regulated investment company. Services qualify as "administrative services" only if the provider of such services during the taxable year also provides, or is affiliated with a person that provides, management or distribution services to a regulated investment company during the same taxable year.

(b) "Distribution services" includes, but is not limited to, the services of advertising, servicing, marketing, or selling shares of a regulated investment company. The services of advertising, servicing, or marketing shares qualify as "distribution services" only when the service is performed by a person that is, or in the case of a closed-end company was, either engaged in the business of selling regulated investment company shares or affiliated with a person that is engaged in the service of selling regulated investment company shares. In the case of an open-end company, such service of selling shares must be performed pursuant to a contract entered into pursuant to 15 U.S.C. sec. 80a-15 (b), as amended.

(c) "Domicile" presumptively means the shareholder's mailing address on the records of the regulated investment company. If, however, the regulated investment company or the mutual fund service corporation has actual knowledge that the shareholder's primary residence or principal place of business is different from the shareholder's mailing address, the presumption shall not control. If the shareholder of record is a company that holds the shares of the regulated investment company as depositor for the benefit of a separate account, then the shareholder shall be the contract owners or policyholders of the contracts or policies supported by the separate account determined using any reasonable basis, such as zip codes of underlying shareholders or United States census bureau data in order to determine the proper location for the assignment of these shares. If the regulated investment company or the mutual fund service corporation has actual knowledge that the shareholder's principal place of business is different from the shareholder's mailing address, the presumption shall not control.

(d) "Management services" includes, but is not limited to, any of the following: The rendering of investment advice, directly or indirectly, to a regulated investment company, making determinations as to when sales and purchases of securities are to be made on behalf of the regulated investment company, or providing services related to the selling or purchasing of securities constituting assets of a regulated investment company, and related activities. Services qualify as "management services" only when such activity or activities are performed pursuant to a contract with the regulated investment company entered into pursuant to 15 U.S.C. sec. 80a-15 (a), as amended, for a person that has entered into such contract with the regulated investment company or for a person that is affiliated with a person that has entered into such a contract with a regulated investment company.

(e) "Mutual fund sales" means gross receipts derived within the taxable year directly or indirectly from the rendering of management, distribution, or administration services to a regulated investment company, including gross receipts received directly or indirectly from trustees, sponsors, and participants of employee benefit plans that have accounts in a regulated investment company.

(f) "Mutual fund service corporation" means any corporation doing business in Colorado that derives gross income from the provision directly or indirectly of management, distribution, or administration services to or on behalf of a regulated investment company and from trustees, sponsors, and participants of employee benefit plans that have accounts in a regulated investment company.

(g) "Regulated investment company" means a regulated investment company as defined in section 851 of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended.

(2) Notwithstanding any provision of section 39-22-303.5, for taxable years commencing on or after January 1, 2009, mutual fund sales by a mutual fund service corporation shall be considered Colorado sales for purposes of section 39-22-303.5 (4) (c), to the extent that shareholders of the regulated investment company are domiciled in Colorado as follows:

(a) (I) By multiplying the mutual fund service corporation's total dollar amount of mutual fund sales of such services on behalf of each regulated investment company by a fraction, the numerator of which shall be the average of the number of shares owned by the regulated investment company's shareholders domiciled in Colorado at the beginning of and at the end of the regulated investment company's taxable year that ends with or within the mutual fund service corporation's taxable year, and the denominator of which shall be the average of the number of shares owned by the regulated investment company shareholders everywhere at the beginning of and at the end of the regulated investment company's taxable year that ends with or within the mutual fund service corporation's taxable year.

(II) Notwithstanding subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a), a mutual fund service corporation may use the year-end of the regulated investment company's fund advisor for this calculation, as long as the mutual fund service corporation consistently uses this method from year to year. For purposes of this paragraph (a), a regulated investment company's fund advisor is the person that is directly and primarily responsible for providing investment advice to the regulated investment company under a contract entered into pursuant to 15 U.S.C. sec. 80a-15 (a).

(b) If the domicile of a shareholder is unknown to the mutual fund service corporation because the shareholder of record is a person that holds the shares of a regulated investment company as a depositor for the benefit of others, the mutual fund service corporation may utilize any reasonable basis, such as zip codes of underlying shareholders or United States census bureau data, in order to determine the proper location for the assignment of the shares.

(c) A separate computation shall be made to determine the mutual fund sales for each regulated investment company, the sum of which shall equal the total mutual fund sales sourced to Colorado.

39-22-304. Net income of corporation. (1) The net income of a C corporation means the C corporation's federal taxable income, as defined in the internal revenue code, for the taxable year, with the modifications specified in this section.

(2) There shall be added to federal taxable income:

(a) Any income, war profits, or excess profits taxes paid or accrued to any foreign country or to any possession of the United States that were deducted on the federal income tax return;

(b) Interest income less amortization of premium on obligations of any state or any political subdivision thereof, other than interest income on obligations of this state or a political subdivision thereof which are issued on or after May 1, 1980. Interest income on obligations of this state or a political subdivision thereof which were issued before May 1, 1980, shall be exempt from income tax to the extent that such interest is specifically so exempt under the laws of this state authorizing the issuance of such obligations. The amount of such interest shall be the net amount after reduction by the amount of the deductions related thereto which are required by the internal revenue code to be allocated to such classes of interest.

(c) The federal net operating loss deduction;

(d) Income taxes imposed by this state to the extent deducted in determining federal taxable income, except the tax imposed by article 29 of this title;

(e) (I) Any expenses incurred by a taxpayer with respect to expenditures made at, or payments made to, a club licensed pursuant to section 12-47-416, C.R.S., which has a policy to restrict membership on the basis of sex, sexual orientation, marital status, race, creed, religion, color, ancestry, or national origin. Any such club shall provide on each receipt furnished to a taxpayer a printed statement as follows:

The expenditures covered by this receipt are nondeductible for state income tax purposes.

(II) The general assembly finds, determines, and declares that the people of the state of Colorado desire to promote and achieve tax equity and fairness among all the state's citizens and further desire to conform to the public policy of nondiscrimination. The general assembly further declares that the provisions of this paragraph (e) are enacted for these reasons and for no other purpose.

(f) For the income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2000, an amount equal to the charitable contribution deduction allowed by section 170 of the internal revenue code to the extent such deduction includes a contribution of real property to a charitable organization for a conservation purpose for which an income tax credit is claimed pursuant to section 39-22-522;

(g) Repealed.

(h) An amount equal to a business expense for labor services that is deducted pursuant to section 162 (a) (1) of the internal revenue code but that is prohibited from being claimed as a deductible business expense for state income tax purposes pursuant to section 39-22-529.

(3) There shall be subtracted from federal taxable income:

(a) Interest income on obligations of the United States and its possessions to the extent included in federal taxable income;

(II) As used in this paragraph (d), "qualified sale" means a sale, in good faith, of real or personal property to a buyer who initiates the transaction to purchase real or personal property of the seller and who had or could have obtained the power to condemn such property, if the transaction was not between persons defined in section 267 (b) of the internal revenue code.

(III) The purpose of this paragraph (d) is, for purposes of Colorado income tax, to accord a seller in a qualified sale the same treatment received by a taxpayer under section 1033 of the internal revenue code relating to gains from involuntary conversion, even though said seller does not qualify under said section 1033 due to the absence of condemnation or the threat or imminence thereof and the buyer of the property purchased initiates the transaction. The executive director shall promulgate such reasonable rules and regulations as are necessary to accomplish the purpose of this paragraph (d).

(e) The amount necessary to prevent the taxation under this article of any annuity or other amount of income or gain which was properly included in income or gain and was taxed under the laws of this state, for a taxable year prior to January 1, 1965, to the taxpayer, or to a decedent by reason of whose death the taxpayer acquired the right to receive the income or gain, or to a trust or estate from which the taxpayer received the income or gain;

(i) That portion of wages or salaries paid or incurred for the taxable year, the deduction for which is disallowed by section 280C of the internal revenue code;

(j) Any amount treated as a section 78 dividend under section 78 of the internal revenue code;

39-22-305. Consolidated returns. (1) An affiliated group of C corporations, as defined in section 1504 of the internal revenue code, may elect to make a consolidated return with respect to the corporate income tax imposed by section 39-22-301 (1) for the taxable year in lieu of separate returns. The making of a consolidated return shall be upon the condition that all C corporations which at any time during the taxable year have been members of the affiliated group consent to be included in such return. The making of a consolidated return shall be considered as such consent. Such election may not be revoked in less than four years unless approved by the executive director.

(2) The executive director shall prescribe such regulations as the executive director may deem necessary in order that the tax liability of any affiliated group of C corporations making a consolidated return and of each C corporation in the group, both during and after the period of affiliation, may be returned, determined, computed, assessed, collected, and adjusted, in such manner as clearly to reflect the income tax liability and the various factors necessary for the determination of such liability and as the executive director may deem necessary in order to prevent avoidance of the tax liability.

39-22-307. Credit allowed for prior payment of impact assistance. (1) For income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1981, there shall be allowed, as a credit against any taxes imposed by this part 3 on income derived from a new mining, milling, or mining and milling operation or expansion of an existing mining, milling, or mining and milling operation, an amount equal to the value of eligible contributions by the taxpayer made prior to the commencement of operations by the new operation or by the expansion of an existing operation to assist in solving the impact problems of units of local government resulting from the initiation of a new operation or an expansion of an existing operation. The credit allowed by this section shall be allowed only on a new operation or an expansion of an existing operation located within Colorado which begins actual operations subsequent to June 30, 1980. Such credit shall be based on the ratio of the gross income attributable to such new operation or expansion to the total Colorado gross income multiplied by the Colorado income tax liability for the year for which the credit is claimed.

(2) Eligible contributions, for the purpose of such credit, shall include the donation of property or payments to units of local government for use in the planning or construction or expansion of public facilities, limited to roads, schools, water facilities, sewerage facilities, police and fire protection facilities, and hospitals, which are deemed to be necessitated by the initiation of a new operation or an expansion of an existing operation. In order to qualify as an eligible contribution for credit, the following requirements shall be fulfilled:

(a) Each contribution shall be based on an agreement between the taxpayer and a unit of local government specifying the need for such contribution and its nature, value, and purpose. Such agreement shall be submitted for review to each unit of local government which is impacted by the new operation or the expansion of an existing operation. Each impacted unit of local government may send comments on the agreement to the parties to the agreement and the energy impact assistance advisory committee pursuant to section 34-63-102 (5) (b), C.R.S.

(b) Each contribution must be determined to be eligible for credit, after joint submission by the taxpayer and the unit of local government, by the executive director of the department of local affairs upon the recommendation of the energy impact assistance advisory committee.

(c) Certification of eligibility for credit of a contribution of a specified value must be made by the executive director of the department of local affairs to the executive director of the department of revenue, the unit of local government, and the taxpayer. Certification of eligibility for credit shall not be made to the specified value of any contribution submitted, but to a prorated value of the contribution, if the total of all claims received by the department of local affairs exceeds one hundred thousand dollars.

(3) A taxpayer may claim credit against income tax liability during the first five years of operations by a new operation or an expansion of an existing operation in the amount of the total value of all contributions certified as eligible for credit by submitting with the annual declarations and returns required by section 39-29-112 the certifications of eligibility for such credit. Any unabsorbed credit may not be claimed as a refund or applied as a credit to estimated tax.

39-22-308. Credit allowed for purchase of Colorado coal. (1) For income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1989, but prior to January 1, 2005, there shall be allowed, as a credit against any taxes imposed on income by this part 3, an amount equal to one dollar per ton for each ton of Colorado coal purchased by and delivered to the taxpayer in excess of the number of tons of Colorado coal purchased by and delivered to the taxpayer in the income tax year commencing on or after January 1, 1988. If the amount of the tax credit allowed by this section exceeds the amount of income tax due for the taxable year, the excess amount may be carried forward as a credit against subsequent years' income tax liability for a period not exceeding three years and shall be applied first to the earliest income tax years possible. For purposes of this section, "Colorado coal" means coal mined in Colorado, as certified by the producer of such coal.

(2) (a) Any public or private corporate purchaser who is not liable for or subject to state income tax during the year the coal is purchased and who is otherwise eligible for the credit allowed by subsection (1) of this section may by written agreement transfer such credit to the producer of the coal. Said producer shall be allowed, as a credit against any taxes imposed on income by this part 3, an amount equal to the amount of credit for which the purchaser would otherwise have been eligible pursuant to subsection (1) of this section. Any such credit shall be subject to any limitations established in subsection (1) of this section. Said producer shall reduce the purchase price of said coal to such corporate purchaser by the amount of the credit so transferred.

(b) The corporate purchaser shall file a copy of the written agreement with the department of revenue. The agreement shall contain, but shall not be limited to, terms stipulating the number of tons of Colorado coal purchased by the corporate purchaser in the 1988 base income tax year and the number of tons of Colorado coal over and above that base amount which is being purchased pursuant to the agreement.

39-22-402. Share of a resident estate, trust, or beneficiary in Colorado fiduciary adjustments. (1) (a) An adjustment shall be made in determining the federal taxable income subject to tax by Colorado of a resident estate or trust under section 39-22-401, or the federal taxable income subject to tax by Colorado of a resident beneficiary of any estate or trust under section 39-22-104, in the amount of the share of each in the Colorado fiduciary adjustment as determined in this section.

(b) Repealed.

(2) The Colorado fiduciary adjustment shall be the net amount of the modifications described in section 39-22-104, except to the extent such items are excluded from federal distributable net income of the estate or trust.

(3) (a) The respective shares of an estate or trust and its beneficiaries, including, solely for the purpose of this allocation, nonresident beneficiaries, in the Colorado fiduciary adjustment shall be in proportion to their respective shares of federal distributable net income of the estate or trust.

(b) If the estate or trust has no federal distributable net income for the taxable year, the share of each beneficiary in the Colorado fiduciary adjustment shall be in proportion to his share of the estate or trust income for such year, under local law or the governing instrument, which is required to be distributed currently and any other amounts of such income distributed in such year. Any balance of the Colorado fiduciary adjustment shall be allocated to the estate or trust.

(4) The executive director may, by regulation, establish such other method of determining to whom the items comprising the fiduciary adjustment shall be attributed, as may be appropriate and equitable. Such method may be used by the fiduciary in his discretion whenever the allocation of the fiduciary adjustment, pursuant to subsection (3) of this section, would result in an inequity which is substantial both in amount and in relation to the amount of the fiduciary adjustment.

39-22-403. Income of a nonresident estate or trust subject to income tax. (1) In the case of a nonresident estate or trust, the tax imposed by section 39-22-104 shall be apportioned in the ratio of the Colorado-source federal taxable income to the total federal taxable income, both modified as provided in section 39-22-104.

(2) Colorado-source federal taxable income of an estate or trust means:

(a) Its share of the Colorado-source federal distributable net income as determined in section 39-22-404; and

(b) Its share of any Colorado-source income, gain, loss, and deduction recognized for federal income tax purposes but excluded from the definition of federal distributable net income of the estate or trust as determined under section 39-22-109, as in the case of a nonresident individual, and modified as provided in section 39-22-104.

39-22-404. Share of a nonresident estate, trust, or beneficiary in income from sources within Colorado. (1) The share of a nonresident estate or trust under section 39-22-403 and the share of a nonresident beneficiary of any estate or trust under section 39-22-109 in estate or trust income, gain, loss, and deduction from sources within Colorado shall be determined as follows:

(a) There shall be determined the items of income, gain, loss, and deduction derived from sources within Colorado which enter into the definition of federal distributable net income of the estate or trust for the taxable year, including such items from another estate or trust of which the first estate or trust is a beneficiary. Such determination of source shall be made in accordance with the applicable rules of section 39-22-109 as in the case of a nonresident individual.

(b) There shall be added or subtracted the modifications described in section 39-22-104, to the extent relating to items of income, gain, loss, and deduction, derived from sources within Colorado, which enter into the definition of federal distributable net income, including such items from another estate or trust of which the first estate or trust is a beneficiary. No modification shall be made under this paragraph (b) which has the effect of duplicating an item already reflected in the definition of federal distributable net income.

(c) (I) The amounts determined under paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subsection (1) shall be allocated among the estate or trust and its beneficiaries, including, solely for the purpose of this allocation, resident beneficiaries, in proportion to their respective shares of federal distributable net income.

(II) The amounts so allocated shall have the same character under this article as for federal income tax purposes.

(2) (a) If the estate or trust has no federal distributable net income for the taxable year, the share of each beneficiary, including, solely for the purpose of this allocation, resident beneficiaries, in the net amount, determined under paragraphs (a) and (b) of subsection (1) of this section, shall be in proportion to his share of the estate or trust income for such year, under local law or the governing instrument which is required to be distributed currently and any other amounts of such income distributed in such year. Any balance of such net amount shall be allocated to the estate or trust.

(b) The executive director may, by regulation, establish such other method or methods of determining the respective shares of the beneficiaries and of the estate or trust in its income derived from sources within Colorado and in the modifications related thereto as may be appropriate and equitable. Such method may be used by the fiduciary in his discretion whenever the allocation of such respective shares under subsection (1) of this section or paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) would result in an inequity which is substantial both in amount and in relation to the total amount of the modifications referred to in paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section.

39-22-507.5. Credits against tax - investment in certain property. (1) Except as otherwise provided in this section, there shall be allowed to any person as a credit against the tax imposed by this article, for income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1979, an amount equal to the total of:

(b) Ten percent of that part of the credit allowed for the same income tax year by section 38 of the internal revenue code, as determined under the provisions of section 46 of the internal revenue code, without regard to the limitations imposed by said section 38, to the extent such part of such credit is determined by reference to property which is used in Colorado; and

(3) The credit allowed by this section for any income tax year shall not exceed:

(a) The taxpayer's actual tax liability for the income tax year to the extent such liability does not exceed five thousand dollars; plus

(b) Twenty-five percent of that portion of said tax liability for the income tax year which exceeds five thousand dollars.

(4) Repealed.

(5) In the case of a "controlled group of corporations", as defined in section 1563 (a) of the internal revenue code, the five thousand dollars specified in subsection (3) of this section shall be apportioned among the members of the controlled group as they may elect. The election shall apply to the income tax year of the members of the controlled group ending with or including a common December 31. Should such members fail to agree on an allocation of the five thousand dollars, said five thousand dollars shall be divided equally among all members of the controlled group.

(6) In the case of a regulated investment company or a real estate investment trust, the five thousand dollars referred to in subsection (3) of this section shall be reduced to an amount which shall be five thousand dollars multiplied by the taxable income for the income tax year and divided by the taxable income for the income tax year plus the amount of the deduction for dividends paid.

If the redetermination results in a reduction of the credit allowed by this section for the income tax year or for any income tax year to which the credit was carried back or carried forward, the reduction shall constitute an increase in the tax imposed by this article for the income tax year during which the disposition or reclassification of the nature of the property occurs, and the amount of any unused investment tax credit carryback or carryover must be redetermined as appropriate. The increase in tax shall not be included as tax liability for the purposes of subsection (3) of this section.

(b) If, during any income tax year which commences on or after May 26, 1983, “section 38 property” which was first placed in service by the taxpayer in a taxable year beginning on or after January 1, 1982, is disposed of by or otherwise ceases to be such property with respect to the taxpayer before the close of the property’s recapture period, as determined for federal income tax purposes, the credit allowed by this section and the decrease, if any, in the investment tax credit carryback or carryover with respect to the property shall be redetermined in accordance with the recapture percentage table contained in:

(I) Section 47 (a) of the internal revenue code, as it existed immediately prior to the enactment of the federal “Revenue Reconciliation Act of 1990”, for such property which was disposed of by or otherwise ceased to be such property with respect to the taxpayer prior to January 1, 1991; or 39-22-522. Credit against tax - conservation easements. (1) For purposes of this section, “taxpayer” means a resident individual or a domestic or foreign corporation subject to the provisions of part 3 of this article, a partnership, S corporation, or other similar pass-through entity, estate, or trust that donates a conservation easement as an entity, and a partner, member, and subchapter S shareholder of such pass-through entity.

(2) For income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2000, and, with regard to any credit over the amount of one hundred thousand dollars, for income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2003, subject to the provisions of subsections (4) and (6) of this section, there shall be allowed a credit with respect to the income taxes imposed by this article to each taxpayer who donates during the taxable year all or part of the value of a perpetual conservation easement in gross created pursuant to article 30.5 of title 38, C.R.S., upon real property the taxpayer owns to a governmental entity or a charitable organization described in section 38-30.5-104 (2), C.R.S. The credit shall only be allowed for a donation that is eligible to qualify as a qualified conservation contribution pursuant to section 170 (h) of the internal revenue code, as amended, and any federal regulations promulgated in connection with such section. The amount of the credit shall not include the value of any portion of an easement on real property located in another state.

(2.5) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, for income tax years commencing during the 2011, 2012, and 2013 calendar years, a taxpayer conveying a conservation easement in 2011, 2012, or 2013 and claiming a credit pursuant to this section shall, in addition to any other requirements of this section, submit a claim for the credit to the division of real estate in the department of regulatory agencies. The division shall issue a certificate for the claims received in the order submitted. After certificates have been issued for credits that exceed an aggregate of twenty-two million dollars for all taxpayers for income tax years commencing in each of the 2011 and 2012 calendar years and thirty-four million dollars for each income tax year commencing in the 2013 calendar year, any claims that exceed the amount allowed for a specified calendar year shall be placed on a wait list in the order submitted and a certificate shall be issued for use of the credit in 2012 or 2013. The division shall not issue credit certificates that exceed twenty-two million dollars for each income tax year commencing in the 2011 and 2012 calendar years and thirty-four million dollars for each income tax year commencing in the 2013 calendar year. No claim for a credit shall be allowed for any income tax year commencing during the 2011, 2012, or 2013 calendar years unless a certificate has been issued by the division. The right to claim the credit shall be vested in the taxpayer at the time a credit certificate is issued. The division may promulgate rules in accordance with article 4 of title 24, C.R.S., for the issuance of certificates in accordance with this subsection (2.5).

(3) In order for any taxpayer to qualify for the credit provided for in subsection (2) of this section, the taxpayer shall submit the following in a form approved by the executive director to the department of revenue at the same time as the taxpayer files a return for the taxable year in which the credit is claimed:

(a) A statement indicating whether a deduction was claimed on the taxpayer's federal income tax return for a conservation easement in gross;

(b) A statement that reflects the information included in the noncash charitable contributions form used to claim a deduction for a conservation easement in gross on a federal income tax return and whether the donation was made in order to get a permit or other approval from a local or other governing authority;

(c) A statement to be made available to the public by the department of revenue that includes a summary of the conservation purposes as defined in section 170 (h) of the internal revenue code that are protected by the easement; the county, township, and range where the easement is located; the number of acres subject to the easement; the amount of the tax credit claimed; and the name of the organization holding the easement;

(d) A summary of a qualified appraisal that meets the requirements set forth in subsection (3.3) of this section; however, if requested by the department of revenue, the taxpayer shall submit the appraisal itself;

(e) A copy of the appraisal and accompanying affidavit from the appraiser submitted to the division of real estate in the department of regulatory agencies in accordance with the provisions of section 12-61-719, C.R.S.;

(f) If the holder of the conservation easement is an organization to which the certification program in section 12-61-720, C.R.S., applies, a sworn affidavit from the holder of the conservation easement in gross that includes the following:

(I) An acknowledgment that the holder has filed the information with the department of revenue and the division of real estate in accordance with section 24-33-112, C.R.S.;

(II) An acknowledgment of whether the transaction is part of a series of transactions by the same donor; and

(III) An acknowledgment that the holder has reviewed the completed Colorado gross conservation easement credit schedule to be filed by the taxpayer and that the property is accurately described in the schedule.

(3.3) The appraisal for a conservation easement in gross for which a credit is claimed shall be a qualified appraisal from a qualified appraiser, as those terms are defined in section 170 (f) (11) of the internal revenue code. The appraisal shall be in conformance with the uniform standards for professional appraisal practice promulgated by the appraisal standards board of the appraisal foundation and any other provision of law. The appraiser shall hold a valid license as a certified general appraiser in accordance with the provisions of part 7 of article 61 of title 12, C.R.S. The appraiser shall also meet any education and experience requirements established by the board of real estate appraisers in accordance with section 12-61-719 (7), C.R.S. If there is a final determination, other than by settlement of the taxpayer, that an appraisal submitted in connection with a claim for a credit pursuant to this section is a substantial or gross valuation misstatement as such misstatements are defined in section 1219 of the federal "Pension Protection Act of 2006", Pub.L. 109-280, the department shall submit a complaint regarding the misstatement to the board of real estate appraisers for disciplinary action in accordance with the provisions of part 7 of article 61 of title 12, C.R.S.

(3.5) (a) The executive director shall have the authority, pursuant to subsection (8) of this section, to require additional information from the taxpayer or transferee regarding the appraisal value of the easement, the amount of the credit, and the validity of the credit. In resolving disputes regarding the validity or the amount of a credit allowed pursuant to subsection (2) of this section, including the value of the conservation easement for which the credit is granted, the executive director shall have the authority, for good cause shown and in consultation with the division of real estate and the conservation easement oversight commission created in section 12-61-721 (1), C.R.S., to review and accept or reject, in whole or in part, the appraisal value of the easement, the amount of the credit, and the validity of the credit based upon the internal revenue code and federal regulations in effect at the time of the donation. If the executive director reasonably believes that the appraisal represents a gross valuation misstatement, receives notice of such a valuation misstatement from the division of real estate, or receives notice from the division of real estate that an enforcement action has been taken by the board of real estate appraisers against the appraiser, the executive director shall have the authority to require the taxpayer to provide a second appraisal at the expense of the taxpayer. The second appraisal shall be conducted by a certified general appraiser in good standing and not affiliated with the first appraiser that meets qualifications established by the division of real estate. In the event the executive director rejects, in whole or in part, the appraisal value of the easement, the amount of the credit, or the validity of the credit, the procedures described in sections 39-21-103, 39-21-104, 39-21-104.5, and 39-21-105 shall apply.

(b) In consultation with the division of real estate and the conservation easement oversight commission created in section 12-61-721 (1), C.R.S., the executive director shall develop and implement a separate process for the review by the department of revenue of gross conservation easements. The review process shall be consistent with the statutory obligations of the division and the commission and shall address gross conservation easements for which the department of revenue has been informed that an audit is being performed by the internal revenue service. The executive director shall share information used in the review of gross conservation easements with the division. Notwithstanding part 2 of article 72 of title 24, C.R.S., in order to protect the confidential financial information of a taxpayer, the division and the commission shall deny the right to inspect any information provided by the executive director in accordance with this paragraph (b). On or before January 1, 2009, the executive director shall report to the general assembly on the status of the development and implementation of the process required by this paragraph (b).

(3.7) If the gain on the sale of a conservation easement in gross for which a credit is claimed pursuant to this section would not have been a long-term capital gain, as defined under the internal revenue code, if, at the time of the donation, the taxpayer had sold the conservation easement at its fair market value, then the value of the conservation easement in gross for the purpose of calculating the amount of the credit shall be reduced to the taxpayer's tax basis in the conservation easement in gross. The tax basis of a taxpayer in a conservation easement shall be determined and allocated pursuant to sections 170 (e) and 170 (h) of the internal revenue code, as amended, and any federal regulations promulgated in connection with such sections. This subsection (3.7) shall be applied in a manner that is consistent with the tax treatment of qualified conservation contributions under the internal revenue code and the federal regulations promulgated under the internal revenue code.

(4) (a) (I) For a conservation easement in gross created in accordance with article 30.5 of title 38, C.R.S., that is donated prior to January 1, 2007, to a governmental entity or a charitable organization described in section 38-30.5-104 (2), C.R.S., the credit provided for in subsection (2) of this section shall be an amount equal to one hundred percent of the first one hundred thousand dollars of the fair market value of the donated portion of such conservation easement in gross when created, and forty percent of all amounts of the donation in excess of one hundred thousand dollars; except that in no case shall the credit exceed two hundred sixty thousand dollars per donation.

(II) For a conservation easement in gross created in accordance with article 30.5 of title 38, C.R.S., that is donated on or after January 1, 2007, to a governmental entity or a charitable organization described in section 38-30.5-104 (2), C.R.S., the credit provided for in subsection (2) of this section shall be an amount equal to fifty percent of the fair market value of the donated portion of such conservation easement in gross when created; except that in no case shall the credit exceed three hundred seventy-five thousand dollars per donation.

(III) In no event shall a credit claimed by a taxpayer filing a joint federal return, or the sum of the credits claimed by taxpayers filing married separate federal returns, exceed the dollar limitations of this paragraph (a).

(b) For income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2000, in the case of a joint tenancy, tenancy in common, partnership, S corporation, or other similar entity or ownership group that donates a conservation easement as an entity or group, the amount of the credit allowed pursuant to subsection (2) of this section shall be allocated to the entity's owners, partners, members, or shareholders in proportion to the owners', partners', members', or shareholders' distributive shares of income or ownership percentage from such entity or group. For income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2000, but prior to January 1, 2003, the total aggregate amount of the credit allocated to such owners, partners, members, and shareholders shall not exceed one hundred thousand dollars, and, if any refund is claimed pursuant to subparagraph (I) of paragraph (b) of subsection (5) of this section, the aggregate amount of the refund and the credit claimed by such partners, members, and shareholders shall not exceed twenty thousand dollars for that income tax year. For income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2003, but prior to January 1, 2007, the total aggregate amount of the credit allocated to such owners, partners, members, and shareholders shall not exceed two hundred sixty thousand dollars, and, if any refund is claimed pursuant to subparagraph (I) of paragraph (b) of subsection (5) of this section, the aggregate amount of the refund and the credit claimed by such owners, partners, members, and shareholders shall not exceed fifty thousand dollars for that income tax year. For income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2007, the total aggregate amount of the credit allocated to such owners, partners, members, and shareholders shall not exceed three hundred seventy-five thousand dollars, and, if any refund is claimed pursuant to subparagraph (I) of paragraph (b) of subsection (5) of this section, the aggregate amount of the refund and the credit claimed by such owners, partners, members, and shareholders shall not exceed fifty thousand dollars for that income tax year.

(5) (a) If the tax credit provided in this section exceeds the amount of income tax due on the income of the taxpayer for the taxable year, the amount of the credit not used as an offset against income taxes in said income tax year and not refunded pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (5) may be carried forward and applied against the income tax due in each of the twenty succeeding income tax years but shall be first applied against the income tax due for the earliest of the income tax years possible. Any amount of the credit that is not used after said period shall not be refundable.

(b) (I) Subject to the requirements specified in subparagraphs (II) and (III) of this paragraph (b), for income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2000, if the amount of the tax credit allowed in or carried forward to any tax year pursuant to this section exceeds the amount of income tax due on the income of the taxpayer for the year, the taxpayer may elect to have the amount of the credit not used as an offset against income taxes in said income tax year refunded to the taxpayer.

(II) A taxpayer may elect to claim a refund pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b) only if, based on the financial report prepared by the controller in accordance with section 24-77-106.5, C.R.S., the controller certifies that the amount of state revenues for the state fiscal year ending in the income tax year for which the refund is claimed exceeds the limitation on state fiscal year spending imposed by section 20 (7) (a) of article X of the state constitution and the voters statewide either have not authorized the state to retain and spend all of the excess state revenues or have authorized the state to retain and spend only a portion of the excess state revenues for that fiscal year.

(III) If any refund is claimed pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b), then the aggregate amount of the refund and amount of the credit used as an offset against income taxes for that income tax year shall not exceed fifty thousand dollars for that income tax year. In the case of a partnership, S corporation, or other similar pass-through entity that donates a conservation easement as an entity, if any refund is claimed pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b), the aggregate amount of the refund and the credit claimed by the partners, members, or shareholders of the entity shall not exceed the dollar limitation set forth in this subparagraph (III) for that income tax year. Nothing in this subparagraph (III) shall limit a taxpayer's ability to claim a credit against taxes due in excess of fifty thousand dollars in accordance with subsection (4) of this section.

(6) A taxpayer may claim only one tax credit under this section per income tax year; except that a transferee of a tax credit under subsection (7) of this section may claim an unlimited number of credits. A taxpayer who has carried forward or elected to receive a refund of part of the tax credit in accordance with subsection (5) of this section shall not claim an additional tax credit under this section for any income tax year in which the taxpayer applies the amount carried forward against income tax due or receives a refund. A taxpayer who has transferred a credit to a transferee pursuant to subsection (7) of this section shall not claim an additional tax credit under this section for any income tax year in which the transferee uses such transferred credit.

(7) For income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2000, a taxpayer may transfer all or a portion of a tax credit granted pursuant to subsection (2) of this section to another taxpayer for such other taxpayer, as transferee, to apply as a credit against the taxes imposed by this article subject to the following limitations:

(a) The taxpayer may only transfer such portion of the tax credit as the taxpayer has neither applied against the income taxes imposed by this article nor used to obtain a refund;

(b) The taxpayer may transfer a pro-rated portion of the tax credit to more than one transferee;

(c) A transferee may not elect to have any transferred credit refunded pursuant to paragraph (b) of subsection (5) of this section;

(d) For any tax year in which a tax credit is transferred pursuant to this subsection (7), both the taxpayer and the transferee shall file written statements with their income tax returns specifying the amount of the tax credit that has been transferred. A transferee may not claim a credit transferred pursuant to this subsection (7) unless the taxpayer's written statement verifies the amount of the tax credit claimed by the transferee.

(e) To the extent that a transferee paid value for the transfer of a conservation easement tax credit to such transferee, the transferee shall be deemed to have used the credit to pay, in whole or in part, the income tax obligation imposed on the transferee under this article, and to such extent the transferee's use of a tax credit from a transferor under this section to pay taxes owed shall not be deemed a reduction in the amount of income taxes imposed by this article on the transferee;

(f) The transferee shall submit to the department a form approved by the department. The transferee shall also file a copy of the form with the entity to whom the taxpayer donated the conservation easement.

(g) A transferee of a tax credit shall purchase the credit prior to the due date imposed by this article, not including any extensions, for filing the transferee's income tax return;

(h) A tax credit held by an individual either directly or as a result of a donation by a pass-through entity, but not a tax credit held by a transferee unless used by the transferee's estate for taxes owed by the estate, shall survive the death of the individual and may be claimed or transferred by the decedent's estate. This paragraph (h) shall apply to any tax credit from a donation of a conservation easement made on or after January 1, 2000.

(i) The donor of an easement for which a tax credit is claimed or the transferor of a tax credit transferred pursuant to this subsection (7) shall be the tax matters representative in all matters with respect to the credit. The tax matters representative shall be responsible for representing and binding the transferees with respect to all issues affecting the credit, including, but not limited to, the charitable contribution deduction, the appraisal, notifications and correspondence from and with the department of revenue, audit examinations, assessments or refunds, settlement agreements, and the statute of limitations. The transferee shall be subject to the same statute of limitations with respect to the credit as the transferor of the credit.

(j) Final resolution of disputes regarding the tax credit between the department of revenue and the tax matters representative, including final determinations, compromises, payment of additional taxes or refunds due, and administrative and judicial decisions, shall be binding on transferees.

(8) The executive director of the department of revenue may promulgate rules for the implementation of this section. Such rules shall be promulgated in accordance with article 4 of title 24, C.R.S.

(9) Any taxpayer who claims a credit for the donation of a conservation easement contrary to the provisions of this section shall be liable for such deficiencies, interest, and penalties as may be specified in this article or otherwise provided by law.

(10) On or before July 1, 2008, the department of revenue shall create a report, which shall be made available to the public, on the credits claimed in the previous year in accordance with this section. For each credit claimed for a conservation easement in gross, the report shall summarize by county where the easement is located, the acres under easement, the appraised value of the easement, the donated value of the easement, and the name of any holders of the easement; except that the department shall combine such information for multiple counties where necessary to ensure that the information for no fewer than three easements is summarized for any county or combination of counties in the report. The report shall be updated annually to reflect the same information for any additional credits that have been granted since the previous report.

(11) On or before December 31, 2007, the department of revenue shall create a report, which shall be made available to the public, with as much of the information specified in paragraph (c) of subsection (3) of this section as is available to the department, summarized by county, for each tax credit claimed for a conservation easement in gross for tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2000.

The $100,000 "per donation" cap on the amount of the tax credit that could be claimed under a prior version of this section was an aggregate cap on the amount of the credit that could be claimed by all tenants in common for the donation of undivided property. The department of revenue therefore properly reduced to a total of $100,000 total conservation easement tax credits of $154,700 claimed in equal shares by two tenants in common. Huber v. Kenna, 205 P.3d 1158 (Colo. 2009) (decided under former law).

39-22-522.5. Conservation easement tax credits - dispute resolution - legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that:

(a) Colorado's conservation easement program is an important preservation tool used to balance economic needs with natural resources such as land and water preservation. Colorado's conservation easement tax credit and the federal tax deduction have allowed many farmers and ranchers the opportunity to donate their development rights to preserve a legacy of open spaces in Colorado for wildlife, agriculture, and ranching.

(b) Citizens throughout Colorado believe good, sound conservation practices are important to Colorado's quality of life, agriculture, and wildlife heritage;

(c) Colorado's conservation easement tax credit program was designed to give land-owners an incentive to conserve and preserve their land in a predominantly natural, scenic, or open condition;

(d) While the department of revenue has allowed the great majority of claimed conservation easement tax credits, hundreds of claimed credits have been denied but have not yet been finally adjudicated through the existing administrative process;

(e) Due to the unique issues of confidentiality and multiple interested and related parties involved in the litigation of disputed conservation easement tax credits, the general assembly determines that it is appropriate to enact procedural changes that will provide for equitable and expedited litigation or resolution of these cases;

(f) It is the intent of the general assembly to enact procedural changes that further important matters of public policy concerning the equitable and efficient resolution of disputes regarding claimed conservation easement tax credits. It is the intent of the general assembly that any appeal brought pursuant to subsection (2) of this section shall be expedited to the extent practicable and administered in the manner deemed most efficient and fair by the executive director or the district court.

(g) The procedural changes set forth in this section shall apply to any dispute regarding a tax credit from a donation of a conservation easement made on or after January 1, 2000, for which a final determination has not been issued;

(h) It is the intent of the general assembly to provide taxpayers with incentives to waive an administrative hearing and proceed directly to a de novo appeal to the district court in accordance with the procedures set forth in this section. The incentives include waiver of the bond requirement and waiver of accrual of interest and penalties during the time the matter is on appeal to the district court.

(i) The general assembly strongly encourages the executive director of the department of revenue to agree to waive interest and penalties for tax matters representatives and credit buyers who have acted in good faith to resolve disputed conservation easement tax credits; and

(j) This section is intended to effect changes to the law that are procedural or remedial in nature. The procedural changes set forth in this section shall not be construed to take away or impair any vested right acquired under existing law, or to create any new obligation, impose any new duty, or attach any new disability with respect to any past transaction or consideration. The provisions of this section are designed to address matters of public policy related to the fair and equitable resolution of conservation easement tax credit disputes in accordance with applicable laws and court rules.

(2) For any credit claimed pursuant to section 39-22-522, for which a notice of deficiency, notice of disallowance, or notice of rejection of refund claim has been mailed by the department of revenue as of May 1, 2011, but for which a final determination has not been issued before May 19, 2011, the tax matters representative may elect to waive the administrative process provided by section 39-21-103 and appeal the notice of deficiency, disallowance, or rejection of refund claim directly to a district court in accordance with the following provisions, which also apply to an appeal filed in accordance with subsection (6) of this section; except that paragraphs (a), (c), and (d) of this subsection (2) shall not apply to such an appeal:

(a) The tax matters representative shall make the election by mailing a written notice of appeal that includes the certified signature of the tax matters representative to the executive director and the district court for the county that has venue in the case as specified in paragraph (b) of this subsection (2) on or before October 1, 2011. The notice shall be sent by certified mail.

(b) Appeals brought pursuant to this section shall be filed in the district court for the county where the land encumbered by the easement is located. At the discretion of the chief justice, the state may be divided into three regions for purposes of consolidating appeals, with each region consisting of the following judicial districts:

Region	Judicial Districts
Region 1	1st, 2nd, 8th, 13th, 17th, 18th, 19th, and 20th
Region 2	3rd, 4th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 15th, and 16th
Region 3	5th, 6th, 7th, 9th, 14th, 21st, and 22nd

(c) If a tax matters representative elects to waive the administrative process and appeal directly to a district court pursuant to this subsection (2), no surety bond or other deposit shall be required in connection with the appeal. This paragraph (c) shall not apply to tax matters representatives who do not elect to waive the administrative process.

(d) If the tax matters representative elects to waive the administrative process and appeal directly to a district court pursuant to this subsection (2), additional interest and penalties shall cease to accrue while the matter is on appeal before the district court, beginning with the date the notice of appeal is received by the district court. This paragraph (d) shall not apply to tax matters representatives who do not elect to waive the administrative process.

(e) Upon receipt of the notice of appeal by the court, the executive director shall be deemed to be a party to such appeal, and the clerk of the district court shall docket the cause as a civil action. The appellant shall cause summons to be issued and cause the same to be served upon the executive director in accordance with the manner provided by law in civil cases. The answer of the executive director shall contain a brief, plain statement of the legal issues, a detailed itemization of the total amount in controversy, and any proposal regarding the joinder or consolidation of related parties and appeals.

(f) Any transferee of the tax credit or any other person who has claimed a tax credit related to the tax matters representative's claimed conservation easement tax credit shall be allowed to intervene as a matter of right pursuant to the Colorado rules of civil procedure.

(g) Notice of the date of any hearing or any phase of the trial shall be mailed to the tax matters representative, any other party, and to the executive director at least thirty days prior thereto.

(h) Jurisdiction to hear and determine appeals pursuant to this section is conferred upon the district courts of this state. A court, in its discretion, may allow for the assertion, consolidation, and settlement of any claims at law or at equity, for the intervention of additional parties, and for such other matters as the court deems appropriate in accordance with any applicable laws or court rules governing such issues; except that resolution of disputes between private parties may be limited to the third phase of the case as described in paragraph (m) of this subsection (2). In determining matters regarding joinder or consolidation, the court may consider common issues of law and fact, including but not limited to ownership of the property subject to the easement, relationships of taxpayers, and location of the easements.

(i) Following the court's order identifying the parties and consolidating cases and parties, the court may hold a hearing to determine the validity of the conservation easement credit claimed pursuant to section 39-22-522 and to determine any other claims or defenses touching the regularity of the proceedings. The court shall determine whether the donation is eligible to qualify as a qualified conservation contribution. The court may set an expedited briefing schedule and give the matter priority on the docket. The court may order preliminary discovery, limited to validity of the easement credits and any other claims or defenses raised at this stage of the proceeding.

(j) Upon a determination of validity of the credit as claimed, the court may schedule a case management conference with all parties to the proceeding. Any case management conference shall address the proceedings as set forth in paragraph (m) of this subsection (2). Prior to the case management conference, the court may order all parties to make the following disclosures:

(I) The department of revenue shall disclose, consistent with any orders of the court, individuals with knowledge of, and documents related to:

(A) Notices to the tax matters representative disallowing the conservation easement credit;

(B) Notices to any taxpayer of deficiency or rejection of claim for refund;

(C) Correspondence with the tax matters representative or donee of the easement as well as any party to the conservation easement tax credit action;

(D) Appraisals and review appraisals or other expert reports used in connection with review of the tax matters representative's application for tax credit;

(E) Tax returns of the tax matters representative, transferee, or any party to the conservation easement tax credit action, for relevant tax years; and

(F) Statements of adjustment.

(II) The tax matters representative shall disclose individuals with knowledge of, and documents related to:

(A) Tax returns for the relevant tax years;

(B) The appraisal used to determine the value of the easement;

(C) The conservation easement deed and amendments;

(D) Agreements between the tax matters representative and the transferees; and

(E) Any other expert report, basis, or other evidence relating to the valuation and substantiation of the amount of the underlying easement or credit.

(III) Transferees or other persons claiming all or part of the conservation easement tax credit who are parties to the conservation easement tax credit action shall disclose individuals with knowledge of, and documents related to:

(A) Agreements related to the transfer of credits;

(B) Tax returns for the relevant tax years; and

(C) Any other expert report, basis, or other evidence relating to the valuation and substantiation of the amount of the underlying easement or credit.

(k) The court may make any order it deems appropriate to control and limit discovery to avoid unnecessary duplication between or among parties, including setting such limitations in accordance with the phases of the proceedings as set forth in paragraph (m) of this subsection (2).

(l) In advance of the trial date, the court may require the parties to confer and submit a proposed trial management order to the court.

(m) After a determination pursuant to paragraph (i) of this subsection (2) of the validity of the credit as claimed, the court shall resolve all remaining issues as follows:

(I) The first phase shall be limited to issues regarding the value of the easement.

(II) The second phase shall be limited to determinations of the tax, interest, and penalties due and apportionment of such tax liability among persons who claimed a tax credit in relation to the conservation easement. The conservation easement tax credit action shall be final at the conclusion of the second phase as to the department of revenue and as to any taxpayer, transferee, or other party with regard to that party's tax credit dispute with the department of revenue.

(III) The third phase shall address all other claims related to the conservation easement tax credit, including those between and among the tax matters representative, transferees, other persons claiming a tax credit in connection with the donation, and any third party joined as a party to the action. The department shall not be required to participate in or be a party to this third phase. Any participation in these proceedings by parties other than the tax matters representative, transferees, or other persons who have claimed all or part of a conservation easement tax credit is limited to this third phase.

(n) The district court shall hear the appeal in accordance with the Colorado rules of civil procedure and the rules of evidence.

(o) The chief justice of the supreme court may designate judges to hear appeals brought pursuant to this subsection (2), and may determine that only judges so designated may hear such appeals. For the convenience of the parties and in order to facilitate the use of available court facilities, hearings may be conducted at the discretion of the court in any county within the region for which venue has been established for a case pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (2).

(p) The district court shall enter judgment on its findings. The court shall have the authority to establish the amount of any deficiency and to waive or otherwise modify the amount of any interest, penalties, or other amounts owed. The court shall indicate in any order whether the judgment of the court is a final judgment subject to appeal as to any party.

(q) It is the intent of the general assembly that any appeals brought pursuant to this subsection (2) shall be expedited to the extent practicable and administered in the manner deemed most efficient and fair by the courts.

(3) A tax matters representative who does not make an election to waive a hearing pursuant to subsection (2) of this section and appeal directly to a district court may send a written request for hearing and final determination by certified mail to the executive director on or before October 1, 2011. If a tax matters representative files a request pursuant to this subsection (3), the executive director shall issue a final determination on or before July 1, 2014, unless the executive director and the tax matters representative mutually agree in writing to extend such date to a specified date. The executive director shall send a copy of the final determination to the tax matters representative by certified mail on or before July 1, 2014. If the United States post office returns the final determination as undeliverable by certified mail, the department shall then mail the final determination in accordance with section 39-21-105.5. This subsection (3) shall apply only to those tax matters representatives for which a notice of deficiency, notice of disallowance, or notice of rejection of refund claim has been mailed by the department of revenue as of May 1, 2011, but for which a final determination has not been issued before May 19, 2011.

(4) The executive director shall issue a final determination on or before July 1, 2016, for any tax matters representative who does not make an election to waive a hearing pursuant to subsection (2) of this section or file a written request for final hearing and final determination with the executive director pursuant to subsection (3) of this section. The executive director shall send a copy of the final determination to the tax matters representative by certified mail on or before July 1, 2016. If the United States post office returns the final determination as undeliverable by certified mail, the department shall then mail the final determination in accordance with section 39-21-105.5. If a tax matters representative does not make an election to waive a hearing pursuant to subsection (2) of this section or file a written request for final hearing and final determination with the executive director pursuant to subsection (3) of this section, any person who has claimed a credit or who may be eligible to claim a tax credit in relation to the tax matters representative's donation may petition the department on or before November 1, 2011, to change the tax matters representative's designation. The executive director shall promulgate rules on or before September 1, 2011, specifying the procedures for a change to the tax matters representative's designation when the executive director determines that the tax matters representative is unavailable or unwilling to act as the tax matters representative. If the department grants the petition, the new tax matters representative may file an appeal pursuant to subsection (2) of this section or file a written request for final hearing and final determination with the executive director pursuant to subsection (3) of this section within thirty days of the department's order regarding the petition. This subsection (4) shall apply only to those tax matters representatives for which a notice of deficiency, notice of disallowance, or notice of rejection of refund claim has been mailed by the department of revenue as of May 1, 2011, but for which a final determination has not been issued before May 19, 2011.

(5) In order to expedite the equitable resolution of requests for an administrative hearing regarding any conservation easement tax credit, avoid inconsistent determinations, and allow the executive director or the executive director's designee to consider the full scope of applicable issues of law and fact, the executive director or the executive director's designee shall have discretion to issue orders as set forth in paragraphs (a) to (e) of this subsection (5) as follows:

(a) To consolidate cases involving common or related issues of fact or law. In identifying related cases, the executive director or the executive director's designee may consider any common issues of law or fact, including but not limited to common ownership of the property subject to the easement, relationships of the taxpayers, and location of the easements.

(b) To issue a final order finding that a case cannot reasonably be resolved through the administrative process and transferring jurisdiction of the case to the district court in accordance with subsection (2) of this section. Such a final order may issue for reasons including but not limited to a waiver of administrative process pursuant to paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section by another tax matters representative where consolidation would otherwise be appropriate pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (5). Prior to issuance of such a final order, the parties shall have the opportunity to file written briefs addressing the proposed transfer.

(c) If a tax matters representative fails to appear at a hearing or the tax matters representative has failed to adequately participate in such hearing, including but not limited to a failure to file the required pleadings or to appear at a scheduled conference, the executive director may without further proceedings issue a final determination.

(d) To invite participation in the administrative process by any person who may be affected or aggrieved by a final determination, including but not limited to transferees. Such participation shall include the right to be admitted as a party to a hearing. Upon the person's filing of a written request setting forth a brief and plain statement of the facts that entitle the person to be admitted and the matters to be decided, the executive director or the executive director's designee shall have the authority to admit such person for limited purposes. This process shall be available only to persons who have claimed a credit or who may be eligible to claim a tax credit in relation to the conservation easement.

(e) If a tax matters representative has not provided any document related to the credit that was required to be provided as part of the taxpayer's return, including the return itself, or, if requested by the department, a copy of the complete appraisal obtained at the time of donation, the department may send a written request to the taxpayer for such document. Failure to provide the requested documents within sixty days of any such request shall constitute grounds for the issuance of a final determination denying the credit.

(6) For any tax matters representative for which the executive director issued a final determination on or after May 1, 2011, the tax matters representative may appeal the final determination of the executive director pursuant to the provisions of section 39-21-105. The procedure governing such appeal shall be in accordance with the provisions of subsection (2) of this section; except that paragraphs (a), (c), and (d) of said subsection (2) shall not apply. If a tax matters representative fails to file a timely appeal pursuant to this subsection (6), any person who has claimed a credit or who may be eligible to claim a tax credit in relation to the tax matters representative's donation may petition the department to change the tax matters representative's designation within ten days after the final date for filing an appeal. The executive director shall promulgate rules on or before September 1, 2011, specifying the procedures for a change to the tax matters representative's designation when the executive director determines that the tax matters representative is unavailable or unwilling to act as the tax matters representative. If the department of revenue grants the petition, the new tax matters representative may file an appeal pursuant to the provisions of this subsection (6) within thirty days of the department's order regarding the petition.

(7) If the executive director fails to issue a final determination on or before the dates specified or agreed to in subsection (3) or (4) of this section, the authority of the executive director to dispute the claim of the credit shall be waived, the full amount of the credit in dispute shall be allowed, and no interest or penalties shall be imposed upon such amount.

(8) On or before August 1, 2011, the conservation easement oversight commission created in section 12-61-721 (1), C.R.S., shall review conservation easements for which a tax credit is claimed pursuant to sections 39-22-522 (3.5) (a) and 12-61-721 (3), C.R.S., and for which a notice of deficiency, notice of rejection of refund claim, or notice of disallowance issued on or before May 1, 2011, but for which a final determination has not been issued before May 19, 2011, and for which the commission has not already reviewed the credit. For each conservation easement tax credit claim so reviewed, the commission shall issue an initial recommendation to the executive director on whether each credit claimed by a taxpayer who is eligible to waive a hearing and appeal a notice of deficiency, notice of rejection of refund claim, or notice of disallowance may be denied or accepted. No other information shall be required of the commission on or before such date.

(9) The executive director shall send a notice to each tax matters representative eligible to waive a hearing and appeal a notice of deficiency, notice of rejection of refund claim, or notice of disallowance to a district court pursuant to subsection (2) of this section to notify the tax matters representative of the provisions of this section. The notice shall be sent by certified mail to the tax matters representative's last-known address on or before July 1, 2011. If the United States post office returns the notice as undeliverable by certified mail, the department shall then mail the notice in accordance with section 39-21-105.5. The notice shall not be included with any other mailing and shall include the words "Important Tax Document Enclosed" on the exterior of the mailing. The executive director shall further provide notice of the provisions of this section on the department of revenue's web site and by such other means as the executive director deems appropriate. The executive director shall maintain adequate records to verify compliance with the provisions of this subsection (9).

(10) If the executive director makes a determination that the tax matters representative has transferred a disputed credit to another person who has not claimed the credit or that a person who claimed or may claim a disputed credit pursuant to section 39-22-522 cannot be identified or located, the executive director shall provide notice to such person as follows:

(a) The executive director shall file an affidavit with the district court having jurisdiction over an appeal of the credit setting forth that the executive director has made diligent inquiry and has been unable to locate such person.

(b) The district court shall then order a notice to be published by the department of revenue in some local newspaper of general circulation named by the judge and on the department's web site. The notice shall identify the property that is subject to the conservation easement and the date of the donation, and shall explain the right of the person to request joinder in the action on the disputed credit before the court, the time and place at which such request must be filed, and the title and address of the court at which the request must be filed.

(11) If a tax matters representative proceeds with the hearing process before the executive director rather than appeal to a district court pursuant to subsection (2) of this section and either the tax matters representative or one or more transferees pays an amount on or before June 30, 2012, that satisfies a deficiency in an amount agreed to by the department of revenue for the tax owed by the tax matters representative or the transferee, all additional amounts of penalties and interest owed shall be waived.

(12) On or before July 1, 2011, and on a quarterly basis thereafter, the executive director shall provide a report to the joint budget committee and the finance committees of the general assembly describing:

(a) The number of tax credits claimed pursuant to section 39-22-522 for which the executive director mailed a notice of deficiency, notice of rejection of refund claim, or notice of disallowance pursuant to section 39-21-103;

(b) The number of such cases sent to the conservation easement oversight commission for review pursuant to section 12-61-721, C.R.S.;

(c) The number of such cases returned to the executive director with the advice of the conservation easement oversight commission created in section 12-61-721 (1), C.R.S., and the action, if any, taken by the department of revenue on the cases returned by the commission;

(d) The number and progress of any cases that are in a mediation process and the status of such mediation;

(e) The number of cases referred to the attorney general's office for resolution;

(f) The number of cases finally resolved by the department of revenue;

(g) The amount of deficient taxes, interest, and penalties determined to be owed or waived by the department of revenue in administering the resolution of cases;

(h) The number and total amount of credits that were originally contested but subsequently allowed to be claimed in full; and

(i) The amount of moneys expended by the department of revenue in administering the resolution of cases.

(13) On or before March 15, 2012, and on a quarterly basis thereafter, the state court administrator shall provide a report to the joint budget committee and the finance committees of the general assembly describing:

(a) The number of taxpayers electing to appeal pursuant to subsection (2) of this section;

(b) The number of cases pending before the district courts or on appeal before other courts;

(c) The number of cases finally resolved;

(d) The amount of moneys estimated to have been expended by the courts in administering the appeals; and

(e) The amount of deficient taxes, interest, and penalties determined to be owed or waived in connection with the appeals.

(14) Prior to the issuance of a final determination or the conclusion of an appeal of a notice of deficiency, notice of disallowance, or notice of rejection of refund claim for a tax credit claimed by a tax matters representative or a transferee pursuant to section 39-22-522, the executive director shall cease all actions to collect any amount of the disputed taxes, interest, or other charges asserted to be owed. The executive director shall provide notice of the provisions of this subsection (14) in accordance with subsection (9) of this section.

39-22-534. Credit for estate taxes paid - agricultural land - recapture - definitions.

(1) (a) Except as set forth in subsection (3) of this section, for income tax years specified in paragraph (b) of this subsection (1), a person who inherits agricultural land located within the state is allowed a credit in an amount equal to the amount of estate taxes paid pursuant to article 23.5 of this title that are attributable to the transfer of such agricultural land. A taxpayer must claim the credit for the income tax year in which the estate taxes are paid. For purposes of this section, the value of the agricultural land is the current assessed valuation. If more than one person inherits the agricultural land, the tax credit is apportioned among all beneficiaries.

(b) The credit shall not apply until the first income tax year:

(I) After congress enacts a law delaying to a date after December 31, 2012, the sunset of the amendments to section 26 U.S.C. 2011 that were included in the "Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2001", public law 107-16; and

(II) That an estate tax is owed pursuant to article 23.5 of this title.

(2) If the amount of the credit exceeds the income taxes owed by the taxpayer, the department of revenue shall refund the excess amount to the taxpayer.

(3) (a) If, within ten years from the date the income tax credit created by this section is claimed, the property that was the basis of the credit is no longer classified as agricultural land for property tax purposes, the credit shall be disallowed and, within thirty days of the change in use, the taxpayer who received the tax credit shall file an amended Colorado income tax return for the tax year that the credit was claimed. Interest shall be due on the taxes owed from the due date of the original return. Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, the annual rate of interest for an amount owed pursuant to this subsection (3) for a given year shall be equal to the rate of inflation for the prior year.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 39-21-107 (2), the assessment of the tax due as a result of any disallowance of the credit allowed by this section, plus any penalty or interest, shall be made within eleven years of the due date of the return claiming the credit. If the taxpayer does not file the amended return within the prescribed thirty-day period, then the statute of limitations shall be tolled from the end of such thirty-day period until the date that such amended return is filed with the executive director or until the executive director discovers such determination or change, whichever occurs first.

(4) As used in this section:

(a) "Agricultural land" has the same meaning as set forth in section 39-1-102.

(b) "Rate of inflation" means the annual percentage change in the United States department of labor, bureau of labor statistics, consumer price index for Denver-Boulder-Greeley, all items, all urban consumers, or its successor index.

The return shall be signed by the president, vice-president, treasurer, assistant treasurer, chief accounting officer, or other officer duly authorized to act. In cases where receivers, trustees in bankruptcy, or assignees are operating the property or business of corporations, such receivers, trustees, or assignees shall make returns for such corporations in the same manner and form as corporations are required to make returns. Any tax due on the basis of such returns shall be collected in the same manner as if collected from the corporation for which the return is made.

(2.5) (a) Every S corporation which engages in activities in this state which would subject a C corporation to the requirement to make a return under this section shall make a return which shall contain a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury in the second degree. Such return shall set forth, in such detail as the executive director shall prescribe by regulations, federal taxable income and the modifications and credits required or allowed under this article and any other information necessary to carry out the purposes of this article. (I) The name, address, and social security or federal identification number of each shareholder of the S corporation;

(II) The income attributable to the state and the income not attributable to the state with respect to each shareholder of the S corporation as determined under subpart 2 of part 3 of this article; and

(III) The modifications required by section 39-22-323.

(c) The S corporation shall, on or before the day on which such return is filed, furnish to each person who was a shareholder of the S corporation during the year a copy of such information shown on the return as the executive director may by regulation prescribe.

(d) The department of revenue shall permit S corporations to file composite returns and to make composite payments of tax on behalf of some or all of its nonresident shareholders. The department of revenue may permit composite returns and payments to be made on behalf of resident shareholders.

(e) With respect to each of its nonresident shareholders, an S corporation shall, for each taxable period, either timely file with the department of revenue an agreement, as provided in paragraph (f) of this subsection (2.5), or make a payment to this state as provided in paragraph (h) of this subsection (2.5).

(f) The agreement referred to in paragraph (e) of this subsection (2.5) is an agreement of a nonresident shareholder of the S corporation:

(I) To file a return in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2.5) and to make timely payment of all taxes imposed on the shareholder by this state with respect to the income of the S corporation; and

(g) An S corporation that timely files an agreement as provided in paragraph (e) of this subsection (2.5) with respect to a nonresident shareholder of the S corporation for a taxable period shall be considered to have timely filed such an agreement for each subsequent taxable period. An S corporation that does not timely file such an agreement for a taxable period shall not be precluded from timely filing such an agreement for subsequent taxable periods. The agreement will be considered to be timely filed for a taxable period and for all subsequent taxable periods if it is filed at or before the time the annual return for such taxable period is required to be filed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2.5).

(h) The payment referred to in paragraph (e) of this subsection (2.5) shall be in an amount equal to the highest marginal tax rate in effect under section 39-22-104 (1) multiplied by the shareholder's pro rata share of the income attributable to the state as reflected on the S corporation's return for the taxable period. An S corporation shall be entitled to recover a payment made pursuant to this paragraph (h) from the shareholder on whose behalf the payment was made. Any such payment for a taxable period must be made at or before the time the annual return for such taxable period is required to be filed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2.5).

(i) Any amount paid by the S corporation to this state pursuant to paragraph (d) or paragraph (h) of this subsection (2.5) shall be considered to be a payment by the shareholder on account of the income tax imposed on the shareholder for the taxable period pursuant to section 39-22-104.

(3) Every fiduciary, except a receiver appointed by authority of law in possession of part only of the property of an individual, shall make a return for any individuals, estates, or trusts for which he acts, which return shall contain a declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury in the second degree. Such return shall set forth, in such detail as the executive director shall prescribe by regulation, the federal taxable income and the deductions, modifications, exemptions, and credits required or allowed under this article and any other information necessary to carry out the purposes of this article. The nonresident beneficiary, at his option within the time limited by this article, may file a return of his income and may claim a refund for the amount of tax withheld in excess of the amount of tax due as shown by said return.

(4.5) Repealed.

(5) (a) Every partnership that engages in activities in this state that would subject a C corporation to the requirement to make a return under this section shall make a return that shall contain a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury in the second degree. Such return shall set forth, in such detail as the executive director shall prescribe, federal ordinary income and the modifications and credits required or allowed under this article and any other information necessary to carry out the purposes of this article. The return shall be signed by any one of the partners.

(b) In addition to other information that the executive director may prescribe, the return shall set forth:

(I) The name, address, and social security or federal identification number of each partner of the partnership;

(II) The income attributable to the state and the income not attributable to the state with respect to each partner of the partnership as determined under section 39-22-203; and

(III) The modifications required by section 39-22-202.

(c) The partnership shall, on or before the day on which the return is filed, furnish to each person who was a partner of the partnership during the year a copy of such information shown on the return as the executive director may prescribe.

(d) The department of revenue shall permit partnerships to file composite returns and to make composite payments of tax on behalf of any or all of its nonresident partners.

(e) With respect to each of its nonresident partners, a partnership shall, for each taxable period, either timely file with the department of revenue an agreement, as provided in paragraph (f) of this subsection (5), or make payment to this state, as provided in paragraph (h) of this subsection (5).

(e.5) Paragraphs (d) and (e) of this subsection (5) shall not apply to a publicly traded partnership, as defined in section 7704 (b) of the internal revenue code, that meets any of the exceptions under section 7704 (c) of the internal revenue code and is not treated as a corporation under section 7704 (a) of the internal revenue code.

(f) The agreement referred to in paragraph (e) of this subsection (5) is an agreement of a nonresident partner of the partnership:

(I) To file a return in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (5) and to make timely payment of all taxes imposed on the member by this state with respect to the income of the partnership; and

(II) To be subject to personal jurisdiction in this state for purposes of the collection of income taxes, together with related interest and penalties, imposed on the partner by this state with respect to the income of the partnership.

(g) A partnership that timely files an agreement as provided in paragraph (e) of this subsection (5) with respect to a nonresident partner of the partnership for a taxable period shall be considered to have timely filed such an agreement for each subsequent taxable period. A partnership that does not timely file such an agreement for a taxable period shall not be precluded from timely filing such an agreement for subsequent taxable periods. The agreement will be considered to be timely filed for a taxable period and for all subsequent taxable periods if it is filed at or before the time the annual return for such taxable period is required to be filed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (5).

(h) The payment referred to in paragraph (e) of this subsection (5) shall be in an amount equal to the highest marginal tax rate in effect under section 39-22-104 (1) multiplied by the nonresident partner's share of the income attributable to the state as reflected on the partnership's return for the taxable period. A partnership shall be entitled to recover a payment pursuant to this paragraph (h) from the nonresident partner on whose behalf the payment was made. Any such payment for a taxable period must be made at or before the time the annual return for such taxable period is required to be filed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (5).

(i) Any amount paid by the partnership to this state pursuant to paragraph (d) or (h) of this subsection (5) shall be considered to be a payment by the nonresident partner on account of the income tax imposed on the nonresident partner for the taxable period pursuant to section 39-22-104 or 39-22-301.

(6) (a) Any final determination of federal taxable income made pursuant to the provisions of federal law under which federal taxable income is found to differ from the taxable income originally reported to the federal government shall be reported by the taxpayer to the executive director by making and filing a Colorado amended return within thirty days of such final determination with a statement of the reasons for the difference, in such detail as the executive director may require. In addition thereto, any taxpayer filing an amended return with the federal internal revenue service that reflects any change in income reportable to the state of Colorado shall, within thirty days of such federal filing, make and file a corresponding Colorado amended return.

(b) For purposes of this subsection (6), final determination means only the first of the following to occur:

(I) The taxpayer's execution of a waiver with and acceptance by the internal revenue service of restrictions on assessment and collection of deficiency in federal tax or acceptance of overassessment in said tax;

(II) The acceptance by the internal revenue service of an offer of waiver of restrictions on assessment and collection of deficiency in tax or acceptance of overassessment;

(III) The execution by the taxpayer of acceptance of an examining officer's findings by a partnership, limited liability company, or fiduciary;

(IV) The payment of any additional tax by the taxpayer; or

(V) Any judgment becoming final, whether by stipulation or otherwise, in any judicial proceeding affecting such change in reported federal taxable income.

(c) If, from such return or from investigation, it appears that the tax with respect to income imposed by this article has not been fully assessed, the executive director shall, within one year after the receipt of such return or within one year of discovery of such final determination, if unreported, assess the deficiency with interest at the rate prescribed in section 39-22-621.

(d) If the taxpayer does not file such amended return within the prescribed thirty-day period, then the statute of limitations shall be tolled from the end of such thirty-day period until the date that such amended return is filed with the executive director or until the executive director discovers such determination or change, whichever shall first occur.

(e) If any taxpayer agrees with the internal revenue service for an extension, or renewals thereof, of the period for assessing deficiencies or paying refunds in federal income tax or for changing reported federal taxable income of a partnership, limited liability company, or fiduciary for any year or if any taxpayer files a federal income tax refund claim or initiates administrative or judicial proceedings which have the effect of extending said period for any year, the period within which the executive director may issue a notice of deficiency for any such year shall be four years after the applicable Colorado return was filed or one year after the date of expiration of the extended period for assessing deficiencies in federal income tax or changing reported federal taxable income of a partnership, limited liability company, or fiduciary, whichever is later.

(f) Repealed.

(g) Notwithstanding any provision of this article or of article 21 of this title, any assessment made by reason of the applicability of the provisions of paragraphs (a) to (f) of this subsection (6), which could not have been made except for the extension or tolling, pursuant to said provisions, of the period of limitations otherwise applicable for assessing income taxes, shall be limited to deficiencies arising as a result of adjustments made by the commissioner of internal revenue in any final determination of federal taxable income, if the taxpayer has been audited by the department of revenue for the year in question and the issues raised in the audit have been settled by agreement for payment or payment of deficiencies arising therefrom.

(7) Every person or organization exempt from taxes pursuant to section 39-22-112 shall make and file a return only if said person or organization is required to file a federal return of unrelated business income, which Colorado return shall contain such information as the executive director may prescribe. All procedures of law relating to the determination, assessment, collection, and refund of tax shall apply to such return and the tax payable thereon.

(8) Repealed.

(9) (a) Any person who is required by section 6053 or 6041A of the internal revenue code to file annual information reports concerning tips or remunerations for services or remunerations for direct sales may be required, by rules promulgated by the executive director, to file copies of such reports or otherwise furnish the same to the executive director within the time required by the internal revenue service for the filing of such reports. Such reports shall show, in addition to the information required by the internal revenue service, any amounts deducted and withheld by the payor for income tax due to the state of Colorado from the payee listed on such reports.

(a.5) The executive director may require any magnetic media taxpayer to file the reports described in paragraph (a) of this subsection (9) by magnetic media or in other machine-readable form. For the purposes of this paragraph (a.5), "magnetic media taxpayer" means a taxpayer who is required to file information returns described in section 6041A, 6051, or 6053 of the internal revenue code by magnetic media or in other machine-readable form under section 6011 (e) of the internal revenue code.

(b) Any person required by paragraph (a) of this subsection (9) to file a report who fails to timely file such report shall be subject to a fine of fifty dollars for each such failure.

(10) For income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1999, the executive director shall include on every income tax return form a statement explaining that prior to January 1, 1999, the income tax rate for an individual, estate, and trust was five percent of federal taxable income and the income tax rate for corporations was five percent of net income. The statement shall also explain that the income tax rate was reduced for income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1999, but prior to January 1, 2000, to four and three-quarters percent and that the income tax rate was reduced for income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2000, to four and sixty-three one hundredths percent.

ANNOTATION

Return not containing income information not statutory "return". A taxpayer's return which does not contain any information relating to the taxpayer's income from which the tax can be computed is not a return within the meaning of subsection (1). People v. Vickers, 199 Colo. 305, 608 P.2d 808 (1980).

Subsection (6)(c) is not an exception to the general statute of limitations, § 39-21-107

(2), as subsection (6)(c) merely allows the director to assess a deficiency only to the extent of the information contained in the federal revenue agent's report filed by the taxpayer. Kraftco Corp. v. Charnes, 636 P.2d 1300 (Colo. App. 1981).

Applied in People v. Vesely, 41 Colo. App. 325, 587 P.2d 802 (1978).

39-22-602. Failure to make return - director may make. (1) If any person fails or refuses to make any return required by this article, the executive director may make such return for such person from such information as may be available, and any assessment based on such return made by the executive director shall be as good and sufficient as if such return had been made and filed by the person liable therefor.

(2) If the executive director finds that any nonresident whose name and address were furnished by a county assessor pursuant to section 39-5-102 (3) has not made a return as required by this article, the executive director shall mail notice by first-class mail as set forth in section 39-21-105.5 to the nonresident setting a time within which the return shall be made and may thereafter proceed pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, as necessary.

39-22-603. Returns not made under oath. Wherever in this article it is required that a return be made under oath, the signing of the return by the person therein required to make oath shall be sufficient compliance with the provisions of said sections if such return contains or is verified by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury in the second degree. Any individual who willfully makes and signs a return which he does not believe to be true and correct as to every material matter is guilty of perjury in the second degree.

39-22-603.5. Frivolous returns. (1) As used in this part 6, unless the context otherwise requires, "frivolous return" means a return filed by any person that purports to be a return of the tax imposed by this article but that:

- (a) Does not contain information on which the substantial correctness of the return may be judged; or
- (b) Contains information that on its face indicates that the return is substantially incorrect; and
- (c) The conduct described in either paragraph (a) or (b) of this subsection (1) is due to either:
 - (I) A position that is frivolous; or
 - (II) A desire, which appears on the purported return, to delay or impede the administration of state income tax laws.
- (2) (a) If any person files a frivolous return, the executive director may calculate the person's Colorado taxable income and make an assessment based on such information as is available at the time the return is filed.
- (b) If the tax calculated by the executive director is greater than the amount theretofore assessed or paid, a notice of deficiency shall be mailed to the taxpayer by first-class mail as set forth in section 39-21-105.5.

39-22-604. Withholding tax - requirement to withhold - tax lien - exemption from lien - definitions. (1) All of the other provisions of this article shall apply to and be effective as to the provisions of this section to the extent to which they are not inconsistent with this section, and all of the remedies available to the department of revenue for the administration, assessment, enforcement, and collection of tax under other sections of this article and article 21 of this title shall be available to the department and shall apply to the amounts required to be deducted and withheld under the provisions of this section, and all of the penalties, both civil and criminal, shall apply to this section.

(2) Definitions: As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Employee" means and includes every individual who is a resident or domiciled in the state of Colorado performing services for an employer, either within or without or both within and without the state of Colorado, or any individual performing services within the state of Colorado, the performance of which services constitutes, establishes, and determines the relationship between the parties as that of employer and employee, and includes officers of corporations and individuals, including elected officials, performing services for the United States government or any agency or instrumentality thereof or the state of Colorado or any county, city or municipality, or political subdivision thereof; except that the term shall not include an individual who is not a resident or domiciled in the state of Colorado and who performs services in connection with any phase of motion picture or television production or television commercials for less than one hundred twenty days during any calendar year.

(b) "Employer" means a person transacting business in or deriving any income from sources within the state of Colorado for whom an individual performs or performed any services, of whatever nature, who has control of the payment of wages for such services or is the officer, agent, or employee of the person having control of the payment of wages.

(b.5) "Magnetic media taxpayer" means a taxpayer who is required to file information returns described in section 6041A, 6051, or 6053 of the internal revenue code by magnetic media or in other machine-readable form under section 6011 (e) of the internal revenue code.

(c) "Wages" shall have the same meaning as is given in section 3401 (a) of the internal revenue code.

(3) (a) Every employer making payment of wages shall deduct and withhold from wages an amount measured by a percentage or percentages of the total amount required to be deducted and withheld by an employer from wages of an employee for federal income tax purposes, or measured by withholding tax tables promulgated by the executive director, or by such other methods as the executive director may prescribe if such percentage, percentages, tables, or other methods result in the withholding from the employee's wages during each pay period an amount which shall approximate as nearly as possible the income tax due to the state of Colorado by such employee.

(b) The executive director may, upon written application having been made to him, approve a method of withholding in lieu of the method provided in paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) to authorize a withholding based upon a percentage fixed by the executive director of the adjusted gross income, which percentage shall approximate as nearly as possible the amount of income tax due to the state of Colorado and as nearly as possible the amount so deducted and withheld in paragraph (a) of this subsection (3).

(c) Every employer, irrespective of whether or not said employer deducts and withholds the amounts as provided in this section, shall be liable for the amounts required to be deducted and withheld unless, in the case of any failure to deduct and withhold such amounts, it is shown that such failure was due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect. If the employer, in violation of the provisions of this section, fails to deduct and withhold the amounts as provided in this section and thereafter the tax against which such deducted and withheld amounts would have been credited is paid, the amounts so required by this section to be deducted and withheld shall not be collected from the employer; but in no such case, unless due to reasonable cause, shall the employer be relieved from liability for any penalties or additions to the amounts required under this section to be deducted and withheld otherwise applicable to any such failure to deduct and withhold.

(4) (a) The executive director may require any taxpayer who has an annual estimated withheld tax liability of more than fifty thousand dollars to remit withheld tax by electronic funds transfer. The executive director shall promulgate rules and regulations prescribing withholding tax periods and the corresponding tax return filing and tax payment due dates. The executive director shall consult with the state treasurer regarding the formulation of such rules and regulations in order to minimize the amount of lost interest to the state general fund.

(b) The rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to this section shall not prescribe filing or withholding requirements which are more frequent or more stringent than corresponding federal requirements.

(5) All amounts deducted and withheld shall be considered as tax collected under the provisions of this section and no employee shall have any right of action against his employer in respect to any moneys so deducted and withheld from his wages and paid over to the department in compliance or in intended compliance with this section.

(6) (a) Every employer shall, in accordance with such rules as shall be prescribed by the department of revenue, provide each employee with a statement of the amounts of moneys deducted and withheld from such employee's wages in accordance with the provisions of this section. Every employer shall also make an annual statement for each employee to the department of revenue, on such forms as are provided or approved by the department, a copy of which shall be provided each employee, summarizing the total compensation paid and the tax withheld for such employee during the preceding calendar year or any portion thereof, and the said annual statement shall be filed on or before the date established pursuant to section 6071 of the internal revenue code for filing similar federal statements. Failure to file the statements within the time prescribed therefor, unless shown to have been due to reasonable cause, or the willful filing or furnishing of false or fraudulent statements shall subject the employer to a penalty, at the discretion of the executive director, of not less than five dollars nor more than fifty dollars, which shall be in addition to any criminal penalty otherwise provided for failure to file a return or for filing a false or fraudulent return.

(b) The executive director may require any magnetic media taxpayer to file the annual statements described in paragraph (a) of this subsection (6) by magnetic media or in other machine-readable form.

(7) (a) Every employer who deducts and withholds any amounts under the provisions of this section shall hold the same in trust for the state of Colorado for the payment thereof to the department in the manner and at the time provided for in this section, and the state of Colorado and the department shall have a lien to secure the payment of any amounts withheld and not remitted as provided in this section upon all of the assets of the employer and all property, including stock in trade, business fixtures, and equipment, owned or used by the employer in the conduct of his business, so long as any delinquency continues, which lien shall be prior to any lien of any kind whatsoever, including existing liens for taxes.

(b) The owner, conditional vendor, or mortgagee of any property, real or personal, or any stock in trade, business fixtures, or equipment owned or used by an employer subject to the lien provided by this subsection (7), may exempt such property from the lien granted in this section to the state of Colorado and the department by requiring the employer to procure a certificate from the department certifying that such employer has posted with the department security for the payment of the amounts withheld under the provisions of this section. When such certificate is procured by the employer and transmitted to the owner, conditional vendor, or mortgagee of any of the assets of the employer, such assets shall thereafter be exempt from attachment under the lien granted to the state of Colorado and the department by this subsection (7).

(c) Any employer shall provide a copy of any lease with an owner to the department of revenue within ten days of seizure of the property and assets described in paragraph (a) of this subsection (7). The department shall verify that such lease is bona fide and notify the owner that such lease has been received by the department. The department shall use its best efforts to notify the owner of the real or personal property which might be subject to the lien created in paragraph (a) of this subsection (7). The real or personal property of an owner who has made a bona fide lease to an employer shall be exempt from the lien created in paragraph (a) of this subsection (7) if such property can reasonably be identified from the lease description or if the lessee is given an option to purchase in such lease and has not exercised such option to become the owner of the property leased. This exemption shall be effective from the date of the execution of the lease. Such exemption shall also apply if the lease is recorded with the county clerk and recorder of the county where the property is located or based or a memorandum of the lease is filed with the department of revenue on such forms as may be prescribed by said department after the execution of the lease at a cost for such filing of two dollars and fifty cents per document. Motor vehicles which are properly registered in this state, showing the lessor as owner thereof, shall be exempt from the lien created in paragraph (a) of this subsection (7); except that said lien shall apply to the extent that the lessee has an earned reserve, allowance for depreciation not to exceed fair market value, or similar interest which is or may be credited to the lessee. Where the lessor and lessee are blood relatives or relatives by law or have twenty-five percent or more common ownership, a lease between such lessee and such lessor shall not be considered as bona fide for purposes of this section.

(c.5) Any coin-operated vending machine or video or other game machine shall be exempt from the lien created in paragraph (a) of this subsection (7) if:

(I) The machine is placed on the premises of an employer under the terms of a lease or other agreement under which the employer is given no right to become the owner of the machine;

(II) The machine is plainly marked in a location accessible to agents of the department of revenue with information sufficient to permit identification of the owner of said machine; and

(III) The owner of the machine has filed with the executive director a schedule listing the machine by serial number and including thereon the owner's full name and the address of his business and such other information as the executive director may require. To protect the anonymity of owners of property, the executive director may permit property covered by this paragraph (c.5) to be marked using numbers or other coded identification.

(d) Any employer who is in possession of property under the terms of a lease, which property is exempt from lien as provided in paragraph (c) of this subsection (7), may be required by the executive director to remit tax funds collected at more frequent intervals than would otherwise be required, but no more frequently than the employer's payroll period, or may be required to furnish security for the proper payment of taxes whenever the collection of taxes appears to be in jeopardy.

(8) The entire amount of income from wages upon which tax was deducted and withheld shall be included in the gross income of the income tax return required to be made by the employee, the recipient of the wages, without exclusion of such amounts deducted and withheld under this section, and any tax so deducted and withheld shall be credited against the total income tax, as computed in the employee's return, made in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(9) Repealed.

(10) In the event the excess tax deducted and withheld is one dollar or less, no refund shall be made, unless a specific claim for refund is filed by the taxpayer at the time the return is filed. The excess, subject to being refunded, shall in no event and under no condition be allowed as a credit against any tax accruing on a return filed for a year subsequent to the year during which the wages were received, and can only be credited against a tax accruing upon a return of wages from which such excess was deducted and withheld.

(11) Separate refunds may be made by the department to a husband or wife who have filed a joint return, at the written request of either, the amount payable to each spouse being proportioned upon the gross earnings of each as shall be established to the satisfaction of the department. If an employee entitled to a refund dies, payment of such refund shall be made in such manner as provided for by law for distribution of moneys payable by the state of Colorado to a decedent.

(12) (a) (I) Moneys remitted by employers under this section shall be deposited with the state treasurer and by him or her credited to a fund hereby established, denominated the "income tax withholding fund". Refunds as provided for by this section shall be made from this fund in the same manner as refunds are made under section 39-21-108. Except for moneys to be transferred to the state treasurer pursuant to section 39-21-108 (5), all unexpended balances on hand in said fund on June 30, 1971, and each June 30 thereafter, or at any time as shall be determined by the controller, with the approval of the state treasurer, shall be credited to the general fund of the state. The unexpended balance shall include all moneys that for any reason cannot be refunded. All warrants that cannot be delivered to the taxpayer and that are not presented for payment within six months from the date of issuance thereof shall be void, and the moneys represented thereby shall be included in the unexpended balance in said fund at the expiration of said year. Except as provided in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a), persons entitled to the refund of moneys represented by warrants that cannot be delivered to the taxpayer and that are not presented for payment within six months from the date of issuance thereof may file claims for refund at any time within four years from the date the income tax return that establishes the right to the refund was required to be filed. Claims for refund not filed within the prescribed four-year period shall not be allowed or paid by the department of revenue.

(II) On and after October 1, 2002, if the department of revenue has cancelled a warrant pursuant to section 39-21-108 that has not been presented and has forwarded to the state treasurer information and an amount of money equal to the amount of the warrant as required by section 39-21-108 (5), the taxpayer must file the claim for the amount of the refund with the state treasurer pursuant to the "Unclaimed Property Act", article 13 of title 38, C.R.S. The department and the state treasurer shall cooperate to ensure that any taxpayer who contacts the department of revenue to claim the amount of a refund represented by a cancelled warrant is provided with the information or assistance necessary to obtain the refund from the state treasurer.

(b) All of the additional interest derived from moneys deposited in the income tax withholding fund created in paragraph (a) of this subsection (12) as a result of the enactment of House Bill 91S2-1027 at the second extraordinary session of the fifty-eighth general assembly shall be credited to the general fund.

(13) The department is empowered to make rules and regulations for the enforcement of the provisions of this section, including rules and regulations for determining the amount, up to but not exceeding the amount limited in this section, to be deducted and withheld by employers from wages of nonresident employees, only a part of whose wages are paid for services performed within the state of Colorado.

(14) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent any employee, with consent of his employer, from voluntarily subjecting himself to the provisions of this section, and in all such cases, same will be handled by the department of revenue in the same manner as those subjected by the provisions of this section.

(15) Repealed.

(16) (a) On or before the date of the commencement of employment with an employer, the employee shall furnish the employer with a signed withholding certificate. A comparable withholding certificate filed pursuant to the internal revenue code shall be deemed to satisfy the filing requirement under this subsection (16). Where necessary to cause the proper amount to be withheld, the executive director may adjust the employee's withholding to the amount properly allowable under the internal revenue code.

(b) (I) To enforce the provisions of this section, the executive director may file with the employer a withholding certificate on behalf of the employee. Prior to the filing of such certificate, the executive director shall first notify the employee that the certificate previously filed by the employee is being examined and that the employee may submit satisfactory evidence pursuant to the internal revenue code within ten days of receipt of said notice as to the correct number of withholding exemptions and allowances. Should the executive director, after reviewing any evidence so submitted, find the certificate filed by the employee to be defective, the employer shall accept the certificate filed by the director in lieu of any certificate previously filed by the employee, and such certificate filed by the executive director shall thereafter form the basis for withholding wages as required by this section. The executive director may also require from the employer a copy of any withholding certificate signed by the employee.

(II) Any employer who fails to provide a copy of any withholding certificate signed by the employee required by the executive director shall be subject to a civil penalty of not more than five hundred dollars. Such civil penalty may be assessed and collected by the executive director.

(c) Any employee may request a hearing to protest such certificate filed on his behalf by the executive director. Such hearing shall be conducted pursuant to section 39-21-103, and any final determination shall be appealable in the district court in accordance with section 39-21-105.

(17) Any person making any payment of winnings which are subject to withholding for federal income tax purposes shall deduct and withhold from such payment for Colorado income tax purposes a percentage of such winnings established by rule and regulation of the department of revenue. The amount withheld shall be remitted to the department of revenue in the manner required pursuant to rules and regulations authorized in subsection (4) of this section.

(18) (a) Any person who makes a payment for services to any natural person that is not otherwise subject to state income tax withholding but that requires an information return, including but not limited to any payment for which internal revenue service form 1099-B, 1099-DIV, 1099-INT, 1099-MISC, 1099-OID, or 1099-PATR, the issuance of any of which allows taxpayer identification number verification through the taxpayer identification number matching program administered by the internal revenue service, or any other version of form 1099 is required, shall deduct and withhold state income tax at the rate of four and sixty-three one-hundredths percent if the person who performed the services:

(I) Fails to provide a validated taxpayer identification number; or

(II) Provides an internal revenue service-issued taxpayer identification number issued for nonresident aliens.

(b) Any person other than a natural person and any natural person who in the course of conducting a trade or business as a sole proprietor makes any payment for services to a natural person that is not reported on any information return shall deduct and withhold state income tax at the rate of four and sixty-three one-hundredths percent, unless the employer making payment has a validated taxpayer identification number from the person to whom payment is made.

(c) The requirement to withhold and deduct pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (18) shall not apply to an individual who is exempt from federal withholding pursuant to a properly filed internal revenue service form 8233 if a copy of such form has been filed with the department of revenue.

(d) For purposes of all other provisions of this section, excluding paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of this section, a person who deducts and withholds state income tax from a person who performs services pursuant to the provisions of this subsection (18) shall be treated as an employer withholding and deducting wages from an employee, and such other provisions of this section shall apply accordingly. This paragraph (d) shall not be construed as making the person who performed the services an employee of the person who deducts and withholds state income tax for any other purpose in law.

(e) The executive director may promulgate rules to authorize any amounts deducted and withheld pursuant to this subsection (18) to be paid to the department of revenue as part of the state income tax return.

(f) For purposes of this subsection (18), “validated taxpayer identification number” means a social security number or an internal revenue service individual taxpayer identification number that has been confirmed by the person or employer making a payment to a person through the portal described in section 24-37.5-107, C.R.S., or through any other equally effective form of third-party verification approved by the department of revenue as having been assigned by the social security administration or the internal revenue service to the person to whom payment is made and, in the case of an individual taxpayer identification number, as not having been assigned as a taxpayer identification number issued for nonresident aliens.

(g) This subsection (18) shall be enforced without regard to race, religion, gender, ethnicity, or national origin.

This section, as used to seize property of lessor due to lessee’s violation, does not violate due process nor does it effect a taking. This section represents a valid exercise of the sovereign power to assess and collect taxes, which is distinguishable from the taking of private property for a public purpose. Burtkin Associates v. Tipton, 845 P.2d 525 (Colo. 1993).

This section does not violate the equal protection and due process rights of a consignor when a rational basis exists for exempting leased property from the tax lien while enforcing the tax lien against consigned property. Van Dorn Retail Mgt., Inc. v. City & County of Denver, 902 P.2d 383 (Colo. App. 1994).

State's lien has priority over security interest. The state's lien on property for delinquent withholding taxes is entitled to priority over the security interest in property held by the seller who had repossessed and sold it. ITT Diversified Credit Corp. v. Couch, 669 P.2d 1355 (Colo. 1983); Wimmer v. Jenkins, 703 P.2d 1326 (Colo. App. 1985).

Under this section, liens for withholding taxes are entitled to priority over all other liens, including liens of the FDIC. Pima Financial Serv. v. Intermountain Home Sys., 786 F. Supp. 1551 (D. Colo. 1992).

(II) Such initiatives have demonstrated the potential for establishing Colorado as a national leader in bioscience and clean technology;

(III) Colorado efforts have been recognized as best practices for economic development of these industry sectors;

(V) The partnerships created between higher education research institutions and industry through these initiatives provide a model for economic development.

(b) The general assembly therefore declares that it is in the best interest of the state to build on past successes and provide a long-term funding stream that enables the growth of the bioscience and clean technology industries in the state and to support Colorado's higher education research institutions.

(I) The taxpayer either retired after having attained age sixty-two or became disabled in the taxable year for which estimated payments were required to be made or in the taxable year preceding such taxable year; and

(II) Such underpayment was due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

(8) (a) For purposes of applying this section, the amount of the credits allowed under sections 39-22-604, 39-22-604.5, and 39-22-2003 for the taxable year shall be deemed a payment of estimated tax and an equal part of such amount shall be deemed paid on each due date for such taxable year, unless the taxpayer establishes the dates on which all amounts were actually withheld, in which case the amounts so withheld shall be deemed payments of estimated tax on the dates on which such amounts were actually withheld.

(b) The taxpayer may apply paragraph (a) of this subsection (8) separately with respect to the following:

(13) All of the provisions of this section shall also apply to nonresident or part-year resident taxpayers.

(14) All of the provisions of this article and article 21 of this title relating to the powers of the executive director for the administration, assessment, and enforcement of taxes required to be paid under this article shall apply to the provisions of this section.

39-22-621. Interest and penalties. (1) If any tax due under this article is not paid when due, by reason of extension granted, or otherwise, interest shall be added thereto at the rate imposed under section 39-21-110.5 from the due date thereof, in addition to any penalties which may be imposed by other provisions of this section. Interest on any deficiency in tax shall begin to accrue on the date prescribed in this article for payment of the tax.

(2) (a) If any person fails to file a return at the time required by the provisions of this article and no intent to evade the tax exists, and if there is a balance due to be paid with such return, there shall be collected as a penalty the sum of five dollars for such failure or five percent of the proper amount of tax on such return if the failure is for not more than one month, with an additional one-half percent for each additional month or fraction thereof during which such failure continues, not exceeding twelve percent in the aggregate, whichever is greater.

(b) If any person fails to pay any tax by the due date under the provisions of this article, there shall be collected as a penalty the sum of five dollars for such failure or five percent of the amount of such tax if the failure is for not more than one month, with an additional five-tenths of one percent for each additional month or fraction thereof during which such failure continues, not exceeding twelve percent in the aggregate, whichever is greater.

(c) As used in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subsection (2), "tax" means the net amount of tax required to be shown on the return reduced by any amount paid on or before the date prescribed for payment of the tax and by the amount of any credit against the tax which may be claimed on the return. If the penalties provided for in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subsection (2) both apply, then only the larger of the two penalties shall be assessed.

(d) If any person fraudulently or willfully fails to file any return, there shall be collected as a penalty for such failure the sum of seventy-five dollars or one hundred percent of the amount of the tax, if any, whichever is greater.

(e) If any person files a fraudulent, frivolous, or willfully false return, there shall be collected as a penalty the sum of one hundred fifty dollars or one hundred fifty percent of the amount of the tax, if any, whichever is greater.

(g) If any person fraudulently fails to pay any tax when due under the provisions of this article or willfully seeks to evade the payment thereof, there shall be collected as a penalty for such failure a sum equal to one hundred fifty percent of the amount of the tax.

(g.5) (I) If a tax return or a claim for refund is prepared, for compensation, by a person other than the taxpayer and if an understatement of liability with respect to such return or claim is due to the preparer's willful or reckless disregard of applicable laws or rules, as evidenced by the repeated assertion of a position that the preparer knew or should have known did not have a realistic possibility of being sustained on its merits, there shall be collected from the preparer a penalty of five hundred dollars. If the tax return preparer is employed by another person in the business of tax return preparation and if the employer either ordered the understatement of liability or had knowledge of the understatement of liability and did not attempt to prevent the tax return preparer from making the understatement of liability, an equivalent penalty may also be collected from the employer. penalty shall be collected for each tax return or claim for refund prepared as described in this paragraph (g.5).

(II) This paragraph (g.5) shall not apply to:

(A) A certified public accountant who is permitted to practice under article 2 of title 12, C.R.S. If the executive director becomes aware of conduct by a tax return preparer exempted by this subparagraph (II) that would, but for such exemption, subject the tax return preparer to a penalty under subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (g.5), the executive director may disclose the name of such tax return preparer to the state board of accountancy.

(B) A person who is regularly or continuously employed by another and, acting at the direction of the employer, prepares that employer's return or claim for refund; or

(C) A person who furnishes only typing, reproducing, or other ministerial or administrative assistance to a tax return preparer.

(h) If any part of any deficiency is due to negligence or disregard of the laws or rules or regulations but without intent to defraud, twenty-five percent of the total amount of the deficiency, in addition to such deficiency, shall be assessed, collected, and paid in the same manner as if it were a deficiency.

(i) All of the penalties provided in paragraphs (a) to (h) of this subsection (2) shall be cumulative and shall be collected at the same time and in the same manner as the tax.

(j) The executive director, for good cause, may waive or reduce any penalties assessed pursuant to this article and interest imposed in excess of the rate imposed pursuant to section 39-21-110.5, upon making a record of his reasons therefor.

(k) The provisions of this section shall not apply to any estimated tax required to be paid by or under the provisions of sections 39-22-605 and 39-22-606.

(3) (a) Any person required under this article or required by regulations made under authority thereof, to make a return, keep any records, or supply any information, for the purpose of the computation, assessment, or collection of any tax imposed by this article, who willfully fails to make such return, keep such records, or supply such information at the time required by law or regulations, in addition to other penalties provided by law, shall be punished as provided in section 39-21-118.

(b) Any person required under this article to collect, account for, and pay over any tax imposed by this article, who willfully fails to collect or truthfully account for and pay over such tax, and any person who willfully fails to pay any tax, or in any manner evades or defeats any tax imposed by this article or the payment thereof, in addition to other penalties provided by law, shall be punished as provided in section 39-21-118.

(c) "Person", as used in this subsection (3), includes an officer or employee of a corporation or a member or employee of a partnership or limited liability company, who as such an officer, employee, or member is under a duty to perform the act in respect to which the violation occurs.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "An Update of Appendices from Collecting Pre- and Post-Judgment Interest in Colorado", see 15 Colo. Law. 990 (1986).

Provisions not aimed at compelling disclosure of self-incriminating evidence. Neither the intent nor the effect of the withholding tax provisions is to compel disclosure of self-incriminating evidence as is the case of provisions whose design is essentially to ferret out criminal activities. The withholding tax provisions are directed at those members of the public at large who are employers and pay wages to their employees. People v. McNulty, 184 Colo. 274, 519 P.2d 1195 (1974).

Subsection (3) applicable to failure to make records or act upon liability. Subsections (3)(a) and (3)(b) show that the general assembly intended those crimes to apply to a defendant's failure to make records of or truthfully act upon his own tax liability. People v. Vesely, 41 Colo. App. 325, 587 P.2d 802 (1978).

Subsection (3) requires only intentional and knowing behavior. The word "willfully", as used in subsection (3)(b), requires proof only that a taxpayer failed "to collect, account for and pay over such tax" intentionally and knowingly and not through accident, mistake, or other innocent cause. People v. McNulty, 184 Colo. 274, 519 P.2d 1195 (1974).

Return not containing income information not statutory "return". A taxpayer's return which does not contain any information relating to the taxpayer's income from which the tax can be computed is not a "return" within the meaning of subsection (3)(a). People v. Vickers, 199 Colo. 305, 608 P.2d 808 (1980).

Subsection (3)(a) is not a lesser included offense of subsection (3)(b). People v. McNulty, 184 Colo. 274, 519 P.2d 1195 (1974).

39-22-622. Refunds. (1) A reserve, in an amount to be determined periodically by the controller, shall be set aside and maintained by the state treasurer from taxes collected under this article and held by the state treasurer for the prompt payment of all refunds.

(2) (a) The department of revenue shall pay refunds within the applicable time period specified in paragraph (b) of this subsection (2). For purposes of this subsection (2), the date of filing shall be the date of receipt of any income tax return by the department of revenue; except that the date of filing of any income tax return received during the month of April shall be deemed to be May 1.

(b) (I) Refunds for income tax returns filed by January 31 of any given year shall be made within fourteen calendar days of the date of filing.

(II) Refunds for income tax returns filed after January 31 but prior to or on the last day of February of any given year shall be made within twenty-one calendar days of the date of filing.

(III) Refunds for income tax returns filed after the last day of February but prior to or on March 31 of any given year shall be made within twenty-eight calendar days of the date of filing.

(IV) Refunds for income tax returns filed after March 31 of any given year shall be made within forty-five calendar days of the date of filing.

(3) If any refund due under this article is not paid when due, interest shall be added thereto at the rate imposed under section 39-21-110.5 from the due date of the refund, as prescribed in subsection (2) of this section, until the refund is mailed to the taxpayer by the department of revenue. In addition to the interest, a penalty equal to five percent of the amount of tax to be refunded shall be added.

(4) The provisions of subsection (2) of this section shall not apply to any return that is being audited or to any return that may take longer than normal to process due to the mathematical or clerical errors contained in said return, to unforeseen delays caused by the failure of processing equipment, because of a tax credit allowed in section 39-22-531, or because the taxpayer claimed an enterprise zone tax credit pursuant to article 30 of this title and the department is awaiting confirmation from the Colorado office of economic development that the taxpayer is eligible for such credit. Such determinations shall be made in good faith by the department of revenue.

39-22-623. Disposition of collections. (1) The proceeds of all moneys collected under this article, less the reserve retained for refunds, shall be credited as follows:

(a) (I) Repealed.

(II) (A) Effective July 1, 1987, an amount equal to twenty-seven percent of the gross state cigarette tax shall be apportioned to incorporated cities and incorporated towns which levy taxes and adopt formal budgets and to counties. For the purposes of this section, a city and county shall be considered as a city. The city or town share shall be apportioned according to the percentage of state sales tax revenues collected by the department of revenue in an incorporated city or town as compared to the total state sales tax collections that may be allocated to all political subdivisions in the state; the county share shall be the same as that which the percentage of state sales tax revenues collected in the unincorporated area of the county bears to total state sales tax revenues which may be allocated to all political subdivisions in the state. The department of revenue shall certify to the state treasurer, at least annually, the percentage for allocation to each city, town, and county, and such percentage for allocation so certified shall be applied by said department in all distributions to cities, towns, and counties until changed by certification to the state treasurer. In order to qualify for distributions of state income tax moneys, units of local government are prohibited from imposing fees, licenses, or taxes on any person as a condition for engaging in the business of selling cigarettes or from attempting in any manner to impose a tax on cigarettes. For purposes of this paragraph (a), the "gross state cigarette tax" means the total tax before the discount provided for in section 39-28-104 (1).

(B) Moneys apportioned pursuant to this subparagraph (II) shall be included for informational purposes in the general appropriation bill or in supplemental appropriation bills for the purpose of complying with the limitation on state fiscal year spending imposed by section 20 of article X of the state constitution and section 24-77-103, C.R.S.

(b) Following apportionment of the city, town, and county shares pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) and pursuant to section 29-21-101, C.R.S., all remaining funds shall be credited to the general fund, and the general assembly shall make appropriations therefrom for the expenses of the administration of this article.

(c) Distribution to each city, town, and county shall be made monthly, no later than the fifteenth day of the second successive month after the month for which cigarette tax collections are made, commencing in October 1973.

(d) Each city, town, and county, upon request and at reasonable times, shall be entitled to verify with the executive director or his designated representative the proceeds to which the local government is entitled pursuant to the provisions of this section.

(e) Where, prior to July 1, 1973, a city or town has pledged the proceeds of all or a portion of its local cigarette tax or tax on the occupation of selling cigarettes for the payment of bonds or other obligations, the city or town shall pledge or place in trust an equivalent amount from its share of the proceeds of the state cigarette tax for the payment of such bonds or other obligations.

39-22-627. Temporary adjustment of rate of income tax - refund of excess state revenues - authority of executive director. (1) (a) Subject to the provisions of this section, if, for any state fiscal year commencing on or after July 1, 2010, the amount of state revenues in excess of the limitation on state fiscal year spending imposed by section 20 (7) (a) of article X of the state constitution that are required to be refunded for such state fiscal year exceeds the amount specified in paragraph (b) of this subsection (1), the executive director shall temporarily reduce the state income tax rate for the income tax year commencing during the calendar year in which the state fiscal year ended from four and sixty-three one-hundredths percent of the federal taxable income of every individual, estate, trust, and corporation, as specified in sections 39-22-104 (1.7) and 39-22-301 (1) (d) (I) (I), to four and one-half percent of the federal taxable income of every individual, estate, trust, and corporation to refund excess state revenues that are required to be refunded pursuant to section 20 (7) (d) of article X of the state constitution.

(b) In order for the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) to take effect, the amount of state revenues required to be refunded for the specified state fiscal year shall exceed the total of the adjusted amount set forth in section 39-22-123 (4) (c), plus the estimated amount by which state revenues would be decreased as the result of a reduction in the state income tax rate from four and sixty-three one-hundredths percent to four and one-half percent of federal taxable income, as determined pursuant to this section.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (3) of this section, no later than October 1, 2011, and no later than each October 1 thereafter of any calendar year during which it is certified in accordance with the provisions of section 24-77-106.5, C.R.S., that state revenues exceed the limitation on state fiscal year spending imposed by section 20 (7) (a) of article X of the state constitution for the state fiscal year ending in that calendar year and exceed any amount that the voters statewide have authorized the state to retain and spend for the state fiscal year ending in that calendar year, the executive director shall estimate the amount by which state revenues would be decreased as the result of a reduction in the state income tax rate from four and sixty-three one-hundredths percent to four and one-half percent of federal taxable income for the income tax year commencing during the calendar year in which the state fiscal year ended.

(3) If one or more ballot questions are submitted to the voters at a statewide election to be held in November of any given calendar year that seek authorization for the state to retain and spend all or any portion of the amount of excess state revenues for the state fiscal year ending during said calendar year, the executive director shall not reduce the state income tax rate until the results of said election are known so that the state income tax rate may be reduced only if, after the results of said election, the amount of excess state revenues required to be refunded for the state fiscal year exceeds the total of the adjusted amount set forth in section 39-22-123 (4) (c), plus the estimated amount by which state revenues would be decreased as a result of a reduction in the state income tax rate from four and sixty-three one-hundredths percent to four and one-half percent of federal taxable income pursuant to this section.

(4) In estimating the amount by which state revenues would be decreased as the result of a reduction in the state income tax rate in accordance with the provisions of this section, the executive director shall utilize the most recent data available from the staff of the legislative council regarding the estimate of state revenues generated by the state income tax for the applicable income tax year.

(5) (a) Upon estimating the amount by which state revenues would be decreased as the result of a reduction in the state income tax rate for any income tax year in accordance with the provisions of this section, the executive director shall notify in writing the executive committee of the legislative council created pursuant to section 2-3-301 (1), C.R.S., of any amount so estimated and the basis for such estimate. Such written notification shall be given within five working days after such estimate is completed, but such written notification shall be given no later than October 1 of the calendar year.

(b) It is the function of the executive committee of the legislative council to review and approve or disapprove such estimated amount within twenty days of receipt of such written notification from the executive director. Any estimate of the amount by which state revenues would be decreased as the result of a reduction in the state income tax rate as estimated pursuant to the provisions of this section that is not approved or disapproved by the executive committee within said twenty days shall be automatically approved; except that, if within said twenty days the executive committee schedules a hearing on such estimated amount by which state revenues would be decreased as the result of a reduction in the state income tax rate reduction, such automatic approval shall not occur unless the executive committee does not approve or disapprove such estimated amount after the conclusion of such hearing. Any hearing conducted by the executive committee pursuant to the provisions of this paragraph (b) shall be held no later than twenty-five days after receipt of such written notification from the executive director.

(c) (I) If the executive committee of the legislative council disapproves the estimated amount by which state revenues would be decreased as the result of a reduction in the state income tax rate as estimated by the executive director, the executive committee shall specify the estimated amount by which state revenues would be decreased as the result of a reduction in the state income tax rate so that the executive director can determine whether to implement the reduced state income tax rate. Any estimated amount by which state revenues would be decreased as the result of a reduction in the state income tax rate as specified by the executive committee pursuant to this subparagraph (I) shall be estimated in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(II) The executive director shall not adjust the state income tax rate until the estimated amount by which state revenues would be decreased as the result of a reduction in the state income tax rate estimate has been approved pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (b) of this subsection (5).

(d) Any income tax rate adjustment made pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be made by rules promulgated by the executive director in accordance with article 4 of title 24, C.R.S.

(6) If, based on the financial report prepared by the controller in accordance with section 24-77-106.5, C.R.S., the controller certifies that the amount of the state revenues for any state fiscal year commencing on or after July 1, 2010, exceeds the limitation on state fiscal year spending imposed by section 20 (7) (a) of article X of the state constitution for that state fiscal year and exceeds the amount of excess state revenues that the voters statewide have authorized the state to retain and spend for that state fiscal year by less than the total of the adjusted amount set forth in section 39-22-123 (4) (c), plus the estimated amount by which state revenues would be decreased as the result of a reduction in the state income tax rate from four and sixty-three one-hundredths percent to four and one-half percent of federal taxable income as calculated by the executive director pursuant to subsection (2) of this section, then the reduction in the state income tax rate allowed pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall not be allowed for the income tax year commencing during the calendar year in which the state fiscal year ended.

(7) Repealed.

(8) The general assembly finds and declares that a temporary state income tax rate reduction is a reasonable method of refunding a portion of the excess state revenues required to be refunded in accordance with section 20 (7) (d) of article X of the state constitution.

39-22-701. Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby declares that wildlife species which are endangered, threatened with extinction, or not commonly pursued, killed, or consumed either for sport or profit, referred to in this part 7 as “nongame wildlife”, have need of special protection and that it is in the public interest to preserve, protect, perpetuate, and enhance nongame wildlife resources of this state through preservation of a satisfactory environment and an ecological balance. The general assembly specifically recognizes that such nongame wildlife includes protected wildlife, endangered and threatened wildlife, aquatic wildlife, specialized habitat wildlife, both terrestrial and aquatic types, and mollusks, crustaceans, and other invertebrates under the jurisdiction of the division of parks and wildlife. This part 7 is enacted to provide a means by which such protection may be financed through a voluntary contribution designation on state income tax return forms. The intent of the general assembly is that this program is supplemental to any funding and in no way is intended to take the place of the funding that would otherwise be appropriated for this purpose.

LIMITATION ON VOLUNTARY CONTRIBUTION PROGRAMS

39-22-1001. Limitation on the duration of voluntary contribution programs - queue - notice. (1) (a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (1), it is the intent of the general assembly that any program funded by voluntary contributions of income tax refunds that is created on or after June 2, 1985, shall have a sunset clause providing that the program shall apply to no more than three income tax years, unless the program is continued or reestablished by the general assembly acting by bill prior to the date that the program is scheduled to sunset.

(b) There shall be no requirement for a sunset clause for the homeless prevention activities program fund voluntary contribution established in part 13 of this article or the western slope military veterans' cemetery voluntary contribution established in part 19 of this article. All other voluntary contribution programs shall remain on Colorado income tax returns for the income tax years specified in the part in which the voluntary contribution is established and shall be repealed or reestablished as directed in such part.

(2) to (4) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2003, p. 2060, § 2, effective May 22, 2003.)

(5) For income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2005, every voluntary contribution established in this article shall receive a minimum dollar amount of contributions in each income tax year as follows:

(a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this subsection (5), for the period January 1, 2005, through September 30, 2005, and for each January 1 through September 30 thereafter, if the amount designated on Colorado income tax returns as contributed under the provisions of any voluntary contribution established in this article does not equal or exceed seventy-five thousand dollars according to the records of the department of revenue, then any such voluntary contribution shall no longer be effective and shall not be reflected on the Colorado income tax returns made for any subsequent income tax year, regardless of whether the voluntary contribution is reestablished by the general assembly pursuant to subsection (1) of this section.

(b) (I) (A) Notwithstanding paragraph (a) of this subsection (5), for any voluntary contribution that appears on Colorado income tax returns for the first time in the 2002 income tax year or any income tax year thereafter, the amount designated on Colorado income tax returns as contributed under any voluntary contribution established in this article shall equal or exceed seventy-five thousand dollars according to the records of the department of revenue during the January 1 through September 30 period for which moneys are collected for the third income tax year in which the voluntary contribution appears on Colorado income tax returns. Any such voluntary contribution shall not be required to collect seventy-five thousand dollars in either the first or the second year that it appears on Colorado income tax returns.

(B) For the purposes of sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (I), a voluntary contribution that previously appeared on income tax returns and was removed for failure to receive the requisite amount of contributions pursuant to either paragraph (a) of this subsection (5) or subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b) is deemed to be appearing on the form "for the first time" if three income tax years or more elapses between the last year the voluntary contribution appeared on the form and the first year it is replaced on the form.

(II) If any voluntary contribution subject to the requirements of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b) does not equal or exceed the requisite amount of contributions for the third income tax year for which it appears on Colorado income tax returns, then the voluntary contribution shall no longer be effective and shall not be reflected on Colorado income tax returns for any subsequent income tax year, regardless of whether the voluntary contribution is reestablished by the general assembly pursuant to subsection (1) of this section.

(III) After any voluntary contribution subject to the requirements of this paragraph (b) has been on Colorado income tax returns for three years, the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (5) shall apply to such voluntary contribution and the provisions of this paragraph (b) shall no longer apply.

(c) (I) Paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subsection (5) shall not apply to the western slope military veterans' cemetery voluntary contribution established in part 19 of this article. Such voluntary contribution shall not be required to receive a minimum amount of contributions in any income tax year.

(II) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2005, p. 738, § 1, effective August 8, 2005.)

(6) Repealed.

(7) No more than fifteen voluntary contributions shall appear on the Colorado income tax return form in any income tax year. If the general assembly, acting by bill in any year, requires more voluntary contributions to appear on the income tax return form than there are lines available on the form, an existing voluntary contribution that is renewed or continued shall take precedence and be placed on the form over a voluntary contribution that does not appear on the form and is not being renewed or continued. Any voluntary contribution that does not appear on the form and is not being renewed or continued but does not take effect pursuant to this subsection (7) shall be placed in the queue created by subsection (8) of this section and shall only become effective in any year in which there is a line available on the income tax return form, as specified in subsection (8) of this section.

(8) (a) If the general assembly, acting by bill in any year, requires more voluntary contributions to appear on the income tax return form than there are lines available on the form, any voluntary contribution that is to appear on the form for the first time shall, notwithstanding the language in or the effective date of the bill creating the voluntary contribution, be placed in a queue, which queue is hereby created. The order of voluntary contributions that are placed in the queue shall be determined by the date and time on which the governor signs the bill creating the voluntary contribution, or at such time that the bill becomes law without the governor's signature, with the bill that was signed or becomes law without a signature first in time being first in the queue, the bill that was signed or becomes law without a signature next in time being second in the queue, and so on.

(b) On November 1 of each year, the executive director shall certify to the revisor of statutes the amount of lines available for voluntary contributions on the income tax return form for the state income tax year commencing on January 1 of the following year.

(c) If a line becomes available on the income tax return form, and notwithstanding the language in or the effective date of the bill creating the voluntary contribution, the voluntary contribution first in the queue shall appear on the form for the number of consecutive tax years specified in the part creating the voluntary contribution beginning with the tax year immediately following the year in which the executive director certifies that there is a line available as specified in paragraph (b) of this subsection (8). If there are two lines available on the form, the voluntary contribution that is second in the queue shall appear on the form for the number of consecutive tax years specified in the part creating the voluntary contribution beginning with the tax year immediately following the year in which the executive director certifies that there are lines available as specified in paragraph (b) of this subsection (8), and so on.

(9) The department of revenue shall post and periodically update on its official web site the amount of donations received for each voluntary contribution appearing on the Colorado state individual income tax return form.

WESTERN SLOPE MILITARY VETERANS' CEMETERY VOLUNTARY CONTRIBUTION

39-22-1901. Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby finds and declares that there is no veterans' cemetery to serve the military veterans who reside on the western slope of Colorado. The general assembly believes that the state owes a duty to all of its military veterans to assist in providing adequate burial facilities close to where surviving relatives of deceased military veterans reside. The general assembly further finds that the federal department of veterans affairs will reimburse the state for one hundred percent of the costs to establish, expand, or improve a state veterans' cemetery. The general assembly further recognizes that citizens of Colorado may be willing to provide additional funds for the operation and maintenance of such cemetery if given the opportunity. Therefore, the general assembly has enacted this part 19 to provide funding to the western slope military veterans' cemetery fund through voluntary contributions on state individual income tax returns.

PART 20

REFUND OF REVENUES IN EXCESS OF STATE FISCAL YEAR SPENDING LIMITATION

39-22-2001. Legislative declaration - revenues exceeding TABOR limit - sales tax refund. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) Section 20 of article X of the state constitution, which was approved by the registered electors of this state in 1992, limits the annual growth of state fiscal year spending;

(b) It is estimated that for fiscal years commencing on or after July 1, 1998, state revenues from sources not excluded from state fiscal year spending will exceed the limitation on state fiscal year spending;

(c) When revenues exceed the state fiscal year spending limitation for any given fiscal year, section 20 (7) (d) of article X of the state constitution requires that the excess revenues be refunded in the next fiscal year unless voters approve a revenue change allowing the state to keep the revenues;

(d) In addition, section 20 (1) of article X of the state constitution states that refunds need not be proportional when prior payments are impractical to identify or return and authorizes the use of any reasonable method for refunding excess revenues;

(e) If voters statewide either do not authorize the state to retain and spend all of the excess revenues for that fiscal year or authorize the state to retain and spend only a portion of the excess revenues for that fiscal year, the state is required to refund the revenues in excess of the state fiscal year spending limitation for that fiscal year that voters have not authorized the state to retain and spend;

(f) It is within the legislative prerogative of the general assembly to enact legislation to implement the refund of state excess revenues for fiscal years commencing on or after July 1, 1998, in compliance with section 20 of article X of the state constitution;

(g) It is a reasonable and necessary exercise of the legislative prerogative to determine that, due to the impossibility of identifying or returning prior payments, it is not feasible to make proportional refunds of state excess revenues;

(h) It is also a reasonable and necessary exercise of the legislative prerogative to determine what constitutes a reasonable method of refunding state excess revenues after consideration of the best information available at the time regarding: The amount and source of excess revenues to be refunded; the qualifications for and number of eligible recipients; and the related administrative expenses;

(i) It is the considered judgment of the general assembly that:

(I) The state excess revenues that are subject to the state fiscal year spending limitation under section 20 of article X of the state constitution for fiscal years commencing on or after July 1, 1998, will be derived from a wide variety of state taxes and state fees ranging from state sales tax to severance and transportation taxes to health service fees to court fines to permit and license fees to higher education fees and should, therefore, be returned to as large a group of Colorado residents as is identifiable and economically feasible;

(II) It is not feasible to make proportional refunds of state excess revenues for fiscal years commencing on or after July 1, 1998, due to the impossibility of identifying or returning prior payments;

(III) It is reasonable and fair to refund state excess revenues, if any, for fiscal years commencing on or after July 1, 1998, to a large group of individuals as a refund of state sales tax revenues since more Coloradans pay state sales tax than any other state tax;

(IV) Notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraphs (I) to (III) of this paragraph (i), it is reasonable and fair to simplify the process used to refund state excess revenues for any fiscal year for which the amount of such state excess revenues falls below a certain threshold by allowing an identical refund of state sales tax revenues to each qualified individual; and

(V) Refunding state excess revenues for fiscal years commencing on or after July 1, 1998, through the state income tax system in the manner set forth in sections 39-22-2002 and 39-22-2003 is a reasonable method for refunding such excess revenues.

39-22-2002. Fiscal years commencing on or after July 1, 1998 - state sales tax refund - authority of executive director. (1) If, for any state fiscal year commencing on or after July 1, 1998, the amount of state revenues exceeds the limitation on state fiscal year spending imposed by section 20 (7) (a) of article X of the state constitution and voters statewide either have not authorized the state to retain and spend all of the excess revenues for that fiscal year or have authorized the state to retain and spend only a portion of the excess revenues for that fiscal year, the executive director shall, if the amount of the identical individual refund calculated pursuant to paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section exceeds fifteen dollars, for the taxable year commencing on or after January 1 of the calendar year in which that fiscal year ended, but prior to January 1 of the subsequent calendar year, calculate a temporary state sales tax refund in accordance with the provisions of this section to refund the amount of excess state revenues that is not refunded by another method established by law.

(2) (a) Subject to the provisions of paragraph (b) of subsection (7) of this section, as applicable, for the taxable year commencing on or after January 1 of the calendar year in which that fiscal year ended, but prior to January 1 of the subsequent calendar year, the executive director shall divide the total amount of excess state revenues that is not refunded by another method established by law and is required to be refunded by the number of qualified individuals expected to claim a refund in order to determine the amount of the refund that each such qualified individual would receive if each individual received an identical refund.

(b) If the amount of the identical individual refund calculated pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) is less than or equal to fifteen dollars, the executive director shall allow each qualified individual an identical refund in the manner set forth in section 39-22-2003 (3) (a) and (3) (b).

(3) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires, "excess state revenues" means the total combined amount of:

(a) Excess revenues that voters statewide have not authorized the state to retain and spend and that are required to be refunded pursuant to section 20 (7) (d) of article X of the state constitution and that are not refunded by another method established by law for said fiscal year ending in that calendar year; and

(b) Excess revenues that voters statewide did not authorize the state to retain and spend and were required to be refunded pursuant to section 20 (7) (d) of article X of the state constitution for any other fiscal year and that were not refunded by another method established by law prior to said fiscal year, but that were not refunded by the state as required.

(4) No later than October 1 of any given calendar year commencing on or after January 1, 1999, during which the controller certifies, in accordance with the provisions of section 24-77-106.5, C.R.S., that state revenues exceed the limitation on state fiscal year spending imposed by section 20 (7) (a) of article X of the state constitution for the fiscal year ending in that calendar year, the executive director shall, if the amount of the identical individual refund calculated pursuant to subsection (2) of this section exceeds fifteen dollars, calculate the income classifications and the amount of the refund allowed for each income classification pursuant to section 39-22-2003 (3) for the taxable year commencing during said fiscal year that would refund the amount of excess state revenues that is not refunded by another method established by law.

(5) If one or more ballot questions are submitted to the voters at a statewide election to be held in November of any given calendar year commencing on or after January 1, 1999, that seek authorization for the state to retain and spend all or any portion of the amount of excess revenues for the fiscal year ending during said calendar year, no later than October 1 of said calendar year, the executive director shall, in addition to the calculations required by subsection (4) of this section:

(a) (I) Calculate the amount of the state sales tax refund that each qualified individual would receive if each individual received an identical refund by dividing the total amount of excess state revenues required to be refunded if one or more of such ballot questions are approved by voters statewide and that is not refunded by another method established by law by the number of qualified individuals expected to claim a refund;

(II) Calculate the amount of the state sales tax refund that each qualified individual would receive if each individual received an identical refund by dividing the total amount of excess state revenues required to be refunded if all of such ballot questions are not approved by voters statewide and that is not refunded by another method established by law by the number of qualified individuals expected to claim a refund;

(b) If the amount of any identical refund calculated pursuant to subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (5) exceeds fifteen dollars, calculate income classifications and the amount of the refund to be allowed for each income classification pursuant to section 39-22-2003 (3) for the taxable year commencing during said fiscal year that would refund the amount of excess state revenues, if any, required to be refunded if one or more of such ballot questions are approved by voters statewide and that is not refunded by another method established by law;

(c) If the amount of the identical refund calculated pursuant to subparagraph (II) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (5) exceeds fifteen dollars, calculate income classifications and the amount of the refund to be allowed for each income classification pursuant to section 39-22-2003 (3) for the taxable year commencing during said fiscal year that would refund the amount of excess state revenues, if any, required to be refunded if all of such ballot questions are not approved by voters statewide and that is not refunded by another method established by law.

(6) (a) Upon calculating the amount of any identical individual sales tax refund and, if necessary, income classifications and the amount of the refund for each income classification in accordance with the provisions of this section, the executive director shall notify in writing the executive committee of the legislative council created pursuant to section 2-3-301 (1), C.R.S., of any such calculations and the basis for such calculations. Such written notification shall be given within five working days after such calculations are completed, but such written notification shall be given no later than October 1 of the calendar year.

(b) It is the function of the executive committee to review and approve or disapprove such calculated identical individual sales tax refund or such calculated income classifications and refund amount for each income classification within twenty days after receipt of such written notification from the executive director. Any such income classification or refund amount calculated pursuant to the provisions of this section that is not approved or disapproved by the executive committee within said twenty days shall be automatically approved; except that, if within said twenty days the executive committee schedules a hearing on such income classification or refund amount, such automatic approval shall not occur unless the executive committee does not approve or disapprove such income classification or refund amount after the conclusion of such hearing. Any hearing conducted by the executive committee pursuant to the provisions of this paragraph (b) shall be concluded no later than twenty-five days after receipt of such written notification from the executive director.

(c) (I) If the executive committee disapproves any income classification or refund amount calculated by the executive director pursuant to this section, the executive committee shall specify such income classification or refund amount to be implemented by the executive director. Any income classification or refund amount specified by the executive committee pursuant to this subparagraph (I) shall be calculated or adjusted in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(II) The executive director shall not adjust any income classification or refund amount that has not been approved pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (b) of this subsection (6) or otherwise specified pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c).

(7) (a) The amount of any sales tax refund calculated pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be published in rules promulgated by the executive director in accordance with article 4 of title 24, C.R.S., and shall be included in income tax forms for that taxable year.

(b) If one or more ballot questions are submitted to the voters at a statewide election to be held in November of any calendar year commencing on or after January 1, 1999, that seek authorization for the state to retain and spend all or any portion of the amounts of excess state revenues for the fiscal year ending during said calendar year, the executive director shall not publish rules or income tax forms containing any sales tax refund calculated pursuant to this section until such rules and forms may be published to reflect the impact of the results of said election on the amount of the refund to be allowed pursuant to section 39-22-2003 and that is not refunded by another method established by law.

(I) The amount of adjusted gross income, to the nearest thousand dollars, for each income classification such that the percentage of all qualified individuals who are expected to claim a refund under each income classification for such taxable year remains the same as the percentage of all qualified individuals who claimed a refund under such income classification for the 1999 tax year; and

(II) The amount of the refund allowed for each income classification such that the percentage of excess state revenues to be refunded to all qualified individuals for such income classification for such taxable year remains the same as the percentage of excess state revenues refunded to all qualified individuals for such income classification for the 1999 tax year.

(b) In calculating income classifications or the amount of refund allowed for a given income classification in accordance with the provisions of this section, the executive director shall use the most recent estimate of general fund revenues for the applicable taxable year prepared by the staff of the legislative council of the general assembly in accordance with section 24-75-201.3, C.R.S.

(5) (a) (I) Except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a), any refund allowed pursuant to this section shall be claimed by a qualified individual as defined in subparagraph (I) or (III) of paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section by timely filing an income tax return with the department of revenue for a taxable year for which the refund is allowed in compliance with the provisions of this article.

(II) Any refund allowed pursuant to this section shall be claimed by a qualified individual as defined in subparagraph (I) or (III) of paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section or by a qualified individual that is required to file a Colorado individual income tax return for that tax year pursuant to section 39-22-601 (1) (a) who is granted an extension of time to file an income tax return by filing an income tax return with the department of revenue no later than October 15 of the calendar year following the taxable year for which the refund is being claimed. Such qualified individual shall not be required to pay all or any portion of the qualified individual's net tax liability due prior to October 15 of said calendar year in order to be granted an extension of time to file said tax return; except that, pursuant to section 39-22-621, such qualified individual may be subject to a late payment penalty and interest on any net income tax liability not paid by April 15 of said calendar year.

(III) The department of revenue shall not allow said refund claimed on any income tax return not filed in compliance with the provisions of this article. In no event shall the refund claimed by a qualified individual as defined in subparagraph (I) or (III) of paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section on any income tax return be:

(A) Disallowed if said return is filed on or before October 15 of the calendar year following the tax year for which the refund is being claimed; and

Claiming a refund on such assistance grant application form shall be in lieu of claiming the refund on an income tax return pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (5). Any refund claimed pursuant to this paragraph (c) shall be claimed on or before April 15 of the calendar year following the tax year for which the refund is being claimed.

(II) The department of revenue shall not allow a refund authorized by this section that is claimed on an assistance grant application form if:

(A) The assistance grant application form is filed after April 15 of the calendar year following the tax year for which the refund is being claimed; or

(B) The qualified individual has claimed the refund authorized by this section on an income tax form filed in accordance with paragraph (b) of this subsection (5) for the tax year for which the refund is allowed.

(6) Except as otherwise provided in this subsection (6), if the refund allowed under this section exceeds the income taxes otherwise due on the claimant's income, the amount of the refund shall be refunded to the claimant. The claimant may elect to carry forward the amount of the refund not used as an offset against income taxes or as an offset against subsequent years' income tax liability.

(7) In addition to any other penalties allowed by law, any person who claims but is not eligible to claim the refund allowed pursuant to this section shall be subject to the criminal penalties imposed pursuant to section 39-21-118, as applicable.

(8) The state sales tax refund allowed to any qualified individual under this section shall not be reported by the department of revenue as a payment of a refund, credit, or offset of state income taxes to such qualified individual in any information return required to be filed pursuant to federal law.

(9) (a) The department of revenue shall identify any qualified individual who has been convicted of a felony and who, at the time of filing for a refund pursuant to this section, is incarcerated in a correctional facility operated by or under contract with the department of corrections or in a county or municipal jail awaiting transfer to a correctional facility pursuant to section 16-11-308, C.R.S. The department of revenue shall transfer the amount of any refund owed to said qualified individual to the department of corrections.

(b) The department of corrections shall transmit the amount of said refund as follows:

Such refund shall be credited in the priority specified in section 16-11-101.6 (1), C.R.S.; and

(II) If the qualified individual is not under a valid court order or administrative order to pay child support but is under a valid court order to pay restitution or costs, then to the clerk of the district court that issued an order for payment of restitution entered pursuant to article 18.5 of title 16, C.R.S., or an order for costs pursuant to section 18-1.3-701, C.R.S., whereupon such refund shall be credited in the priority specified in section 16-11-101.6 (1), C.R.S.; or

(III) If the qualified individual is not under a valid court order to pay restitution or costs but is under a valid court order or administrative order to pay child support, then to the department of human services for application toward the qualified individual's child support obligation for individuals receiving services pursuant to section 26-13-106, C.R.S.; or

(IV) If the qualified individual is not under a valid court order or administrative order to pay child support and is not under a valid court order to pay restitution or costs, then to the qualified individual subject to other applicable provisions of law.

(c) If a refund is transmitted in accordance with the provisions of subparagraph (I), (II), or (III) of paragraph (b) of this subsection (9) and results in excess refund moneys remaining after satisfaction of the qualified individual's restitution or child support obligation, the excess refund moneys shall be first applied toward any outstanding restitution obligation or child support obligation of the qualified individual before being returned to the qualified individual.

(10) The department of corrections, the department of human services, and each county of the state, to the extent each such county has the capability within existing resources, shall provide in a timely manner the information requested by the department of revenue necessary to identify the persons specified in paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section and in subsection (9) of this section. (6) "Department" means the Colorado department of revenue.

39-22-2102. Credit against tax - low-income housing developments. (1) For income tax years during the credit period, there shall be allowed to any qualified taxpayer a credit with respect to the income taxes imposed by this article in the amount determined by the authority pursuant to this part 21.

(2) The authority may allocate a credit to an owner of a qualified development by issuing to the owner an allocation certificate. The authority may determine the time at which such allocation certificate is issued. The credit shall be in an amount determined by the authority, subject to the following guidelines:

(a) The credit shall be necessary for the financial feasibility of such development;

(b) In no event shall a credit exceed thirty percent of the qualified basis of the qualified development;

(c) All allocations shall be made pursuant to the qualified allocation plan; and

(d) The aggregate sum of credits allocated annually shall not exceed the limits set forth in subsection (7) of this section.

(3) If an owner of a qualified development receiving an allocation of a credit is a partnership, limited liability company, S corporation, or similar pass-through entity, the owner may allocate the credit among its partners, shareholders, members, or other constituent taxpayers in any manner agreed to by such persons. The owner shall certify to the department the amount of credit allocated to each constituent taxpayer. Each constituent taxpayer shall be allowed to claim such amount subject to any restrictions set forth in this part 21.

(4) No credit shall be allocated pursuant to this part 21 unless the qualified development is the subject of a recorded restrictive covenant requiring the development to be maintained and operated as a qualified development for a period of fifteen taxable years, or such longer period as may be agreed to between the authority and the owner, beginning with the first taxable year of the credit period.

(5) The authority shall not allocate a credit pursuant to this part 21 unless:

(a) The developer of the proposed qualified development has conducted a public hearing in the community in which the proposed qualified development is located concerning the project for which the allocation has been applied. At such hearing, the developer of the proposed qualified development shall specify the total cost of the project, the estimated present value of the allocation, and the estimated total amount of the allocation. Public comments and other information shall be solicited at the hearing. The hearing shall be recorded by the developer of the proposed qualified development and the developer shall make copies of the recording available to interested parties. The authority shall consider any comments or other information provided at the hearing when ranking an application for a credit pursuant to this section.

(b) The authority has obtained a written commitment approved by a public vote of the governing body of a local government to provide some monetary, in-kind, or other contribution benefitting the qualified development.

(6) The allocated credit amount may be taken against the taxes imposed by this article for each taxable year of the credit period. Any amount of credit that exceeds the tax due for a taxable year may be carried forward as a tax credit against subsequent years' income tax liability up to tax year 2012 and shall be applied first to the earliest years possible. Any amount of the credit that is not used shall not be refunded to the taxpayer.

(7) During each calendar year of the two-year period beginning January 1, 2001, and ending December 31, 2002, the authority may allocate a credit, the full amount of which may be claimed against the taxes imposed by this article for each taxable year of the four-year credit period. The aggregate amount of all credits allocated by the authority in each calendar year of the two-year period beginning January 1, 2001, and ending December 31, 2002, shall not exceed the amount of:

(a) Five million dollars for credits allocated pursuant to subsection (1) of this section and section 39-22-2105 combined;

(b) Unallocated credits, if any, for the preceding calendar years; and

(c) Any credit recaptured or otherwise returned to the authority in the calendar year.

(8) Unless otherwise provided in this part 21 or the context clearly requires otherwise, the authority shall determine eligibility for a credit and allocate credits in accordance with the standards and requirements set forth in section 42 of the internal revenue code; however, any combination of federal and state credits allowed shall be the least amount necessary to ensure the financial feasibility of a qualified development.

39-22-2103. Recapture. (1) As of the last day of any taxable year during the compliance period, if the amount of the qualified basis of a qualified development with respect to a taxpayer is less than the amount of the qualified basis as of the last day of the prior taxable year, then the amount of the taxpayer's state income tax liability for that taxable year shall be increased by the credit recapture amount.

(2) For purposes of subsection (1) of this section, the credit recapture amount is an amount equal to the aggregate decrease in the credit allowed to the taxpayer pursuant to this part 21 for all prior taxable years that would have resulted if the accelerated portion of the credit allowable by reason of this part 21 were not allowed for all prior taxable years with respect to the reduced amount of qualified basis described in subsection (1) of this section.

(3) For purposes of subsection (2) of this section, the accelerated portion of the credit for the prior taxable years with respect to any amount of qualified basis is the difference between:

(a) The aggregate credit allowed pursuant to this part 21, notwithstanding this subsection (3), for the years with respect to such qualified basis; and

(b) The aggregate credit that would be allowable pursuant to this part 21 for such years with respect to the qualified basis if the aggregate credit that would have been allowable, but for this subsection (3), for the entire compliance period were allowable ratably over fifteen years.

(4) In the event that recapture of any credit is required in any tax year, the return submitted for that tax year to the department shall include the proportion of credit required to be recaptured, the identity of each taxpayer subject to the recapture, and the amount of credit previously allocated to such taxpayer.

39-22-2104. Filing requirements. An owner of a qualified development to which a credit has been allocated and each qualified taxpayer to which such owner has allocated a portion of said credit, if any, shall file with their state income tax return a copy of the allocation certificate issued by the authority with respect to such development and a copy of the owner's certification to the department as to the allocation of the credit among the qualified taxpayers having ownership interests in such development.

39-22-2105. Parallel credits - insurance premium taxes. (1) Any taxpayer who is subject to the tax on insurance premiums established by sections 10-3-209, 10-5-111, and 10-6-128, C.R.S., and who is therefore exempt from the payment of income tax and who is otherwise eligible to claim a credit pursuant to this part 21 may claim such credit and carry such credit forward against such insurance premium tax to the same extent as the taxpayer would have been able to claim or carry forward such credit or refund against income tax. All other provisions of this part 21 with respect to the credit, including the amount, allocation, and recapture of the credit and the years for which the credit may be claimed shall apply to a credit claimed pursuant to this section.

(2) For purposes of administering this section, any reference in this article to "income tax year" means calendar year.

39-22-2401. Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby finds and declares that the natural heritage and quality of life in Colorado are of fundamental importance to the citizens of the state, and the protection of this natural heritage and quality of life are essential to sustainable economic development in the state. The general assembly further finds and declares that locally based watershed groups have emerged around the state over the past decade that are committed to collaborative approaches to the restoration and protection of lands and natural resources within Colorado's watersheds in concert with economic development. The general assembly recognizes that the Colorado watershed assembly, a nonprofit corporation, serves as a state-level umbrella organization for such local groups. The general assembly further recognizes that the citizens of Colorado may be willing to provide funds to assist in the restoration and protection of lands and natural resources within watersheds in the state. It is therefore the intent of the general assembly enacting this part 24 to provide Colorado citizens the opportunity to support local watershed efforts by allowing citizens to make a voluntary contribution on their state income tax returns for such purpose.

In 2012, section 39-22-3402 was amended to place the 9Health Fair fund voluntary contribution in the queue created by section 39-22-1001 (8).

The general assembly further finds that 9Health Fair impacts lives and communities, identifying thousands of previously undetected health issues each year, and contributes to improvement in the health of the state's population. Eighty-seven thousand individuals participated in the 2007 9Health Fair at over one hundred sixty locations in fifty counties. Since 1980, with the help of volunteer forces from religious institutions, schools, recreation centers, service organizations, and hospitals and with the support of the Colorado national guard, 9Health Fair has directly impacted over one and a half million lives.

(2) In order to assist 9Health Fair in fulfilling its mission, the general assembly recognizes that the citizens of Colorado may be willing to provide moneys to assist in 9Health Fair's health promotion efforts. It is therefore the intent of the general assembly to provide Colorado citizens the opportunity to support the efforts of 9Health Fair by allowing citizens to make a voluntary contribution on their state income tax returns for such purpose.

(VI) Canada thistle infestations threaten endangered species such as the Colorado butterfly plant; and

(VII) Russian knapweed produces chemicals that displace native plants and degrades wildlife habitat.

(2) The general assembly further finds and declares that Colorado for Healthy Landscapes:

(a) Promotes noxious weed and invasive species prevention efforts and education;

(b) Increases access to appropriate noxious weed and invasive species funding, thus strengthening and enhancing Colorado's noxious weed and invasive species control system;

(c) Ensures that controlling entities obtain community support and services so that landscapes evolve in a healthy manner and are able to maximize their potential; and

(d) Educates Coloradans about noxious weed and invasive species to reduce careless acts that encourage unwanted spread of such species.

(3) In order to assist Colorado for Healthy Landscapes in fulfilling its mission, the general assembly recognizes that many citizens of Colorado may be willing to provide moneys to assist in its efforts. It is therefore the intent of the general assembly to provide Coloradans the opportunity to support the efforts of the Colorado Weed Management Association by allowing citizens to make a voluntary contribution on their state income tax return form to the Colorado for Healthy Landscapes fund for such a purpose. The Colorado Weed Management Association shall administer the moneys in furtherance of its mission to protect Colorado's natural resources from the degrading effects of invasive species of terrestrial and aquatic vegetation.
